SENTENCE IS UPHELD

Only Ten of Fifty-Three Counts Are Sustained in Appeal Made by American Financier Against Fifteen Year Sentence — He Has Paid Off Five Million Dollars of His Debts in the Past Year.

New York, Oct. 12.—Fifteen years at hard labor in a federal prison came one legal stage nearer Charles W. Morse, the capitalist, yesterday when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the lower federal courts in sentencing the banker to such a penalty for misapplying the funds of a national bank.

Morse surrendered himself, and his attorneys immediately began steps to carry his case to the Supreme Court of the United States and to secure a continuation of his bail bond pending further argument.

While the court yesterday did not lighten the sentence which Morse has been striving to annul, its decision was not entirely adverse because it sustained only ten of the 53 counts on which he was convicted by a jury. This, say his attorneys, will leave a means of approach to the court of last resort, and an application for a writ of certiorari to review the case will be made on Oct. 18, in Washington.

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday afternoon granted a stay of forty days in the execution of the sentence upon Morse.

Morse was convicted of violating the national banking laws in misapplying the funds of the National Bank of North America, of which he was president, at the time of the last financial panic. He was charged with making false entries on the bank's books. He was sentenced on Nov. 8, 1908, after a long jury trial.

After his original sentence Morse obtained a writ of error and his case in review was argued before the Circuit Court of Appeals for review. On June 17, judges reserved decision, admitted to $125,000 bail, and Morse was released from the Tombs, where he had been confined since October, 1908.

Immediately he plunged into business as if a long prison term were not hanging over him, and during the past four months his financial rehabilitation was rapid. During that time he is reported to have paid off $5,000,000 of his $7,000,000 indebtedness, and to have regained control of a large part of his extensive steamship interests.

Cadets Sue Colliers.

Annapolis, Oct. 12.—George Hiram Mann, attorney for Lieut. Hilary Williams, U.S.N., and the members of the Naval Academy rifle team at Camp Perry, who were in charge of Lieut. Williams, were in Annapolis yesterday, and stated that suits against Collier's Weekly aggregating $175,000 would be laid in New York to-day.

The suits will allege that Collier's accused the plaintiff with fraud and dishonesty in the national rifle matches. The alleged damage of Lt. Williams will be placed at $35,000, and those of each of the fifteen members of the team who retained Mr. Mann will be placed at $10,000.

Cudahy Company Must Pay.

Leavenworth, Kas., Oct. 12.—The case against the Cudahy Packing Co. for violation of the international revenue laws by failing to place stamps of proper denomination on packages of oleomargarine, came to an end in the Federal Court here yesterday by a compromise, when the packing company was fined $6,000 and agreed to pay a back stamp of $82,777.50 and special tax of $10,000 for agencies, making the total of $97,777.50 to be paid by the packing company to the Government.

Solid Water Poured From Sky.

Halifax, Oct. 12.—The captain of the schooner Cedilla from Port Aux Basque, now in port here, reports that when about forty-five miles from Newfoundland coast, he saw a huge solid body of water pour out from the sky as if from a large funnel. It caused a roar as it fell and sent a spray two or three hundred feet. The stream continued falling for nearly fifteen minutes. Later four similar falls were sighted in different directions. They are supposed to be due to a cloudburst.

PROMINENT JURIST DEAD

Chief Justice of the Court of King's Bench and Member of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, Succumbs to Bladder Ailment—Was Knighted in 1902—Was Only Sixty-Seven Years Old.

Montreal, Oct. 12.—A cable received last night announced the death at Montmorency, France, yesterday, of Sir Henri Taschereau, Chief Justice of the Court of King's Bench of the Province of Quebec. Deceased had been in poor health for some time, and his death was caused by bladder trouble. The remains will be brought to Canada for interment.

The late Rt. Hon. Sir Henri Elsear Taschereau was in his 68th year. He was called to the Quebec bar in 1867; appointed K.C. in 1887; sat in the Legislative Assembly for Beauce County, 1861-7; was appointed judge of the Quebec Superior Court in 1871, and a judge of the Supreme Court in 1878. In 1902 he was appointed to the Privy Council, and was a member of the judicial committee. In 1902 he was created a knight. His publications included several law books. He was twice married.

Farmers Must Change.

Montreal, Oct. 12.—F. W. Thompson, vice-president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., arrived yesterday from the west, and says that his former crop estimate of 115,000,000 bushels will be fully maintained, and that 80,000,000 have already been delivered at the elevators.

Only the very best weather saved millions of bushels from ruin, and farmers will certainly have to modify their farming methods and go in more for mixed farming, as it will be quite impossible to secure adequate help. By mixed farming, they will be able to keep their help all the year round.

There is no such a thing as scarcity of cars, and everything is going like clock work. Mr. Thompson says that there will be another large city somewhere in the middle west, viz., between Winnipeg and the Rockies, and wherever the Ogilvie Co. decide that city is to be located, there they will build their big additional elevator.

New Rules For Bishops.

Rome, Oct. 12.—New rules affecting the bishops throughout the world were made known at the Vatican yesterday. Bishops shall be allowed two years, following their appointment to arrange the canonical visitations in their dioceses. Five years after that they must visit the Pope, such visits to be repeated once in every five years.

GIRL GETS BIG FORTUNE

Young Toronto Woman, Who Married Foremost American Lawyer of Paris In New York Four Years Ago, Is Left Large Estate at His Death—Income Is Estimated at One Hundred Thousand Per Year.

New York, Oct. 12.—The will of Edmond Kelly, a famous New Yorker, who became the foremost American lawyer in Paris, representing nearly every American litigant who sought justice from French courts of law, discloses that nearly all his large fortune, including the magnificent Kelly home in France, has been left to his youthful wife, formerly Miss Edith Thurreason of Toronto, to whom he was married August 22, four years ago, at the "Little Church Around the Corner" here, by Rev. Dr. Houghton.

The place, with one of the most extensive private libraries in the world, and filled with art treasures in pottery, bric-a-brac, antiques, paintings, etchings, engraving and sculpture, is called Coucy Le Chateau. It is very near Paris and is noted as a great show place, with extensive grounds, meadows and gardens.

His American home in this city and also at Nyack on the Hudson, contains over a hundred thousand volumes, which goes with the rest of the estate to his widow, after other bequests are paid. His income was over $100,000 a year. His fortune was invested in securities, largely American railroads.

May Be Truro Robber.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 12.—One of the robbers who at noon May 19 entered the office of the Canadian Express Co. in Truro, N.S., and with a revolver compelled the clerks to deliver cash and money orders amounting to about $9,000, is believed to be safely behind the bars here in the person of W. L. Burgess, a real estate speculator of 636 Pender street.

Burgess arrived several weeks ago and cut a wide swath, spending money like water. This aroused the suspicion of Supt. Walsh of the Canadian Detective Bureau. In the meantime 13 stolen money orders, each of $50, were received by the express company after being cashed in this city, and still a closer surveillance was kept on the suspect in an endeavor to secure a copy of his handwriting. Finally a detective handsaed his right hand and talked over with Burgess a real estate deal, and Burgess was prevailed upon to write his name and address. The writing appears identical.

Jumps From Balcony.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—When her husband came in their door at 155 University avenue at 11.40 last night, Mrs. James Barnes, who had been quarreling with him during the evening, crawled out of the front window upstairs and crossed from their balcony to that of their neighbor, J. E. Armstrong, 157 University avenue.

She tapped at the window and being refused admittance she threw herself to the ground some fifteen feet below and was there picked up unconscious by Policeman Phillips, who summoned the ambulance and sent her to St. Michael's Hospital.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—With the papers of his committal to an asylum as a lunatic complete, and under a continual watch to avoid just such an act, Harry J. Orpen, for years a familiar figure down town, shot himself in his rooms at 773 West King street yesterday morning.

PAINLESS BLESSINGS

PASTOR RUSSELL CONTINUES PREVIOUS TOPIC.

Text: "The Blessing of the Lord It Maketh Rich; and He Addeth No Sorrow Therewith (Proverbs x, 22) —How Will Earthly Rights Be Applied?—Merit of Sacrifice Will Be Used Again In All the World.

Sunday, Oct. 10.—Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, preached to-day from the text, "The blessing of the Lord, It maketh rich, and He addeth no sorrow therewith." He said:

We continue to-day our topic of last Sunday. Our hope is that not only those of you who hear my voice, but also the seven millions of readers to whom this sermon will go in print in the columns of more than four hundred newspapers may have well in mind what we had to say on this text a week ago. Briefly we showed that the world has not yet received the blessing of the Lord which maketh rich—that, on the contrary, ever since the disobedience of our first parents our race has labored under the Divine sentence or "curse" of death, and that our dying conditions (mental, moral and physical) are upon us as convicts. We pointed out that the Lord has declared that he will yet grant his blessing to our race, releasing all from the curse and supplying the blessing of the Lord that maketh rich. We pointed out the foreshadowings of this, especially in the promise or covenant made to Abraham, and confirmed to the nation of Israel through Isaac and Jacob—"In thee and in thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

We showed the failure of the Law Covenant to give these blessings and that Jesus, the Son of God, holy, harmless and undefiled, separate from sinners, and he alone, was able to keep the Law and prove himself worthy of eternal life and all the blessings lost by Adam—not heavenly but earthly blessings — the same that Adam lost. We saw next that those earthly rights and blessings won by our Lord by the keeping of the Law, he, with the Father's consent and arrangement, sacrificed, laid down in death, and that his reward for so doing was a resurrection to a spirit or heavenly plane of being, far above that of angels. We saw a glorious King who had those earthly rights in his possession as an asset or thing of value to give to others.

We want now to continue this investigation and to see in the light of God's Word what is to be done with those earthly rights which Jesus gained by virtue of his obedience to the Law, and which he sacrificed. How will they be applied? We might reasonably have supposed (since God's promise to Israel was that the world should be blessed through it) that as soon as our Lord Jesus had ascended up on high he would give to the nation of Israel all those earthly rights and honors which he had secured by obedience and death. We might have expected accordingly that, forthwith, the nation of Israel would have begun to realise the forgiveness of their sins and would have been thus turned to the Lord; and that, under his blessing, their work with all the nations since would have progressed. As it is written, "In thy seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." Admitting that the Lord Jesus was the spiritual seed of Abraham we would have expected that upon his glorification the earthly kingdom would have begun to be blessed and to be used for the blessing of others. But nothing of this kind occurred. Disaster came upon the Jewish nation, and blindness. Their nation was destroyed and for nearly nineteen centuries they have been not only blind but outcast, under the disfavor of the Almighty. Did God forget his promise made to Israel, or did he change his purpose, or what is the explanation of the course he did pursue?

What God has been doing since Christ died for the world's sins the Scriptures term the "mystery of God." It has been a mystery to the Jews and a mystery to the world in general, and the Lord so intended it to be. No one can understand the matter nor appreciate it, except he be in the right condition of heart and begotten of the holy Spirit. To such the Lord says, "To you it is given to know the mystery of the Kingdom of heaven, but to all outsiders these things are spoken in parables and in dark sayings." Some who cannot perceive in the full appreciative sense what we shall show, may nevertheless be able to appreciate the matter to a limited degree.

The mystery is this: God intends to have a larger Messiah than the Jews had understood. Not only so, but he will be on a higher plane than they had supposed and accomplish a far greater blessing than they had supposed. God's purpose is to have a multitudinous Messiah and to select the members thereof from many nations. As compared with the world these will be a "little flock." As the Master said, "Fear not, little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom." Each member of this little flock company must develop the same characteristics which were exemplified in their Redeemer, Jesus. They must have his spirit or disposition. Like him they must lay down their lives in the service of righteousness, Truth and the brethren. They will become joint-sacrificers with him.

Here the question arises, If no Jew but Jesus could keep the Divine Law perfectly, and if he could keep it only because he was not a member of Adam's race directly, and if only by keeping the Divine Law perfectly Jesus could be accounted worthy to be a sacrificer and be received to heavenly glory, how could any of the fallen race be acceptable? We read that "he was holy, harmless and undefiled, separate from sinners." Of him again we read that, in order to be thus holy, he required a specially miraculous birth. These things being true, how would it be possible for even a "little flock" to be found who would be acceptable to God as joint-sacrificers with Jesus? How would even a little flock be found who would be of the same spirit as Jesus, a copy of him in character?

The Scriptural answer is that some could indeed be found possessed of the character likeness of Jesus in the sense that they would desire to do perfectly, but none could be found able to do perfectly, because all are sharers in inherited sin. This is a part of the "mystery" which gradually unfolds to those who have the hearing ear and the understanding heart and the eye of faith. The Lord's explanation of the matter is this: when Jesus had sacrificed his earthly rights and had been received to spirit nature, and had the earthly rights at his command to give away, "he ascended up on high there to appear in the presence of God for us." He appeared for, on behalf of, all who believe in him and accept forgiveness of sins and make a consecration of their all to God's service. But Jesus did not accept as disciples those who merely believed and were justified by faith. He attached another condition, namely, that they must sacrifice all their earthly rights and privileges as he did; otherwise they could not be his disciples. Unless they walked in his footsteps of self-sacrifice they could not be counted in as his followers, members of his Body, sharers of his coming glory and work. His words were, "If any man would be my disciple let him take up his cross and follow me, and where I am there shall my disciple be." "Except a man forsake all that he hath he cannot be my disciple." "Unless a man love less father, mother, children and all else he cannot be my disciple." "He that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."

In other words the Lord's proposition to the Church is that all the earthly rights of Adam (lost through disobedience and redeemed by our Lord at Calvary and now at his disposal) are imputed to those who, during this Gospel Age, turn from sin, accept Christ as their Redeemer, and then by consecration sacrifice all earthly rights. In a word our Lord Jesus has a right to give the earthly rights, the earthly life and honor, to any one person or to any number of persons of Adam's race as something to sacrifice. When they do mentally sacrifice earthly rights they receive the begetting of the holy Spirit to the heavenly nature. But that heavenly nature itself they will not receive until they shall have finished the sacrifice agreed upon. Thus as Jesus by keeping the Law had a right to earthly perfection and sacrificed it, so those keeping the Law in the spirit of their minds and accepting the merit of Christ as justifying them to restitution right and glory sacrifice these, use them in God's service that they may share Jesus' new nature and glory. The merit at the end of the Gospel Age will be the same merit of Jesus, and will be at his disposal, because, although passed through the Church, it will not have been kept by any member of the Church and will, therefore, be at our Lord's disposal at the close of this Age, the dawning of the Millennial Day.

What will be done with the merit of Christ's sacrifice at the end of the Gospel Age when it shall have passed through the Church? We answer that it will be used again. It will be given to the Jews and through them to the whole world. It is the blood or merit which will seal the New Covenant promised to Israel long ago, but not fulfilled. It is one thing to promise a Covenant; another thing to draw up the terms of a Covenant; a third thing to sign and seal the Covenant. The New Covenant has not yet been sealed. The blood that will seal it is now being used in the interest of the elect spiritual Israel, that the little flock may have something to sacrifice, and thereby be granted a share with Christ in his spirit, nature and glory. This is the cup referred to by our Lord in the memorial supper when he said, This is my blood of the New Covenant shed for many for the remission of sins. Drink ye all of it. The privilege of drinking with our Lord in this cup of sacrifice belongs to this age only. None will be left for the future.

But the blessing will not remain with those who drink of the cup—their restitution rights and privileges will be sacrificed and thus passed on, for the benefit of mankind in general. The Apostle says that our Lord at his First Advent in his death became the "Surety" or guarantor of the New Covenant. But he did not seal the New Covenant nor put it into force in any sense of the word, because it was a Covenant with natural Israel and if it had been put into force it forthwith would have began to bring blessings to Israel not to be theirs until after spiritual Israel should have been glorified in the First Resurrection. The "mystery" is, then, that philosophy in the divine program which no one could have surmised in advance. God has been quietly taking from the world a great Messiah, a great Prophet, a great King, a great Mediator between God and the world. Jesus is the Head and the faithful members are the Body. This is the great Mediator of the New Covenant, of which St. Peter wrote, saying, "For Moses truly said unto the fathers, A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me (mediator of the Covenant); him shall ye hear in all things, whatsoever he shall say unto you. And it shall come to pass, that every soul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people" (Acts iii, 22, 23).

St. Paul styles Sarah, Abraham's proper wife and the mother of Isaac, the type of the heavenly Jerusalem, the heavenly Covenant of which we are the children. "We, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of the promise." "And if ye be Christ's then are ye Abraham's Seed, and heirs according to the promise" (Galatians iii, 29). Thus the Church, Jesus the Head and the faithful, his members, constitute the great Deliverer which (is born or) comes out of spiritual Zion and which, under the New Covenant, will turn away ungodliness from Jacob—natural Israel. Notice how the Apostle expresses this saying, "For this is my Covenant unto them (the New Covenant to natural Israel) when I shall take away their sins."

We are not to understand that the mercy which they will receive under the New Covenant is purely the mercy of the Church and not the mercy of the Father and the Son. Evidently he wishes us to remember that all things are of the Father and all things are by the Son. God's mercy exercised through Christ and Christ's mercy through the Church will bless Israel under the provisions of their New (Law) Covenant.

Already indeed (by faith) has the Church been made rich by the Lord's blessing in proportion as the exceeding great and precious promises have been accepted: and if it will still further make us rich through the "change" of the First Resurrection to glory, honor and immortality, what may we not expect of its richness and blessing toward the Jew? Surely the blessing of the Lord will make Israel rich and honorable. Israel's blessing will be national as well as personal. Indeed, as soon as the Millenial Kingdom shall have been established, the blessing of the Lord will mean Divine favor in all the natural affairs of life to all those who are truly his—"to the Jew first." As a people they will be the first to be ready for the Divine guidance after the great time of trouble with which this present age will close. Christendom in general has little knowledge of coming restitution, to all that which was lost in Eden. Christendom in general expects to go either to heaven or Purgatory or eternal torment, but many Jews know their Bible better than this; that the blessings promised are earthly ones—"Times of restitution of all things spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began" (Acts iii, 20).

With the close of this age heavenly hopes will not longer be held forth to mankind, but, on the contrary, earthly hopes, restitution. Israel, therefore, will be the better prepared for the terms and conditions of the New Covenant. Besides, amongst them will appear Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets, perfected in their resurrection and constituting them the earthly representatives of the Church, the heavenly Kingdom. Naturally they will be more ready to receive these than the remainder of mankind, because this is the promise which God made to them—"I will restore your judges as at the first and your lawgivers as at the beginning" (Isaiah i, 26).

Let us not forget that the blessing of the Lord which maketh rich is not to stop with Israel, but to be passed by them as a blessing to all nations, that whosoever will may attain to everlasting life through the merit of Christ's sacrifice and through the Church sealing the New Covenant with Israel. Be it noted, however, that to obtain a share in the New Covenant blessings it will be necessary for the people of all nations to become Israelites and, by so doing, they will become children of Abraham. And this will be a fulfillment of the Divine promise, "I have constituted thee a father of many nations" (Romans iv, 17). Remember also how the Lord referred to Samaria and Sodom as examples of all nations of the world, and declared to the Israelites, "I will give them unto thee for daughters, but not by thy old (Law) Covenant." They will become Israel's daughters at the restitution time, the prophet declares, under their New Covenant, "When I shall bring again their captivity, the captivity of Sodom and her daughters, and the captivity of Samaria and her daughters, then will I bring again the captivity of thy captives in the midst of them." "When Sodom and her daughters shall return to their former estate, and Samaria and her daughters shall return to their former estate, then thou and thy daughters shall return to your former estate" (Ezekiel xvi, 53, 55).

As now the Lord addeth no sorrow with his blessing, so it will be during the Millennium with the world. The assurance of the Word of God is that by the close of the Millennium there will be "no more sighing, no more crying, no more dying," but that he will make all things new.

WHAT every cook should know is, which wheat makes the best flour, and why.

Winter wheat is put into the ground in the fall, but does not ripen until the following July. It matures slowly, is soft and very starchy.

Spring wheat is sown in April or May, and ripens in August. It's a flinty, translucent wheat, rich in gluten and contains nearly twice as much nutriment as winter wheat.

Royal Household Flour

is made entirely from the hard, nutritious spring wheat, carefully selected from all the wheat of this kind grown in Canada.

Royal Household is fine, light and pure—milled by the most improved methods—in a mill as clean as your own kitchen.

Bishop of Sodor and Man.

The Bishop of Sodor and Man tells an amusing story of a visit he once paid to a friend of his. At the station he found a carriage waiting for him, so he jumped in and closed the door. But the carriage did not move, and Dr. Drury sat still for some time, wondering what was amiss. At last he put his head out of the window and asked the coachman what he was waiting for. "Well, sir," replied the coachman, touching his hat, "I was told to wait for the Bishop of Sodor and Man. You've arrived, sir. Now, where is your luggage?"

Mr. Jasper Mayne at least considered himself witty when he bequeathed to his valet a worn-out portmanteau, as it contained something, said the will, which would make him drink. Ethel.

I sought to gaze in Ethel's eyes,
But quick she dropped her lashes.
I could not take her by surprise,
Indeed, and they were shy lids.

I sought to whisper words of love,
But cudgeled the maid to tremble.
She was as timid as a dove,
Or did she but dissemble?

I learned too late it was an art,
That drooping of the eyelids.
In trembling she but played a part.
A snare was in those shy lids!

The games of dominos, chess, baccarat and lansquenet have come from China and are very old, being traceable as far back as two or three thousand years before the Christian era.

The Navajo Tongue.

The Navajo language has twelve different words for "to go."

Sandstorms.

Sand and dust whirls occur in arid regions in hot weather. They may be anywhere from a rod to several rods in diameter and from twenty to a thousand feet high. They are sometimes compound, a score or more small whirls forming a whirling circle around a common center. They are very common in India. They sometimes carry up so much sand in the Sahara and Arabia that those on whom the sand falls are overwhelmed.

Linen Test.

In selecting a pure linen tablecloth, if you are no judge of linen, moisten the goods with the tongue, and if a damp spot instantly appears on the opposite side you may rest assured the linen is good. If not good linen the moisture would be long in penetrating the weave.

The Horse Sacrifice.

In early times in Germany great national disasters might require the immolation of the king's children or even of the king himself. It is interesting to observe that the horse was then regarded as, next to man, the most valuable animal for sacrifice. We are at once reminded of the same fact in India, where the horse sacrifice—and the largest specimen obtainable was offered up—celebrated a hundred times made the sacrifice equal to Indra.

Unter den Linden.

Unter den Linden is the center of Berlin and the hub of the German empire. This magnificent boulevard is 198 feet in width, and under the shade of its lime trees the Berliners have a meeting place which is equal in architectural beauty to any in Europe. It is lined on either side with magnificent hotels, restaurants and palaces.

Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis

Cured by "CATARRHOZONE."

BREATHE CATARRHOZONE.
IT CURES QUICKLY.

A Breathe-able "Direct" Medicine.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at its source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing, balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas, if a liquid or tablet remedy were used, the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

Remember this: You don't take drugs when using Catarrhozone; you simply inhale a healing vapor that cures every type of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, throat and nose soreness, and irritation.

No medicine brings such prompt relief, exerts such an invigorating influence or so thoroughly and speedily cures throat troubles as "Catarrhozone." Doctors, hospitals, sanitariums—all say that for those who suffer from changeable weather, for those who are predisposed to catarrh, lung trouble, deafness or bronchitis, no treatment is so indispensable as "Catarrhozone."

For certain cure, for relief in an hour, use Catarrhozone, the only direct, breathable medicine. Two months' treatment guaranteed; price $1.00, smaller size 50c; at all druggists, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Tailored and Costumed Waists

By Marjorie.

The shops are offering a most attractive display of waists, from the strictly tailored ones for wear with morning dress suits, to the dressy blouses of chiffon, lace net and softest silks, which form a component part of the three-piece costume.

A skirt and long coat of cloth will be trimmed with silk, moire for example, while the blouse will be of silk, with touches of the cloth. Another illustration would be a cloth coat suit, with the blouse portion of net, lace or mousseline de soie, self matching, with a white or contrasting lining when this color note is desired.

No matter the style of the waist, whether tailored or elaborate, it must in some way harmonize with the color of the skirt and coat when the latter is worn. For a white or cream waist the suggestion of color is introduced at the neck or belt. This strict rule of dress prevents those weird combinations of color, vulgar and unbecoming, which were affected some years ago with disastrous results.

With the many attractive patterns in plaids, striped and figured materials, with silks and [illegible] one has no difficulty in choosing just the right color scheme for the coat suit. The backgrounds are both light and dark, the color scheme is brilliant and the combination is a most effective one.

A model opening which both are made has the sides and back tucked, opening through the centre with a frill of batiste or lawn at one side and a row of ornamental buttons showing in the middle. Another shows the closing, a [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] or other trimming.

GAY PLAID MODELS.

The various checks and plaids in silks are advantageously used as a self-trimming in the form of bands and pipings. These are usually laid on various ways of the material, diagonally or on the straight, and vice versa. The front piece is sometimes straight, with the sides slant wise.

stripes in color, are shown with the front and back closing, trimmed with tucks in one form or another and pipings in plain color. The high shaped collar is attached, which is a feature on many of these new models.

The girdle is of self material or leather in the same color.

Another attractive design is in a striped silk, surplice with revers of plain silk, the chemisette and small ficha of batiste, with a knot of velvet matching the silk. Buttons covered with the plain silk were placed near the waist line at the sides in a slantwise fashion.

TRANSPARENCIES OVER WHITE.

I have seen a few blouses of chiffon and mousseline de soie, a special importation, in the fashionable colors mounted over white. These were put in half inch tucks, allover, the top was cut circular, overlaid with a band of plain silk, self matching, while the chemisette and tall collar were of cream net, hand embroidered, showing Egyptian and Indian handwork. The alternate of this design was the chemisette and collar of gilt net, plain or relieved with a delicate treatment of gold lace.

Insets and panel effects consisting of all-over tucking and hemstitching, hand embroidery and soutaching are new and very attractive departures. Very original and striking effects are thus achieved, and ones which may be easily followed by the needlewoman who designs her own patterns.

The broad front panel through the centre is another detail, the outcome, of course, of the style so persistently followed last summer.

A waist of dark gray crepe de chine had the front panel outlined by a curious though neat pattern in rat tail braid, a row of handsome smoked pearl buttons extended through the centre, the sides were laid in tucks. The shoulders were capped by broad bands, trimmed with the braid, and the cuffs were similarly treated.

FICHU AND YOKE.

The extreme length of the revers which extend below the waist line, has done much toward keeping the fichu separate and on the blouse itself, in style. This as a rule is of batiste, fine lawn or chiffon, in cream, but more frequently self-matching. The newest fichus extend from the throat line to the waist, and some even deep below it, that the open space left by the coat may be filled in.

The yoke is likewise a feature of the new design, shallow and deep, sometimes sweeping over to the shoulder, and in some cases capping them. The yoke is occasionally cut in one with the outer side of the sleeve.

Elegant blouses of lace, from Irish to the real thread varieties, will be worn by women who can afford them. The filmy laces are enlivened by gold lace in the form of edging and motifs cunningly worked into the design of the blouse. Black is very striking when relieved by either gold or silver, net or laces.

Varying styles prevail in sleeves, but all are small, put in with shirring at the armhole, tiny plaits or without fullness of any kind. They are tucked horisontally and vertically, and much trimmed or quite innocent of any decoration. The cuff, supplemented by a turn back ruffle and the one falling gracefully over the hands, to or below the knuckles, are styles equally favored. Three quarter and the full length sleeves are those usually seen.

MODELS DESCRIBED.

The first model is a white taffeta, attractively striped in coral satin. A line of scolloping piped with coral satin extends from the throat line to waist through the centre, and from the throat on the side sweeping across the shoulder to the wrist. Each scollop carries a button covered with satin. The stripes run vertically on the waist, while the stripes encircle the arms. The high collar is fastened to the waist, and is finished by a little bow, also of pink satin.

The second model exploits the possibilities of self-trimming for a plaid or striped material. The original being a ribbed silk, shows how the same effect is carried out, merely using the cords in the same way as the stripes.

The little gray waist is of the new wide meshed net, in silver over chiffon, and trimmed with bands of satin and silver buttons. This would make a most charming blouse for a three or two piece suit.

The last model may be developed of plain or figured materials. The shapely yoke and short sleeves are the new features. The sleeve is reminiscent of one worn about five years ago.

SMART MOTOR MODES

CERTAINLY history repeats itself in matters modistic, and there are remarkably little differences to be found between the headwear of the fair occupants of the dashing coaches of a hundred years ago and those of the less picturesque if much swifter automobile of today.

I have just seen one that would certainly in the year 1810, in the quaint phraseology of that time, have been called a "conversation cottage." It was made of pale blue crinoline and trimmed with bows of very soft ottoman ribbon in a dull bronze. Another model, looking more like a large cap in straw, with a very ample crown and narrow brim, which would have been recognised under the title of a "provincial bonnet," was made of a satin-like straw in a vivid rust color, a shade which in purple inevitably just now,

American buyers are encouraging this introduction of old world modes by buying many picturesque models. A certain bonnet worn by the women of Henley seems to be a favorite. It is a cap made of straw.

One of these in stone color had the rolled back fronts decorated with little cabochons of Sare blue; in fact, each example which I saw in a recent importation of new models was trimmed with straw of a contrasting shade, the veil in every case matching the trimmings. In one instance a soft dull wine shade harmonized delightfully with elephant gray, while in another stone and rust color were met together, with a most satisfactory result.

Two other models, one of the utilitarian and the other of the very picturesque type, also greatly attracted me. The latter was a particularly alluring bonnet of the shape of an ordinary cottage, without the curtain at the back, and made of cream Panama straw in soft crushed pink. A veil of mineo to match covered it, and was caught at either side low down with a little bunch of big black cherries.

The second model took the form of an extinguisher-shaped toque, made of dull black straw, with a couple of pipings of electric-blue ottoman silk. The long black veil was secured at one side of the front with a cabochon formed of rows of electric-blue pipings coiled around like a snail's shell. This idea of putting the trimming outside the veil, as though catching it in place, is gaining ground, and is really a better plan, as the veil is of course worn down over the adornment of the front.

The very soft wide ribbon ottoman, so prominent on many millinery [illegible] looked especially well in the form of [illegible] emerald green and dark blue on a dark blue bee-hive bonnet, while a dark amethyst and navy were combined with equal success on [illegible] bonnet of this [illegible]

GRAND RALLY

BOYS

THE

EXAMINER

WE WONDER if it ever occurred to the boys of Peterborough that the selling of papers was a stepping-stone to a successful business career in future years.

DO they recognize the fact that this little business offers them an opportunity to

MAKE

or in other words, to double the money invested in selling the EXAMINER to transient buyers.

BOYS buy the EXAMINER at one cent each and sell it for two cents each ; or in the case of weekly patrons, they pay six cents per week and receive ten cents from the subscriber, thus making a profit of 62 2-3 per cent.

DO you know of any business in the city that pays such profits with as little chance for bad debts ?

IT only requires a Boy to HUSTLE, the same thing that is required when he gets into a bigger business world.

OF course we do not mean to say that the Boy, to become a successful business man, must be a newsboy, but we do say that the successful newsboy has gained an experience that is of much service to him in after years.

MONEY IN NEWSPAPER ROUTES.

Another boy was only thirteen when his father died, leaving two hundred dollars insurance, a widow and four younger children. The insurance money was loaned out to a neighbour at six per cent., as a sort of reserve fund, and while the widow did plain sewing, the boy carried newspapers morning and evening. After three months' experience with this work he borrowed twenty-five dollars and purchased the smallest newspaper route in town. Vigorous canvassing for new customers made that route so productive that in six months he paid back the loan. The lender offered another loan of fifty dollars, which the boy took, buying two more routes. These were covered by boys hired to do the work, however, because he felt that all his energy must go into the original route, so that he would at least be certain of good returns from that. Principles of management learned by this plan made him so successful that in less than five years he owned every newspaper route in his town. His mother's two hundred dollars was still intact, and his brothers and sisters going to school. A legacy of two hundred dollars fell to the family. This, with the original two hundred dollars and another hundred the boy had saved, was paid on a home costing twenty-eight hundred dollars, the balance to be cleared off at the rate of twenty-five dollars a month. Three furnished rooms were rented at a total of about twenty-two dollars monthly, and this money, it was agreed, should never be spent. Newspaper routes, odd jobs and the mother's contributions kept the family and paid the instalments. In four years the income from furnished rooms, put away in the bank, grew to more than one thousand dollars. The mortgage was finally cleared off, and the boy, now nearly twenty-one years old, started to get an education at the high school.

THERE are a number of Boys in Peterborough making four and five dollars per week, not necessarily all selling the Examiner, but some easily make three dollars per week selling the Examiner exclusively.

Boys! Be Boys of Business

Get in the game. It won't hurt you, but will give you a right start. You will have money of your own to save or buy useful needs with.

BOYS ! Take your spare time between four and six o'clock and see what success you will have between now and Christmas.

NEWSBOYS' BONANZA

Protest Against Politics In Church.

New York, Oct. 12.—"As a Christian gentleman, a son of a Presbyterian doctor of divinity, and a grandson of a Presbyterian doctor of divinity, I protest against bringing dirty politics into the pulpit of this or any other church."

So saying, John B. A. Mullally, a Tammany candidate for the assembly rose to his feet Sunday and walked out of the Manhattan Congregational Church, from the pulpit of which Otto T. Bannard, Republican candidate for mayor, and John Purroy Mitchell, Republican candidate for president of the board of aldermen, had just delivered campaign addresses.

Bears to Haul Sledges.

Hamburg, Oct. 12.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the well-known Danish explorer, who is about to start on a polar expedition, has decided to try a remarkable innovation in the use of draught animals for polar travel. He will endeavor to make polar bears draw his sledges.

Some time ago Amundsen made a contract with Carl Hagenbeck, the famous animal trainer, for twenty ice bears, three years old. Hagenbeck's men have been training the bears.

Bad Prairie Fire.

Lethbridge, Alta., Oct. 12.—Grassy Lake district, between Medicine Hat and here, has had a bad prairie fire. Several settlers were burned out and a hundred hay stacks destroyed. The valuables of the Union Bank were packed and removed to the depot. A settler named Jarvis, driven crazy by the loss of two hundred tons of hay, endeavored to throw himself into the flames.

PRESIDENT TO RETIRE.

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson Will Leave G.T.R.

London, Oct. 12.—It is understood on good authority that the re-arrangement of the Grand Trunk directorate is practically settled, and Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson retires from the presidency.

Suggestions were pressed on the board that, seeing the recent course of Grand Trunk finances and the exceptionally heavy demands on British investors, the presidency should remain with an Englishman of acknowledged prominence, selected from outside the present board room.

Out of the discussions arose the proposal that the Grand Trunk follow the Canadian Pacific example, to the extent of securing a sort of dual control through the president and chairman, one of whom would be in England, and the other in Canada. Mr. Hays and Mr. Smithers, now vice-president of the Grand Trunk, are named as occupants of these two positions.

Story Is Discredited.

Hamilton, Oct. 12.—The police take no stock in an alleged confession by one Edward William Bedford, in London, Eng., that he was the murderer of Ethel Kinrade. They think that he is playing a game to get free transportation to Canada, or else that he is insane. They have had no communication from London with reference to the case.

The announcement came in a special cable to a Montreal paper, saying: "Edward William Bedford gave himself up to the police here yesterday on the confession that he had murdered Ethel Kinrade by shooting at Hamilton, Ont., last February, at the instigation of another man, whose name he has forgotten, but who gave him $500."

London, Oct. 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The officer in charge of Scotland Yard informs the Canadian Associated Press that he has heard nothing about the reported confession of a man named Bedford in the Kinrade murder case.

Mobilization Department.

London, Oct. 12.—As a result of the recent Government enquiry into questions of naval policy raised by Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, the Admiralty has issued an announcement of the creation of a new department, entitled the naval mobilization department.

This will form, with the existing intelligence branch, a permanent navy war council for the study for strategy and the working out of war plans.

Vice-Admiral George Fowler King-Hall has been appointed director of the new department.

Put In Old Cheese.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—The dairy and cold storage branch has issued the following statement:

Wilfrid Lapierre, cheesemaker, of the Shefford Vale Cheese Factory, Shefford County, Que., was fined $25 at Granby on Saturday last for incorporating a quantity of inferior or worthless cheese in the centre of several new cheese, during the process of manufacture. The cheese was discovered in a Montreal warehouse. This is the first case under the amendment of 1908 to the inspection and sale act.

Suffragettes Sent to Jail.

Newcastle, Eng., Oct. 12.—Lady Constance Lytton and Mrs. H. N. Brailsford, wife of a former leader writer on The Daily News, who resigned a week ago as a protest against the Government's treatment of suffragette prisoners, were arrested following a suffragettes' demonstration against David Lloyd-George, and sentenced to a month's imprisonment.

Key West Storm Swept.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 12.—As the result of the hurricane which struck the southern coast of Florida yesterday morning, Key West to-day is a mass of wreckage and the damage to property is estimated at $2,000,000. Martial law was proclaimed by the mayor at 6 o'clock, and the Key West Guards are patrolling the city.

All Trains Closely Watched.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—Greatest precautions are being taken to prevent the escape of the fugitive safe-crackers by train.

In order that there may be a close inspection of all passengers on trains, they are allowed to come out at one end of the car only, and every freight is being watched closely.

Russian Horses For Canada.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Canadian firms have applied to the Russo-British Chamber of Commerce for the ruling prices on Russian carriage and cart horses. They propose to make a first purchase of 900 horses and anticipate a big trade in the future.

G. S. Wilcox Dead.

Windsor, N.S., Oct. 12.—The death took place last evening of C. S. Wilcox, Conservative leader in the local Assembly, after a comparatively short illness, from cancer of the stomach, aged 60. Wilcox was first elected in Hants in the House of Assembly in 1894.

Revolution In Santo Domingo.

Cape Haytien, Hayti, Oct. 12.—A revolution has broken out in Santo Domingo. The insurgents, headed by Gen. Andre Navarro, yesterday morning attacked Barahona, a town near the Haytien frontier, but were repulsed by the Government troops.

Statement Confirmed.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—When shown the cabled extract from The Liverpool Journal of Commerce, the local representative of Harland & Wolff in Canada corroborated the statement that the great shipbuilding firm is prepared to design and lay out a plant in Canada, and they are now considering the question of plans and location.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 61 carloads, consisting of 1207 cattle, 2 hogs, 456 sheep and lambs and 21 calves.

Exporters.

There was nothing doing in the export class. All cattle that were good enough, including buchers' heifers of good quality, were being held for Tuesday's market, when the export dealers will be on deck.

Butchers.

There were few prime picked butchers' cattle on sale, and they were being held over for Tuesday's market. The best cattle in the butchers' class sold to-day went around $4.80 to $5.05; medium at $4.50 to $4.75; common, $3.50 to $4.25; cows, $3.00 to $4.25; canners, $2.50 to $3.

Stockers and Feeders.

There was considerable trade in feeders. Halligan & Luaness got six loads of northwest feeders and one load of Ontario feeders; steers, 1020 to 1100 lbs., at $4 to $4.25, and bulls at $3.75 to $3.85. Whaley & Coughlin received four loads of Manitoba feeders, which they sold at $4.20, $4.25, $4.05, $4.25, and one lot of rough, 1250-lb. cattle, at $3.65 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

The number of cows coming to this market is increasing. About twenty of fine milkers and springers, with excellent milking qualities, sold at prices ranging all the way from $61 to $70 each, but there was not a common quality cow in the whole lot, which were readily bought up.

Veal Calves.

Gunns, Limited, bought the day best veal calves at $7 per cwt. from S. M. Reynolds of Bothwell, but they were new, milk-fed. The rest of the calves offered sold at $5 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Upwards of 800 sheep and lambs were on sale. Trade for them was about steady at last week's prices. Export ewes, $3.50 to $3.90; rams, $2.50 to $3.25 per cwt.; lambs, $5.25 to $6.25, with a selected lot at $6.50.

Hogs.

Only two loss hogs were on sale to-day. Dealers are quoting prices down, at $7.75 for hogs fed and watered at the market, and $7.50 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Oct. 11.—(Special)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market one receipt of live stock for the week ending Oct. 9 were 2235 cattle, 2550 sheep and lambs, 2775 hogs and 650 calves. The offerings this morning consisted of 1600 cattle, 2000 sheep and lambs, 1675 hogs and 650 calves. There was no further change in the condition of the market for cattle since last Wednesday, prices being about steady. Supplies were heavy, which consisted largely of Manitoba and northwestern ranch stock, and, as the average quality was good, holders had no difficulty in disposing of them. The weather was fine and somewhat cooler than it has been of late, consequently the gathering of buyers was large, including several from Ottawa and Quebec, and, as they all required stock, the demand was good, and an active trade was done. Cable advices from Liverpool were stronger and noted advance in prices of ¼c to ½c per lb., but at the same time they reported trade slow in spite of good weather. There was no demand from exporters here, as they had sufficient stock coming on hand and coming forward to fill their freight engagements. Sales of choice northwest ranch steers were made at 4¾c to 5c; good at 4½c to 4¾c; fair at 3¾c to 4c; medium at 3½c to 3¾c; good bulls at 3¼c to 3½c per lb.; canning bulls at $2.25 to $3, and cows at $2.50 to $4.25 per 100 lbs. A feature of the market for small meats was the stronger feeling in sheep and lambs. Prices show an advance of ½c per lb. as compared with those realized on Wednesday last. The offerings were fairly large, for which the demand was keen from local buyers, and sales of lambs were made at 5½c to 5¾c, and sheep at 5½c to 5¾c per lb. Calves continue to come forward in fairly large numbers for the season, and meet with a ready sale at prices ranging from $3 to $15 each, as to grade and quality. Owing to increased supplies of hogs this morning, a weaker feeling developed in the market, and prices scored a sharp decline of 50c to 60c per 100 lbs., and even at the reduction the demand from packers was not keen, as some of them had ample supplies on hand, and fully expected lower prices later in the week. Trade was slow, with sales of selected lots at $8.00 to $8.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

County Cop on Carpet.

Brockville, Oct. 12.—Malfeasance of office was the charge preferred yesterday against George H. Howard, a county constable residing at Elgin.

The accusation arises out of the prosecution of an American, A. P. Haldane, for refusing to show his fishing license to Fishery Overseer John McGuire of Chaffey's Locks. A fine of $5 and costs was imposed on Haldane. Howard told McGuire on the way home from Chaffey's Locks that he had forgotten to include some items in the bill of costs, and McGuire received only $3.40 to return to the department. The overseer made a full report of the affair, which to him was very unsatisfactory.

After an investigation by the department, Howard was arraigned here before Judge McDonald, who reprimanded the constable and gave him the option of resigning his commission forthwith or taking the consequences of a trial. Howard promptly resigned.

Damming the Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 12.—Regarding the development of the waterpowers within reach of Ottawa, and the plans which are in progress for the conservation of the water supply in the upper reaches of the Ottawa for gradual distribution during the dry season, it is stated by the Public Works Department that the big dam at the lower end of Lake Temiskaming is in progress of construction, but cannot be completed before the end of next year, and possibly not even then. It is also proposed to dam Kippewa Lake, whose outlet, the Kippewa River, drains the lake into Lake Temiskaming. The plans are ready, but the contract has not been let yet.

Another huge dam is to be erected on the Quinze River at the foot of the Quinze Lake. This is the chief source of supply to Lake Temiskaming. However, the plans for this are not ready. The whole system, when completed, will provide the most important waterpower so far developed in Canada.

Wm. McHail Must Pay Fifteen Dollars as a Result of Having Been Drunk Yesterday Or Stay in Jail for Twenty Days.

FELL THROUGH WINDOW

Wm. McHail, the man who fell through the plate glass window of A. B. Jackson's store on Water street, yesterday afternoon, came up before Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this morning. He was fined five dollars and ten dollars compensation for the damage that he had done, payable forthwith, and in default of payment, twenty days in gaol. McHail had to go up on the hill as he had not sufficient money to pay.

The prisoner could not remember what had occurred yesterday, owing to having been drunk.

Mr. Jackson stated that he was working in the back shop when he heard a crash of glass, and on going to the front saw a man sitting on the floor with his feet through the window. He called the police and P. C. McGinty came and took him to the police station.

Mr. F. Mason stated that the glass broken was sixty by seventy inches, and it would cost $10 to replace it.

PIRATES' TREASURE

Uncovered by Great Storm in Yucatan

Examiner Special.

Merida, Yucatan, Oct. 12.— For many years there have been stories of a buried treasure off the coast of Yucatan and search has often been made unavailingly for the booty supposed to have been hidden by Lafitte, the pirate, who died and is buried in Yucatan. And now the truth of these stories would appear to be verified.

The recent severe storm along the coast of Yucatan is believed to have uncovered from the beach at Puerto Celestum, the buried wealth of the pirate, for after the storm subsided the crews of fishing boats began picking up many gold and silver coins of English and Spanish make and bearing dates of the early part of last century. These coins are scattered all along the beach at Puerta Celestum and several thousand dollars' worth of them so far has been collected.

KNOX CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLES SOCIETY

Devotional evening with Knox Church Young People's Society was spent together by a very faithful few. After bright singing, prayer, Scripture reading, Mr. A. C. Davenport addressed those present. Experience in church work was briefly touched upon. The officers of the society felt the need of more of the members leading in public prayer, for reading of God's words, study of it, was one of the duties of members to make a decided effort. The Christian's influence, power, happiness is through the Bible. More, liberal in offerings to God, in the church. Also the hand of fellowship to those that come into our midst. The opportunities that come in the way of members must be grasped on to or nothing will be accomplished. Miss Warren and Miss M. Menzies briefly spoke of the necessity and power of prayer, to the individual and also to the church. Miss Thompson is in charge of the meeting next Monday, which is Hallo'een night.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL BY-LAW WILL BE SUBMITTED TO THE PEOPLE

Council Preferred This Step to the Possibility of Paying the Amount Exceeding $15,000 From the Current Revenue---How the Question Was Settled Last Night.

Whether or not Peterborough will have an Isolation Hospital depends now entirely upon the wishes of the ratepayers themselves and they will be given an opportunity to express their views at the Municipal elections in January when a by-law will be submitted for the amount of money required to erect the building and to adequately equip it. This question which has been under consideration practically during all of the present year was finally settled last night when it was determined to submit a by-law to the people. After considerable discussion the views of the Aldermen were boiled down and expressed in a motion and an amendment. It was moved by Ald. Duffus and Hicks that since the building would undoubtedly exceed $15,000 a by-law be submitted authorising the borrowing of a sum sufficient to cover the total cost. The amendment, moved by Ald. Morrow and Duncan was to the effect that the contract be entered into with Mr. Rose, providing the Property Committee could make a satisfactory arrangement with him in the reduction of his contract price in view of the fact that the length of the building had been diminished by ten feet.

The vote on the amendment resulted as follows, the ayes and nays being called.

Nays, Ald. Duffus, Buller, Hicks, McIntyre, Metheral and Bradburn. This resulted in the loss of the amendment and the motion was carried.

Ald. Bradburn in accordance with the wishes of the Council presented figures which had been prepared on the basis of taking ten feet off the length of the proposed building.

Five hundred dollars was estimated off the contract submitted by Mr. Rose and the total was $14,353.00. The cost of equipping the hospital was estimated at $504 making a total on the new basis of $14,800 as compared with $15,500 on the original contract.

There was but little doubt among those present that the building when complete would cost over $15,000 the excess being by no means assured. The question to be decided was whether the work would be gone into and this surplus paid from the current revenue or whether a by-law be submitted to the people for a sufficient sum to cover the entire cost.

Different Opinions

Ald. Morrow did not object to submitting the question to the people. He thought however that the building could be built for $15,000. Ald. Duffus strongly opposed going ahead with the work if extra money was taken from the current revenue. He foresaw a 25 mill rate and the people were already complaining about their taxes. Ald. Metheral's opinion was practically the same. He was adverse to taking the extra money from the general taxes. Ald. Buller did not think that the four hundred dollars saving estimated according to the new figures was worth decreasing the size of the building. Ald. Bradburn wanted to see the building completed properly when once begun. Ald. Hicks summed up the matter by saying that mistakes were generally made when a body of men were undecided.

The safe course in this case was to submit a by-law. He asked if it was fair to proceed with the building which would easily cost $18,000 in round figures and pay the extras from time to time from the current revenue. Ald. Morrow did not like the prospect of delaying the erection of the building. The poor man had to pay extortionate bills when his home was quarantined and if the work was not commenced until next Spring the building would not be completed until the autumn and the summer would be gone.

Both sides argued their points at length and finally decided the question as already stated.

On motion the cheques were ordered to be returned to the contractors. Ald. Buller stated that the chairman of the Property Committee might ask Mr. Rose if he would accept the contract at the price he has offered, provided the people support the by-law.

Ald. Duncan asked if the contract had been let to Mr. Rose. If so he thought there might be trouble. The city clerk stated that the Property Committee had recommended that the contract be let to Mr. Rose, and the report had been adopted, but the agreement had not been entered into with the contractor.

The motion by Ald. Duffus and Ald. Hicks, which carried, was as follows: That the Council recognises the necessity for the construction without delay of an isolation hospital in view of the recurrence of epidemics of contagious diseases and the hardships caused thereby and believe that the plans and contract now made are very satisfactory, but can not be carried out with the amount which the council has authority to spend and therefore recommends the submission to the people of a by-law to raise the full amount necessary to meet all expenditures involved.

Council To Discuss Proposed Line Of C. P. R. This Evening

There will be a meeting of the City Council this evening to discuss the question of the Victoria Harbour grain route's entry into Peterborough, for the purpose of forming a junction with the main line of the C. P. R. It is expected that the Company will be represented. There will also be a large number of ratepayers present, particularly from the West End of the city, through which the line is proposed to cut after crossing Smith St. Many leading citizens will also be present and the Board of Trade will, no doubt, be largely represented.

Government To Assist Farmers Who Lost From Prairie Fires

Examiner Special.

Calgary, Oct. 12.—Mr. A. L. Morris of Hutton interviewed Hon. Frank Oliver in regard to the sufferers from the great prairie fires north of Red Deer River last week. Mr. Oliver stated that he fully sympathized with the sufferers and promised the Government would supply seed absolutely free of charge to those who have suffered from the fire. He promised seed for one year, and said that there was a likelihood of the Government supplying it for two years.

The City Council and Board of Trade will combine to render immediate assistance, which will likely take the form of rushing goods to the region affected, to be sold at cost, as the people in the majority of cases do not look for charity.

Proposed Warehouse May Have A Siding From The Rear

A plan has been prepared for a siding into the proposed warehouse of the Peterborough Hardware Co., whereby George street will not have to be crossed. The Examiner's informant states that this siding will be connected with the siding to the Quaker Oats Company's mill and there is a possibility that the part of the old Bridge Works, extending over Dalhousie, may be moved back to the street line. The siding, it is said, will only accommodate the warehouse, but it is likely that a platform could be extended back from Kinnear's warehouse, and would be of almost equal service. The Hardware Co. has withdrawn its request to the Council for permission to have a siding cross George street.

THINK HE IS CRAZY

Scotland Yard Authorities Do Not Pay Much Attention to the Story of the Man Who Says That He Murdered Ethel Kinrade.

DOES NOT FIT DESCRIPTION

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 12.—A C.A.P. despatch from London this morning says: "Yesterday Edward William Bedford, an American born in Minneapolis surrended himself to Supt. Frank Frost in Scotland Yard, and confessed he had murdered Ethel Kinrade of Hamilton last February. Supt. Forrest says he thinks Bedford crazy and doubts that he is really as guilty as he confesses. Chief Inspector Kidd, who has charge of the case paid a visit to Lord Strathcona's office to ascertain facts in connection with the crime. Bedford claims that while working for Toronto docks he met a man whose name he does not remember, who offered him $500 to shoot Ethel Kinrade saying that he was in love with the girl but she had thrown him over.

The description which Bedford gives of the alleged instigator of the crime and who, he says, stood at the door while the shooting was done, tallies with that of the man decribed by Miss Foirence Kinrade, while Bedford's own description is not similar at all.

THEIR TIN WEDDING

The best wishes of a host of friends were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood for more years of happiness.

TRUE TEMPERANCE

A movement to restore the English public house to its traditional use as a place of ease, recreation and refreshment has been initiated in England. Lord Halsbury, the ex-lord chancellor, presided over a gathering of peers, members of parliament, clergy, and others, at which it was decided to establish a True Temperance Association. The aim is to associate moderate people all over the country who dissent from the extreme and destructive proposals of puritanical teetotalers, in a reasonable policy of improving licensed houses by rendering them more like the continental resorts, where the ordinary man feels no shame in sitting with his wife and children—and of thus reducing drunkenness.

Lord Halsbury drew a clear distinction from the methods of total repression. "The great aim of our organization," he said, "will be to try something not tried yet—appealing to the will and heart of the people. If you were to train up a body of abstainers who were so because they could not get drink, they would not be men, they would be slaves. The temperance party would improve the public house out of existence, instead of improving it for the public use. They regard the public house as a disgraceful place to go to, and as a place which, if a man visited it, he should leave as soon as he had a drink. Is it surprising that the public house should have become a mere drinking shop? We want to alter that, and to make every public house a decent place of refreshment and resort."

"The very essence of this movement is to remove the stigma," said Lord Salisbury. "It is very hard that a respectable man should be disbarred from a drink and from friendly intercourse with other men simply because he 'frequent' a public house marks him as a less respectable member of society. It is also a dangerous policy."

"The more open drinking is the better," said Rev. H. E. Gamble, of Holy Trinity. English people are not prepared to be dragooned into total abstinence, or into adopting the organized hypocrisy of total prohibition." He supported the scheme in the interests of free and healthy social life.

FLORIDA AND WEST INDIES ARE SWEPT BY DEVASTATING CYCLONE

Many Lives Lost, Property Destroyed and Country Stripped Bare by Fierce Gale--City of Havana Visited and Suffered Severely.

Examiner Special.

Havana, Oct. 12.—The most serious cyclone since the big blow of Oct. 17th, 1906, struck Cuba early yesterday morning, causing extensive devastation through the whole western portion of the island. In the city of Havana minor buildings were blown down or unroofed; almost all the trees were uprooted; five persons were killed, one by an electric wire, and the others by falling buildings. About 25 persons were injured.

The greatest damage was in the harbour where 40 or 50 lighters, launches, and small tugs were either sunk or blown ashore. The total damage in Havana and vicinity is estimated at $1,000,000.

The Spanish schooner Osla de Palmas was blown upon the wreck of the battleship Maine, but was afterwards pulled off. The great docks of the electric conveyers of the Havana Coal Company were destroyed. The loss will exceed $100,000. The wharf shed of the Herrera Line and the warehoues of the Havana Central Railway were unroofed and the contents soaked with water.

Little news has been received from the Vuelta Abaja country owing to the complete prostration of the telegraph wires, but it is believed that the tobacco seed beds have suffered heavily. The new tuberculosis hospital in one of the suburbs of Havana was blown down and many of the patients injured. Two of the ten facilities resulted from contacts with live wires, which had blown down. The rest were caused by falling walls.

The sea was in a turmoil until two o'clock in the afternoon, the waves smashing over Morro Castle light, which is 180 feet high.

The cyclone took in the whole of Pinar del Rio and Havana Provinces and the Western edge of the Province of Matanzas.

New Orleans, Oct. 12—Wireless messages from Tampa, the nearest point of communication from the hurricane-swept district of Key West, convey the intelligence that no less than 1,200 persons have lost their lives in the storm, which has swept the south east coast, while thousands more are homeless, hundreds of houses being in the ruins. While the death toll was great in all sections of southern Florida, and the Keys, where the hurricane struck the brunt of it is believed to have been borne by the great gangs of workmen engaged in railway construction. Out of these at least 480 are declared to have perished. The city which suffered the most damage, however, is Key West. To-day it is one great mass of wreckage, with a property loss of not less than $2,000,000.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 11.—As the result of the hurricane which struck the southern coast of Florida this morning Key West to-night is a mass of wreckage, and the damage to property is estimated at $2,000,000. Martial law was proclaimed by the Mayor at 6 o'clock, and the Key West Guards are patrolling the city.

Canadian Making Success Across The Border

Special to The Examiner.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 11.—George W. Armstrong, a native of the province of Ontario, born at Brussels on September 8, 1860, who afterward passed 28 years at Buffalo, Fargo and other parts of North Dakota, has succeeded Carl. W. Tuerke as commissioner of streets and president of the board of police commissioners of Spokane. He is also a member of the board of public works. The appointment was made by Mayor N. S. Pratt. He was for years interested in irrigation projects and is manager and director of the Columbia River Orchards Company, which is putting 15,000 acres under the ditch South of Spokane.

Mr. Armstrong came to the United States with his parents in 1880, settling in North Dakota. His early manhood was spent in Buffalo and later he moved to Fargo. He has been an extensive farmer, merchant, president of a bank and later a director in the First National Bank of Fargo. He was a deputy United States marshal in North Dakota, in addition to his other duties from 1892 to 1896.

Regarding the appointment, Mayor Pratt said in the course of an interview:

"I have known Mr. Armstrong for a number of years as a man of strong character, wide business experience and mature years, and am satisfied he will reflect credit on the administration. He is especially qualified to be a member of the board of public works, being accustomed to large undertakings. Furthermore, he has been in entire sympathy with the administration and with the work as it was being carried out by Mr. Tuerke. There is no question as to his ability, integrity and industry, and I am confident he will make good as a commissioner."

Cattle Dealer Explains Reason Why Manitoba Cattle Bring High Price.

A prominent cattle dealer who is a weekly visitor to the Montreal market was discussing the Western cattle, particularly those from Manitoba, and compared them with those bred in Ontario. In his opinion the pastures of the West are no better than those of the East. The difference is in the vast extent of feeding grounds. If Ontario had the same pasturage the cattle would be second to none. The top selling prices for Manitoba cattle range from $3.25 to $5.50. Ontario cattle for the most part have not had the unlimited pasturage the West provides and hence are in better condition, thus demanding the higher prices.

LIQUOR FOR HIS OWN USE

Case Against Wm. Anderson of Havelock Yesterday for Having Liquor in His Possession for Purpose of Selling Was Dismissed.

CASE HEARD YESTERDAY

Havelock, Oct. 12.—Wm. Anderson appeared before Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon, charged with having three quart bottles of whiskey in his possession for the purpose of selling. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution, and Mr. G. N. Gordon of Peterborough, appeared for the defendant, and pleaded not guilty.

Four witnesses were called but their evidence was not sufficient to make a conviction, and the case was dismissed. While it was shown that the accused had four bottles of liquor in his buggy, it was pointed out that one might lawfully buy and have that amount of whiskey in his possession for his own use.

BOY PRODIGY

Eleven Years Old and Admitted to Harvard University.

New York, Oct. 12.—A despatch to the Sun from Cambridge, Mass., says: A boy named Sidis, eleven years old, was admitted to Harvard University to-day as a special student. Sidis comes to Harvard after spending one year at Tufts and was therefore admitted without the usual entrance examinations.

For many years Sidis has been known not only in Boston, his native city, but also throughout all New England as a prodigy in mathematics, and it is in this department that he will study at Harvard. Not in the history of the institution has a boy of such years been allowed to register as a member of the University, although a few cases are on record of students coming to Cambridge still wearing their boyhood hills.

Sidis will take his degree with the class of '13.

WERE ALLOWED TO GO

Neither One Was the Man Wanted in Lindsay.

The two men, Charles Murphy and Frank Murphy, who were arrested here on suspicion that one of them might be the man wanted in Lindsay for brutally assaulting a Mariposa farmer's wife, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning, and were allowed to go, the right man evidently not having yet been caught.

Charles Murphy belongs to Kingston. He said that he was not a "vag," and had money to keep himself. He was going to the woods. His Worship told him that he must go to the woods at once and that if he was seen around he would be arrested.

Frank Murphy said that he was a peddler from Toronto. He had rheumatism and was unable to do anything else. His case was enlarged for a week, and he was also told to leave town.

GASOLINE YACHT RACE

Two Launches Will Settle the Question of Travelling Powers, So It Is Said.

It is learned on good authority that a race will be held on the river next week between two boat owners. The rivalry has grown so strong that the only way to settle the question is to have a brush. Both parties are well known on the river and the result of the event will be awaited with interest. The run will likely be to Jubilee and back.

PROSPERING EDMONTON

Edmonton, Canada's most Northern City, is still on the crest of the wave of prosperity. A slip issued by its bond of trade—"to attach to your letters"—shows a great growth in all its interests. September 1909, compared with the corresponding month of last year shows an increase in bank clearings of 34 per cent.—from $3,375,162 to $4,372,344; postal revenue increased 10 per cent; from $5,300 to $5,800. Building has advanced by leaps and bounds, the building permits issued show the great increase of 309 per cent. In September 1908 they were $139,425 and in that month in 1909, they amounted to $506,200. The statement is further made that "the Edmonton district is harvesting in good shape, the best all-round crop in its history."

POLITICS IN THE PULPIT.

An incident in New York shows to what length the pupit is prostituted in the interests of party politicians. In a Congregation church the pulpit was occupied for the delivery of campaign addresses by two candidates for municipal office. The discussion of abstract politics in the pulpit by the legitimate occupants can hardly be removed from desecration no matter how skilfully done, but the discussion of party politics by practical politicians, perhaps with the reek of a rotten ward slum rank upon them seems like the abomination of desecration. Ministers make a bad enough mess of things when they themselves undertake to preach party politics from the pulpit. We have had instances in Peterborough of ministers who have tried the dangerous experiment and later devoutly wished they hadn't done so. It would seem that a preacher cannot consistently take sides in politics without creating trouble in a mixed congregaton, and creating a discord that is not always healed by his removal. If a preacher can not minister successfully enough to indoctrinate his congregation with principles of right doing that will make them use ther franchise honestly, he will only skim and film the ulcerous spot by preaching or permitting to be preached, party politics, in a place dedicated to the dissemination of the divine truths of the Gospel.

THE AUTO AND ITS ENEMIES.

The automobile has its enemies and the hostile country community is barricading its way. A day or two ago a former Peterborough gentleman, making a night auto journey from Toronto to Port Hope, luckily discovered by the light of the lanterns dimly burning, a big heap of fence rails in the highway, which, if it had not been discovered, would have imparted a shock that might have cost a life or two. Night before last a Peterborough gentleman driving upon the Gravel Road, near Centreville, struck a barricade of rails placed in the highway and had his machine so badly damaged that he could not reach the city only with great difficulty. The enemies of the automobile are of its own making. That is, while there are drivers who respect themselves and the rights of others, who drive moderately, especially on meeting country teams and take every measure to prevent accidents, there are, on the contrary, drivers who have neither self respect nor consideration of the rights of others, who drive recklessly, and care little for the safety of teams they meet or pass, and in every way merit the curses and reprobation that follow their noisesome and dusty trail through the country. It is such outlaws who give a bad name to the whole auto car fraternity. It is such outlaws that cause the punishment of the innocent with the guilty; who provoke the rail barricades that confound in one common punishment the gentlemanly and the blackguardly automobilist. If drastic legislation restricting the highway rights of automobilists is provoked, it will be the fault of the reckless and conscienceless and foolhardy drivers of these useful machines. Would it not be wise for decent auto-car owners to combine, and use their influence to drive from the ranks and visit with reprobation and reproach if not with severe punishment, those who by their reckless conduct, bring into trouble and reproach the whole confraternity of automobilists? The people who own autos are citizens and taxpayers, and have, as such, a right to the reasonable use of the highways. While some use their rights reasonably and with all possible respect for the rights of others, others abuse their privileges and outrage every conception of right and decency. This latter class is responsible for the failure of country communities to distinguish between the good and the bad. It is only the bad in country places who will plant obstructions that are not only destructive to property but endanger and destroy life. There is nothing in the world bad in itself; it is the improper use that constitutes the evil. This applies equally to the actions of automobilists and to their enemies.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The great need of the Conservative party seems to be the party.

Is Lloyd-George liable to be knocked out if the Lords "put up their dukes?"

The deer-hunting season is drawing near and reports of sportsmen's rifles will soon prelude reports of sportsmen slaughtered—in mistake for deer.

Cobalt is passing a by-law to prohibit the running at large of animals of all kinds. The Citizen demands that the "blind pig" be also included in the prohibition.

The question of 13 being an unlucky number is still an open one. The record of divorces in the United States informs us that every thirteenth marriage ends in divorce. Only the parties concerned can tell whether 13 is an unlucky or lucky number.

Abdul Hamid, the deposed terrible Turk, tried to escape from his custodians at Salonica by adopting the guise of a workman. A man who probably never did an hour's honest work in the whole of his evil life could not hope to wear an honest workman's clothes without detection.

According to the bank statement published in the last issue of the Canada Gazette, the total paid-up capital of the chartered banks of Canada is $94,467,911; demand deposits for the month of August $288,307,679; date deposits $472,591,816; call loans $120,659,919; current loans $543,154,069.

Mr. C. A. McGrath, M.P.P., Medicine Hat, prefers giving ten millions a year towards Dreadnoughts and having them built in Britain. This is like exporting raw pulp wood and losing the labour employment needed to convert it into pulp. One of the chief features that command the building of a Canadian navy, is the building of it in Canada with all the industrial stimulus and employment of labour that would be involved.

The Railway Commission has once more signally demonstrated its usefulness. The Ottawa aldermen, after a lot of money had been spent in preventing railways from encroaching upon the residence portions of the city, showed a willingness to have a railway enter the city on the level, in a way to endanger human life. But the Railway Commission has decided to delay decision on an application to sanction a level crossing, thus showing more solicitude for the citizens of the Capital than the men elected as special guardians of their interests. The action of the Aldermen is a flinging in the face of Parliament, which last session voted $25,000 to assist in the elimination of dangerous level crossings.

ABOUT SAW-OFFS.

Brockville Recorder.

A great deal has been written concerning alleged saw-offs, by men who apparently have not studied the question to any extent. They argue from the presumpton that one iniquity is balanced against another with the result that the charges in both disappear. They take it for granted that wherever and whenever a protest is entered, guilt is present and crime has been committed. If that were true their arguments would be sound and reasonable; but in nine cases out of ten the contrary is the case.

The great majority of petitions against the results of elections are entered just after the turmoil is over and when everybody's nerves are at the utmost tension. The defeated are feelings, they rush off and enter a feeling sore and to give vent to these protests without any substantial evidence or without any idea what the outcome is to be.

When the petition is entered and a thousand dollars deposited then the blood of the defeated ones commences to cool down usually, and when they look about for evidence which appeared very thick and plentiful a day or two after the election, they discover that there is none in sight.

Ottawa, in the last Dominion campaign, is a case in point. Without the knowledge of leading men in the party, and against the advice of some very candid friends, a few enthusiasts rushed in their petition against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but they discovered later they had nothng to petition, and so it disappeared with the others. It must be admitted that sometimes petitions are entered in all good faith, and later it is discoverd that what looked like evidence is really not substantially so, and under these circumstances it would be folly to proceed with the case knowing that it must fail.

The local Conservatives in Peterborough insisted on protesting against Hon. J. R. Stratton, assuring everybody in sight that he would be disqualified, but the result shows that they were very ill advised and have a lot of costs to pay.

The Recorder does not argue in favour of smothering up crime, but it does take the ground that if people can be prevented from entering protests where there is no substantial ground for doing so, good service is being performed for them and for the country, while innocent people are saved a lot of worry as well as the court costs. It is not fair to attribute wrong motives to men of either party who get together with their blood cold and digest the evidence that their friends have in these intended protests, and advise them candidly if they think they have not sufficient evidence to proceed with successfully. The decision to refrain from entering protests under such conditions is a wise one, and those who enthusiastically attack such conduct as very vicious and wicked, certainly do so without much consideration of the situation.

There may be, and no doubt are, occasionally protests entered where, what is called the saw-off takes place, but they are very few indeed.

SWEARING MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT OUT OF THEIR SEATS.

(The Sault Express.)

The election petition brought by the Conservatives of Peterborough County to unseat Hon. J. R. Stratton, the Federal member of the riding, came to an ignominious collapse Saturday. Charges of all manner of corruption had been laid against the respondent, and the Conservative papers through the country had been announcing that when the case came to trial, the crookedest election yet known would be exposed. In the opinion of the judges who sat on the case, the witnesses who were put in the box in an abortive effort to prove the charges, were not reputable witnesses and their word was not to be believed. The foundation of the petition, according to Mr. Justice McMthon, was furnished by a man named Gates, who had no vote, but set up a story of corrupt practices, and received $50 from the Conservative respondent for giving evidence. A part of the declaration given by Gates reads as follows: "This declaration is given for $50, for the purpose of the trial of the protest against Mr. Stratton, and is given voluntarily." Paying $50 for men to swear members of parliament out of their seats has the distinction of being both new and low.

DOUBLE THE INCOME PER COW

Several instances are on record in Ontario and Quebec where members of cow testing associations, who are systematically weighing and sampling the milk from each individual cow in the herd, have been enabled to increase the yield of milk per cow tremendously. Mere weighing and sampling, of course, has not increased the yield, but it has been the most important factor in the general improvement; it has shown that lots of cows were not worth keeping, it has shown that others could profitably consume more good feed, it has shown the owners that they must study each cow to make her do her best, it has shown them that most cows will respond readily to better care and attention and will earn more money if given the opportunity. It means good money in any farmer's pocket if he will have a little patience and act on the information gained from the records. One man is now getting from his 20 cows an income of four hundred and eighty dollars per year more than he was 3 years ago. A smaller herd in 1904 brought in only $23.80 per cow, but last year the owner received nearly $58.00 per cow, in other words he is now getting more than double the previous income per cow.

FINANCIAL PROSPECTS

REACTIONARY INFLUENCES

New York, October 9, 1909.

Reactionary influences are multiplying daily. At last the cautionary signals displayed in the money market are being heeded, and it is recognised that Stock Exchange prices have been forced to a level beyond reason. Every known argument in favour of higher prices has been worked to the limit; every known element of prosperity has been more than fully discounted. Even better dividend returns have been more than anticipated, as is proven by the fact that when these occur they are usually utilized as a basis for fresh realising.

For months past the Street has been stimulated by optimistic views and activities of all kinds; some of them genuine, some of them far from trustworthy. Much of this so-called prosperity talk has been exaggerated and unfounded. Only in the steel trade is there extraordinary activity and prosperity combined. The industry is certainly enjoying phenomenal success; all records of production being far surpassed, and the best authorities agreeing that the country will witness a tremendous demand for steel at good prices for some months to come. This is due to the fact that the nation's increase in population, activity and purchasing power compels large extensions in railroad and industrial plants. Our railroads, it will be remembered, deferred many improvements during the period of economy which followed the panic, and many new enterprises of an industrial character were also postponed. Just now there is an almost too violent rebound; constructive work is very active in all parts of the United States, and the result is a call for large quantities of iron and steel in various forms. The widening use of steel as a constructive material is also a factor of much importance in this respect.

Outside of the steel industry, however, it is difficult to find any cause for immoderate enthusiasm, business as a whole not yet having reached the volume of 1906. Our farmers, as a class, are enjoying great prosperity because of the very profitable prices realised upon all agricultural products. Yet their prosperity is of the kind that is not universally desired, because it is unevenly distributed and is mainly at the expense of other classes of society. Present agricultural prosperity is based to a considerable extent upon scarcity; which can never be considered entirely beneficial because of the certainty that somewhere hardship is imposed in consequence. Cotton, for instance, is selling at 13c., not so much on account of great demand as for an important shortage in this year's crop. As a result some planters are making large profits while not a few have incurred heavy losses. Spinners, except those who bought cotton early, are embarrassed by the high cost of raw material, and curtailed production is necessary. This in turn means loss of wages to employes and diminished purchasing power, while the consumer must either spend more money on cotton goods or consume less, either alternative acting detrimentally to some interest. No doubt cotton has been unduly advanced by dangerous speculation. The rise in prices is out of all proportion to the diminution of supplies; and, in view of the large supplies carried over from last crop, the better yield in other countries and the curtailed consumption both at home and abroad, it must be conceded that the chances of a cotton famine are very remote.

Next let us take the corn crop; a highly important source of wealth to this country. The yield this year will be large and promises to command good prices, yet the crop has fallen considerably below earlier calculations and is therefore somewhat of a disappointment. Necessarily this must cause a modification of the more optimistic views which were held in midsummer. The farmer, it is true, will secure good profits for his corn; but how about the consumer who, obliged to pay more for pork, beef, eggs, chickens, etc., into which corn enters, will have that much less to spend in other directions? The same may be said of wheat, the world's surplus of which is at a very low ebb; hence present high prices. A larger crop would have proved highly beneficial, inasmuch as the money result to the farmer would probably have been quite as large as under present scarcity, and the country would then have possessed a surplus for export with which to pay for heavy current merchandise imports.

This brings us to a new condition which has not been sufficiently appreciated. The impediments to exports of cotton and wheat are likely to be a serious factor in our international trade. Business revival is causing unusually large imports, while our exports are abnormally low for the reasons of scarcity just specified. This means the piling up of a heavy debit balance abroad. Our borrowings in foreign markets are already reputed to be in the neighbourhood of $400,000,000; and if to this be added our unfavourable trade balance it is plain that we are rapidly becoming very heavily indebted to Europe. Foreign bankers have already taken alarm, as shown by the advance in the Bank of England rate, and are shutting down sharply upon our speculative borrowings, which have been transferred from New York to Europe. Whether we shall settle this indebtedness in merchandise exports (which seems improbable), in securities or in gold it is impossible to predict. Ordinarily the conditions should favour gold imports at no distant date, but the outlook in this respect at the moment is distinctly uncertain. This continued loss of the precious metal though not yet in the danger point is suggestive, for it weakens the foundation of credit at a time when the currency is being inflated by the continual issue of bank notes, the increase in currency October 1 amounting to $48,000,000 during the past twelve months. Our national bank loans are $370,000,000 greater than a year ago, while their cash reserves are $14,000,000 lower. The Bank of England and the Bank of Germany also report declining reserves, and even Paris is desirous of strengthening its position, despite the dullness of business in France. The world wide stiffening of money after an excessive expansion in loans, especially in the United States, is significant and must have a restraining influence upon speculation.

Such conditions show that so-called prosperity is by no means general, but is unbalanced and mixed with serious drawbacks. Another illustration is found in the copper situation, where increased consumption has been more than offset by continued overproduction, the metal being sustained at an artificial level by means of powerful speculative manipulation. There is no doubt that business is reviving, and that recovery will progress, but much of what has been styled prosperity is nothing but increasing activity, which, welcome as it is, should not be mistaken for a return to the boom times of 1906.

The position of stock market bulls was somewhat weakened by the late break. It is generally conceded that prices has been bulled to the limit, and the public seemed slow to share the load of the big speculators in spite of the bait offered in the form of increased dividends. As stocks are still largely held by strong men the situation can hardly be called a dangerous one, although a very considerable liquidation in Steel issues has taken place. The fact that investment buyers cannot be found at the present level is a suggestive one and means that holders must eventually adjust themselves to investment conditions. These are being materially altered by the continued rise in money. Stocks that looked cheap on a 3 per cent. money market lose their attractiveness when rates rise to 4 and 5 per cent. As firmer but not stringent money is to be expected during the balance of the year, speculation must adjust itself to the new conditions, which means that sooner or later the natural trend of values will be towards lower prices, especially for many stocks and those which have ever discounted the future. Of course sharp breaks will meet with stout resistance, for the bulk of floating stocks is still held by strong interests. This means a market of sharp fluctuations, and one that will demand careful watching by the trader. The investor can afford to wait, the present situation being in his favour. Important new flotations are imminent, having been deferred for monetary reasons, and it can be taken for granted that the bik banking interests will not permit any permanent break in the market. The speculative situation may have its disappointments to large holders, and some securities may still be too high, but underlying conditions remain sound and hopeful, and good rallies are sure to follow sharp declines.

FRASERVILLE NEWS

Fraserville, Oct. 12. — The young boys, around the village are and have been for a considerable length of time, been creating a nuisance around the stores, by using profane and filthy language in public; it is believed that the parents of these children are entirely ignorant as to their conduct, and if same were notified the trouble might be stopped.

Miss Right's store here was broken into a week or so ago, and the scales and other articles were carried across the road into Mr. Carl's field; as the store has been shut up for a considerable time, it was some time before it became known. One of the window coverings had been pulled to one side and a large light of glass broken, and it was through this the entrance was made. It is believed to be the work of small boys of the village, as the following incident would suggest: A certain villager in passing the store one day last week, noticed the broken window, and, as a matter of fact, proceeded to replace the covering. When he had accomplished his work, to his astonishment he heard some person call from inside: "Let me out." He immediately proceeded to do so. When he removed the board an urchin popped out and disappeared, as if by magic, but not before he was recognised, and if further annoyance or destruction to the property takes place, there will be trouble for that youngster and his confederates.

We are sorry to learn of the severe illness of Mr. E. H. Pue, which is caused by an abcess below the appendix. It was at first feared that an operation would be necessary, but it is thought a cure can be effected by means of other devices. Drs. Turner and Montgomery, of Millbrook, are in attendance. Mr. Pue attended the Peterborough Collegiate Institute last year and was preparing for the Normal when he took sick.

Mr. Wilbert Monoried has a slight attack of appendicitis.

Mr. Rose has nearly completed the cement work of the church sheds.

Mr. Roy Byers, of Peterborough, spent Sunday with his parents.

Miss Nellie Weatherill has resumed her studies at the Peterborough Collegiate after a short illness.

Miss Elsie Henkle and her mother have returned to Rochester after a lengthy visit with Mrs. J. Solomon.

Miss N. Smythe has returned home after visiting Mrs. D. Smythe here.

Mr. R. G. Simpson of Bailieboro, was in the village on Monday.

Mr. Bruce Fisher of Peterborough, spent Sunday with his parents.

HAPPY RESULTS OBTAINED

By the Use of the New Scalp Antiseptic.

It wouldn't take long to number the hairs in the heads of some people, the reason being they haven't many to number. In most instances, however, the fault is their own. A germ at the root soon plays havoc with the most luxuriant growth and causes it to fall and fade out. A remedy for this has recently been discovered, called Newbro's Herpicide, that acts by destroying the germ that does the damage, besides removing all impurities from the scalp. In addition it permits new life and vigour to enterth scalp, and happy results are sure to be obtained from its use. Try it. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

TYPEWRITERS ON THE FARM

From Farm and Dairy.

When typewriters were first put on the market they were used in city offices exclusively. In the course of time they were found to be useful in the home, in the library, for personal and private correspondence. The young folks also used it for notes and lessons. Consequently, the typewriter, even in its early days, was not solely a business institution, it became an everyday necessity in many homes. But the typewriter is not for city use only; it has now become indispensable in many country homes.

The busy farmer finds that he can learn the trick of writing with a machine with no more difficulty than he encounters in operating a corn planter or mowing machine. With his typewriter he writes a letter with greater ease than with pen or pencil, and in less time. The man who deals with the farmers by mail, is familiar with the increased use of typewriters on the farm. Where one was used a few years ago a score are now used. Just as neat and attractive letters are often written on the typewriter by the strong fingers of farm workers as ever comes from the more rapid touch of the delicate fingers of stenographers connected with city business houses.

We believe the typewriter has a use on the farm. For one thing, it enables the farmer to carry on his business correspondence in the same manner as do the business men of the city. It makes plain print, and there can be no mistaking the letters and words. It takes less time to write a letter and the work is more easily done. For these reasons alone the typewriter has become an inexpensive convenience in the home and office. And more than this, the typewriter in the farm home is a useful thing for the school children. It teaches neatness and dispatch. Many a young person will write an article and copy the same on a type writer, all of which is very useful in disciplining the mind and in supplying an incentive for this kind of mental development, where without this typwriting machine this would never be done.

A typewriter conveniently placed in the farm home is in constant use: It stimulates a desire for improvement, of being up-to-date, and of operating the farm on real business principles. Of course, the typewriter is not essential for the farm in the same sense as plow and harvester; not in that sense at all. It is a convenience, however, in the same class with books, papers and magazines, with travel, music and neat clothes with education and up-to-dateness and business farming. And the cost is not great; a fat calf or a fat hog will buy a good reliable machine that will last a lifetime.

Nervous, Tired, Anxious, Thin

What causes nervous collapse? Most people say worry, anxiety, brooding, but these are simply the outcomes of a lowered physical condition. When strong we throw them off, but when run down they hold us if by chains.

The true cause of nervous collapse is in the blood. When thin and watery it contains no nourishment for the nerves, no support for the muscles—result is collapse.

The truest food for the nerves is the nourishing blood that Ferrozone forms. Ferrozone builds up the nervous and depressed, not by stimulation, but by the surer way of adding flesh, blood and sinew. The whole system is vitalized; the nerves are fortified—you can sleep, work hard, and be free from brooding anxiety.

OBITUARY.

ABRAHAM BEST

The following account of the death of Abraham Best appeared in the October 8th issue of the "Walhalla," Mountaineer of Walhalla, North Dakota:

The sad but unexpected news of the death of Mr. Abraham Best was received by phone from his Bay Centre home on Sunday evening at about seven o'clock, dissolution having taken place about half an hour previous. He had been suffering for some three weeks or more with Bright's disease, and it was known from the first, that recovery was practically impossible.

Mr. Best was born in the county of Dunham, Ontario, some seventy-six years ago, coming to his present home in this county in April, 1889. He has been a successful farmer and has received the respect of the people with whom he was acquainted, being considered an excellent neighbour and a kind friend in need.

He leaves to mourn his death, besides his wife, five sons, Ross, of Oxboe, Wilbur of Winnipeg and George Arthur and Elmer, all at home, and three daughters, Misses Teffie and May, who have been attending a course in nursing at a Winnipeg hospital, and Florence, who has been at home. These and other more distant relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of the hosts of friends in this community.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from the house, conducted by Mr. Gill, of Winnipeg, of the Plymouth Brethren faith, to which Mr. Best was a staunch adherent. The remains were interred in the Protestant cemetery at Walhalla.

MAURICE MOHER.

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday morning of Maurice Moher, who passed away after a lengthy illness from cancer. He was forty-eight years of age and had been a resident of Peterborough for some years.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Hospital to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

WM. J. JOHNSTON

The sad death of Wm. J. Johnston occurred early yesterday morning at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Alex. Reid, after a lingering illness. The deceased had been ailing for about one year and not until Saturday had been confined to his bed. He was 50 years of age and leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and mother, also six sisters, Mrs. Alex. Reid, city, Mrs. Wm. Oakman Hastings, Mrs. Wm. Howell of Leroy, N.D., Mrs. J. Fitzsimonods, Leroy, N.D., Mrs. George Begga, Bracebridge and Mrs. James Craig, Calbridge and Mrs. James Craig, Calgary, and two brothers, Robert of Neche, N.D., and Matthew of San Jose, California.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 2.30 from his late residence, 635 Water street to the Little Lake Cemetery.

COMMUNICATIONS TO THE COUNCIL

Dealt With Last Night—Offers $400 for a Parcel of City Property.

The Council dealt with a number of communications last night before handling the Isolation Hospital question. Mayor Rush occupied the chair and Ald. Morgan was the only absentee.

A letter was received from White Bros., in reference to the carting of pipe, etc., for the city. They said they had done it all summer, but that Ald. Phelan had given an order that the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co. do it.

The chairman of the Board of Works explained that he thought the work ought to be divided up, and hence had given the Fuel and Cartage Co. a chance.

Mrs. Mary Bowman asked the city to refund $8.00 she had paid for flushing the sewer into her premises on Simcoe street. At the sidewalk it is lower than the street pipe, and requires to be flushed. Mrs. Bowman had asked that this be remedied.

John Bairn, Water street, offered the city $400 for the lot south of Mr. John Lane's property, on Water St., near the Colonial Weaving Co's. old building.

George Snyder asked that the proposed siding across George street be laid so that it will accommodate his building, occupied by the Canadian Canoe Co.

FOR BABY'S SKIN TROUBLES

There are times in the life of nearly every child when Dr. Chase's Ointment proves itself a blessing. The tender skin chafes and is irritated by the clothing. Oftentimes baby eczema developes from this very cause. In a dozen ways Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used to sooth and heal the skin and prevent suffering of the little one. CLOKE—TORRANCE.

Hamilton, Oct. 6.—A wedding of more than passing interest occurred this morning at 11 o'clock, when Gertrude M. Torrance, the youngest daughter of Anna and the late Wm. Torrance, was united in marriage to Frederick Cloke, son of Mr. John G. Cloke, the well-known book-seller. Rev. E. B. Lanceley conducted the ceremony in the presence of the relatives of only the contracting parties. Miss Minnie Craig, of Peterborough, was the maid of honour, and the bride was given away by her mother. The wedding was very quiet and will be a glad surprise to the friends of these two popular young people, and all who know them will join in wishing them a happy and prosperous future. Mr. and Mrs. Cloke left on the afternoon train of the Grand Trunk for New York and points east. On their return they will reside at 21 Slater street.

HOW BUFFALO BILL GOT HIS START IN SHOW BUSINESS

Interesting Story of the Commencement of the Public Career of the Famous Old Scout by Which He Amassed a Fortune—"Ned Buntline" Responsible for His Appearance.

(By Doctor Judd.)

William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) can to-day be thankful that there was at one time a man by the name of Ned Buntline, for it was through him that his rapid rise to world-renowned fame began, which enabled him to fill a large number of bags with gold and to gain many thousands of acres of land. Ned Buntline was the inventor of the "Dime Novel." In his younger days he was a student at Annapolis, and after graduating he served a number of years in the United States Navy. He had an endless number of duels with his brother officers and always came out of them without a scratch. He left the navy and went to writing Indian tales for the New York Mercury. The Civil War came on, and he went out as a colonel of a New York regiment of volunteers, but was cashiered for drunkenness and sent home. Then he reformed and became a temperance lecturer. It was a very common thing in those days when a man failed in his own enterprise or undertakings to go into the temperance business. Now they drift into the insurance or real estate business.

It was along in 1870, out in San Francisco, that I first met Ned Buntline, when he was acting in the capacity of a temperance lecturer. I was having some bills printed for my show at Simpson's Job Printing Shop, on Varney street. When going in and out there I got acquainted with Eugene T. Sawyer, who, in connection with Edward Markham, "The Man With the Hoe," was running a small Prohibition paper, the Garden City Times, which Simpson was printing for them. One day, while I was in the printing office, Ned Buntline came in with one of the leading Prohibitionists in San Francisco, who was also the financial backer of Sawyer and Markham's paper. They came in to have the paper give Buntline a send off and to announce his temperance lecture.

This same Eugene T. Sawyer, or "Gene Sawyer," as he was then called on the Coast, has since been city editor on some of the leading San Francisco papers. A few years ago, quite by accident he got into the dime-novel writing business. Millions and millions of boys and young men all over the United States, know Gene Sawyer, but under the name "Nick Carter," for that is his nom de plume.

When Ned Buntline got tired of lecturing on temperance in California, he went east, and on his way stopped off at Laramie, where he met Bill Cody, of whom he wrote a description for the New York Mercury. This article was copied by all the leading papers of the country. That was the beginning of Buffalo Bill's fame. Up to this time he was known very little this side of the Rocky Mountains. Out there he had the reputation of killing more buffaloes than any one on the plains, and of being a daring scout among the Indians.

When Buntline got to New York, Beadle and Adams, who were publishing Beadle's Dime and Half-Dime Libraries, engaged him to write Buffalo Bill stories for their publications. He wrote tale after tale, in which Buffalo Bill was the hero. They were devoured as fast as they flew from the presses by the eager masses, who were hungering after thrilling and blood-curdling tales.

A few years after this, when I was walking down Broadway, New York, with Jim Nixon, the old circus manager, we dropped into Sandy Spencer's place, under the Theatre Comique. There we met old Ned Buntline. He said to Nixon (they knew each other very well): "I have a scheme. Will you go in with me? I have been writing to Buffalo Bill to learn if I can get him to go on the stage and star in some Indian play that I want to write for him? Nixon said: "Yes, I will go in with you. There will be millions in it." In a few weeks Buntline heard from Cody, stating he would meet him in Chicago, and that he would bring along some real Indians, also Texas Jack and Wild Bill, two well-known western scouts, who had been well-written up in dime novels. Buntline and Nixon engaged him to go along with them in their enterprise.

We arrived in Chicago before Buffalo Bill got along with his party. We engaged a few idle actors, a stage manager, and advertised the opening night. That morning the stage manager was on hand with his actors and asked Buntline for the manuscript of the play. "Why," said Buntline, "I haven't written it yet." So he sat right down and in a few hours he had the great realistic border play, The Scouts of the Plains (as we had announced it on the bills), all written out. "Now," he said, "get plenty of blank ammunition, and rope to tie the hero to the burning stake."

Whilst the stage manager was rehearsing and teaching the Indians, Buffalo Bill was committing to memory his few lines. Texas Jack and Wild Bill had also only a few words to say. They were to jump on the stage just in the nick of time to cut the rope which bound Buffalo Bill to the burning stake, and shout, "Now, come on, you Redskins, and then they and Buffalo Bill, in the evening performance, shot the Indians down till the pour, red faces of the far West had been killed over and over again.

After a number of rehearsals, the whole company got the play down to a fine point in a wild western way. On the opening night, to a packed house, it went off very well, the papers said. The audience, if they did not hear or see any very good acting, at least witnessed enough bloodshed to give them one or two good nightmares before the next morning. We played a few western towns and then worked our way East, to crowded houses everywhere. Buntline soon began to drink again, and, as in the meantime Jim Nixon had left to go out with P. T. Barnum, the show dissolved.

Afterward, Buffalo Bill went on the boards on his own account, became one of the celebrities of the day, and his name will likely be handed down in history as one of the Heroes of the Nineteenth Century.—Billboard.

Wild Bill, mentioned in the above article, was not of the nature his name would indicate, but a mild, well mannered gentleman, and at one time a great partner and intimate friend of the noted Kit Carson. The celebrated Indian fighter of earlier days. This was Wild Bill's first inducement to enter upon the stage and after a very brief stay he concluded to abandon it for the roaming life of the plains.

System Poisoning
CONSTIPATION

Do not be satisfied with temporary relief—Cleanse the system and make cure lasting with DR CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Constipation begins with the bowels but it does not end there.

You must also consider the way it affects the liver, the kidneys, the digestive system and in fact the whole human body.

Headaches, backaches, aching limbs, indigestion, biliousness, kidney derangements, and the most serious diseases imaginable, often have their beginning with constipation of the bowels.

There is one treatment which has a direct and combined effect on the bowels, the liver and the kidneys and gets these organs into good working order in remarkably quick time, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They afford relief quickly but they do more than that. They positively cure constipation and insure lasting regularity of the bowels by setting the liver right.

Policeman Peter C. Morris, 19 Wascana Ave., Toronto, Ont., states:

"I was troubled for years with habitual constipation and have spent considerable in so-called remedies and can gladly say that I have been completely cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and shall be pleased to personally recommend them to any person who wishes to interview me."

It scarcely seems wise to trifle with medicines which merely afford temporary relief, when by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, you not only get prompt relief but also a thorough cleansing of the whole excretory system and lasting benefits by the restoration of the health and activity of the liver.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Private Company Preparing To Develop Burleigh Power?

According to Mr. R. J. McLaughlin's Letter Peterboro's Opportunity to Secure It is Rapidly Vanishing —Question is, Do Aldermen Want It?

MAY BE TAKEN UP

"What's the use of dreaming," some one said at the Council meeting last night when a letter was read from R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., solicitor for the Central Ontario Power Company, replying to the city's acceptance of an offer to supply the city with power at $11.60 a h.p. Any ideas that may have been held earlier in the year that Peterborough was going to have 4,000 h.p. from Burleigh have been dismissed since mid-summer.

Mr. McLaughlin has not entirely forsaken Peterborough although he intimates that a private company will develop Burleigh and distribute the power within a wide radius. The letter read to the Council was as follows:

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
City Clerk,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—I have your favour of Sept. 24, which I have delayed answering until I could consult with some of the parties interested. I presume in your letter that you refer to my letter of June 12th last when I estimated that it would cost a private company at least $4 per horse power more to develop and transmit Burleigh power to the city of Peterborough than it would cost the city by reason of extra expense which the company would be put to and which is in detail in the letter, over and above what the city would have to pay.

This estimate was also based upon a guarantee of the bonds of the company by the city which I do not understand by your letter of September 24th that your city proposes to do. Since that time and since your city allowed the second option to expire without carrying out the understanding arrived at with your council as to obtaining a report, we have made progress towards an arrangement for the development and operation of the power by private company and in such case we hope to have some part of the power to spare for Peterborough, but an additional cost of about $60,000 will give us a transmission line to Bowmanville, Oshawa and Whitby where there is a population at present of about 14,000 inhabitants at present depending upon steam power, and Oshawa especially being a very important manufacturing town and furnishes a large market for power. This line will be comparatively short following the C.P.R. to a point ten miles north of Bowmanville and dropping down to Bowmanville and following the Kingston road to Oshawa and Whitby. The company handling its own power at these points will give these towns a very favourable power rate and yet make a revenue far in excess of your city's offer.

Your city would also, it appears to me, do well to consider before entering into a contract for the whole of the power that we can develop at Burleigh. You may not need it all for four or five years. If you purchased the property out and out as explained to you before you could put in hydraulic and electrical machinery in units and only bring the power down as you require it.

If Peterborough wants a municipal power plant the only rational way to proceed about it is to buy it, develop it and own it yourselves. As far as Burleigh is concerned you have had it under consideration for quite a length of time, if your council do not decide to act very shortly the opportunity to acquire it will have passed.

The price we offered to you is exceptionally low. It will only amount to an annual rental of about $1.12 1-2 per horse power on a gross development of four thousand horsepower, while the government rental for other purposes on the same river is $2 per horse power for the gross development. Another syndicate in which we are interested is paying the government a much larger price per horse power for the power on the same waters not nearly so near the market than what we have been asking the city of Peterborough for Burleigh. Finally I would say if your city wants to act it should act immediately.

Yours truly,
R. J. McLAUGHLIN.

The Committee of the whole Council will probably take the matter up at an early date.

STORY OF THE SUCCESS OF A BOY WHO DID THINGS

In a New England town, not far from Boston, where the air is impregnated with the odour of boots and shoes, where the trodden and downtrodden of all lands procure their "under-standing," was born, not so many years ago, a [illegible] a boy baby, and his parents gave him the name of Bernard and by inheritance he was entitled to the name of Daly, and his chums as he grew up took an interest in him and named him "Barney." He could sing like a thrush and was always entertaining his friends and in great demand at social entertainments. His ancestry were Irish born, and to assume a brogue came to Barney as naturally as a duck takes to water, or a Dutch baby to beer. Barney was a great favourite with the girls, for he was good looking, nice tempered, and always a gentleman. He was a born mimic and actor, and in a vague way he had aspirations to make the actor's art a life profession. So denying himself many pleasures that appeal strongly to youth, he devoted his earnings to study and to cultivating the sweet tenor voice presented him by old mother nature. For three years he worked. (And for that matter has been working ever since.)

He first attracted attention in the dramatic world as the successor of Cy Olcott in Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead." Mr. Thompson was very particular in finding a voice to sing the tenor parts in the old ballads sung at the farm in Swansey. Mr. Daly filled the bill, not only in his singing, but in his acting. He sang ballads with minstrel companies, as many of our singing comedians have before him, but his heart and ambitions were toward the land and songs of his fathers and mothers, old Ireland. Some seasons ago we find this Barney Daly established as a star of some magnitude in the sky of dramatic success. He was the 'Dan O'Hara' in Joe Murphy's "Kerry Gow," a character made familiar to playgoers by Mr. Murphy himself.

Last season he starred in "Rory of the Hills," and successfully. But he dreamed of a romantic story of old Ireland, in which he would be the fun loving broth of a boy; and it grew and developed until it matured into "Sweet Innisfallen," a comedy drama full of love and romance, sorrows and sunshine. The scenes and action take place of the Island of Innisfallen," in the beautiful Lakes of Killarney, where the scenic artist can display his talent and "The Fairies' Glen," "The Ruined Abbey," "Fairlawn," and the green fields and mountains of Old Ireland.

With a complete outfit of scenery from footlights to back wall, this lad—now a grown man, from a New England city, but with a heart, a voice, a brogue, and the wit of Old Ireland, all blended in 'Barney Daly'—will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Oct. 20th, in his new play "Sweet Innisfallen," under the auspices of Div. No. 1, A. O. H. This is the simple story of the boy who could do things, and do them well.

THERE IS KEEN COMPETITION FOR PLACES ON LOCAL TEAM

All Kinds of Material in Line and Peterborough Fourteen Against Parkdale Canoe Club on Saturday Will be Strong—The Visitors Have a Crack Team, According to Toronto Press.

The Parkdale Canoe Club, which meets Peterborough in the first senior O.R.F.U. game at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon is being hailed by the Toronto press as the fastest team in the Queen City outside of the Varsity fourteen. The Star last night says that they are superior to the Argos of the Inter-Provincial Union and it begins to look as if Peterborough had a big task in front of the team when they clash with the Paddlers on Saturday. However, the locals under the coaching of Dr. MacPherson are showing nice speed in practice and will have to be counted upon to put up the hardest kind of a battle on Saturday. It promises to be one of the best games of Rugby seen here in years as the teams will be well matched in weight and in other points.

The personnel of the Peterborough team is by no means settled yet. There is the keenest kind of competition for almost every place on the lineup and so many men are out at the practices that there is a hard task in front of the management in selecting a team for Saturday. A number of new faces in senior company will be seen on the lineup. That much is certain as some of the youngsters who have been out have been showing such speed that they cannot very well be kept off the team. The men are in good condition and with the nightly practices this week will be in tip top shape for the struggle on Saturday.

The game will be called at 2.30 o'clock sharp and no doubt there will be a big crowd of Rugby enthusiasts on hand for the opening battle of the season. The Peterborough team will prove a surprise to local people, it is confidently expected when they line up on Saturday.

A DETROIT STAR PENNANT WINNER.

UTILITY INFIELDER CHARLIE O'LEARY.

HARD TO GET A LINE ON MEN IN THE EXAMINER RACE

Not two weeks of training are left for the contestants in the Examiner Road Race on Thanksgiving Day and most of the candidates are now putting in on the fine touches in their operations. The junior race this year promises to bring out all kinds of youthful runners judging by the way in which the names are coming in just now. Already nearly a dozen "kids" have entered whereas last year there were only two or three at this stage. Good prizes will be offered for the junior race and the youngsters are keen to win the event. The senior race will have a classy lot of starters among whom will be some dark horses who will bear watching. A number have been making splendid time in private trials over the course and if the weather conditions are favourable the record for the ten miles established by Ernie Wilson two years ago may go by the boards. At any event it will be a hot race and it is even harder than usual this year to attempt to pick the winners. There will be some new starters on whom it is impossible to get a line and some of the old runners will have undoubtedly improved since last year. It will be a great race that much is certain and the winner will have earned honours when he quits his long grind at the Examiner office on the morning of Thanksgiving Day.

The doctor says you have got to take Cod Liver Oil—if so, why not take it in the easiest and best form—why not take

Scott's Emulsion

That is what the doctor means. He would not force you to take the crude oil when he knows the Emulsion is better—more easily digested and absorbed into the system—and will not upset the stomach like the plain oil.

RUGBY

Despite the very bad weather there was a big turnout of the players of the Peterborough Rugby Club last night, and a lot of hard work was gone through, followed by a run. Among the players out were the following: Lund's captain; Dickson, O'Connor, Staunton, Davidson, Hickey, Hall, Ecclestone, Clarke, Doris, Campbell, Cahill, Richardson, Ray, Craig, Canniff, Gibson Geale, Harstone, Corkery, McKnight, and others. The team is rounding into good shape for Saturday's game with the Parkdale Canoe Club. Another practice will be held to-night and a full turnout is expected.

Peterborough will place a team in the Junior series of the O. R. F. U. and will be grouped with Lindsay, last year's junior champions. The secretary of the local club has written Lindsay suggesting that the Scugog team play here Thanksgiving Day and that the return game be played in Lindsay on the following Saturday. There is a vast amount of good junior material in the city which it would be a shame to allow to go to waste so that it has been decided to place a team in the junior ranks. The Peterborough Collegiate team will be called upon to supply a number of the players.

There will be a practice of the 57th Rugby team in the armouries to-night at 7.30 o'clock sharp. A full attendance of players is requested.

A FATAL EXPLOSION

Five Hundred Pound Pressure Boiler Causes Destruction of Building and Results In Burning of Brandon Shoe Co.'s Plant—Windows In Town Nearly All Shattered—Piece Went Through Shed.

Aylmer, Ont., Oct. 13.—A 500-pound pressure boiler in the combined electric and waterworks plant at Aylmer, exploded at 7.05 o'clock last night, killing one man, H. Fisher, and damaging considerable property.

The explosion was a terrific one, and shook the ground and buildings in the town, so that the residents at first thought they had been visited by an earthquake.

A large building nearby, owned by the town and occupied by the Brandon Shoe Co., was wrecked and burned.

When the fire broke out, no water could be obtained from the water works, but it was finally taken from the condensing works.

One piece of the boiler weighing many pounds was thrown into the air, and in coming down struck a two-storey barn owned by Dr. Augustine. It went through the building into the basement, missing the owner by less than three feet.

The boiler was situated in a hollow, and another piece was thrown up the hill, and was driven through a house occupied by Dr. Sinclair, and demolished the stove in the kitchen. About half of the windows in the town were broken.

It was at first reported that there was at least three persons killed, and perhaps six or seven, but this was finally found to be false.

Fisher, the man who was killed, was the night engineer. His remains were found underneath in a horribly mangled and burned condition.

Many of the citizens have suffered considerable damage to property either by the force of the concussion or by heavy pieces of iron from the boiler, which were hurled in every direction over the town.

The inability to procure water when the fire broke out in the Brandon Shoe Co.'s building, caused a great deal of fear on the part of the inhabitants. A strong wind was blowing and carried sparks and burning pieces of wood over the nearby buildings.

It is reported that the boiler was inspected only yesterday afternoon, and found all right.

The damage has not been estimated.

Turnkey Asked to Resign.

Brockville, Oct. 13.—Jailer McDougall and Turnkey Wright of the county jail have been at loggerhead over duties. Complaints made to Inspector Bruce Smith led to an investigation, and Wright yesterday was requested to resign before the 15th inst. Wright says he is not going out without a fight.

Edward Gilfillen, aged 21, injured several weeks ago by falling from a telephone pole, died yesterday from typhoid fever contracted in the hospital.

The Brockville lighting system was badly demolished by a storm which swept this district. In the rural section fences, silos and trees suffered greatly.

Guilty of Murder.

North Bay, Oct. 13.—In the Assizes, before Justice Riddell, Spanelli, an Italian, was found guilty of the murder of a Chinaman at Haileybury, last July. T. W. McGarry defended him at the request of the judge. The crown alleged that Spanelli and others had had supper at the Chinese restaurant, had refused to pay, and that when Ming Shew, aged 76, tried to detain Spanelli, he had stabbed him.

The defence was that Spanelli had not died and had been threatened by several Chinamen for refusing to pay. The prisoner seemed quite unconcerned.

HAYS IS NEW PRESIDENT

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson Retires on an Allowance, and His Duties as Chairman of the Board of Directors Will Be Taken by Mr. Smithers — Grand Trunk Has Had a Good Half-Year.

London, Oct. 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The G.T.R. report states that it is advisable that General Manager Hays should have the same rank as is accorded to the holders of positions similar to his on other railways in America, therefore he is to be appointed president and elected director, vice G. C. Glyn, resigned. Smithers is to be chairman of the board, holding the powers and performing the duties hitherto discharged by Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson. The board will continue to have the same control as hitherto over the administration. In order to recognize the services of Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson the general meeting will be asked to sanction an allowance to him of $7,500 yearly.

The report shows gross receipts for the half year of £3,858,463, against £3,854,787, working expenses being at the rate of 73.54 per cent., against 72.47, totaled £2,079,196, against £2,069,344.

The net revenue was £845,304, against £781,905, additional items bringing the net revenue receipts to £868,901; net revenue charges, including Canada Atlantic deficiency of £41,908 and Detroit and Grand Haven deficiency £25,748; total £639,289, leaving a surplus of £279,993, against £106,404.

The total amount available for dividend is £293,759, from which dividends are recommended on four per cent. guaranteed and first preference stock, which leaves a balance of £9,938 carried forward.

Train mileage decreased 281,354. There is a net revenue deficiency on Great Western of £13,883, against £2,846, but deducting this from surplus for the half year ending December, 1908, there remains a surplus for the year to June 30, of £10,440, which, added to £7,530 carried forward June, 1908, admits of the payment of full interest on the second mortgage bonds, with a balance left of £5,250.

Snow on the Ground.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—Despatches yesterday noted heavy snowfalls in Michigan and in western Nebraska the thermometer was down to 13 above zero. In the southwestern States there was a heavy frost.

Nearer home, there was a brisk snowfall in the Niagara peninsula, and the cool spell has endangered the vineyards. At Aurora the ground was white. At Niagara Falls there were wee; three inches of snow last night.

Talked With the Burglars.

Arnprior, Oct. 13.—A farmer named Featherstone, a few miles from here, declares that he talked yesterday with two of the three fugitive safe-crackers. They declared they would never be caught while they could shoot, and classed Gorman, now under arrest, as an amateur at the game.

Featherstone gave them bread and ointment.

Kingston Aldermen Withdrew.

Kingston, Oct. 13.—Seven aldermen withdrew from the City Council Chamber Monday night and left the meeting without a quorum, in order to prevent the bylaw imposing a tax of $50 on laundries from coming into effect forthwith. A bylaw to reduce the tax from $50 to $10 has been before council.

Appeals to King for Father's Life.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The daughter of Prof. Francisco Ferrere yesterday sent a telegram to King Alfonso appealing to the monarch's generosity and chivalry to save the life of her father. Ferrere has been convicted of instigating a revolutionary movement at Barcelona, Spain, and is to be shot to-day.

Every Gateman Discharged.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 13.—Charged with being organized into a syndicate with some of their superiors to steal money taken in at the gate, every gateman of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition was discharged last Saturday night.

DESCRIBES THE CRIME

In Bow Street Police Court, London, Edward William Bedfort Declares That He Was Bribed by a Stranger While Working in Toronto to Commit Crime—Stranger Said Miss Kinrade Jilted Him.

London, Eng., Oct. 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Edward William Bedfort appeared in the Bow street Police Court yesterday. He is six feet tall, with clear-cut features, stoutly built, with fair hair and blue eyes. He gave his age as twenty-one. His answers to the magistrate were clear and decisive.

Bedfort, confessing to Supt. Forest, said: "I committed the murder in Hamilton, Canada, last year by shooting Miss Ethel Kinrade. I have come to give myself up; I cannot stand the worry of it any longer."

Bedfort afterwards put his confession in writing, taking ten foolscap pages to tell his story. His statement was not read in court. A remand of one week was ordered. He claims to have been born in Minneapolis.

Forest believes Bedfort is crazy, and not really guilty. Chief Inspector Kydd also doubts him. In his confession he says the crime took place in summer, but yesterday he corrected this and said there was snow on the ground when he ran through the yard. Bedfort claims to have been working along the docks in Toronto.

In his confession he states that, so far as he could remember, the affair occurred in the summer of last year.

The man he met in Toronto was about 33 or 34 years old, five feet seven inches in height, of medium build, with ginger hair and heavy drooping moustache. The fair-haired stranger said:

"If you can keep a secret you learn in the next few days I will pay you well."

Bedfort replied, "I am willing to do anything if there is money in it."

The confession then gives an account of the negotiations between the two, the stranger saying that he wanted to kill Miss Ethel Kinrade for jilting him. He produced two revolvers, one a Mauser and the other an old-fashioned one.

Bedfort said: "Then you really mean to kill this girl?"

The stranger replied: "No, I want you to do that. That is the reason why I am going to pay you."

The stranger then gave Bedfort a lot of $5 and $10 bills and told him to buy a disguise. Bedfort says that he bought one black beard and two ginger beards, a black overcoat, and two black caps in the Jewish quarter of Toronto in a street turning off Queen, giving $2.90 for the lot. He then went to Hamilton, met the stranger, gave him the disguises except the overcoat. The stranger then dressed roughly like a tramp. The stranger took back all the money he had already given Bedfort as a security. He, Bedfort, was to do the work, the stranger promising him money to take him out of the country, and $400 in addition after the murder was accomplished. Bedfort was then given a ginger wig cap and was told to make himself look as much like a tramp as possible and was told to meet on Herkimer street "or something like that," next morning.

Here the mysterious stranger pointed out a corner house with a balcony. He told Bedfort to go there about 2.30 p.m. as only two girls would be there. He was told to demand money. When he went to the house he saw a man about twelve houses away, and subsequently came to the door of the house. Bedfort had the door opened to him by a dark girl, about 24 years old. She was frightened when he forced admittance and ran away; another girl came down stairs and at her he emptied a revolver.

He fire five shots. She fell. He ran through the house, escaped through a window at the back and caught a train about five o'clock for Toronto. He stayed over night at a cheap boarding-house near the station. He met the man the next afternoon, who told him he had killed the right girl and gave him a ticket for Montreal. He there received the money.

He got a ticket for England per the Laurentic in the name of Christopher.

The man never told me his name," added Bedfort, "and I have no idea how he can be found."

The man, however, gave him letters of introduction to two persons, one in Liverpool and one in London, Eng. The names he did not care to give, though he had called on both.

Through the high commissioner's office is in receipt of full particulars of the affair and the confession, the representative of the Canadian Associated Press on calling there was curtly told nothing could be imparted to him. Fortunately there were other sources of information, not so official, gave response to reasonable requests.

Wrights Are Pleased.

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 13.—"Thank God for that, old man, you have brought us the best news we have had for many a long day," shake," said Montrose Wright, husband of Florence Kinrade, to a reporter when shown a despatch stating that a man named Bedfort in London, Eng., had confessed to the murder of Ethel Kinrade.

Neither could tell anything as to Bedfort. Wright is about to take up the study of law.

Confession Does Not Clear.

Hamilton, Oct. 13.—The details of Edward William Bedfort's alleged confession in London that he is the murderer of Ethel Kinrade, tend only to further discredit his story in the eyes of the local police, although he is correct in some of the details of the crime as described by the dead girl's sister, Florence.

Bedfort's story scores most heavily in the matter of the false, heavy, drooping moustache that he says he wore. That was a point in the description of the murderer that Florence gave the police, in which she never faltered.

There are points in which there are discrepancies in Bedfort's story as compared with the facts known, and with Florence's story.

He says he committed the murder in the summer of 1908, whereas the crime was committed in February last.

The speaks of the Kinrade house as a corner house, when it is almost in the middle of the block.

He says he fired five shots; the police found eight or nine bullets.

He says he escaped through a window in the back of the house; the ground was covered with light snow and the only tracks in the back yard were those of a girl, so the police claim, and Florence says the murderer left by the front door.

The description of the man Bedfort says hired him to do the deed is about the description the police sent broadcast in printed form of the alleged murderer. It was the description Florence supplied the afternoon of the tragedy.

Didn't Sail on Laurentic.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—The steamer Laurentic, on which the man Bedfort claims to have booked passage within a few days of the Kinrade murder in February, sailed from here for the first time on May 18.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weakness, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

HEAVY COLDS

During the census year in United States there were nearly seventy-seven thousand deaths due to pneumonia, and although consumption leads this by 23,000, pneumonia is responsible for more deaths than diphtheria, scarlet fever, smallpox, and cancer combined. The trouble is that people are too careless about colds—let them run on—grow bigger every day—finally old pneumonia steps in.

The very best thing to keep handy in every household is Nerviline, which you can depend on for curing colds. It affords certain relief and a quick cure. It has more potency, greater penetrating and curative power than any other liniment.

Nerviline Not Only Prevents, It Quickly Cures

When a cold is starting, give the chest and throat a vigorous hand rubbing with Nerviline, gargle the throat with Nerviline, and take a good stiff dose in hot water, you'll be surprised how fast the cold will disappear. Of course the chest should be protected by a Nerviline Porous Plaster, which will absorb all congestion and inflammation. You won't need to fear pneumonia, Grippe, Bronchitis, or cold of any kind if you keep Nerviline handy.

OUR EXHIBIT of Pianos and Organs at the Fair and at our Show Rooms attracted great attention and admiration for their beauty of design, perfect action and purity of tone.
ONE MUSICIAN a graduate of one of the best colleges of music in Canada remarked that "The Newcombe Piano is one finest tone Pianos I ever heard.
OTHERS admired the tone of the Evans Bros.' Piano.
AND SOME others preferred the Sherlock-Manning—each and every produces perfect tones but of different qualities.
WE WOULD be pleased to discuss tone quality and Piano construction with you. There are reasons for different qualities and there are good, bad and horrible Pianos. Let us tell you about them before you buy.

Magnet vs. Dreadnought.

Naval Constructor Mollman, of the German navy, has taken out a patent for a device to destroy battleships of the Dreadnought class. Compared with this newest engine of war the Zeppelin dirigible airship, which aims, among other things, to drop explosives on an enemy's ships and towns, seems harmless. Hollman's device is an enormous dynamo-magnet capable of being charged up to 20,000 volts. With such a magnet, he says, he can attract by a magnetic power any battleship within a radius of seven miles. He believes that a magnet can be made powerful enough to attract a whole fleet of warships and draw them into shallow water, where they will run aground and be at the mercy of navy artillery ashore. Hollman declares most seriously that the amount of metal in the battleships of to-day will only intensify the force of his magnets. Anchors and the ships' engines will be powerless, he says, against the magnet's attractive force. The magnet, or a battery of them, should be established, according to the ideas of Naval Constructor Hollman, at the mouth of a river or in some favorable submerged position along the coast where the enemy could not readily detect it. The rest is easy. Along comes a hostile fleet to blockade a port or bombard a town or even steam up the river. The moment the ships get within magnet-range the operator in charge of the station turns on the power and the ships are drawn to the shore, to be captured or demolished.

There are dynamo-magnets in several of the German shipyards capable of lifting a dead weight of 50,000 pounds. The Hollman magnet is designed to lift a battleship.

Your Canary.

Don't forget to give your canary the best of water and seed every day. See that he has a good fish bone. Clean his cage every day. Keep him out of the hot sun and the glare of night lights and see that he has sunshine. Talk to him—talk to him with a kind voice. Let him out of the cage occasionally. We give crumbs of bread, soaked in milk lettuce, chickweed, a little piece of sugar, dandelion a little fruit, a nut and bits of good things and let him eat at noon, as his pleases. Remember he is a prisoner in confinement, dependent on you every day for health and life, and constantly strive to make him happy. A little ten cent looking glass will aid greatly to his happiness. Take care that neither sun nor other light reflected shall dazzle him.

The Patient Mule.

The kind-hearted woman was very solicitous about a certain mule belonging to Erastus Pinkley. The mule had a sad and heavy appearance and never looked more dejected than when its proprietor brought it up with a flourish at the front gate, says a writer in The Washington Star.

"Do you ever abuse that mule of yours?" she inquired one day.

"Lan' sakes, miss," returned Mr. Erastus, "I should say not! Dat mule has had me on de defensive fob de las' six years."

Devilfish.

Devilfish weighing up to 200 pounds are sometimes caught in Japan. These fish are amphibious. They are often seen wabbling on their tentacles like giant spiders in search of patches of sweet potatoes. The natives kill them with clubs. In the water they are caught in jars lowered to the bottom, which the octopus enters, thinking them a good retreat from which to catch its food.

Opening the Jar.

"Have you heard from Old Boomerang since she went home?" asked Mr. Tucker, putting his feet on the table.

"I want you to stop calling maloma Old Boomerang," said Mrs. Tucker. "What makes you call her that?"

"Why, I was just wondering when she was coming back, that's all," answered Mr. Tucker. "You needn't get sore about it."

The Word "Flasco."

"Fiasco" originally meant a bottle or a flask. When the Italian glassblowers detected flaws in the vases they were blowing they made an ordinary bottle of the failure, and hence the name.

Spices.

Ginger is the most wholesome spice, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg the most delicate, while allspice has a coarser flavor and one disliked by many. White mustard and celery seed give an appetizing flavor.

Nutshells.

Save nutshells in an old paper bag until some time when you want something to brown very quickly in the oven. Then throw them on the fire and get the full benefit of the quick, intense heat.

The Flathead Indians.

In 1832 four Indians of the Wallamet tribe, living on the Pacific coast, crossed the Rocky mountains and, traversing 3,000 miles of intervening wilderness, appeared at St. Louis. They had been sent by their nation to inquire about the white man's God.

An Order For the Grocer.

Good morning, Mr. Grocer Boy! My order you keep today.
My family nearly eight, though I've been away.
I want a pound of nice white flour and yeast to make some bread,
Ten pounds of currants for a cake, some icing powder red.
Of butter give me half a pound, of sugar most a ton,
I must make candy right away, before the morning's done.
Potatoes? Why, of course I don't. And codfish? Yes, indeed!
Tea interrupt and bother me. I know the things I need.

A quart of vinegar (positive brand), and flour, tea, and spices.
A pound of raisins—don't forget—it makes things taste so nice.
I want ten dozen fresh eggs, some evaporated cream
And apples, about a peck, or very many dumplings I must steam.
I'll take a box of sardines and chocolate, five cakes,
And fruit and cheese—such lovely things it makes!
Rice, honey, up and under, please. I want them very soon.
So I can get them all cooked up by luncheon time this noon.

Queen Wilhelmina as Peacemaker.

A pretty little story comes from The Hague of one occasion on which Queen Wilhelmina acted as peacemaker. The late king of Holland was, as is well known, a man of ungovernable temper, and when he was annoyed over anything it was quite useless to attempt to argue with him. On one occasion he was very angry over the manner in which one of the Dutch newspapers had criticised his actions. He refused to see his ministers and stamped up and down a corridor at his palace, storming and gesticulating, as was his wont.

The cabinet was becoming desperate, since some important papers demanded his immediate attention. It was left to one of the ladies of the court to solve the difficulty. She sent little Princess Wilhelmina, then about five years old, into the corridor to meet her father. She watched him for a moment unnoticed and then imitated his actions, stamping backward and forward, with her fists tightly clinched.

His majesty caught sight of her and was unable to help laughing as he paused to watch her. Half an hour later the premier found the king seated on the floor playing contentedly with his little daughter, to whom he was devotedly attached, and quite unruffled.—Dundee Advertiser.

A PAGE FOR MISSES

RAISING MONEY for CHARITABLE PURPOSES

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

EACH PERSON AUCTIONS HER OWN FLOWERS.

WHAT to do to raise money for charity is a question that recurs from time to time to most young girls, for nowadays almost all girls when still at school begin to take upon themselves some responsibilities of this sort. It may be that the girl's connection with charitable effort is through the junior organization of a hospital or day nursery. Other girls help to replenish with the parish work of the church of which they are members. Perhaps it is as a private benefactor that the girl figures. But there are very few girls, especially in the great cities, who are not engaged in some activity of this kind, and it is sometimes very difficult to devise new methods for raising money for these charities which shall not be impracticable or too exacting in point of time.

So much is now demanded of the girl who is in the enjoyment of a sound education, as well as the graceful accomplishments of social life, that there is really very little time left to the schoolgirl for anything which is absolutely unconnected with the normal outdoor exercises. For such a girl to be able to raise large charity funds without too great an expenditure of time, or even a certain kind of elaborate machinery of raising money may be attended to, can be done if it is, it is only in holiday time. But the modern schoolgirl finds herself able to devote certain times to elaborate affairs of this kind. Through the larger part of the winter time she finds it necessary to resort to simpler schemes for replenishing her charity purse.

ONE very good plan which has been found to work well by a group of schoolgirls in a large city is the sale of sachets to various acquaintances. This has many advantages, one being that the time necessary to prepare the sachets is very small and another that the product is marketable and continues to be on the customer's toilet table or bureau for a considerable time, thus keeping the customer steadily remaining a steady one.

In the instance referred to the sachets were made by a group of girls calling themselves the "Buds and Blossoms Circle" of a day nursery. The girls procured their sachet powder from a wholesale house, paying only wholesale prices. The greatest care was taken in the selection and mixing of the powder. There was no attempt to make silk bags, side or lingerie sachet bags, which would take quite a great deal of time, but instead all the sweet scent was placed in paper envelopes or ribbon pods, as is done in those sold at the chemists. For violet sachets there were deep violet envelopes, long and narrow or square-cut, with narrow gold cord and sealed with a large violet gold seal. For rose there were rose-flowered paper envelopes, made of wallpaper or flowered crêpe paper. Moire wallpaper was cut with satin ribbon sealed with gold seals made attractive envelopes. Striped wallpaper in pale blue and white tied with narrow rose ribbon and sealed with wax was made a most attractive envelope for French sachets.

It was great fun selecting the flowered papers, ribbons and wax, and the making of the envelopes is an affair of a few minutes. A faithful watching of stationers' shops also revealed many conceits in envelopes of charming taste which the stationer was glad to be rid of because of their top-heaviness in the present style.

WHERE the envelopes in a different quantity for a beginning had been made the girls sent out multiple advertising by desire for custom. The scale, the shops were consulted, of course, of prices based on that current in the leading chemists' shops and perfumers' for envelope sachets of the same scent was decided upon. These sachets are usually bought by the dozen or half dozen, as they are used very freely by many women who prefer to scatter them among their clothes than to use scented pads for their bureaus and boxes. The notices sent out were worded as follows:—

"For the benefit of the Sunshine Day Nursery we are prepared to supply an order of the very best quality sachets in attractive paper envelopes at the following prices:—

1 dozen large paper sachets	$5.00
½ dozen large paper sachets	2.75
Single large paper sachets	.50
1 dozen small paper sachets	2.50
½ dozen small paper sachets	1.25
Single small paper sachets	.25

"The sachets will be furnished in any desired scent and in any colors. The envelopes are of the usual proportions or long and narrow. Orders will be delivered one week after being received.

"The Buds and Blossoms Circle.
"Address MABEL PARKMAN,
"Secretary and Treasurer.
"Fifth avenue."

These notices were typewritten on attractive note paper and sent through the pupils of the older sisters, mothers and other women acquaintances of the members of the circle. Most persons will be found willing to patronize such an effort because the sachets offered are necessary to every woman and the prices asked are no more than those which are received for the same articles in shops for custom. The scale, the shops were consulted, of course, be perfection, but it will be found possible to furnish a product of the very best quality when the materials are bought at wholesale and still make a large profit.

To make the paper sachets the powder must first be placed in a plain envelope a little smaller than the outer one. Around this is wrapped a thin layer of cotton. A piece of cardboard, not too stiff, of the size of the smaller envelope, may be enclosed with it to give stiffness to the sachet.

FLOWERED crepe paper and the small flower bordered doilies which come in this material will also be found useful for making odd shaped envelopes.

If girls do not care to enter into a plan which will have to be carried on through the season, or at least for several weeks, but wish instead to make some money by a single affair, a sachet sale may be substituted for the other plan. This would, of course, last only one afternoon or evening and has been found popular in girls' schools. Both the paper sachets and those of more elaborate styles, in lingerie, &c., are made for the sale, which should be included sachets for the carriage, for wearing into gowns, for the pocket, &c. The most attractive way to decorate elaborate sachets of silk, satin, brocade or paper is to use a little French engraving, bordering or framing it in a narrow gold baloon.

In girls' schools, whether boarding or day schools, there are few more popular ways of making money than by candy sales. It is sometimes that every one wants candy, no one minds spending the money for, as is the case when at bazaars various articles of fancy work, odd knickknacks, &c., for which one has really no use, are thrust upon one. Candy sales are not apt to be a success, however, unless the amateur confectioner makers have had enough experience to know how to make good candy at comparatively little expense. In boarding schools those who wished to make money for their charities have had success by making some special kind of candy—old fashioned chocolate creams, molasses candy, &c., to order. A notice posted in the hall to the effect that the A B C Society will make cream chocolates by order every Saturday, at a stated price, is usually all that is necessary to call out sufficient custom to keep the girls busy. This method precludes the possibility of any loss to the young candy makers. When a candy sale is held it is necessary to have several kinds of candy, most of which should be home made. There is, of course, a possibility of loss in this, but as a rule the money can be more than gotten back by auction even if the sale falls on a rainy day.

ENGLISH girls have found flower auctions a pleasant way of raising money for their pet charities. The auctions call for a fairly large attendance if they are to be amusing as well as profitable. The promoters of the auction are put to no expense, and the fees of admission may be arranged to suit the prosperity of the patrons.

Every one who comes to the auction pays an entrance fee and brings also a flower wrapped in tissue paper and completely concealed from view. The flowers may be real or artificial and a single blossom, an entire bouquet or a potted plant may be used. Each person auctions her own flower and does so by holding up her paper covered flower and quoting from some author, either poet or prose writer, a description of the flower, not mentioning the name, of course, or using a hackneyed or delightful description which will reveal the secret.

Every person is also given a chance to guess what the flower is, and the person who guesses correctly receives the flower. If the entrance fee to the sale is not considered sufficient, a fee may be charged every person who guesses at the auction of each flower. This should be a small sum, of course, five cents or ten being quite enough.

If a flower is not guessed the first time it is put up, it is held over and put up again, with a further description, the small fee being exacted again from all who wish to enter the competition.

When all the flowers have been properly disposed of the money is counted and the person who has given the money is given a small prize.

Tea and cakes, ices, candy and small articles of fancy work may also be sold at the flower auction and will prove an additional source of revenue.

AMATEUR dramatics offer a most amusing way of raising money for charity, which is very popular with school girls. In almost every school there are one or more girls with genuine dramatic gifts, and if these are not members of the group which wishes to raise money they are usually quite willing to lend their services. In preparing entertainments of this sort school girls should be content with simple efforts and with affairs which will cost little or nothing to arrange. Floral masques, pageants, elaborate entertainments given at fashionable hotels are all very well for older folks who have unlimited time and money to give, but too often after an immense expenditure of both it is found that because of bad weather, conflicting social engagements, &c., the returns are entirely inadequate and the whole affair from a practical point of view is very disappointing. It is usually possible for girls to secure gratis the use of the school assembly hall or gymnasium or of some similar room in the charitable institution which they wish to benefit.

There is no necessity of having tickets printed, and announcements may perfectly well be typewritten, most girls being able to have this done in the office of some masculine member of the family. It has usually been found also that the greatest success is obtained where the sketch or play selected to be performed requires the simplest stage setting and such costuming as may be achieved without expenditure of much money or time. It is not wise either to select a play that is too difficult of performance, because this will be too much of a tax upon the girls' time.

The rehearsal of the play is, of course, immense fun, as is the preparation of the costuming and stage setting as long as nothing too taxing is attempted.

AS for the performance itself, it is doubtful whether the shrewdest professional entertainment could give more amusement to an audience than does the average amateur dramatic presentation to the gathering of relatives and girl and boy friends. If there are girls who make particularly good candy this may be sold between the acts, and at an afternoon performance there may be tea and cakes.

Paper doll making is an industry at which many young girls who have some slight talent for drawing or painting in water color will find that they can make quite a large sum of money for their charitable work. Patronage for this branch of industry must come from the little sisters and cousins who are still interested in dolls or from their relatives and friends. A sale of paper dolls and their wardrobes, as usually have plenty of patronage, as it is well advertised among a large circle of older people and children, and the original cost will be slight. Moreover, the dolls, if left over, can be disposed of after the sale, so that there is no possibility of loss.

Hand painted paper dolls are considered dainty trifles by connoisseurs in this line and almost all girls who have the knack of painting even a little will be apt to possess sufficient materials to begin on. All sorts of dolls can be made, young lady dolls, fashionable matrons, infants, little girls and boys, young men and older gentlemen, nurse maids, fat cooks, chesquires betters, &c. The small fry interested in this sort of thing are not hypercritical as to the artistic purity of the paper doll individuals, provided there is a good deal of pink and white prettiness and a sufficient number of costumes.

Much sort of costumes may have a trunk to go with it made of a candy box covered with brown paper and appropriately painted, or if it is preferred to keep the clothes in a wardrobe this piece of furniture may be made of a blank book with slits cut in the pages through which the costumes are thrust. The sale of paper dolls and their clothes should be very widely announced for at least two weeks before it is held and it should take place in a very convenient locality on a Saturday morning or afternoon. Very simple dolls, such as the little girl patrons may be permitted to cut, may also be sold, but for the mammoth and oldest friends there may be other refreshments. This paper doll sale is particularly attractive for the young girls' booth at some large bazaar. Naturally it will have more custom there than when held alone. A group of girls may also make a small steady income for their pet charities by making these dolls to order.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"MISS SERENA PLACIDE is the most delightful guest whom I have entertained this year," observed the April Grandmother when the last member of her week end party had taken her departure. "I longed her to visit a month with us, but she has more invitations than she can accept, and quite naturally, too, as a girl of the mental type is thoroughly appreciated by hostesses of every age and disposition. She does not have any tempers, never attempts to talk exclusively, because she never permits herself to get uncultivated," remarked the April Grandmother. "Yet, although she does not volunteer, she can her self-love she admitted to me that a natural reserve [illegible] made it necessary for her to husband her vitality instead of recklessly expending it. No matter what may be the temptation to forego a half hour's rest between breakfast and luncheon and luncheon and dinner, she never gives way to it, for she realizes that the result of physical and mental fatigue is to draw faint lines upon the face as well as to leave upon the disposition, and that while these marks do not greatly mar a young girl's beauty and charm they are certain to deepen each year and gradually rob her of all attractiveness.

"Miss Placide declares that in order to obtain adequate rest twice a day she must practice absolute relaxation of mind and body. Consequently she looks forward to her own room, opens the window wide, draws down all the blinds, and lies down at full length with her feet as high as her head, eyes closed, arms outstretched and every muscle absolutely relaxed. It also has plenty of time at her disposal when dressing and undressing and takes the place from that hour, because the absence of all these artificial aids usually in the retiring process [illegible] the prospect of the enhanced [illegible] her thoughts any unpleasant occurrences or remarks, and dwells upon something that is agreeable, but not humorous, as that would tend to make the brain active. The thing seems of small help her to get better control of her facial muscles so that to such she should fall asleep her forehead and mouth would not be distorted by jealous or pettish lines. Consequently when she awakes her face is smooth, her eyes are bright and her mind serene. Then, because she is conscious of looking well and is feeling rested, her natural inspirer is to smile graciously upon and speak tactfully to every one whom she encounters. That is why she always has something pleasant to say when she enters a room, is ready to do whatever her hostess suggests and can move about with quiet, deliberate grace instead of noisy, hasty awkwardness.

"The nervous girl who tries to rest while her eyes are wide open, her muscles cramped and her brain tense is wasting time, for even if she should fall into a fitful doze she is bound to awaken from it with aching limbs and a doleful facial expression, and to manifest a disconcerted frame of mind, which will certainly be reflected in her voice and manner. She will prove a worry to her hostess and a bore to her acquaintances, whereas if she would only persist in practising the art of perfect relaxation the reward would probably be perennial youth as well as the personal popularity which belongs to all 'restful' women."

Handsome Bags for Every Practical Purpose.

LEAF gold kid is one of the handkerchief pocket materials which appeals strongly to the fancy of school girls. The convenient little pockets are made up on metal frames in the fashionable oblong shades and are almost as flat as an envelope, yet have an ample aperture. These receptacles are equipped with a small change purse with duplicate compartments for bank notes, bills and flat manicure tools. The same design is developed in rajah of natural tone and dark colors, in gold or silver cloth, in pigskin and in levant leather. In English morocco are substantial handkerchief pockets with rounded bottoms and square tops. These close at one side with a flap of gilt, silver or gun metal.

A novelty in handkerchief pockets lately brought from Paris is in the form of a crush suede bag having suede covered single handles attached to a gold bracelet. Other wrist bags of this order are of gold and silver tinsel knitted in chevron pattern, of genuine gold and aluminum mesh, of fine jet worsteds, of mail pockets and of the chain veil beads woven into mounted [illegible]. All the same order are hand-[illegible] with a chain mixed jet but-[illegible] owing to a jet chain from a jet [illegible] of bead bags suspended by five [illegible] of leather from an extension metal bracelet, of black leathery dark lined patent kid and dull and English morocco attached to bracelets of matching material and of gun metal mesh equipped with a gun metal charm and [illegible]. Many bags of this character have [illegible] trimmings and one antique model has tiny open pockets attached to a frame of colored leather.

Solely for the house are handkerchief pockets of hand embroidered white batiste linen in envelope and flatiron shapes, of two [illegible] of filet, Irish or Italian lace joined on three sides, top closed with a crochet button and suspended by a twisted linen cord and of triangle shape made of fancy silk, ribbon bound and handled.

Drill and velour shapes prevail among shopping bag novelties. A practical model in reindeer belt, which comes in all the fashionable street suit shades, is accordingly capacious and fitted with twin purses of matching leather. A large hobo shape bag is equipped with five inner purses for coin, cards, jewels, powder puff and bank notes respectively. These five purses are of graduated size, set one within another, and attached to side bars extending to the fancy hinged points of the bag frame proper.

Among suede bags are some of basket shape, confirmed in wicker effect and equipped with place leather handles and interior purses. Some of the balloon order, made over metal frames, are decorated with [illegible] or small jet ornaments, which are quite effective against the natural tint of the suede.

In pigskin are bags with bellows bottoms lined and fitted with tiny coin purses and card cases of the fashionable red morocco, and a somewhat similar model is developed in black patent kid, India seal and English morocco. They are lined with black, taupe or gray leather, have two strap handles and are ornamented with a large gilt initial in old English type. Sometimes these attached initials or monograms are in metal frames of from one and a half to three inch dimensions.

In the fashionable brown shades, and especially in khaki, are leather grain bags of oblong shape. They have rounded corners and their frames are concealed by extended side flaps which give them a square appearance at the top. Suede covered bags of this order have soft, flexible edged flaps set two inches from either side of the top bar and fastened in with gold rivets. Some of the three-[illegible] have bound into the frame with [illegible] a gilt fringe, which is [illegible] length of the bag and completely [illegible] it, while others have short fringe inserted into the bottom and the sides. Also of this short order, and quite effective, are the large machine made bead bags finished with two inch deep bead fringe of black and white, mingled with gold and silver.

A feature of the autumn shopping bag is the tab extending over the leather covered metal frame from back to front and equipped with an ornamentally etched or a plain metal name plate for initial engraving.

The newest shopping bag handles are of French snake metals, but a great many of cord are employed. The cord handles are in long double strands, either braided flatly or twisted, and owe much of their popularity to the fact that they allow the bag to swing more gracefully from the arm than if it were suspended by a shorter handle. Meantime the cord may be cut out for its entire length or knotted into a loop within a few inches of the top.

Amethyst pins fair to be the fashionable shade for shopping bags during the coming winter, which is fated will be the mauve and violet hues, plum, moss, olive and dull greens, golden brown and dark tans, taupe, pearl and pale gray; a few of the drapes tints and the blue of the lapis lazuli.

Automobile and toilet bags are being made up in a variety of novel and attractive leathers. Pigskin comes in brown, taupe, gray and gray; [illegible] morocco in black, brown and wistaria; sheepskin in tortoise grain in gray, brown and two shades of gray; mottled pigskin in three distinct tones of tan and cowhide of Oriental grain in natural, black and brown. These bags are of square and oblong shapes with stiff or flexible bottoms and morocco linings of richly toned red, blue, green and violet.

They have leather covered mountings and handles, or metal frames with leather or chain handles. In the herringbone grain leather are smart looking bags of flat, square shape appliqued with patent kid which, crossing the top of the frame, envelopes in [illegible] leather lined pockets. The same model is used for rather elaborate bags of gunmetal brocade cold and black patent kid inside over rose gold silver flowers. All patent kid bags of roomy size have tan leather strap handles and linings of red, tan, blue or taupe morocco. There are also attractive looking affairs in imitation seal skin or walrus lined with soft leather, or buffed calf alligator in brown, taupe and gray lined with kidskin pelt, and of vachette and seal-skin with calf covered frames, handles and linings.

MATINEE and carriage bags are more than ever ornate, as gold and silver plated paper or tapestry into their composition. Some of the most attractive looking bags in metal cloth are effectively decorated with [illegible] embroidery of the Louis XV. period, have flat bottoms lined with a [illegible] silver and are equipped with two tiny receptacles composed of gold bottle and designed to hold change and a powder puff.

Suede bags lined with leather of pearl in contrasting colors are [illegible] shape, have pockets on each inner side and a vanity mirror set under an ornamental flap. Some very smart looking bags in walrus leather made over extension frames are equipped with gilt metal locks and keys, are lined with suede silk of delicate shade and are fitted with tourists' interior pockets, with silk elastic thread upper edges, designed to accommodate a silver card case, change purse, visiting-card and silver backed mirror.

Fancy [illegible] are used for the more ornamental [illegible] and carriage bags. Some [illegible] are large bits of tapestry, turquoise, fresh water pearl or coral are [illegible] into richly etched or engraved hammered metal frames with pierced edges to which a fringe bag can easily be attached. Many of these same sort of carved or [illegible] and wooden beads in colors matching the [illegible] combination of the frame. Frequently beads of matted large size, of [illegible] colors are mingled with [illegible] of oxidized silver and gold.

Another type of matinee and carriage bag is equipped with ribbon drawn instead of with chain handles attached to a metal frame. It is made of [illegible] silk, changeable lined and fitted with interior pockets for opera glasses, purse and a vanity mirror of looking glass fitted with [illegible] powder sheets.

Many Styles of Tailored Belts

TO accompany the tailored shirtwaist of the college girl silk belts of fine, soft leather in [illegible] shades of green, violet, blue and navy. The leather girth is folded softly, ornamented along each edge with a fine design in steel and jetted with a similarly designed leather covered buckle.

Suede belts are of crush width, fastened with silver gilt clasps, of narrow stripe of the pelt laid over a silk band of a contrasting hue or cut out in [illegible] design and outlined. They fasten blindly with a hook or have a pointed clip and pendant and with a single colored rosse.

Braune leather belts with gilt buckles are considered good style with a tailored shirtwaist, as are also those of silk rubber lightly studded with cut steel, equipped with oxi steel buckles, or of tailored suede leather with a leather covered buckle.

Patent leather belts are only smart when [illegible] tailored and dressed with buckles of copper or brass. Any attempt to embellish such belts gives them an ordinary appearance, although there are a few attractive looking models in white and black and black and white.

Real belts are exceptionally popular. They are of English morocco, leather and silk ribbing in brilliant carmine, deep crimson and French rose, made up in crush or stiff style, tailored, set-out or nail studded and arranged to close blindly, or with large oval or square buckles of gun, gold or silver, sometimes bearing a monogram.

Lanceolate belts are of hand embroidered heavy linen with strap frames and pearl buckles, and of heavy cord, embroidered and so shaped that they fit gracefully over the hips. Both types of wash belt are in white as well as in the prevailing tones of gray, blue, green and violet, and some of them are ornamented at the back with three large buttons of dulled or polished metal.

The most practical plan for a schoolgirl to adopt in regard to her belts is to have several really handsome buckles on which belts may easily be shifted from one strip of leather or ribbon to another. There are most attractive buckles of dull and oxidized silver, delicately chased or elaborately hand wrought; plain discs and narrow ovals or squares of burnished gold and French gray metals set with agate scarab, cut amethysts and a variety of [illegible] stones.

GRAND RALLY

BOYS

THE

EXAMINER

WE WONDER if it ever occurred to the boys of Peterborough that the selling of papers was a stepping-stone to a successful business career in future years.

DO they recognize the fact that this little business offers them an opportunity to

MAKE

100 Per Cent ?

or in other words, to double the money invested in selling the EXAMINER to transient buyers.

BOYS buy the EXAMINER at one cent each and sell it for two cents each ; or in the case of weekly patrons, they pay six cents per week and receive ten cents from the subscriber, thus making a profit of 66 2-3 per cent.

DO you know of any business in the city that pays such profits with as little chance for bad debts ?

IT only requires a Boy to HUSTLE, the same thing that is required when he gets into a bigger business world.

OF course we do not mean to say that the Boy, to become a successful business man, must be a newsboy, but we do say that the successful newsboy has gained an experience that is of much service to him in after years.

MONEY IN NEWSPAPER ROUTES.

Another boy was only thirteen when his father died, leaving two hundred dollars insurance, a widow and four younger children. The insurance money was loaned out to a neighbour at six per cent., as a sort of reserve fund, and while the widow did plain sewing, the boy carried newspapers morning and evening. After three months' experience with this work he borrowed twenty-five dollars and purchased the smallest newspaper route in town. Vigorous canvassing for new customers made that route so productive that in six months he paid back the loan. The lender offered another loan of fifty dollars, which the boy took, buying two more routes. These were covered by boys hired to do the work, however, because he felt that all his energy must go into the original route, so that he would at least be certain of good returns from that. Principles of management learned by this plan made him so successful that in less than five years he owned every newspaper route in his town. His mother's two hundred dollars was still intact, and his brothers and sisters going to school. A legacy of two hundred dollars fall to the family. This, with the original two hundred dollars and another hundred the boy had saved, was paid on a home costing twenty-eight hundred dollars, the balance to be cleared off at the rate of twenty-five dollars a month. Three furnished rooms were rented at a total of about twenty-two dollars monthly, and this money, it was agreed, should never be spent. Newspaper routes, odd jobs and the mother's contributions kept the family and paid the instalments. In four years the income from furnished rooms, put away in the bank, grew to more than one thousand dollars. The mortgage was finally cleared off, and the boy, now nearly twenty-one years old, started to get an education at the high school.

THERE are a number of Boys in Peterborough making four and five dollars per week, not necessarily all selling the Examiner, but some easily make three dollars per week selling the Examiner exclusively.

Boys! Be Boys of Business

Get in the game. It won't hurt you, but will give you a right start. You will have money of your own to save or buy useful needs with.

BOYS ! Take your spare time between four and six o'clock and see what success you will have between now and Christmas.

NEWSBOYS' BONANZA

Boys, figure this proposition out for yourselves. Be ambitious. Good newsboys are always taken care of and recommended for future positions.

Dissolution This Week.

London, Oct. 13.—The dissolution of Parliament this week, marking the opening of the fight for the abolition of the House of Lords, is believed to be probable by many leading politicians today.

Lord Lansdowne, Mr. Balfour, and Premier Asquith were in conference with the King yesterday in rapid succession, and politicians generally are inclined to think that the interviews foreshadow a startling development in the budget fight.

The King returned to London Monday evening, foregoing his contemplated trip to the race meeting at Newmarket, to be prepared for just such an emergency as now seems imminent.

Both Lord Lansdowne and Balfour are strongly opposed to the proposed financial program, with Premier Asquith just as staunchly arrayed on the other side. The fact that men of such widely divergent political views have been called into conference by the King is believed to indicate that the King's insistence on a compromise may yet be effective.

The King is much opposed to having the country plunged into an election at the present time.

Premier Asquith and Chancellor Lloyd-George have both quitted the political arena for the remainder of the week, the former taking a holiday at Sandwich and the latter making a motor trip to Normandy. The King also has departed from London to attend the Newmarket race meetings, so that it is not likely that there will be any development in the budget crisis until next week.

The suggestion of recourse to a referendum appearing in The Times meets with the sympathy of neither party.

Bank Buys Railway.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—A cable yesterday from Valdez, Alaska, announced that the Alaska Central Railway had been purchased for the Sovereign Bank by F. C. Trumbett, who had gone up to inspect the property some weeks ago.

The Sovereign Bank were bondholders in this proposition to the extent of $2,400,000, the total issue against the railway being $4,000,000. By the present purchase, the bank will become owners of the road at a cost of the first investment of $2,400,000, and the present purchase price of $600,000, a total of $3,000,000.

It could not be learned yesterday what the object of the bank in connection with the property was, but it is generally thought that the railway will be financed through to a measure of completion, and then disposed of as a going concern.

Sues For Leg.

Orangeville, Oct. 13.—The Dufferin fall Assizes opened yesterday, Mr. Justice Teetzel presiding, with two civil cases only. The first is that of a farmer, Joseph Walker of Markdale, vs. the C.P.R. In getting off a train, he alleges, that it started without warning and he lost a leg. W. E. Raney, K.C., is acting for Walker.

Walker said he always celebrated the 12th of July, although not an Orangeman. He had three drinks of lager before leaving Markdale, where he had been given a flask of whisky almost empty, but said he did not taste it. He had been helped on the train at Saugeen Junction, after having fallen off the steps. A claims agent had gotten him to sign a statement, stating that it was his own fault. Witness could not read or write, therefore he stated that he was misled by the agent, who claimed to be a Government man looking into these accidents to see that he got justice. The case continues to-day.

To Pay Scott's Expenses.

London, Oct. 13.—At a meeting at the Mansion House, presided over by the Lord Mayor, and attended by a number of other prominent persons yesterday, it was unanimously agreed to support the fund recently proposed for the equipment of the South Pole expedition of Capt. Robert F. Scott. A subscription list was opened which Sir Edgar Speyer headed with a contribution of $5,000.

Capt. Scott was present, and said: "The country need never fear that its dignity will be lowered by this expedition. We may fail, but there will never be any cause to fear that our story will be doubted."

Boy Starving to Death.

Kingston, Oct. 13.—Norman Dafoe, the three-year-old nephew of Dr. Dafoe, Madoc, Ont., is likely to die of starvation.

About six weeks ago the child swallowed a spoonful of lye and since that time he has been subsisting on liquids, his throat having become closed. He was brought to Kingston on Monday to receive treatment from a specialist. His throat has been temporarily opened and a rubber tube inserted through which the sufferer will be fed on liquid food. The specialist has grave fears that the child will ultimately starve to death.

Will Send More Missionaries.

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—The Methodist Mission Board yesterday adopted the report of the China sub-committee of the foreign work committee, recommending the taking over of the London Missionary Society's plant at Chung King. It also provided that ten million people be the maximum number for whom the board would accept responsibility in China.

For 594 missions, compared with 586 last year, the estimates are $346,003, including an increase of $25 to 264 missionaries. The Young People's Forward Movement reported assets $13,281 and liabilities $2,336. Grants were made as follows: Literature, $6,000; summer schools, $600; other expenses, $2,000.

Provision is being made to place 70 new missionaries in China and Japan in the next five years.

In Alberta and Saskatchewan the proposal is to increase gradually during five years until there are 100 in each of these provinces. An increased expenditure of $100,000 for new domestic missions is anticipated and $125,000 for foreign will be the position five years hence.

Czar's Secret Visit to Italy.

Rome, Oct. 13.—The coming visit of Emperor Nicholas to King Victor Emmanuel has excited the liveliest speculation here, owing to the impenetrable mystery concerning the arrangements. The King has ordered a state banquet at Racconigi for Thursday, so that the Emperor must have already begun his journey.

A Nervy Doctor.

PETERBOROUGH MAY BE TERMINUS OF A DIRECT LINE TO THE NORTHWEST

ADVANTAGES AND CONTRA

This the proposed Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway of the C. P. R. system is occupying the attention of the citizens of Peterborough was demonstrated last night by the large number of prominent business men and influential property holders who assembled at the Council Chamber to hear the question discussed by the members of the Ontario Legislature representative at the Conference. Mr. Leonard was unable to be present but he delegated Mr. J. Oborne, General Superintendent Woodchuck, the Company's proposition.

Mr. Oborne [illegible] spoke. The extension of the main line, he began has reached a point where a decision must be made as to whether it will join the [illegible] at Peterborough or take the more direct route to Havelock. It will be cheaper to make the junction at the latter village but as Peterborough is the more important place it is preferable that this city be selected. Some of the streets in the West end of the city are to be closed according to the plans and in that a subway will be provided on the Monaghan Road where the line crosses it at Homewood avenue. Another subway will be placed where the line again enters the city near Frank street in the South end and a third is proposed where Stewart street south crosses the tracks. Because of the law that trains must not block a crossing [illegible] stated there five minutes and as there will be many trains on the new line which will occupy the tracks particularly near Park street for longer intervals than that prescribed it is necessary to close some of the streets in the south end, in addition to those in the west end. The Monaghan Road between Homewood Avenue and McDonnell street is to be slightly diverted.

Ask For Water Front

The company also asks the city to give them the property known as the water front. Much of this has yet to be filled in but the company will fill that in. It is proposed to erect freight sheds there, the present sheds being forced to increase the yard capacity to accommodate the additional freight that will be handled here. The junction will necessitate additional yards.

Mr. Sullivan in his remarks said that the company wished to secure the most will of the public. Interests in the [illegible] mutual. He gave a few figures in connection with the road that are of interest. The line is already built from Victoria Harbour to Coldwater Junction. The distance by way of Havelock from Victoria Harbour is one mile and a [illegible] shorter than through Peterborough. The cost of construction by the direct route to Havelock will be between $450,000 and $500,000 cheaper than if the junction were made at Peterborough.

Ward Cheapest Route

The company does not desire to come into Peterborough as proposed if an easier and cheaper junction can be secured. The route affords the easiest grades and if a better way can be found a few miles west of Peterborough, the company is anxious to discover it. Engineer F. A. S. Hay stated that years ago when surveying for the Missing Link Line, work in which he was engaged, there was a route proposed several miles West of Peterborough. Mr. Sullivan stated that he would send an engineer to accompany Mr. Hay in looking over it and if it was better or even as good it would be the preferable route. The company did not wish to inconvenience the citizens, and they certainly would be glad to find a route which would not cost them the heavy indemnities that would have to be paid by coming through a part of the West end.

The Proposed Route

As already stated in the Examiner through the letter Mr. Leonard sent the Council, the proposed entrance to the city is near Jackson's Park. The line crosses Smith street, not a great distance from the Monaghan Road. It [illegible] south [illegible] until it meets the Western boundary line, Monaghan Road, near Homewood avenue. It follows this road south cutting through the Hutton, Braithwaite and other properties passing in front of Mr. H. Waddell's house and then makes a detour through what is known as Dyerville crossing the boundary again at Frank street and entering the city [illegible] the junction with the main line in the vicinity of Parnell street.

Among the streets shown the closing of those referred to where the railway cuts through them. In the south end these affected are Chamberlain street, Rink street, and Stewart street, all within a few hundred yards from each other. In order to cross the tracks to go south at this point a subway is proposed on Elgin street from the Shovel factory to the Peterboro Weaving Company's factory on Stewart street. Park [illegible] instead [illegible]

PROS AND CONS OF DISCUSSION

The chief disadvantage, as pointed out by Mr. D. W. Dumble, is the presence of a busy railway through the heart of one of Peterborough's best residential sections. It means another vein in the web of railways that cut through the city.

In Mr. Wm. Langford's words, the gift of the river front, south of the Quaker Oats Co., is a serious question. Cities that have given away their water fronts, he said, have always regretted it in later years.

According to Mr. Oborne, an advantage Peterborough will gain by the junction of the new grain route here is the fact that this city will be the terminus of a direct line to the North West. This, he considers, is a decided attraction to manufactures seeking locations for their establishments.

Over two million dollars will be spent here in the construction of the work.

Another spoke will be added to the city's wheel of railways.

[illegible] continuing on Park street as at [illegible] a vehicle would have to turn to the east a short distance and get around again on to Park street south, through this subway. The road to St. Peter's cemetery and Lakefield is not affected as the nearest route along Albert street is unlocated. Nor does Chamberlain street suffer as Lafayette avenue connects with Albert street. This was all explained by Mr. Sullivan who stated that but very little inconvenience would be caused by the closing of the streets already mentioned.

In the West End

Referring to the streets in the West end, he said there were but few houses between the proposed line and the boundary and it meant a comparatively short circuitous route for a few residents to get down town. Walnut, Cedar, Elm, Bonsecord and one or two others were affected. The time to adjust matters was the present in order to avoid further trouble. By avoiding errors now the company would not have to pay for them in the future. Speaking of the grade within the city Mr. Sullivan stated there would be a rise of ten feet at Elm street and a fall [illegible] 7 or 8 feet at Weller [illegible] Dan McDonnell street it would be level with the road.

The proposed line by the Peterborough route will cross the G.T.R. at grade about two miles north west of the city near Lily Lake.

Opinions of Citizens

A number of citizens spoke on the question. Mr. D. W. Dumble said that the people were of the opinion that the company was coming to the city and cutting through a fine residential section unnecessarily. Peterborough wants the railway, wants it very much but the Council should take precautions to see that an entrance is made, causes as little harm as possible. It was not a question of closing a few streets. It was the presence of a railway with its puffing, "snorting," dirty engines constantly passing through one of the best parts of the city. That was the objection. Mr. Dumble had no hostility towards the railway. He was anxious to have it come here but he did not like the idea of entering by the proposed route.

G. W. Hatton

Mr. Hatton stated that the line cutting through the city as proposed would not be very desirable as the section cut up is one of the best in Peterborough.

The city needed the railway and as the matter was purely a business proposition Mr. Hatton suggested a committee be formed to confer with the railway company. He suggested that members of the Council, Board of Works and business men comprise the committee.

Mr. W. C. Austin was opposed to the proposition. He could not see what advantage would be gained by merely being on the grain route. If we were getting large repair shops, etc., he would think more seriously of the matter.

Mr. T. H. G. Denne said the new line would be a great benefit to the manufacturers here. They would be able to get first call on cars.

He would like to see the city entered by another route than that planned.

Mr. G. Walter Greene considered that Peterborough should endeavour to get as many railways as possible.

Mr. Y. Eastwood said it appeared to him that if it was possible to get a route further West to take that and if it cost more that the city pay a portion of the extra cost.

Ald. Mooney and Phelan moved that the thanks of the council be tendered Mr. Oborne and Mr. Sullivan for attending the meeting and that the council take the matter up with the Board of Trade and come to some conclusion, and then invite the C.P.R. to again send an official here to meet the council.

Advantages to City

The representatives were asked by Mr. Robert Neill in regard to the advantages the road would bring to Peterborough. It was stated in reply that the city would benefit directly by the expenditure of two or three million dollars in this vicinity. Hamilton had doubled its population in five years by pursuing a liberal railway and industrial policy.

This new line opened a direct route to the North West and Peterborough would thus become the terminus. This in itself Mr. Oborne said would be a great inducement to manufacturers looking for locations. The proposition of the C.P.R. in this case was, he believed extremely liberal. The company asked for the water front, but as this would be built up by freight sheds their proximity to the centre of the city would be a benefit to the shipping public and merchants.

Bicycle Was Sold And Traded Many Times Before Police Got It

Walter Mahaffy came up before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning, charged with the theft of a bicycle during July, 1907. He pleaded not guilty. Crown Attorney E. E. Wood conducted the prosecution. Several witnesses from Millbrook, where the wheel is alleged to have been disposed of, and where it was recovered, were heard, but the case was adjourned for one week to allow Mr. F. R. J. McPherson to trace up the man to whom it was originally sold.

Percy Haddon, of Millbrook, stated that the prisoner was his cousin. He bought the wheel produced in court, from Mahaffy, giving him in payment two dollars and a stereoscope. He kept it for months, but later sold it to Norman Bruce.

Robert Mahaffy, father of the prisoner, said that his son was seventeen years of age. He owned a bicycle two years ago. He got it from a boy in trade for a watch.

Norman Bruce stated that he bought the bicycle from Percy Haddon. He kept it for some time, but on learning that it had been stolen, upon the advice of his mother, traded it back to Haddon.

Mr. F. R. J. McPherson stated that it was so long ago that he could not say definitely whether he sold it or not. However, he would trace up the number.

Returned To The City And Gave Himself Up After Many Weeks Away

A youth of seventeen years was arraigned before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning charged with the theft of four dollars and a lady's gold watch on the ninth of June last. The young fellow immediately after the theft is alleged to have been committed, left the city, and only returned yesterday. He came and gave himself up last night. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and elected to be tried summarily. Chief Bissel was not ready to go on with the case and the prisoner was remanded to gaol until Monday next.

Two other boys implicated in the robbery, received their trials and were sentenced some weeks ago.

Kerr acted in the interests of the defendant, and Mr. E. F. West conducted the prosecution.

CIGARETTES UNDER BAN IN THE WEST

Eight States Have Prohibited Their Use for Business Reasons.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—The states of Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Illinois, have recently forbidden the manufacture or sale of boys of cigarettes. The reasons involved in this Western prohibition of cigarette smoking—for that is what is aimed at—spring from physiological and business considerations. Moral reasons and preachments did not weigh. As in the case of the railways which require total abstinence from intoxicants of their employees, the Western business men noted that the boys and young men in their employ who were addicted to the smoking of cigarettes were inefficient. Their nervous energies were thought to be continually [illegible] and could not be concentrated upon their tasks. The Western doctors talked about the rapid, weak and irregular hearts of those whose fingers were stained from too much smoking; and it became customary to refuse employment to persons bearing this badge of servitude to nicotine.

CONVICTED OF KILLING CHINESE WAITER WHEN HE WAS ASKED TO SETTLE FOR MEAL

PLEA OF DEFENCE

Examiner Special.

North Bay, Oct. 13.—At the assizes yesterday Henri Spanelli was found guilty of having murdered Ming Shew, a 16-year-old Chinese waiter, in a Haileybury restaurant on the evening of July 20 last. Judge Riddell suspended sentence.

The prosecution introduced evidence showing that Spanelli, Mirabelli and an unknown companion, an Italian, were in a restaurant at Haileybury on the evening of July 20th for supper. In leaving an altercation arose over Spanelli refusing to pay for his supper. Ming Shew, the waiter, a youth of 16, grasped him by the coat while two other Chinamen tried to prevent the prisoner leaving the place without settling. Spanelli drew a ten-inch dagger and plunged it into the body of Ming Shew, death resulting almost instantly. Another Chinamen, who attempted to interfere, was slashed across the hand.

Spanelli then ran down the street, but was captured, and the dagger was found where he had thrown it in making his escape.

The defence tried to show that Spanelli had not ordered or eaten anything and was demanded for payment upon him was baked up by several Chinamen armed with knives and sticks, making him fear that his life was in danger.

Judge Riddell charged against the prisoner, and the jury were out only a short time before returning with a verdict of murder. Spanelli, who understands very little English and was accorded the services of an interpreter, Fazzo, seemed not to appreciate his position, showing no emotion whatever and taking very little interest in the proceedings.

OPINIONS EXPRESSED

The general opinion of the people at last night's Council meeting was: "We want this railway, and we want it to pass near the city, but we can scarcely reconcile the sacrificing of the west end for an entrance. Is there no other route further west, that could be followed?

The representatives of the Company said: "We want to come to Peterborough, and we want the cheapest route available. If we can secure a better route further West, you may be sure we will select it. We think our offer is one of the fairest that has been made to a municipality.

THE LESSON.

There is a lesson, says the Kincardine Review, Conservative, in the vindication of Mr. Stratton in West Peterborough. It shows that it pays to run a straight election.

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY.

The patriotism of the editor of the Dublin Freeman's Journal is stronger, if not wiser, than his veracity or judgment. In a recent article, among other things, he says:

"The reason Canada requires emigrants is that it must get inhabitants at any cost in suffering to the newcomers. When wolves howl round the cowbyres there is need of foreign thousands, if only to act as a sort of vermin killer. Many of the newcomers will go mad with the desperation of loneliness and bitter hardships of the life. Many will fall in utter misery by the wayside, but some will live through it all, the vermin-killing will one day all be done, and the dreary empty spaces begin to be really habitable by normal human beings.

"This is Canada's need, first, hands of victims, romantically called 'pioneers,' then afterwards on the ruins of these, happier throngs will reap in joy where others sowed in sorrow."

In the first place the writer of the above wonderful stuff doesn't know what he is writing about. There is no place in Canada where the wolves howl round the cowbyres; if they do it is only in a few square acres in 300 million square miles. He doesn't know what he is talking about either when he draws such a false picture of the general conditions in Canada. In this country, there is no general hardship in pioneer life, but there is rescue and relief from the misery of the lot of thousands of the Irish peasentry brought on by congestion of population, unjust land laws, and consequent hard conditions. In Canada the industrious emigrant from Ireland or other lands can find a farm in freehold, ready for the plough, and can become a prosperous freeholder, the proud owner of his own farm, after very short apprenticeship to the hardships that attend the beginning of a new life in a new land, but as nothing compared with the lot, most of them flee from. In Ontario we have had experience of the "bands of victims, romantically called pioneers"; and they have left no "ruins" on which happier throngs "reap in joy what others have sown in sorrow." We have amongst us a few persons now living, who met and conquered the hardships of pioneer days. They are amongst our most respected citizens, the fathers of a numerous progeny, the bone and sinew of our pioneers, who live in happy, prosperous homes, palatial in comparison with conditions their transatlantic homes afforded to these "pioneers," who escaped from them to take refuge in the plentiful opportunity of Canada. We have in this very county two townships settled chiefly by emigrants from Ireland, and probably in no country of this

Wives and Mothers Suffer With Backache

Constantly on their feet, attending to the wants of a large and exacting family, women often break down with nervous exhaustion.

In the stores, factories, and on a farm are weak, ailing women, dragged down with torturing backache and bearing down pains.

The dizziness, faintness, deranged menses, and other symptoms of kidney complaint can't cure themselves, they require the assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which go direct to the seat of the trouble.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURE ALL WOMAN'S ILLS

To give vitality and power to the kidneys, to lend aid to the bladder and liver, to free the blood of poisons, probably there is no remedy so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For all womanly irregularities their merit is well known. Recommended for girls and women of all ages. 25 cents per box at all dealers. green earth, or in no part of bountiful prosperous Canada can there be found more happy, law abiding communities—can be found a people more plentifully endowed with all the material blessings that a bountiful soil, with Heaven's benediction, yields to industry and intelligent thrift—no want, no pauperism, no "sowing in sorrow," but sowing in hope to reap bountiful harvests in joy. Handsome homesteads, churches, substantial and elegant schools, religious liberty, separate schools, peace, prosperity, and all that goes to constitute ideally perfect moral life, combine to make their lot fortunate. It is diatribes like the Freeman's Journal, which turn the stream of Irish emigration away from Canada to the United States, a great country, the land of the free, where nominal liberty is apt to degenerate into license, with loose moral ideals, that clash with, when they do not corrupt, the innate moral ideals of the Irishman. In Canada we have true liberty, kept liberty by the restraints and general strict observance of law. When the family outgrows the household capacity the elder start out to set up new homes. When Ireland and the other countries of the old world become too thick with people to thrive, when there become too many mouths to the acre, they must seek new homes in the lands which God has stretched out for his children; and no land on earth offers wider scope and more opulent opportunity for happy lives and happy homes than the Dominion of Canada in the twentieth century of our Blessed Lord.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

France is following Englan's example and providing for old age pensions for working-men.

We have no hereditary aristocracy in Canada, but we have something very like it. Sir Henry Taschereau, his father and his grandfather were judges.

Surrounded by six "dry" townships Peterborough could send a strong delegation to the Dry Farming Congress that Lethbridge, Alta., is putting on.

The first answer to Mr. Borden's appeal for better organization says the Montreal Herald, is the decision not to run a Conservative candidate in Lotbiniere after all.

In the sunny south they have flowers blooming where we have nothing but frost. But when we have heavenly weather like that of last week or ten days, the sunny south has hurricanes and cyclones that sweep away to death the people in thousands.

The United States is crawfishing in the mouth of the countervailing tax on Canadian pulpwood, and will likely admit wood cut on prairie plantations without subjecting it to the primitive tax. That should not influence Canada's policy which should be to not permit a log of pulp wood to leave the country in an unmanufactured condition.

The despatches tell us that a boy prodigy eleven years of age has been admitted to Harvard University, this is probably the last we shall hear of him. The world is full of clever children, "cute' young ones, the pride of mothers and the strain of modest fathers. What becomes of them? They never grow up, they either die young of top-heavy head or grow up into an accommodating average of stupidity.

No, the super-clever children mature early, at six they show the development of sixteen and at sixteen or earlier stop short never to grow again.

The Toronto News says that "that portion of the Canadian Press which calls itself Liberal surveys British politics through the eye of Socialism." If Socialism is a crime, as the News seems to intimate, it libels the Liberal press in thus saying. The attitude of the Liberal press in Canada is Conservative, in that it stands for the fiscal system which has made Great Britain the Greater Britain. If it is Socialism to demand equality in the matter of bearing the burden of taxation, then Socialism has been constitutionally engrained in British political practice for centuries for the genius of British liberty is respect for the rights of the people—equality before the law. If a relic of feudal injustice inheres in the exemption of one class from bearing its share of the burden of taxation the genius of British liberty demands its cessation. The democracy rules in theory; and in practice its voice has a right to be heard and its claims to be considered, in the adjustment of national burdens.

STEADILY IMPROVING.

It is only fitting that Canada, the greatest agricultural country in the world, should lay claim to the greatest outdoor market on the continent. It is fitting, too, that this market, should be located at Hamilton, the centre of the wonderful Niagara fruit district, and it is eminently proper that the story of that great outdoor market, copiously illustrated, should be told in Outdoor Canada's October issue, which is now on sale at all news stands. The issue is a notable one, containing a wonderful amount of interesting reading and a wealth of splendid illustrations, the whole printed on the finest of paper and with a handsome four-colour cover design. Among the articles of special interest are Canada's International Exposition, Mount Robson's Summit Scaled, Moose in the Cassiar District, Through New Ontario, and the Railway Photographer. A Muskoka Romance, by Herbert Shearer, and A Wild Boar's Skin, by Lieutenant Percival Lancaster, are short stories well worth reading, while sports and the Kennel—important regular departments—are kept up to their usual high mark. At the price—10 cents—Outdoor Canada is splendid value.

THE LORD'S LAST DITCH.

The prediction that the House of Lords would vent upon the Irish Land Bill their spleen against the Asquith Government has not been long in getting verified. The Lords have been venting upon the Irish bill a fair share of the anger that was stored up against the arrival of the English land taxes.

Their action will not diminish the vigour of the campaign against them, but if we start from the assumption that they are right to use their power to defend their personal interests it is easy enough to understand what they are about. They know, from the history of the last century, that once a reform is won for Ireland it is taken up right away in Scotland and England; and they know, too, that it is easier for them to fight against the demands of Ireland than against the demands of England. It was not until the great struggle for Catholic emancipation had been practically won in Ireland that Nonconformists in England won their emancipation. The disestablishment of the Irish Church was followed by a demand for disestablishment in England and Wales, and it has only been kept from becoming a live issue by the concession to Nonconformists, in the matter of education principally, of the freedom for which they have contended. It was in Ireland that the demand for a more extended franchise gave rise to incidents which enforced the attention of Parliament and heralded the success of the suffrage reformers in England. In Ireland too, the first and most bitter struggle was made to get the people into possesion of the land, and as soon as the Irish land grievance was well on the way to settlement the English and the Scotch land grievances came forward to demand settlement. Sir Robert Peel's statement of why he opposed emancipation points clearly to just what has happened since. And it is the same influences which resisted emancipation, which resisted disestablishment, which resisted franchise extension, which resisted Irish land reform, that are now resisting the Lloyd-George taxes and the Liberal policy of national development based on small holdings. The Lords know very well that if they vote to-day to sanction Mr. Birrell's law by virtue of which an Irish landlord can be forced to sell his estate for division, whether he likes to or not, they will be setting up a precedent which may be invoked any day in the case of their English estates. There is already a law, passed since these hated Liberals came in, under whose terms the County Councils may acquire estates and divide them, but those who compose the Councils so love to bask in favour of the great that they are not active in the work. The Lords know well that this resistance will soon be overcome, so they have to look forward to more strenuous times. So they stand by Lord Clanricarde, whom they despise, and against all land reformers whom they fear. It is human nature, but it is also human nature for those on the other side, if they are in earnest, to come down heavily on the other side.

THE SCHOOL OF THE FUTURE.

(Toronto Star.)

A Trenton boy was sent home from school for eating onions, and some of our exchanges seem to think that it was a high-handed proceeding on the part of the teacher.

Perhaps it was a novel action on the part of the teacher, but we find something cheering in the incident. It gives promise that the Public schools may become more useful than before. The boy will probably derive more real benefit from the experience than if he had spent the afternoon in the low company of vulgar fractions. The idea was impressed on his mind that he must make himself acceptable to his fellow creatures if he is to mingle with them.

In the schools children should meet with manners; the teachers should, we think, be the most courteous of men and women. The pupils should be made to understand that book-learning is of no value whatever unless the possessor of it is otherwise worthy. Cleanliness is of more importance than mathematics to the average pupil in the public schools. For the real purpose of life in so far as the great majority of children are concerned it would be better for them to be thoroughly schooled in the use of the tooth brush than made proficient in the use of algebra or a few propositions in Euclid. Time is spent teaching them the names of the countries whose shores are washed by the Mediterranean that might better be spent in teaching them that the human body should be washed by soap and rain water.

Of what use is it to drill a boy in writing, arithmetic, and bookkeeping if he is allowed to retain a rudeness of manner and a slovenliness of person that causes a prospective employer to dispense with his services as soon as possible?

It is life, not a written examination, that children have to prepare for. Those things that are covered in a written examination have less to do with success than many purely personal points—manner and manners, appearance and character.

We like the episode of the onion-eater. It shows that in Trenton they have a teacher who glimpses the true scope of education.

Children Had Eczema

SUFFERED AGONY UNTOLD

Treatment prescribed had no effect—MRS. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Many a mother's heart has been torn by the suffering of her little one who has fallen a victim of eczema. Only such mothers appreciate to the full the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for this horrible ailment.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes:

"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure of eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around his ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him.

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment, and we hope more people will learn about it so that their poor little ones may be saved from suffering."

Chafing and irritation of the skin, from which nearly all babies suffer more or less, is a frequent source of eczema. There is no treatment for chafing so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Pore-clogging, unsanitary powders are being discarded by all who have once learned the value of this great Ointment in keeping baby's skin soft, smooth and healthy.

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home in the treatment of pimples, barber's itch, scalds and burns, poisoned skin, sore feet and every form of itching skin disease. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A HORSE IN A LAUNDRY

New York.—A horse, attached to a laundry wagon, became frightened and made a wild dash up Broadway, tipping a girl with a dog on it, that horse plunged into the laundry, and, ridding itself of the wagon, landed with all four feet upon the lingerie and shirts that a dozen laundresses were sorting.

When the horse went through the door the laundresses went out the windows amid a shower of hot irons, starch and bottles. When the excitement was over, the horse was found calmly munching a bundle of laundry tickets.

COURTESY IS ONE OF THE CHEAPEST THINGS IN LIFE

Little words in kindness spoken
A motion or a tear,
May oft relieve a heart that's broken,
Or make a friend sincere.

Courtesy is the cheapest thing there is in this world. Because it is so cheap is perhaps the reason that it is so infrequently used. It costs absolutely nothing therefore one would think it would be by the desk or at the hand of every man and woman in the world.

Yet the fact remains that there are very few really courteous men. So few are there that when one does meet such a one he is surprised and refers to him as "a gentleman of the old school."

Because a person doesn't happen to fancy a man is no reason that he should be discourteous to him. Outward adornments, facial expression, peculiar mannerisms do not destroy manhood. "A man's a man for a' that."

Sometimes we say that a man's real strength is shown in the manner in which he expends his energy, that his real benevolences are manifest in the way he dispenses his charities. Yet if you would know what a man really and truly is you must study him as he deals courteously or discourteously with his brother man.

The man who is discourteous to the man under him and servilely cringes before his superior with obsequious courtesy may be a great worker, a splendid result-getter, but he is not a gentleman.

A true gentleman will, if compelled to dismiss a man from his presence do it with such grace and courtesy that the sting of the dismissal is largely removed and kindly remembrances established in the mind of the dismissed man. True courtesy gives of its substance as freely as sweet-scented violet gives of its odour, thinking not of return, simply conscious of doing its duty.

Courtesy opens many doors of opportunity where rough and ragged manners would stand knocking vainly demanding entrance. Courtesy is oil upon the troubled sea of life and saves many a good ship of manhood from going to pieces on the barren shores of failure and bankruptcy. Courtesy has won more battles in the world than bullets. Courtesy uses no cannon to force its measure, yet courtesy wins a thousand times where cannon and murders win once.

In the hurry and rush of life we need to think more of the graces of courtesy than we do. It would be a good thing if in every public school, academy and college of the land there might be established what should be known as a chair of courtesy. In this chair the truest and most noble-hearted should teach boys and girls young men and young women the value of true courtesy. The courtesy that plants a seed of self-respect in the underling and which makes the superior feel that he is in the presence of man.

Of a great man of the olden time it is said: "his presence made bad men good and good men better." Underlying this sweet influence in the man's life was good, honest courtesy, a courtesy that rose superior to all environments of haste, worry vulgarity and trouble, and poured itself in gentle libations into every man's heart, purifying and making it sweeter and cleaner because of its influence.

Happy, indeed, is that man to whom courtesy is a blessed birthright. He shall find that his path in life is smoothed before his feet and that difficulties he has dreaded melt at his approach.

Happy, indeed, is that man who learns courtesy in the school of life, who turns from ungentlemanly manners and habits to ways of conciliation and refinement. That man shall find friends waiting to do his bidding and the wheels of success turning at his command.

Unhappy, thrice unhappy is a man who goes through life without the grace of courtesy, born or acquired, in his heart. His way shall be the way of a saw through an oak board. He will mar, jar and cut, leaving behind in his trial only the remembrance of a hard taskmaster who was determined to have his way at all hazards.

Cultivate courtesy as one of the fine arts of life. She will make thy path rich and thy ways full of pleasantness and peace, for courtesy maketh friends for every one who holdeth her to his heart.—John Anderson Jayne.

WHY FRENCH MARRIAGES ARE HAPPY

American mammas and papas imagine that French parents are horribly cruel and businesslike when they enter into a common sense discussion as to their daughter's future. But in reality the French pere is wise when he chooses his daughter's partner, and he is fully aware that by doing so he maintains his country's reputation for happy marriages.

Strictly chaperoned and without the smallest amount of the liberty which the New York or Boston girl enjoys, the French maiden grows up in obscurity until she reaches a marriageable age. Then her matrimonial affairs are discussed—but not in her presence—and a man with sufficient means and virtues to form in the parents' experienced eyes—a just, if not ideal, husband is found, contracts almost, settlements arranged, and the girl goes to her husband with a dowry—a bride to be appreciated, not wholly an added encumbrance to his exchequer, and with a feeling of independence and pride at her intimate value.

Once married, the man she marries adores her, for the magic gold hand again means to the French girl all the pleasures hitherto denied. The French husband takes the keenest delight in taking his bride, never dreaming of leaving her "at home," and so the fairy gates of pleasure and freedom are flung wide open to the French bride, not shut, as is the case in this "love in a cottage" land. Naturally, love follows closely on marriage's helm. Gratitude turns into affection, and affection into love. As it had been said, two people of opposite sex not absolutely repulsive to each other will, when constantly together, become attached. Financial jars are detrimental to connubial bliss, but when they are absent the course of true love runs smoothly.

American girls may marry for love, but in at least fifty cases out of a hundred the experiment is an utter failure for neither takes heed of material things. The bride has no "dot" and the man no savings, the two items necessary to a French alliance—and so the inevitable disagreements arise when the soul-grinding hand of poverty is felt.

The Frenchwoman looks upon marriage as her goal. Thrift and housekeeping ability and a naturally cheery disposition are her chief characteristics, combined with a "dot," the French girl succeeds.

HOW WIVES SPOIL THEIR HUSBANDS

How far the American wife can safely go in her control and master without "spoiling" him is a question which depends more or less upon the man's personality, but there are some points which are of almost universal application.

The husband who works all day, works for the home and the dear ones in that home, is entitled to quite a large amount of fond wifely indulgence—in fact, up to a certain point, he may be and should be "spoilt."

But beyond that certain point—a very gentle but firm line should be drawn, because the best man ever born will become selfish and exacting, if a woman voluntarily constitutes herself his slave.

And there are some wives who almost unconsciously put themselves in this unenviable and degrading position, who fetch and carry and pet and pamper, until the master of the house becomes as dictatorial as an Eastern potentate.

Take the case of a couple who married only recently and who may be referred to as Mr. and Mrs. North.

Every morning now before Mr. North gets up, his wife spreads out socks and undergarments in exactly the most convenient and adjustable position, she takes the razor out of its case, she fills the bath and she puts out a selection of the most likely ties.

Then she waits in anxious humility until Harry opens the bathroom door and shouts "Ready"—which announces clearly that she may now brush and part and brilliantine his hair, hand his collar, pin in his tie, turn up his trousers, fillet his hair, butter his toast, pour out his coffee, fill his tobacco pouch, find his ticket, brush his hat, roll up his brolly, collect his money, polish his eyeglasses, unfold his handkerchief, look for his keys, and, finally open the gate and watch him down the road.

These or similar slavish attentions are repeated in the evening.

Of course, the wife who refrains from doing all in her power to make home truly a "home, sweet home" for the man who works hard to pay the rent and taxes is not worthy of her wifehood. No affectionate consideration should be spared, no wish overlooked, no request forgotten, no loving service withheld—it is her happiness to do all she can for him who does so much for her—her supreme pleasure to make her will subservient to his.

But there are times and cases when a line must be drawn, and the wise wife is she who looks out for danger signals which tend to show that she is giving that just a little too much.

IF WOMEN WERE ON THE JURY

"Just think of having to be on a jury," said one woman to another at a recent trial. "Wouldn't it be just awful?" And she looked pityingly at the twelve faces in the jury box.

"Oh, I don't know as it would," replied the other, cautiously transferring her chewing gum to the other side of her mouth. "There wouldn't be the work to do and you would get paid regular and——"

"But think of having to be locked up all the time," objected the first. "I'd be just wild not to be allowed to go downtown or anything, and goodness! why they won't let you see anybody or talk about it a bit or even read a paper! I don't see how they can tell what is going on in court unless they read the paper. I never can. Of course, regular lawyers know what it all means, but just ordinary people don't."

"But, of course, you wouldn't send anybody to jail for life, or anything like that if he was married, for what would his wife and children do? So you don't have to pay much attention to what they are saying. I'd know right away as soon as I saw the man whether he did it or not, and after you've once made up your mind you can kind of rest, you know."

"But think of being shut up with all those women for over a week! Wouldn't you just want to scratch their eyes out? My, but I hate them! I'm just that independent, you know, that I wouldn't have them snopping around to see how much powder I was using and whether I put up my hair nights, or whether it was naturally curly."

"But they go to a hotel for their meals and don't have to pay a cent. I just love hotel cooking, don't you? And then not having to pay for it! Of course, when you are in the room you are supposed to be talking over the things that they have said about the mail, but you could get lots of ideas from those other women about clothes and things. I think it would be awfully broadening."

"And then when it was necessary, you know, the foreman could just tap her pencil on the table and say, 'Now, girls, we really must get to work, and find out what we are going to decide to do about that man.'" put in the other with an anticipatory smile. "I know we would acquit this one on account of his wife's devotion to him."

"That's all right for the public," granted the would-be jury woman with some skepticism, "but I'll just wager that they fight like cats and dogs at home."

"That, my dear," said the other amusedly, "is just a sample of the way we should disagree in the jury room."

STOMACH MISTRESS IS ENDED FOREVER

Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Gas or Indigestion Vanish in Five Minutes.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis, or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and get him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 3-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fulness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, gulping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

FIRE INSURANCE

The following legend taken from an enterprising Gentleman's Catalogue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance :—

"Two years ago an Ontario florist Gardener saved four cents on cotton on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $300 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—some hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

MANY APPLY FOR ADMISSION TO THE PROTESTANT HOME

Danger of Present Accommodation Being Overtaxed During Coming Winter—Annual Meeting of the Board Held Yesterday Afternoon—Reports Presented.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The past year has been a successful one for the Protestant Home. The annual meeting was held yesterday afternoon when a large number were present and great interest was shown in the work.

The main topic for discussion was the future provision for the care of the city's poor. The members seemed inclined to the belief that the city should provide an institution for this purpose and they were strengthened in that belief by the fact that the department and the grand jury had frequently referred to Peterborough as needing an industrial home or house of refuge or some such institution where proper care could be taken of the poor of the city.

The Board of the Home was of one mind in the attitude toward the housing of men. They believe that their efforts should be devoted to the aged and needy women only and that the city itself should look after the men. If this were done their efforts would be much more successful and they believe more would be accomplished.

The chair at yesterday's meeting was occupied by Mrs. (Rev.) Walter Roger. Rev. Robt. Pogue conducted the devotional exercises.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, secretary, presented her annual report as follows:

The opening of this fall season has brought so many applications for admission to the Home that there seems danger of its accommodation being overtaxed through the coming winter. In which case your board will be unable to do as to their great satisfaction they were able to do last winter—accede to every application for admittance. It is, therefore, with keen pleasure that they notice that public interest has been aroused in the question of the proper housing of the poor. Some change it seems there must be in the coming year since the present home work of this benevolent present home of this work is now in so advanced a state of decay that a new shelter is an imperative necessity. Your board have for some years felt handicapped by the almost complete lack of public interest and support in the maintenance and extension of this work of making a home for the aged poor, and nothing could give them more encouragement and hope for the future than these signs of the awakening of that interest.

The past year has seen many changes in the home. Three of our inmates have died and nine have found other homes. Early in the year our assistant matron left us to assume the duties of her own home and but a few weeks later we were called upon to mourn her untimely death.

Now at the beginning of the year we are losing our matron, Miss Lily Fraser, of whose faithful service for ten years your board find it difficult to express adequate appreciation. The best wishes of all concerned with the home go with Miss Fraser to her new life.

Our new matron, Miss Nellie Webster, of Lakefield, has already assumed her new duties.

To many who have aided in brightening the lives of the inmates the sincere thanks of your board are given, especially to the doctors of the city who generously give their services to the inmates; to the various charitable and religious organizations which hold services in the home, and to the friends who by their gifts and visits testify to their sympathetic interest.

Special mention should be made of the newspapers which have not only published all items of interest in regard to the home, but which most generously donate a copy of their daily issue.

There were in all 27 persons under our care during the past year. These were in the home for an average period of 261 1-2 days. Of this number 15 are now with us. Three other inmates will enter in the course of a few days, while other applications are pending.

It cost to maintain each inmate this year thirty cents a day, or $110 a year. This is a higher rate than the previous year when the cost was twenty-six cents a day or $94.90 per year. Both these rates compare favourably with other institutions. Dr. Bruce Smith gives the average cost in Houses of Refuge as 31 cents per day. It must be remembered that all these institutions have farms from which they obtain supplies, while these averages are made from the total expenditure of this Home.

M. S. McWILLIAMS,
Secretary.

The report was adopted.

POPULAR BANK MANAGER TRANSFERRED TO BROCKVILLE

The following from the Picton Gazette refers to a son of Mr. J. H. McClellan, Superintendent of the Trent Canal, and to a brother of Mr. A. J. McClellan:

Mr. W. G. McClellan, manager of the Picton branch of the Metropolitan Bank, for the past six years, has been transferred to the Brockville agency. This was the surprising news that was confirmed on Thursday morning.

The going away of Mr. McClellan will remove one of the best known and most popular bank managers that has ever been at the head of a town banking institution. Just how his removal affects Mr. McClellan is best expressed in his own remark to The Gazette reporter, "Picton will always seem home, to me."

Mr. McClellan has been a resident of Prince Edward seven years. Six years he has managed the local branch, coming here from Wellington, when the Metropolitan Bank agency here was just feeling its way. Under his regime the new bank building was built. The great growth of the Metropolitan Bank in Picton district is wholly due to the influence of a manager who has not only become generally popular but who has instilled a feeling of confidence into the customers of the bank.

Not alone in a commercial sense is Mr. McClellan liked. He has been actively identified with the many interests of the town. He has taken a most prominent part and held high office with the Masons. He has been closely associated with the recent upbuilding of the cheese industry of Prince Edward, and he has been active the past couple of years in an improvement in things, generally, of the Agricultural Society, being a most efficient director. He was also president of the Board of Trade. In civic and social circles, Mr. McClellan has been well liked, indeed.

It is anticipated that Mr. McClellan will leave town the middle of next week.

A smart style for winter wear.

PERFECT PHOTOGRAPHS OF NEW WATERWORKS DAM

If there is such a thing as a perfect photograph it is represented by a picture of the new water works dam, taken by Mr. R. M. Roy on Saturday. Mr. Roy takes periodically progress pictures to show the advance of the work, but none have been so complete and inclusive as that referred to. The picture, which is 8 x 20 inches, takes in the old dam and pumping station, the works in progress and a long stretch of the river below the latter. Altogether about half a mile of scenery. The beauty of the photograph, apart from its sweep and scope, is the microscopic fidelity and sharpness of reproduction of the minutest details.

DOCTORS SAID ONLY ZAM-BUK COULD CURE HER ECZEMA

In view of the numerous cures which Zam-Buk has worked when all else has failed, there is little wonder that in the end the doctor attending Mrs. J. P. St. Denis, of 305, Thompson Street, Winnipeg, should tell her there was nothing but Zam-Buk could cure her. The result showed the far-seeing wisdom of this practitioner, and having been completely cured by Zam-Buk, Mrs. St. Denis gives her experience for the benefit of other sufferers.

She says: "Eczema started on one side of my face and nose. At first my nose felt sore, similar to what one feels when having a bad cold. I paid no attention to this, thinking it would pass away in a day or so, but to my surprise it got worse. The nose then became swollen and hard, and turned a purplish red, as well as part of the cheek on that side of my face.

"As the disease developed pimples and ulcers broke out, then the skin cracked in places and peeled off in flakes, leaving my face and nose raw and sore. This condition reacted on my general health, and I became very ill. I could get no sleep at night because of the irritation and the pain, and my face was in such a shocking condition that for two months I did not go out of the house. I applied remedies which were supposed to be good for skin diseases, but in vain.

"My doctor also treated me, but without effect, until one day he said that the only thing which would now be likely to cure me was Zam-Buk.

"Acting on his advice I procured a supply and found that even the first few applications had a soothing effect on the sores. I left off everything else in favour of this balm, and applied it liberally every day to the affected parts. In a remarkably short time, considering the obstinate nature of my disease, we saw traces of improvement, which encouraged us to persevere with the Zam-Buk treatment. Zam-Buk reduced the discoloration, then the hard swelling began to show traces of leaving, the sores seemed less angry, and in about three weeks' time most of the sores were healing nicely. To cut a long story short, I continued with the Zam-Buk treatment until my face was cleared completely of all traces of the troublesome eczema."

Such was the experience of Mrs. St. Denis, and scores of other sufferers could tell of similar experience. Zam-Buk is Nature's own healer, being composed of pure herbal healing essences, and free from all trace of harmful animal fat or mineral poison. It is a sure cure for cuts, lacerations, burns, eczema, ringworm, poisoned wound, festering sores, bad leg, and all skin injuries and diseased. Zam-Buk is also a cure for piles. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50 cents a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. You are warned against cheap and harmful imitations sometimes represented as "just as good."

AN INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE GIVEN BEFORE ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY

Delivered Last Evening by Mr. Parry Jenkins of Hamilton in the Collegiate Institute—A Large Number in Attendance — "Star Nebulae and Star Clusters" the Subject.

Mr. G. Parry Jenkins, F. R. A. S., of Hamilton, was the speaker last evening at the regular fortnightly meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society.

This being the first lecture of the Fall term, Mr. Jenkins was invited to address the society, not only because of his eminence in astronomical research, but also on account of the fact that he holds the position of President in the Hamilton Centre, thereby permitting of an exchange of courtesy between the two organizations.

Mr. Jenkins more than sustained his reputation as a popular lecturer. With a broad and deep knowledge of his subject, combined with a very pleasing address, and choice diction, he held the attention of his large audience firmly from beginning to end. Not only was he instructive, but through the assistance of a very fine set of lantern views under the management of Mr. H. G. Fisk, the lecture was more of an entertainment.

In introducing the speaker for the evening Dr. Marsh referred to the fact that Mr. Jenkins had attained great honours in England before coming to this country. Through original research he had been granted the great honour of "Fellow" of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, being the highest honour obtainable.

Mr. Jenkins, in opening his lecture, referred to the present polar controversy, and to give an intelligent conception of the conditions in such northerly latitudes presented a number of very fine views of the expedition sent by the Canadian Government in 1905 to Labrador to observe the total eclipse of the sun. The views showed the equipment of the expedition and the eminent astronomers selected by the Government to handle the same. There was proof positive that eminence in scientific work meant "seats off" sometimes, at least, for here were Prof. Maunder, of Greenwich, Dr. King of Ottawa Observatory; Prof. Chant, Dr. Marsh, Mr. Jenkins, and the rest photographed at manual labour.

The Indians of the far north were greatly interested in the equipment of the expedition, but nothing so puzzled them as the fact that the white man was able to make stone. They saw the concrete in its plastic state, and later they were able to inspect the resulting pillar of stone. They were simply astounded.

The lecture proper was directed to the subject of Nebulae and Star Clusters, and gave the latest and most generally accepted theories of the formation of solar systems. In terms almost devoid of technicalities, the speaker presented this great subject so that every one could thoroughly grasp it.

To the naked eye but two nebulae are visible, one in the constellation Orion, and one in Andromeda. But the telescope has found up to the present about 120,000 of these great masses in the heavens. What are they? They are great clouds of burning gaseous material, which, like steam in process of time, condenses, and forms a sun.

Starting with two of the great nebulae which apparently "are without shape and void" in accordance with Biblical terms, photographs were shown of nebulae in various degrees of development, their spiral shape proving conclusively that they were in motion, and in some cases had thrown off rings which had formed worlds, and would in time form a "solar system," such as ours. Over 65,000 of the known nebulae, are of this spiral shape, and in such stages of transition that the proof of the matter is quite beyond question.

To further prove the nebulous condition the spectroscope is called into use. This wonderful instrument takes a ray of light from any star or nebula and analyses it as a chemist might a grain of metal in his laboratory. The analysis of such spectrum conclusively proves the gaseous condition of a similar nebula in process of aging.

At the conclusion of the lecture, Rev. G. W. Henderson eulogized the speaker on his very able discourse, and noted with pleasure that he had throughout his lecture indicated the hand of God in the workshop of the Almighty, and thus had given testimony to his firm Christian belief. Mr. Henderson, after further commenting on the eminence of the speaker for the evening, and on the elevating and educative influence of the address, moved a resolution of thanks, which seconded by Mr. H. B. Collier, was presented to Mr. Jenkins.

Judging from the well-filled lecture hall last evening and the influx of new members, the Astronomical Society, have very bright prospects of a most successful future.

It was announced that the next meeting of the 26th of October, would be of a slightly tangent nature from the usual, being an illustrated travel talk, "In the Caribbean Sea." With some 75 lantern slides the evening will doubtless prove a most interesting one.

It was also mentioned that Capt. Bernier, the famous Canadian explorer, had signified his consent to lecture here immediately upon his release from official duties with the Canadian Government. His coming will undoubtedly be an honour to our city.

GREAT FORM SHOWN BY THE PETERBOROUGH TEAM IN PRACTICE

A Fight for Nearly Every Place on the Line---Peterborough Men Says That Parkdale are a Crack Bunch of Speedy, Young Players---Saturday's Game Will be Fast

The Peterborough Rugby team had another rattling practice last night in preparation for Saturday's senior O. R. F. U. game at Riverside Park and went through the different plays with a snap and accuracy that shows they will take a lot of stopping on Saturday, when they will be backed with the speedy Parkdale Canoe Club fourteen. Much enthusiasm is being shown this year by the players than ever before, and never has the line-up been more problematical than it is right now. With a big squad out, and fighting for a place on the line-up, every man is moving at top speed and the work of the team during the practices has been most encouraging to the executive. Another practice will be held at Riverside Park to-morrow night and there will likely be a signal practice on Friday night in order to get the men perfectly used to the signals, which will be used in Saturday's game.

The wing line and scrimmage is pretty well determined and Allen Campbell, with T. A. A. C. last year, will be at quarter-back, but the rest of the back division is uncertain and the makeup of the rear guard will not be known definitely until to-morrow night at least.

Saturday's game should be well worth seeing. A Peterborough man who saw the Parkdale-T. A. A. C. game last Saturday, says that the paddlers have a wonderfully speedy team of fast, young players, who are on the move all the time. He says they had a more easy victory over the Athletic Club than the score shows. This gentleman, who knows Rugby thoroughly, is of the opinion that Peterborough will have to show great class to stop the Toronto bunch.

Capt. Lundy and his team are confident, however, and will endeavour to meet the trickiness and speed of the visitors with equal quantities of the same attributes. Nothing will be wanted in the matter of dead weight with the Peterborough team this year, as the majority of the players will be young and fast with ability to go all day at top speed.

Saturday's game will start at 2.30 sharp at Riverside Park.

MULLIN HELD THE PIRATES HELPLESS DURING ENTIRE GAME

Performed in Gilt Edged Style for Detroit, Winning Lasting Fame in the Annals of Baseball---Tenths are Again Tied on Series.

Detroit, Oct. 13.—Detroit defeated Pittsburg 5 to 0 yesterday and evened up the count in the world's championship series, each team having won victories to its credit. The game was played with the mercury at 56 degrees above zero, but 17,000 persons braved the chilling temperature and freezing blasts.

The American League champions cleaned their rivals in every department of the game, and the pitching of Ed. Willett was the finest ever seen in the baseball history of Detroit. It is hard to conceive of any pitcher having his opponents more at his mercy than Willie had Pittsburg to-day. There was never a moment when he was not the absolute master of the situation, and he was at his best with men on bases. Four hits represented the utility of the visitors, and no two of them were made in the same inning.

Mullin performed a feat that will live long in the annals of baseball and was frozen in the minds of those who saw it. In the eighth inning he struck out the mighty Wagner, with two out and men on second and third. That with a mighty head has just strategy he had already fanned Manager Clarke of the Pirates twice on first and second. Clarke's third strike caught the man to second and third, where they were when Wicker came to bat. Leibold was also a victim on strikes in this same inning, giving Mullin three strike-outs in one session. He told his mates over the visitors ten times. Harry seemed hopeless as was able to hit when hits spelled runs.

Jennings, Donahue, Moriarty, Schmidt, distinguished himself in the second inning by sending Detroit's first two runs across the plate with a single and one of Moriarty's reach. In the fourth inning Bush's ring double into the overhead crowd in left field, scored Leibold, and on very successively followed by another two-bagger into the same place by Ty Cobb. The circuit by Detroit in the seventh and fourth inning drove Leibold, Pitt's left fielder, from the field, and the run was succeeded by the veteran Philippe, who was able to stem the Detroit tide, although they pounded him hard in the eighth inning. Eight hits were made by Detroit, six of which came in the last innings when the scores were made. Only two were wasted.

Outside of Mullin there were no stars of the Detroit team, but their work as a team was [illegible] Coughlin also deserved the championship perfect performance.

The cold apparently affected the Pittsburg sliding far more than it did Detroit.

JACK JOHNSON KNOCKED DOWN

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 13.—"Gunboat" Smith, a seaman from one of the United States cruisers stationed in this harbour, scored a knockdown by a four-round bout last night with Jack Johnson, the heavyweight. Coming out of a clinch in the last round, the sailor swung a right over hand chop which took Johnson flush on the chin. The champion went down flat on his back and when he recovered, all his fear he was so dazed that his manager cut the round short.

IMPORTANCE OF LITTLE THINGS

It is the little things that do matter—to a woman, at least, would say, little thinking how greatly he himself is influenced by the trifles he despises. If the dinner is late, or his cuffs are frayed, if his wife has forgotten to tidy her hair, or she is not ready at the time stipulated, he is distinctly ruffled; the fire is not ready for the blaze—it may be for instance that the mutton is [illegible] of it may be at home; it matters not which, the results are disastrous, and the little thing is remembered.

Home has [illegible] by little things and unfortunately the man does not realize it. He little thinks how many are the little things, and he has no compunction in adding to them. He does not know how much it means to the tired housewife if he even stops to put coats on the fire, if he sees a window open, [illegible], if he [illegible] cigarette ends in every available spot. But he is so occupied with the big things that unless he has been trained to be thoughtful he makes life a burden to the woman he has promised to cherish.

To the woman who lives among the little things they matter immensely. It is better at her time to forgive the anniversary of their wedding, that he lets her birthday pass, any time dear ones at home never do, or that he seldom thinks of giving her a present or suggesting an outing; still he does not even pass the coals at the table, nor open the door for her to go out. It is the little things that build up the barrier between husband and wife.

IRON FOR THE BLOOD

Doctors agree that iron is an important element for the blood, and that its deficiency is the cause of anaemia, run-down conditions, and a general weakness. The best way to administer iron is in the form of VINOL, which is a combination of two world famed tonics, the medicinal elements recovered from fresh cod's livers and Tonic Iron. McDermid & Jury, Druggists, Peterborough, Ont.

The commanding position of the Grand Trunk Railway System in connection with the transportation service of the Province of Ontario is well illustrated by the fact that in this premier province of Canada there are 14 incorporated cities, every one of which is located on the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway. There are 100 incorporated towns, 25 of which are exclusively on the Grand Trunk Railway, and 41 others are reached by the tracks of the Grand Trunk. The incorporated villages number 66, of which 30 are exclusively on the Grand Trunk, and 13 additional reached by the tracks of the Grand Trunk.

It is easy to see how Canada's pioneer, double track railway, with its unsurpassed roadbed, high grade passenger coaches, etc., is the popular Ontario line. Service wins, and the Grand Trunk serves Ontario well.

MOUNT ROBSON

In a letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from the Rev. George Kinney, of Kamloops, B.C., who made a successful ascent of Mount Robson, the highest peak on the Canadian Rockies, and which feat was chronicled some days ago, he says:

"You are already aware of the value of this wonderful mountain to your road. The last three summers have been spent by me in this work, and my discoveries are quite important. I have no hesitation in emphatically stating that from the scenic standpoint, Mt. Robson and vicinity is without a peer. Nothing in the Rockies or Selkirks can touch this one beauty spot: Forest fringed emerald lakes; Berg Lake, with its icebergs floating at all times on its surface, countless glaciers and towering crags, and its "Valley of 1000 falls" are but a few of the interesting features of this superb mountain.

They Help Your Stomach Out
And Save You a World of Wretchedness.

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It may been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, no to-speak.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The weakness feels help.

"Little Digesters" meet the need exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

AVOIDING POLITICS

Governor-General Addressing Canadian Club at Winnipeg Refers to His Restrictions—Can Say Nothing Which May Not Have a Political Tinge—Has Tried to Avoid Difficulties, He Says.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 14.—Speaking before the Canadian Club yesterday Earl Grey took occasion to refer to certain strictures that have been passed on him for his recent remarks at Calgary concerning naval defence. His Excellency said in part:

"Gentlemen, I must ask for your indulgence. I am in a somewhat embarrassing position. I have received warnings through the press that I must abstain from uttering even a whisper on any political subject, for fear that I may be misreported. Even if I do succeed in ordering my conversation aright, I am warned that the ignorance of a stenographer may throw me down, and that, therefore, silence is golden. With these caveats ringing loudly in my ears what am I to do?

"There is no subject affecting the well-being of Canada that is not political. If I refer to the causes of your well-being, if I urge you to have a vigilant regard to the courses of your national greatness, I shall be trespassing on forbidden ground. Well, I must do the best I can, and run the risk.

"For nearly five years I have endeavored, in my political utterances, to call the attention of the people to the importance of keeping before them high national and imperial ideals. For nearly five years I have, quite conscious of my constitutional limitations, walked the tight rope of platitudinous generalities, and I am not aware of having made any serious slip.

"His Majesty's Canadian Government appear to be very much of the same opinion, for they have paid me the usual compliment of printing, at the public cost, my answers to addresses and speeches which, inasmuch as they have dealt with politics, although in no controversial manner, shows that in their opinion I have not committed any constitutional offence.

"I will, therefore, assume that they and you desire me to continue as I have begun."

Prominent Keene Lady in a Runaway Accident.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Oct. 13.—While returning from church Sunday Mrs. Peter Drummond met with a painful accident. Returning from morning service in the Presbyterian church the team of horses attached to the carriage took fright as they entered the yard and all the occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Drummond has a couple of bones of her wrist broken, but the rest of the party were more fortunate, getting off with only a severe shaking up.

PREVENTION IS WORTH WHILE.

When you consider the risk to life, the expense, the anxiety which is involved in an attack of appendicitis and a surgical operation, it is certainly worth while to avoid it by keeping the liver and bowels regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Doctors are now unanimously of the opinion that appendicitis comes from a neglect to keep the liver and bowels in a healthful condition.

Execution Of Ferrer Arouses The Indignation Of Europe

Fell Dead Under the First Volley From Firing Party--King Alfonso Refused Daughter's Plea to Spare Her Father's Life---A Convicted Revolutionist.

Barcelona, Spain, Oct. 14.—Prof. Francisco Ferrar, the Spanish educationist and convicted revolutionist, was shot yesterday at the fortress of Mont Jouich, where he had been confined since his condemnation by court-martial.

He faced the firing squad without flinching, and fell dead at the first volley. Ferrer, except for a momentary expression of emotion immediately preceding his death, retained his composure to the last.

His attorney, E. M. Masderan, who had defended the prisoner, had secured permission for a brief talk with the revolutionist before the latter was led to the ditch where he was to die. To his attorney Ferrer spoke feelingly of the work for which he had sacrificed his life, and of the future of his daughter; whose brave attempt to save his life touched the father more deeply than any other incident of his trial and conviction. On Ferrer's arrest his family was left dependent upon his daughter, who at once secured employment in a biscuit factory.

The supreme issue a personal appeal to King Alfonso to spare her father's life. When these facts were related by Malcoran, Ferrer broke down. It was but a passing emotion, and presently the undaunted revolutionist was himself again.

Ferrer declined to receive the last sacraments and turned away from the two priests of the Order of the Peace and Charity, who had been sent by the prison authorities to offer him the final consolation of the church.

When the hour of his execution arrived he walked bravely through the prison yard to the ditch in the shadow of the encircling wall. Without a quiver he faced the 12 infantrymen who, at the word of command, fired a single shot. When the report of the volley had died away Ferrer was dead upon the ground.

Precaution in the execution precautions had been taken to forestall a possible attempt at rescue by doubling the sentinels upon the walls of the fortress.

"Political Cannibalism."

Paris, Oct. 14.—The news of the execution of Ferrer at Barcelona created a tremendous sensation when printed here yesterday. The newspapers issued extra editions with glaring head-lines, some of them expressing the belief that King Alfonso had compromised his future by failing to intervene.

Interviews printed show that many persons prominent in the scientific and political world, are both indignant and pained at the day's events in Spain. A member of the institute said that he was stupefied at the execution, which he characterized as an act of political cannibalism.

Alfonso's Death Warrant.

Brussels, Oct. 14.—People, a Socialist organ, announced the death of Ferrer in a special edition yesterday. Editorially the paper stated: "The awful news will unchain a tempest. We fear that in refusing to stop the execution Alfonso has signed his own death warrant."

Feared Pope's Interference.

Rome, Oct. 14.—It is believed here that the execution of Ferrer at Barcelona was hastened by the fear that the Pope would intervene. According to this theory, the Spanish authorities wished to prevent their Sovereign being placed in a position where he might have to grant or refuse a papal request for pardon.

The Tolstoi of Spain.

London, Oct. 14.—The News said editorially yesterday: "If Prof. Ferrer, one of the noblest and most unselfish men in all Europe, and worthy to be called the Tolstoi of Spain, is murdered after a mock trial, the civilized world will suffer an unspeakable humiliation."

OPENING OF BORDEN LIBEL CASE

Woman With Whose Name Sir Frederick's Name Was Connected In Calgary Eye-Opener Attacks, Makes Full Denial of Any Improper Relations With Her.

Kentville, N.S., Oct. 14.—Interest in the case of Sir Frederick Borden v. Carruthers is at fever heat. Every hotel is filled and private houses are harboring commercial men and others not lucky enough to order rooms in advance.

The defendant is charged by the Minister of Militia with criminal libel in having circulated, during an election campaign, copies of The Calgary Eye-Opener, containing fac similes of two letters in which Mrs. Maria Allison of Ottawa accused Sir Frederick of misconduct.

Mrs. Allison, whose two letters, printed in The Calgary Eye-Opener, caused the charges of libel to be made, was a witness yesterday morning. The court was crowded.

To Mr. Ritchie, Mrs. Allison said her daughter went to Montreal in June, 1898, a week after Sir Frederick left her house. In the interval she had had two conversations with him. Sir Frederick went to Montreal nearly every week after her daughter went to Montreal. An attempt to introduce the conversation at this time failed. A telegram from the daughter to Sir Frederick was not admitted, due notice that it was to be submitted not having been given.

Mrs. Allison said she had seen her daughter about four times in Montreal and since then, at an interval of seven years, she had seen her in September last in Baltimore. The daughter returned to her house over Sunday and searched for the telegram a week after she (Mrs. Allison) had found it. Here again an objection was raised.

The woman whose name was left blank with The Eye-Opener did live in Ottawa on the same street she lived on. She had seen Sir Frederick with her in a cab talking with her, and the husband had made an awful row on the street when she came back to the house late at night. She had come back at half-past two in the morning in the same cab she had left in earlier in the night.

Sir Frederick went to the house sometimes. He used to step by a broken down fence across the street; where a lot of old boxes were piled up. Sir Frederick went into the house on several occasions when the husband was away.

Mrs. Allison admitted sending the letters to Editor Edwards of The Eye-Opener. Mrs. Allison said that when she was absolutely in need, with two small children, her husband had given her nothing.

At the afternoon session Mr. Wickwire sprang a sensation when he called Miss Chalefour in rebuttal. She gave her age as 46 years. She went to Montreal, she said, on account of ill-health, and for a time was employed by the Quebec Government. Twenty years ago she left home on account of ill-health, and unsatisfactory conditions at home. She went to a friend's home, but her mother followed her there, and she left. She went to her aunt's in Toronto at one time and was taken back to Ottawa by her uncle, Mr. Graham. Her mother said nothing on her return. On a previous occasion her mother had pulled her out of bed by her hair.

Miss Chalefour said Sir Frederick Borden had never visited her at Mrs. Archambault's home, and had never had improper relations with her, and she had never had her board paid by Sir Frederick, nor had she ever been helped financially by him. She had at one time to leave her lodging-house because she could not pay her board, and she had to work hard for her money. Her position in the Quebec crown and timber office was secured through the good offices of a former boarder at her mother's house, and Hon. Mr. Parent. The last time she saw Sir Frederick Borden was eight years ago, when she met him on the street in Ottawa.

CAVENDISH LUMBER CO. WORKMAN MEETS WITH SERIES OF MISHAPS

Joseph Murphy, of Franklin, and formerly of Lindsay, slipped and fell off a pile of logs in a lumber camp fifty miles east of Peterborough on Thursday last, with the result that he sprained his shoulder and received internal injuries of a serious nature.

The accident occurred in Anstruther township, Peterborough county, where Mr. Murphy had been employed by the Cavendish Lumber Co. While on his way out, from the camp to a doctor Mr. Murphy met with several other misfortunes. First he got lost in the woods, and to make matters worse he again slipped and fell, seriously injuring his sore shoulder and back. He was compelled to walk through water for over a mile, but finally arrived at Buckhorn where a physician dressed his wounds.

Mr. Murphy arrived in town this morning and will spend a few days here. He is suffering intense pain as a result of his misfortunes.—Lindsay Warder.

TRUTH IN JEST.

The Orillia Packet says: "A North Waterloo correspondent of the Toronto Star proudly boasts that since his return from abroad the Hon. Mackenzie King 'has spent all his spare time in the riding attending picnics, socials,, fa[illegible]ings, etc., accepting as far [illegible] all invitations.' There has probably been no such exhibition of the higher order of statesmanship since Sir William Mulock canvassed the sideroads of Mara and Rama for Mr. Geo. D. Grant, in a cast-off overcoat, with an end of tarred rope round his waist."

The comments of the Packet are, no doubt, "writ sarkastic," but many a true word is spoken in jest. Statesmanship fails in the qualifications of the highest character that does not recognize that the full extent of its representative capacity includes interest in all that concerns its constituents—their pleasures and pastimes, as well as their material and civil interests. No man can better represent a people than by becoming one of them.

MAKING THEM PAY.

Is it any surprise that the British people, in view of the fact that about 2,500 persons own half the land in England and Scotland, are strongly inclined to favour a budget plan that will make [illegible] of the kind of the United Kingdom pay a fair share of the levy of national taxation. "John Bull" gives a list of eight of the largest owners, as below:

Duke of Sutherland . .	1,358,000 acres
Duke of Devonshire . .	186,000 acres
Duke of Westminster . .	30,000 acres
Duke of Richmond . . .	286,500 acres
Duke of Portland . . .	183,000 acres
Duke of Montrose . . .	115,000 acres
Duke of Manchester . .	70,000 acres
Marquis of Bute. . . .	117,000 acres

That these gentlemen are well able to bear their proportion of the national burden, as proposed by the Lloyd-George Budget, does not need much proof. These are the princely annual incomes of some of these lordly gentlemen who are denouncing the Budget through all the moods and tenses:—The Duke of Bedford, $710,000; the Duke of Devonshire, $903,750; the Duke of Rutland, $487,430; the Duke of Argyle, $255,000; the Duke of Richmond, $396,415; the Duke of Somerset, $187,,665; the Duke of Montrose, $124,360; the Duke of West Minster, $194,970; the Duke of Abercorn, $267,000; the Duke of Leinster, $279,-285; the Duke of Portland, $441,750, and so on, all through the list. If these gentlemen should be foolish enough to reject the Budget, it is not difficult to forsee what will happen to them in the country.

SATISFACTORY CONDITIONS.

We have daily presented additional evidence that Canada is well governed in all its interests. This is shown by the fact that Saskatchewan, one of the youngest provinces, this year in the matter of wheat yield led all the rest with a splendid total of 86 million bushels. We are also prospering financially. The financial statement in the last issue of the Canada Gazette is of the most satisfactory character. The ordinary revenue for September shows an increase of $1,-570,700. The expenditure for the same month shows a decrease of $1,-957,334, while the revenue for the six months shows an increase of $6,035,-297, and the expenditure for the same period indicates a retrenchment of $1,098,365. The figures are: Revenue, September, 1909, $8,858,850; September, 1908, $7,288,950. Expenditure, September 1908, $7,167,547; September, 1909, $5,210,213. Revenue for six months, 1909, $47,353,819; 1908, $40,-727,822. Expenditure for six months, 1909, $32,661,728; 1908, $31,563,363. The capital expenditure for this September was $3,967,821 as compared with $4,596,322 in the previous September and for the six months, the capital expenditure this year has been $13,213,063 as against $14,015,645. The increase in debt for the month is $200,000.

General indications of national prosperity are referred to by the Winnipeg Free Press. It remarks that figures quoted by Mr. Graham, the Minister of Railways and Canals, in a recent speech testify strikingly to the growth of the business and prosperity throughout the Dominion. The betterment of trade during the first four months of the present fiscal year amounted to $28,268,280. In 1900 Canadian manufacturers exported $11,706,000 worth of goods; last year their exports amounted to $28,967,950. The deposits in the bank show an increase in ten years of $480,000,000. In the same period discounts increased $540,000,000. In 1900 the total tonnage of canal traffic was 5,000,000; this year, as Mr. Graham notes, it will probably reach 25,000,000, a five-fold increase. Ten years ago the railways of the Dominion carried a total of 26,000,000 tons, this year they will probably carry 65,000,000. With a total of close upon 25,000 miles of railway in operation and rails being laid every day, Canada has a greater mileage per head than any other country in the world.

Mr. Graham spoke of the two schemes for the extension of the possibilities of water traffic, namely, that of deepening the Welland canal, and the Georgian Bay Canal project. He declared himself as convinced that the carrying out of either project would place Canada in a preferred position for the carrying of traffic to the Atlantic seaboard and that no matter how rapidly the enlargement of the Erie Canal is carried to completion, that waterway will never be able to compete effectively with Welland Canal and the St. Lawrence, as far at least, as the head of the rapids. This country holds the key to the water transportation of the continent. The Minister of Railways and Canals indicated in unmistakable terms his conviction that when the National Transcontinental railway is completed the Dominion Government will have to take up the undertaking of extending the possibilities of water transportation.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The London Advertiser say that so many poles are being erected in the city that if, all the shade tres were cut down, London would still be the Forest City.

The Mail and Empire accentuates the need of strengthening the Conservative party, when it welcomes to the party fold a political derelict like Henri Bourasso.

The British suffragettes make a pretty strenuous showing, but they have not yet quite equalled the Beverdams made by Laura Secord ninety-seven years ago.

It is taking rather mean advantage of an ocean cable to make it tell the improbable story of a man in London, being, accordin to his own confession, is the murderer of Ethel Kinrade.

Ottawa is undergoing great underground as well as great surface development. The value of the mineral products of Ontario for the first six months of the year was $10,-649,943. This is more than two and a half million of increase over the products of the corresponding month of last year.

Toronto customs authorities have decided that the ashes of dead men when sent into Canada are not dutiable. Another argument in favour of cremation, in addition to the chemical argument—remains in the form of ashes contribute most naturally to the character of a good deal of the literature found on tombstones.

The Ottawa Free Press says that geographical ignorance of Canada is not confined to Old Country people, and in proof instances a Toronto wholesale house, as addressing a letter "Calgary, Sask." Small blame to the writer; the geography of Canada changes or rather develops so rapidly that one has to look sharp to keep pace with it.

What Captain Bernier has done is, says the Montreal Witness, well worth doing. He has not only preempted for the Canadian flag all islands to the north, but has performed the rare feat of completing the northwest passage; that is, of reaching, though not with his ship, waters reached by whalers from the Pacific. He has also recovered Captain Parry's records after ninety years. He should be given an honourable reception by the nation he has so finely served.

The Hamliton Spectator mentions the sale for the sum of of $400,000 of a mining property which was purchased a short time ago for $10,000. It, says the Goderich Signal, it had been the Ottawa Government that sold the property, how furiously the Spectator and the other Tory papers would have denounced the "deal," and how big and black the type would be that showed the difference betwen $10,000 and $400,000 as the spoils of the "grafter!" But perhaps our friends of the Conservative press have wearied of that sort of thing since the last Dominion elections.

SASKATCHEWAN'S GREAT WHEAT YIELD.

(Brockville Recorder.)

According to both Dominion and Provincial Government estimates of this year's wheat yield, Saskatchewan will produce more than one-half the total of the whole country. An estimate sent out by the department of agriculture at Ottawa places the Dominion's yield at 163,366,000 bushels, of which 85,566,000 bushels are credited to the province of Saskatchewan. Some weeks before the harvest began the Saskatchewan Government estimated the province's yield at 86,666,-666, but three weeks later it reduced this to 84,095,050 bushels. Accompanying the first provincial forecast was the statement that while the figures given might be a fair approximate, it was rather early to use them as a basis of calculation for the total yield of the province. At the same time, they were believed to be so nearly accurate that unless the crops were injured by frost or by severe hailstorms, practically the amount given—86,-666,666 bushels—would be thrashed.

Evidently the Saskatchewan Government attaches much importance to forecasting the extent of the wheat harvest while the grain is still growing. For this purpose a most efficient crop-reporting service has been organized. This service, as explained by Hon. Mr. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, in a recent issue of the Canadian Courier, is divided according to the new uniform municipalites into which the province is being divided, and the area of each of the principal crops is carefully computed for each municipality. The average yield in each of these districts is estimated by township correspondents and the product is then computed by municipalities, after which the totals for the province are ascertained. In each township a leading farmer performs the duties of crop correspondent for his district. The preliminary estimate this year was made by 900 of the 1,200 members of the crop-reporting service and the later one by 625 members. If these estimates err it is on the conservative side. Since the organisation of the department of agriculture in Regina it has been shown by threshers' returns that the preliminary figures of the correspondents are below the actual yield.

Of greatest importance, however, is the fact that a territory which not so very long ago was but a wild, uninhabited prairie, is now not only geing rapidly settled, but is yielding more than 50 per cent. of Canada's wheat. Mr. Motherwell says the people who are most closely in touch with the development of the province "can scarcely realise how rapidly it is reaching, the high position which it seems destined to attain." How much more wonderful must the development appear to the people of Europe, and even to those of Eastern Canada, who have never visited the West!

IN SPITE OF WEATHER THE NORWOOD FAIR SCORED ITS USUAL BIG SUCCESS

Attendance Yesterday Was Very Large---Weather Conditions Were Highly Disagreeable But Did Not Interfere With the Exhibits or Crowd---Compares Favourably With Other Years.

There is a confident feeling in the East Riding that you can't keep people away from the Norwood Fair no matter what kind of weather may be in vogue, and that opinion was amply justified yesterday when a very large crowd braved the Arctic breezes to attend the East Peterborough Agricultural Exhibition, which scored its annual success in spite of the worst the weather man could do. Certainly there was nothing in the weather yesterday that would tempt anyone to risk pneumonia by attending a fall fair. It was cold and dreary with overcast skies and a biting breeze that made winter overcoats and even furs a necessity. In spite of that a comparison of the attendance with that in other years will show in a very favourable light the crowd that attended yesterday. Several hundred went down from Peterborough on the noon C. P. R. train while Hastings, Marmora, Havelock and other towns in the district were largely represented. Judging by the number of vehicles that were to be seen everywhere around the village and fair grounds the countryside must have been deserted for miles around.

It was a happy crowd, too, and in spite of tingling fingers and blue noses, they set about enjoying themselves as soon as they filed through the up-to-date turnstile gates that the Directors have had installed. There was plenty for them to see as the exhibits were fully up to the average of others. There was a fine showing of poultry, the entries in horses were splendid and the other live stock exhibits were up to the mark. In the main building there was a special fine showing of ladies' work, which was the centre of attraction among the housewives during the afternoon. Here, too, was a creditable display of art work, while the fruits, grains and vegetables were better than ever. The Midway, always a feature of the Norwood Fair, was as large as ever, and the many different devices for separating a man from his money were very well patronized. The men with the hot taffy, however, was in a position to make merry at the expense of his ice cream selling neighbours, as there was nothing in the atmosphere that was conducive to an active demand for cool beverages. Cane racks, knife boards and other similar amusements were to be seen everywhere, and always surrounded by a large crowd.

The Norwood Band, under the leadership of Steve Bregalt, rendered an enjoyable programme during the afternoon. The musicians bravely faced the chilly breeze and never deserted their post until the afternoon's activities were over. The band is a very creditable organization. The veteran president, Mr. Birdsall, for forty years at the helm of the society, found time even in the excitement of his golden wedding to visit the fair grounds, and he was given a warm reception by his hundreds of friends who were anxious to congratulate him both on his reaching the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage, and on the splendid success of the Fair, in spite of the disagreeable weather.

The horse-racing events, which are always looked forward to with much interest, were the chief feature of the afternoon's programme and furnished plenty of entertainment for the crowd, who crowded around the track in dozens until the events were over. Great interest was taken in their results and the winners were loudly cheered as they finished.

The green race brought out three starters—C. Fife's Tom Tarriff, Dr. Bulkington's Bay Bonnie, and R. Nicholl's Harklan. The Fife horse had the speed of the field and won first money in straight heats without much of a struggle.

Ther were also three starters in the free-for-all — W. Lang's "Holland Boy," W. Whitham's "Bourbon Brooks," and Mr. Hall's "Bessie K". The race in this class was between Bourbon Brooks and Holland Boy, and the latter won in straight heats.

The directors of the East Peterborough Society are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts. It is evident that the Fair has the confidence of the public and exhibitors alike, when there should be such a turnout as there was yesterday under such conditions. This confidence has been engendered by fair treatment on the part of the directors, and the gentlemen who have worked so faithfully in the interests of the Fair, deserve the thanks of the people of the district.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS

The cold weather, doubtless, had much to do with deterring some exhibitors from attending this fair. Among those worthy of special notice are the following:

"Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles.

The Pedlar people of Oshawa, made a display of samples of their corrugated steel shingles and galvanized steel roofing, which is replacing the old-time cedar shingles. Farmers are taking up the problem of better roofing for their barns and outbuildings and many have begun to adopt the Oshawa galvanized steel shingles, when the time for a new roof comes round. It is claimed that the steel shingle roof will be a good roof for a century, and that's where the economy of it comes in. The cost per years makes the Pedlar People's roof by a long way the cheapest; besides, it is fire-proof, damp-proof, rust and mildew-proof, fire-proof, water-proof. The Company's travelling representative, Mr. H. M. Bishop, was present and had a busy time demonstrating the merits of the roofing. It was ascertained that Mr. Bishop will make his headquarters shortly in Peterborough, having leased a residence on Homewood Avenue. He should make a good, active citizen, judging from his success with the Pedlar Peoples' goods.

Display of Winter Clothing.

The good dresser who wants his money's worth, combined with good style, in fall and winter clothing, had both well exemplified in the excellent exhibit of Grafton's hand-made clothing at the Norwood Fair. Rightly made clothing at right prices was conspicuously shown in a large tent erected directly in view on every visitor who passed the main thoroughfare. This superb showing consisted of Grafton's high-grade overcoats and suits, and justified the claim they have upon public confidence. It is worth remembering that when you buy Grafton's clothing you buy direct from the manufacturer, and skip all middlemen's toll, such as you must pay to dealers who buy through wholesalers. The Company's factories are located at Hamilton and Dundas, and they have prosperous retail stores in Peterborough, Hamilton, London, Owen Sound, Woodstock and Dundas.

Grafton & Co., as usual, offered three special prizes in the Agricultural Horse Class, which brought out strong competition and were keenly contested.

Thoroughbred Jersey

The herd of thoroughbred prize-taking Jerseys shown by Mr. Arthur H. Tufts, whose high grade stock farm is situated near Tweed, was much admired. Mr. Tufts is an enthusiastic breeder of Jerseys, and he was highly complimented on the excellent condition of his stock. There were eighteen head in the herd, including several splendid samples of milch cows. Mr. Tufts carried off altogether nineteen prizes, as follows: 7 of first prizes, 2 second prizes, and 5 third prizes. He captured the red tickets for best herd, best male, best female, best aged cow, best three-year-old and best two-year-old. The keen interest taken in this herd of Jerseys by the farmers who inspected them, will no doubt result in some of them changing hands. Mr. Tufts's post office address is Tweed, and those requiring good stock will find him always open for business. He does a large amount of shipping out to all points in Canada, and as far west as British Columbia.

Thoroughbred Durhams

The stock farm of Messrs. F. Birdsall & Son, the venerable breeders of Shorthorns, was, as usual, well represented. Ten head of highly improved Durham cattle were shown, all taken from the field without any special care bestowed upon them for exhibition purposes, but all possessing fine thorough-bred features. The judges awarded this herd first prize for bull calf, 1st and 2nd prizes for aged cows, 1st prize for three year olds; 1st prize for yearlings, and 2nd prize for two-year-olds. They also carried away 1st for best herd; 1st for best male, and 1st for best female in the Durham class. In pure-bred Clydesdale horses the Messrs Birdsalls won 1st and 2nd prizes for best foal, and 2nd prize for best mare and foal. Their handsome Shetland pony, "Darby," also walked off wearing the red ticket.

Hume's Ayrshire Cattle.

No more interesting display of prize stock was shown at Norwood Fair than that of Mr. Alex. Hume's fine herd of Ayrshire cattle. Many compliments were bestowed upon them by stockmen and farmers, who were enamoured by their fine clean, healthy appearance. Mr. Hume carried off 1st and 2nd prizes for bull; 1st for herd; 1st for best female, and 1st for best male. During the day Mr. Hume made some good sales. Two of his best calves were bought by Squire Breakenridge, of Westwood, for a good price. Mr. Hume's address is Menie Post Office, Northumberland Co., Ont.

The "Simplex" Link-Blade Cream Separator

Mr. Dan Derbyshire was not observed at the Norwood Fair grounds, but the "Simplex" link-blade, self-balancing cream separator, in which he takes so much pride, was well exhibited in the main building. The Derbyshire Co., of Brockville, one of Canada's greatest dairy supply houses, have found the resources of their large establishment taxed beyond its ability at all times to supply the demand for the Simplex. The superiority of these machines had been so successfully demonstrated at all the leading fairs, that little remains to be added, and dairymen have been well impressed with its valuable features and so orders keep piling up. Mr. R. Lyle Jones, the travelling agent, was in charge of this exhibit, and intelligently explained its leading features. Mr. Geo. Gilbride, of Peterborough, the successful district agent, was on the spot looking for business. The Norwood agent is Mr. D. Sedgwick.

Indispensable in the family, a "Walpole" Hot ater Bottle, the greatest comforter in the home. It's patented, all one piece of Rubber. No seams, Can't leak. Druggists sell it.

CHRISTOPHER LEARY PASSED AWAY AT VENERABLE OLD AGE

A Well Known Man of the City of Peterborough—Built the First Brick House—For Several Years Was Councillor on North Monaghan Council.

HIGHLY ESTEEMED CITIZEN

In the death of Christopher Leary this morning at the residence of his son, Mr. Robert Leary, 198 McDonnel street, Peterborough County loses one of its pioneers, a citizen held in the highest esteem of a host of friends in this city and in other municipalities. He was Canadian born and had seen this country develop from primitive conditions which in his early years he experienced to its present era of progressiveness. He had passed the allotted three score and ten years and upwards through a much longer lapse. At the time of his death he was in his eighty-ninth year and up to eleven months ago had enjoyed excellent health, the record of a well spent life.

The late Mr. Leary was born in Kingston, February 14th, 1821. When he reached the age of seven, he moved with his parents to the township of Haldimand. This journey was made in a chimney cart drawn by oxen, the beasts of burden then in general use throughout the country.

On March 6th, 1849 he was married to the late Anne Wier of Otonabee who predeceased him, June 15th 1898. When the late Mr. Leary moved to this county he resided in Douro where he farmed for a number of years afterwards coming in to Peterborough.

He entered the distilling business on the property where Mr. Tees Hill now resides. Mr. Leary had the distinction of erecting the first brick dwelling in this city. Mr. Leary afterwards moved to North Monaghan where he purchased the Boswell farm. For a number of years he was elected councillor on the township council, rendering faithful services in that position. About that time he launched extensively into real estate. Later Mr. Leary went to Minden and during his residence there his wife passed away. After this bereavement Mr. Leary returned to Peterborough, spending his declining years with his son. Eleven months ago his health began to fail and during the interim his condition gradually became weaker until his death this morning which was practically the natural result of his advanced age.

Of a family of eight children five are living. They are John E. of Cheyenne, Oklahoma, Daniel A. and William T. of Corpus Christie, Texas, Charles C. of Los Angeles, Cal., and Robert H. of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock from the residence of Mr. R. Leary, 198 McDonel street and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery.

The late Christopher Leary was a faithful member of the Church of England, and in politics was a Liberal. His sterling qualities as a citizen, as a neighbour and as a friend were for him an enviable position in the regard of a host of people who will extend their sincere sympathy to Mr. R. Leary in his bereavement.

BERNARD DALY

The Great Irish Lady, Coming.

Many complimentary things have been written and related about Bernard Daly, the great Irish singer and actor in romantic parts, and he is with us at the [illegible] Mr. Daly has discarded his last two season's successes, "Kerry Gow," Joe Murphy's interesting play with its realistic blacksmith shop and horse-shoeing scene, (Mr. Daly was a hit as Dan O'Hara) and as "Rory of the Hills," but he has forsaken them for a new love, "Sweet Inniscallen," which, it is said, gives Mr. Daly a broader field for his talents. It has more romantic situations and a fresh bunch of songs which he renders with much tenderness and effect. Among his collection o fmelody he will sing the song of all Irish songs, "The Wearing of the Green." His song "Hide and Seek," with little Molly, which must be acted as well as sung, "Sweet Eyes of Irish Blue"; "The Call of the Wind," and others equally catchy are in his collection to deliver in the new play, Mr. Caldwell, his manager, has provided him with.

"Sweet Inniscallen" is an island in the lakes of Killarney where the scenes of the play are laid and beautiful scenic effects are promised.

"Sweet Inniscallen," with Mr. Daly as "Leary," will appear at the Grand Opera House, on Wednesday, Oct. 20, and underr the auspices of Div. No. 1, A. O. H., and for their benefit. This should guarantee a packed house.

PROGRAMME AT CHOIR CONCERT

Given Last Evening at the Mark Street Church.

A very successful concert was held last evening in the Mark St. Methodist Church, under the auspices of the choir. The attendance was large and the programme was an excellent one, every number bringing forth rounds of applause, and several had to respond to encores. A male quartette gave two well rendered selections. Particular mention should be made of the splendid singing of Miss Josie Callander, who was obliged to respond to an enthusistic encore.

Rev. C. H. Coon occupied the chair and the following was the programme given:

Chairman's Address.
Male quartette, Messrs. Miller, Ruse, Thornton and Pratt.
Solo—Miss Jessie Callander.
Solo—Mr. C. Coleman.
Piano Solo—Mr. H. Foster.
Solo—Mr. Pratt.
Quartette—Messrs. Ruse, Miller, Thornton and Pratt.
Reading—Mr. D. Moore.
Solo (selected—Mr. C. Coleman.
Selection by the male quartette.

During the intermission a number of choice selections were given on the phonograph. Much credit is due Mr. Pratt for the success of the affair. He was largely responsible for the arranging of the programme.

THE BEST HERITAGE

Good health is one of the first requisites to success. Prolonged application to any subject cannot be sustained without well fed nerves.

If nervous energy could be secured by a large cash payment, every person would make a big effort to find the money.

By reason of well directed study, assisted by practical experience, a way has been found to supply energy to jaded and overwrought nerves, without its costing a fortune.

Pure fresh air, exercise, and eating the simplest foods will produce this desired result.

Among foods for human consumption none contain the necessary elements to sustain life in greater quantities than milk and wheat.

Orange Meat which is made from the whole wheat, thoroughly steam cooked, malted, flaked and toasted, contains the necessary elements to sustain life in greater proportions than any other cereal.

SIMULTANEOUS EVANGELISM

Twenty Prominent Presbyterian Ministers Will Assist in Campaign That Will be Carried on in This District.

The Presbyterian Church in Canada two years ago appointed a committee on "Evangelism", with Dr. Gordon (Ralph Connor, of Winnipeg, Convener. The committee is composed of leading ministers from all over the Dominion. The simultaneous idea is something new in Evangelism. It may be said to have originated with Dr. Chapman, of the American Presbyterian church. By a simultaneous mission is meant the holding of special services for the quickening of spiritual life, and the winning of men, women and children to Christ and His service, in a number of centres in a large city, or places in a district, at the same time. Last year the committee inaugurated two such campaigns, one in the Presbytery of Minnedosa, and another in the Kootenay. The results were so satisfactory that there are over ten Presbyteries holding such campaigns this fall and winter. The Presbytery of Peterborough is one of these. It holds its Mission in the month of November. A committee of Presbytery with Rev. R. Pogue as convener, is making all necessary arrangements. Already the committee has secured the promises of some twenty prominent ministers of the Presbyterian church to come and help in the work in this place. During the first two weeks in November, about twelve congregations will be holding special meetings at the same time, and during the last two weeks about as many more.

There will be three such meetings in Peterborough, in St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and Knox church. Rev. R. G. MacBeth, of Paris, will be the Missioner in St. Paul's, Rev. Robt. Atkinson, of Chesley, in St. Andrew's, and Rev. A. E. Mitchell, of Hamilton, in Knox. The other denominations in the town are being asked to join in the movement. Should the meetings be union, the congregations immediately in the vicinity of each of the above centres will attend the church nearest to them, as for example, the George St. Methodist, St. John's and Murray St. Baptist would be expected to join St. Paul's.

This effort promises to be one of great magnitude and may be expected to result in much good to our city. Revivals make for civic betterment. This is evident from the fact that in many places where corrupt civic conditions existed, after a revival, citizens have risen in their might and demandde integrity in official places and the removal of offenders. This is due to an awakened conscience. Revivals also result in a social elevation in a community. They raise the whole tone of social life. Higher ideals obtain and all the relationships of life are bettered.

Evidence In Perjury Charge Taken At The Police Court

Mr. D. W. Dumble, Police Magistrate, Hears Evidence in Charge Against R. H. Shepherd—Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, Prosecutor, and Mr. R. N. Gordon Appearing for Defence.

THREE WITNESSES HEARD

The preliminary hearing in connection with the charge of perjury against Robt. H. Shepherd, arising out of the West Peterborough election trial, was commenced before Police Magistrate Dumble in the police court this morning. There was only a small attendance of spectators. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood appeared for the Crown, and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the accused.

The information and complaint of John G. M. Wilson was taken up first. It states that Robert H. Shepherd did, on the trial of the election petition falsely, wilfully and corruptly depose and swear to the following effect: That he, the said Robert H. Shepherd, on the 26th day of September, 1908, had been engaged by one James Kendry, and the said complainant to pretend to be a supporter of James Robert Stratton, and to work in his committee rooms, and sit in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms and get all the information he could and supply such information to the said Wilson and Roland M. Waddell; whereas, in truth and in fact no such arrangement nor engagement was made between the said Shepherd on the one part, and the said James Kendry on the other part, or between any of them on the said day of September, 1908, nor at any time, and the said Robert M. Shepherd did then and there on the said trial commit wilful and corrupt perjury, contrary to the provision of the criminal code.

"I do not care to elect," announced Mr. Gordon, on behalf of Shepherd, and I am ready to go on with the case.

Herbert S. Wood, the first witness called, gave formal evidence as to acting as registrar of the court during the election trial, and to the form of oath administered to the defendant.

The Crown Attorney announced that Mr. Berryman, the Court stenographer, during the trial, had been subpoenaed, but that it would not be possible for him to be present before Saturday. In the meantime he suggested that the certified copy of the evidence, which had been secured from the stenographer, should be put in until verified by Mr. Berryman. This was agreed upon and the taking of evidence was proceeded with.

John G. M. Wilson, one of the complainants, was the next witness called. He testified that he was employed at the Canadian General Electric Works, and had been there for a number of years. Mr. Wood read the parts of Shepherd's evidence given at the trial, in which it was stated that at a meeting in Mr. Kendry's office during the election it had been arranged between the defendant and Messrs. Kendry and Wilson, that Shepherd should act as a spy in the Conservative interests in the Liberal committee rooms. The witness denied that there had been any such arrangements entered into.

To Mr. Gordon witness stated that he had never worked for Mr. Burnham during the election.

"Did you ever canvass any votes during the election?"

"No, sir."

"You have a telephone in your room at the White House?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did Mr. Burnham or the Conservative party pay for that telephone?"

"No, sir; not to my knowledge".

"Did you pay for the telephone yourself?"

"No, sir; no bill has ever been presented to me."

"It was put in previous to the election?"

"I think it was, yes."

"Have you received any bills for long distance calls?"

"No, sir."

"Were you chairman of No. 1 Ward during the last election?"

"No, sir."

"Were you an officer of the Young Conservative Club at the time of the election?"

"Yes, I think I was on the Executive."

On the Sunday in question witness said that he had met Shepherd about 2 o'clock, and they had gone to Mr. Kendry's office. The witness walked up George street and Shepherd went up by way of Water street.

"Why did you do that?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"At Shepherd's suggestion," replied the witness.

The matter of seeing Mr. Kendry had been arranged two or three days before, the witness said. Shepherd had stated that he wanted to see Mr. Kendry. They had stayed in Mr. Kendry's office probably an hour. Shepherd had stated, the witness testified, that he was dissatisfied with the Liberal party, that Mr. Stratton and others had promised him things, which they had not carried out. They had not talked about the vote in No. 1 Ward, and Mr. Kendry had not stated anything about hiring detectives.

"Did Mr. Kendry say that he would see Shepherd through?"

"No, sir."

Witness had seen Shepherd down the river and thought that he had seen him out fishing with W. A. Brundrette.

"Did Mr. Waddell ever tell you about a man named Farrish?"

Mr. Wood objected to the question, contending that it was immaterial to the matter at issue.

"I am going to prove some pretty lively things," stated Mr. Gordon.

"I don't think you are," replied the Crown Attorney. "We are not going to give you a free car ride all over this investigation."

At this stage a letter was read from Shepherd, addressed to Mr. Waddell, in which one information was supplied the Conservatives as to what was going on among the Liberals, was read by Mr. Gordon, and the witness stated that this letter had been shown to him before.

Witness admitted that Mr. Waddell had met Shepherd on the street before election day but denied that Mr. Waddell had told him that he had paid him some money.

Mr. Wood objected to matters which he thought, were immaterial being dragged into the case.

"I don't think I should be held down too strictly in the lines of evidence," complained Mr. Gordon.

"That's a good letter," commented Mr. Wood, when the counsel for the defendant finished reading the communication over which they had been arguing. "There's nothing very harmful in that."

"It may wreck your case," retorted Mr. Gordon. "It is pretty good evidence, anyway."

"Did you ever lend or give Shepherd any money in the summer or fall, a year ago?"

"No, not to my knowledge."

"Will you swear that you did not?"

"I did not to my knowledge."

"Do you remember having been sitting with Shepherd in the White House among some commercial travellers and talking politics?"

"I may have been."

Witness stated that he did not remember telling Waddell that Shepherd was a good man.

Jas Kendry testified that Shepherd and Wilson were at his office on Sunday afternoon, Wilson made an appointment with him to meet Shepherd who was introduced by Wilson. Mr. Wood read Shepherd's evidence as to what was said at the time, about his telling Mr. Kendry about the interview down the river, and about "doing up Mr. Stratton," and witness asserted that nothing of the kind took place.

There was no arrangement made, as Shepherd alleges. There was no arrangement made with the parties present.

To Mr. Gordon—"I couldn't say what time the appointment was made by Wilson. Wilson came into the office with Shepherd. All the conversation was of Shepherd's origination. Shepherd was disgruntled with the Liberals, and said he was willing to work for the Conservatives. I didn't say that I was glad that he would support Mr. Burnham. Wilson did not say to me that Shepherd proposed canvassing for Burnham. Shepherd volunteered service on 22rd or 24th of September, 1908. He said he wanted money to pay his board, as the other party was using money. I did not say anything to Shepherd about discovering the employment of money by the opposite party. Detectives were employed to work in the campaign. Mr. Waddell never talked to me about Shepherd. Nobody spoke to me about Shepherd before the election.

I said nothing to Shepherd in reply to his proposal to work for Mr. Burnham. I saw Wilson since this charge was laid, and I told him that as far as I was concerned there was no truth in Shepherd's statements. Peter Gardner or Mr. Wilson, or Mr. Waddell, or Mr. Burnham, never told me that detectives were at work in Mr. Stratton's committee rooms. Wilson was only at my place for a few minutes. Wilson and Shepherd went away from my office together. I have had a talk with Brundrette since the charges were laid, and he told me that the statements made by Shepherd were untrue.

For the Defence.

R. M. Waddell was called by the defence. I was interested in the last election contest. I was frequently in Mr. Wilson's rooms. I saw a telephone in his rooms. I would not swear when it was put in. There may have been arrangements with members of the Conservative party. I heard there was some such arrangement. Can't say who spoke to me about it. I met Mr. Shepherd occasionally during that campaign. I first met Mr. Shepherd in Mr. Kendry's house. Shepherd made suggestions that he wanted to work for Burnham, and was told to use his own judgment in regard to getting information useful to the Conservative party.

Mr. Gordon, on objection of Mr. Wood, said he was regarding him as an adverse witness and the court sustained his contention that Mr. Waddell was an adverse witness, and permitted him to continue his line of examination.

I went to Mr. Kendry's house after ten o'clock with Peter Gardner. We were there from ten to fifteen minutes. Shepherd volunteered to furnish information to me or Mr. Gardner. I did not object to Gardner giving information. Mr. Kendry did not object.

Don't know whether I spoke to Mr. Kendry about Shepherd's work.

Letter of Shepherd re reports of work done as per arrangement by him shown to witness.

That letter was recovered by me, as well as the appended reports of his work.

On another letter being produced, witness said: "I may have shown that letter to Mr. Wilson.

I saw Wilson at committee rooms while Shepherd was making the reports. I was at the White House frequently between the 20th of September and the date of the last election. I met others in Mr. Wilson's rooms; Shepherd may have been there. Met Shepherd in the Munroe House.

Shepherd received from me about $35 for certain reports that were handed in.

Mr. Dumble—"Who made the arrangements with Shepherd?

Witness—"I cannot say. I did not. Shepherd made reports to me and handed in moneys he said he got from the Liberal party. I paid Shepherd for furnishing information. Shepherd desired to be paid for services quietly. Don't recollect Wilson saying that he paid Shepherd money. I got the information from the Conservative party and candidate.

Mr. Dumble—"Whose money did you pay out?

Mr. Wadell—"I got the money from Peter Gardner, one of the Conservative committee.

Shepherd rang up several times before the elections about how things were going on. I don't remember whether Gardner told me I was to meet Shepherd at Mr. Kendry's house. I was not surprised to see him there, as I had had an intimation that he would be there. When Shepherd came in he volunteered to get information about the Liberals. He volunteered—

Magistrate—"Don't use that word 'volnteer'; it looks as if you even using it for a purpose. Shepherd said that he was hard up and needed money on the work done. Mr. Kendry said "his family wouldn't be seen starve."

Mr. Dumble—"It was, I supose, understood that Shepherd was to be paid for his services?"

"I supose so."

Shepherd was to use his own judgment in regard to the way information was got,, was concerned. I think I paid him only $35. There was some money for Shepherd left with Wilson at his rooms at the White House. I think the amount was $20. I am fairly sure that Wilson told me to igve the money to Shepherd—within the last ten days of election Shepherd made demands on money which was not paid. I heard that Shepherd was working in the Liberal committee rooms. I did not object to his doing so. I was an active supporter and worker for Mr. Burnham in the last election.

The hearing was adjourned till three o'clock.

Later.—The perjury charges against R. H. Shepherd were both disposed of—one dismissed and the other withdrawn by the Crown.

Kendry Siding's Small Chance Of Being Junction Point

A Roundabout Route With Grades Between Siding and Peterboro—Preference Will be Between Havelock and Peterboro.

SURVEYING AT REABORO

The party of C. P. R. surveyors who have been surveying the route of the C. P. R. grain line from Georgian Bay to the main line, are in town.

They have been working in Manvers township near Bethany. The present intention of the C. P. R. is that the line shall cross the G. T. R. at Reaboro and run in an easterly direction near Bethany and Brunswick and tap the mai line at Kendry station, about five miles from Peterborough.

The surveyors are in Lindsay for the purpose of completing thes urvey from this town to Reaboro. The route has been surveyd from Cokiwater here, and the survey filed at the local registry office. The staff will now make a final survey through the town. The line will pass near Carew's mill and will cross the river by a high level bridge which will cost in the neighbourhood of $250,000. The line will then parallel the G. T. R. Lindsay and Omemee line as far as Reaboro.—Lindsay Post.

In reference to the above it may be stated that Mr. Sullivan, Construction Superintendent of the C. P. R., in speaking to the Council on Tuesday, stated that the proposal of a junction of the new grain route with the main line at Kendry Siding is not seriously entertained. It is over five miles longer than by the Peterborough line and there are several grades between the city and Kendry. The question to be settled seems to be whether the Peterborough or Havelock route will be chosen. It seems that the last link of the line will commence at Reaboro and will extend either to this city or to Havelock.

OUR EXHIBIT of Pianos and Organs at the Fair and at our Show Rooms attracted great attention and admiration for their beauty of design, perfect action and purity of tone.
ONE MUSICIAN a graduate of one of the best colleges of music in Canada remarked that "The Newcombe Piano is one finest tone Pianos I ever heard.
OTHERS admired the tone of the Evans Bros.' Piano.
AND SOME others preferred the Sherlock-Manning—each and every produce perfect tones but of different qualities.

MR. HERMAN DYING OF STONE IN THE BLADDER

Gin Pills passed the Stone

513 James St., Hamilton.

"... I was taken down with what the doctors called Inflammation of the Bladder—intense pains in the back and loins, great pain and difficulty in urinating. The pain was greatest in the region of the bladder, and the attacks, which became more frequent, amounted to unbearable agony, and I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor. Doctors could do nothing to help me. My wife read in the paper about Gin Pills and sent for a box.

From the very first I felt that Gin Pills were doing me good. The pains then relieved at once, and the attacks were less frequent. In six weeks, the Stone in the Bladder came away and the pain stopped entirely. I have had no return of the trouble and have not lost a day's work on account of it. I cannot express myself strong enough when I speak of what Gin Pills have done for me. When I remember how I suffered, and how now I am healthy and well and strong and able to do a full day's work, I feel I should speak and tell other sufferers of my experience and of the wonderful merits of Gin Pills."

JOHN HERMAN.

You don't have to buy Gin Pills to test them. Simply write The National Drug & Chemical Co., Dept. B, Toronto, and a free sample will be sent you by return mail. When you have used the sample and found that you have found the remedy that will do you good—then buy Gin Pills at your dealer's—50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Remember, please, that Gin Pills are sold on a positive guarantee of a return of your money back. And this guarantee is backed by the largest wholesale drug house in Canada, who will take your unsupported word if you want your money refunded.

Death Sentence Passed.

North Bay, Oct. 14.—Sam Spannelli, Italian, found guilty Tuesday of fatally stabbing a Chinaman at Haileybury, was yesterday sentenced by Justice Riddell to be hanged at North Bay on Nov. 26.

The jury in the case of Saul Gouin, charged with the murder of Carrie Russell near Cobalt, disagreed after two hours. Ten were for acquittal, one for manslaughter and one for murder.

Ethel Crawford, who had been living with the Russell woman in a shack in the woods, swore that Gouin had demanded $100 that was in the house and attached them both with a hatchet. Russell died some months later in a Toronto hospital.

Evidence was introduced by the defense showing Gouin to have been an industrious man, of good character, and an effort was made to show that the girl's death might have resulted from other causes than the assault, arising from her dissolute life. Gouin swore that the woman tried to get money from him and threatened him with arrest, that he became frightened, left, and on his return locked and the key gone, had picked up an axe to defend himself. He struck Crawford, after which he remembered nothing until he found himself on the road back to Cobalt, where he stayed two days and then went to work in the lumber camp, going from there to North Bay Hospital, where he was arrested. No revolver was found on the premises.

Congo Atrocities.

Brussels, Oct. 14.—The atrocities perpetrated by King Leopold of Belgium, through his representatives, in the Congo Free State are to be exposed at last in a court of law.

Lieut. Emil Dorpheltaus, a naval officer, in utter disgust, has given up his contract as an official in the Congo to come home and reveal to his country the horrors that he has witnessed with his own eyes. Dorpheltaus has been for two years in the employ of the Society Anonyme Belge in the Congo. He managed to endure the sight of atrocities unspeakable because he had failed to bring in the assigned tribute of rubber to the Belgian officials. But when the lieutenant beheld a woman bound hand and foot upon a hill of red ants and devoured by the insects, he gave up his commission.

The company, alleging breach of contract, refused to pay his back salary or to reimburse him his expenses. The lieutenant is now suing the company, and there is to be a court hearing at which the atrocities of the Congo will be laid bare.

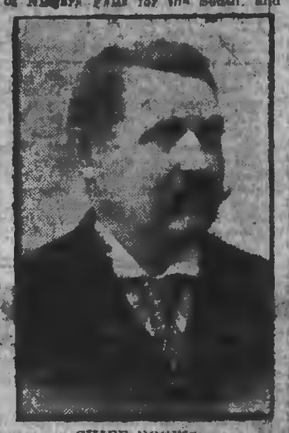
ROGERS TO BE CHIEF.

Inspector Will Head Ontario's New Police Force.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Mr. Joseph Rogers, head inspector of the department of criminal investigation, was appointed Chief of the Provincial Police yesterday morning and the Order-in-Council was signed by the Lieutenant-Governor yesterday afternoon.

This appointment will be followed by a complete reorganization of the police system of the province, the details of which will be announced very shortly.

It is understood that the province for the purposes of case in organization will be divided into two parts, Northern and Southern Ontario, each under a deputy. The names mentioned for these positions are Chief Mains of Niagara Falls for the South, and



CHIEF ROGERS.

Chief Colbeck of Cobalt for the North. These will be responsible to Mr. Rogers as chief.

The scheme, it is understood, comprises an arrangement by which there will be a close co-operation also with the Licenses and Fish and Game Departments.

For this purpose a central board may be appointed to whom the chief would report, consisting of Mr. Cartwright, Deputy Attorney-General; Mr. Ende Saunders, chief of the License Department, and Mr. Tinsley, superintendent of the Fish and Game Departments. All three departments would thus be enabled to work in harmony and the provincial police could be called out to do duty in any branch of law enforcement.

The scheme of reorganization includes the payment by salary of constables as members of the force, and will probably mean the abolition of the present fee system. Some arrangement will also be made for the training of the men. It is understood that at the first, town and city police forces will be drawn on for trained men.

Mr. Rogers, the new chief, has had a long service in the Attorney-General's Department and his experience has been a most varied one.

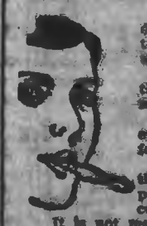
A Positive Cure for Deafness



A large proportion of all cases of impaired hearing and deafness is due to disease of the middle ear and Eustachian tubes, caused either by acute inflammation or chronic catarrh.

Nearly all these cases can be cured, or the progress of the disease arrested, by inflation of the ears through the nose and Eustachian tubes with medicated air.

A very safe and efficient means of accomplishing this end can be had by the use of Catarrhozone, a positive cure for catarrh in the most obstinate form.

It is sure death to the microbic life which maintains the inflamed condition, and also through its healing properties restores the diseased organs to a healthy, normal condition.

It is not mere theory. The result of actual experience proves that ninety-nine cases in one hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the use of Catarrhozone.

Catarrhozone Cures

Catarrhozone is a new scientific remedy for all diseases of the nasal and respiratory passages caused by microbic life and if you are troubled with catarrh, asthma, or bronchitis, it is well deserving of your attention.

It never fails to cure any of these affections, because it is sure to reach the seat of the disease. That is why Catarrhozone is so far in advance of treatment by snuffs, washes, douches, etc., which are absolutely useless, because they cannot reach the root of the trouble.

You simply breathe the medicated air, it does the rest—nothing could be simpler. Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Six Drown in Lake Erie.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13.—In the wreck of the steamer George Stone of Cleveland, Ohio, on Point Pelee, Ont., yesterday, Upper Lake Erie, added a gruesome chapter to the history of marine disasters on the great lakes.

Six lives were lost and twelve were saved and the tail-end of the recent gale is lashing a hopelessly disabled vessel, that was just insured and belonged to M. A. Bradley of Cleveland.

The victims who lost their lives were Paul Hewett and Peter Daley of Erie, Pa., who was a passenger and friend of the captain, and six members of the crew were engulfed in the vain attempting to go ashore for assistance.

Two of the crew clung to the overturned boat four hours, until they drifted ashore; six were drowned when the lifeboat capsized and the remaining ten members of the crew were taken off the wreck about noon by the steamer F. M. Osborne of Cleveland and brought to Detroit.

Paid One Cent a Year.

Galena, Ill., Oct. 14.—Since 1881, a period of twenty-eight years, a man who has been carrying the mails over an eight-mile route at an annual salary of one cent has lost his job. It was not from any neglect of duty that this employe of the Government's was ruthlessly severed from the pay roll. Neither is there any evidence that he was unwilling to continue longer the duties of his position, for he worked as long as his penny a year was forthcoming.

The Postoffice Department has decided to discontinue star route No. 391,135, between Dodgeville and Mineral Point. This line of eight miles was a remnant of the old route established between Milwaukee and Galena in 1836. It was reduced to eight miles in 1871.

The carrier has been offered as high as $20 for his Government order paying him his yearly stipend, but has thus far resisted the souvenir hunters.

Bomb Thrown in Hotel Bar.

Woodstock, Oct. 14.—The police of Ingersoll and district are investigating a peculiar affair which took place Tuesday night in the bar of the Kinwin House.

Ald. Jas. Buchanan was in the bar, together with several others. He was lighting a cigar when, according to some, a bomb was thrown at him. Whatever it was, it exploded with terrific force, tearing away two of the fingers of his right hand, and otherwise injuring him. He was unconscious for some time.

The police are looking for a stranger who appeared at the door of the bar at about the time the explosion took place.

Victim of Intrigue.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 14.—Charles R. Crane, Minister designate to China, who has been invited to resign by the Secretary of State for an alleged injudicious interview on Chinese matters, has put the matter before President Taft. He intimates that the State Department wanted to give him instructions and that he acted on Taft's advice to "speak as he thought best."

The Chicago Record-Herald, which printed the interview complained of, says editorially that the treatment accorded Crane has been "shameful," that the "ostensible reason" for the dismissal is not the real one and that "it is obviously apparent that he has been made the victim of what appears to have been a thoroughly discreditable intrigue."

Lion Christening Ceremonies.

Edinburgh, Oct. 14.—The christening of three baby lions at the Marine Gardens the other day by Mr. George Alexander, the well-known actor, seems likely to arouse a storm of indignation in Scottish ecclesiastical circles. The ceremony, which was performed with champagne in place of water, is variously described as "an outrage," "a silly trick, approaching profane misappropriation of a Christian rite," and "a burlesque of the Christian service." Only one clergyman so far—a Free Church minister—has taken a more charitable view of the ceremony.

Judge Cahgan Retires.

Montreal, Oct. 14.—Hon. L. P. Brodeur, to be appointed to the Supreme Court Bench, replacing Justice Girouard, retired.

Henry Bourassa, M.P. for Rouville, to succeed Hon. Mr. Brodeur in the Cabinet.

Hon. R. Beauchamp, to be a Minister without portfolio.

This constituted the latest batch of political rumors on Monday by keeping accomplished fakirs before the opening of Parliament.

Construction Begins Next Spring.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 14.—The first official announcement of the time of beginning construction of the plant of the U. S. Steel Corporation, at the head of Lake Superior, came yesterday in a letter authorized by Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors. Actual construction work on the plant, the first unit of which will cost not less than $10,000,000, will begin late this fall.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—The Government is considering the advisability of abolishing the present system of granting certificates for grain cargoes leaving Port Arthur and Fort William.

Police Magistrate Into Court.

Kingston, Oct. 14.—City Engineer Craig had Ald. Graham, chairman of the Board of Works, summoned to the Police Court, charging with [illegible] of a city bylaw in having erected stone for a house on the sidewalk on Princess street. Graham is a building contractor.

John Stark and John Hickey were sent to Central Prison yesterday for two years, the former for theft, and the latter for attempting to shoot his wife.

TEAM TO BE PICKED TO-NIGHT FOR SATURDAY'S SENIOR GAME

Cotton, of Lindsay Last Year, Will Play on the Visitors Half Line---Paddlers Expect an Easy Victory Over Peterborough---Much Interest is Being Taken in the Game.

There will be a full practice of the Peterborough Rugby Club to-night at Riverside Park, at which every member of the team is expected to be present. The line-up for Saturday's game will be chosen at to-night's practice so that every player who intends to play this year should be on hand to-night.

Great interest is being taken among local enthusists in Saturday's game and the indications are that there will be a big crowd present. The Parkdale Club are coming down with a big bunch of confidence and expect to win handily here. They are figuring on the result of their game with T.A.A.C., and on the fact that the Toronto Athletic Club defeated Peterborough last year. Calculations, however, sometimes go amiss and this may prove to be the case with the Paddlers on Saturday. At least the Peterborough club is hoping that such will prove the case with the guessing of the Parkdale team. The visitors will have Cotton, who played centre half for Lindsay and to whose great kicking and all round good playing credit for the championship of the Scugog team in the junior series of the O. R.F.U. must be given. He will be on the half line of the visitors' Saturday and another player who is well known here is Dickenson, who played outside wing for the Victorias here on several occasions.

There is every reason to expect one of the best games that has been seen here in years, on Saturday. The game is billed for 2.30 sharp.

Mustapha Mehmedoff Says He Will Throw Gotch "Off The Earth"

The Montreal Herald refers as follows to a wrestler from Turkey, something after the fashion of Hassan Adallah. He is after Frank Gotch's title and will likely be after it for a time:—

Mustapha Mehmedoff, wrestler from Turkey in all the glory of turban and astrakhan coat, trotted into the Herald office this morning. Mehmedoff can't speak a word English and mighty little French.

He brought his Parisian manager, A. L. Dumont, along with him. Mr. Dumont doesn't speak much English. The Sporting Editor doesn't talk much French and an interesting conversation resulted.

However, it transpired that Mehmedoff had come to this continent to wrestle Frank Gotch off the face of the earth. That is his only object in life, according to Mr. Dumont.

Having wrestled Gotch off the face of the earth the inference is that he will get several vaudeville engagements at princely salaries and eventually will learn the language and lecture. Meanwhile he will devote all his energies to beating Gotch. He beat the only man that Gotch ever had real trouble with, Yussif Mahmout and he claims that when he knows the tricks that have made Gotch famous he will also get a fall out of Gotch.

And come to size him up he might easily do it. He is a whacking big chunk of a man, six-foot one-and-a half in his bare feet and with a chest that makes his height hardly so apparent.

He weighs 236 and he looks fine. He has not a bit of extra flesh. The Sporting Editor who fancies he can pick a man in condition prodded and pinched the big chap from cellar to garret and couldn't find any trace of adipose.

Mustapha also went through a few contractions and the big knots fairly leaped into his muscles.

About his wrestling Mustapha knows nothing but catch. In the hamlet in far-off Turkey where he spent his early days they knew nothing of Graeco-Roman—it is the leg and arm game all the way.

The big wrestling tourneys at the fairs throughout Turkey are open to all and it was in one of these that Mustapha was picked by Dumont to take to Paris to wrestle.

In Paris he more than made good and George Kennedy, the local man who was in the French Capital just a short time ago, was particularly enthusiastic about him.

During the next four months Mustapha will meet all the big men in the catch-as-catch-can game, paying special attention to learning tricks of Gotch and will finally stack up against the champion.

Examiner Special.

Detroit, Oct. 14.—The weather this afternoon was clear and cold but a biting wind blew down the diamond. The attendance fell off amazingly to-day and while the bleachers were full the grand stand held only a comparative sprinkling of people, a short time before the game began. Pittsburg is not over confident that they can win the series and comparatively very little private money is going. A very large delegation of Pittsburg supporters are here for this game. To-day's batteries are: Pittsburg, Willis and Gibson; Detroit, Mullin and Schmidt.

Score by Innings:

Detroit	1 0 0
Pittsburg	3 0 0
Pittsburg	—3 0 0 0 0—3
Detroit	0 0 0 2 1—3

FEW DOSES PUT BAD KIDNEYS IN ORDER

Lame Back, Bladder Misery and All Other Kidney Disorders Vanish.

Usually sufferers from backache, bladder trouble or out-of-order kidneys feel relieved after several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

Misery in the back, sides, or loins, sick headache, inflamed or swollen eyelids, nervousness, rheumatism, and darting pains, heart palpitations, dizziness, sleeplessness, listless, worn-out feeling, and other symptoms of inactive, sluggish kidneys simply vanish.

Uncontrollable urination (especially at night) smarting, discoloured water and all Bladder misery ends.

Feeling miserable and worried is needless because this unusual preparation goes at once to the out-of-order Kidneys and Bladder, distributing its cleansing, healing and vitalizing influence directly upon the organs and glands affected, and completes the cure before you realize it. The moment you suspect any Kidney or Urinary derangement, or feel rheumatic pains, begin taking this harmless medicine, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere els in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Only curative results can come from taking Pape's Diuretic and a few days' treatment will make any one feel fine.

REMOVAL NOTICE.

THE RICE LAKE SERPENT MOUNDS

Keene, Oc. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, Toronto, visited friends in the village last week.

The attendance at Keene Fair was the largest in its history. Also the number and quality of the exhibits were greatly in excess of any previous year. The attendance is calculated to have been over two thousand.

Mrs. John McFarlane is seriously ill with typhoid, which it is supposed she contracted during a recent visit to Haileybury.

Mrs. Sam Mathers, Toronto, and Mrs. W. Hewson, Peterborough, visited in the village Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Edith Ferguson of Peterborough, was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. William Moore, last week.

Miss Hannah Telford, Chemong, visited friends in Keene on Wednesday.

A number of Keene people attended Norwood Fair Wednesday.

Mrs. A. Campbell, Peterborough, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Drummond on Sunday.

Professor Montgomery, of Toronto University, was in Keene Tuesday on his way to the Serpent Mounds at Ashburn's Point. The Professor intends making an examination of the mounds and is in search of Mound Builder and Indian relics.

The Village Improvement Society's concert, Fair night, in the town hall, was a very successful affair, both financially and otherwise. Mr. A. E. Parker, of Toronto, made a favourable impression with his comic singing, which was greatly enjoyed and he was ably assisted by local talent. The following local singers took part in the programme: Mrs. W. McIntyre, Messrs. Fred Weir, Norman Taylor, and R. J. McCamus; organists, Misses Margaret Bryce and Annie McFarlane.

We understand that Mr. Duncan McGregor has purchased the farm of Mr. T. Mulcahy. Mr. Mulcahy intends moving to Peterborough.

We are pleased to state that Mr. John Lang, ex-M.P., who recently underwent an operation in Toronto General Hospital, is much better and expects to be able to come home in a few days.

DIED AT 110 YEARS

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 14—Catherine Bollen died this morning at the Aged Women's Home at the age of 110 years, she having been perhaps the oldest woman in Canada. Born in England she came to this country when a young girl and remembered Hamilton when it was but a trackless forest. Mrs. Bollen's memory remained comparatively bright up to a couple of years ago.

Listener Soap is delightfully refreshing for bath or toilet. For washing underclothing it is unequalled. Cleanses and purifies.

AFRAID THE PEOPLE WOULD KILL HER

Complaining that she was afraid that the people with whom she lived in Bethany would kill her, a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Laurier, called on City Relief Officer Miller this afternoon, requesting him to put her in some place of safety. She said she had come to the city from Bethany last night, and had stopped at an hotel. She had had nothing to eat since yesterday noon, but had seventeen dollars in her pocketbook. She wanted to go to the police station, where she thought she would be in safety.

Sometimes Help the Hair to Go.

In any changeable climate the hair is apt to become brittle and to break off stubby here and there. This makes a hair-dressing almost a necessity, especially to ladies. In using a hair dressing why not get the best, one that combines with it the efficiency in killing the dandruff germ, the germ that eats the hair off at the roots, causing what is called falling hair, and in time baldness. Newbro's "Herpicide" is that kind of a hair dressing. You have no idea how delightful your scalp will feel, and how stylish your hair will appear, after an application or two of Herpicide. It is certainly a wonderful innovation as a scalp antiseptic and hair-dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

VETERAN PRESIDENT WAS HONOURED BY THE DIRECTORS

An interesting event took place at the Norwood Fair yesterday when Mr. Frank Birdsall, the veteran president of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society, was honoured by his fellow directors, the occasion being the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage. Mr. Pierce, one of the oldest directors of the Society, acted as chairman, and the event took place on the bandstand during the height of the proceedings.

Mr. Pierce, on behalf of the directors, congratulated Mr. Birdsall in a neat speech upon his reaching the golden wedding stage, and referred in terms of the highest praise to the work he had done during his forty years' connection with the East Peterborough Agricultural Society. He then called for three cheers for Mr. Birdsall, which were given with a hearty good-will, and presented the President with a solid gold watch, seventeen jewels, with the following inscription:

"East Peterborough Agricultural Society, presented to Frank Birdsall, Esq., for twenty years president, and on the 50th anniversary of his marriage to Emma Birdsall, Oct. 13, 1909."

Mr. Birdsall made a feeling reply, in which he thanked the directors for their gift and for their kind words. He expressed the pleasure that he had always taken in the work of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society, and thanked those who had been associated with him for the assistance they had given in the years gone by.

Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., and Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., for East Peterborough, Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, County Clerk, and Treasurer, and Squire Breckenridge, a veteran director of the society, made short speeches, congratulating Mr. Birdsall upon his reaching the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage and upon his work in connection with the Agricultural Society.

Rev. Dr. Crafts To Address Mass Meeting In Opera House On Sunday

The Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, D.D., Phd., of Washington, D.C., Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, is one of the most outstanding personalities in the world wide social and moral reform movement of this age. The secret of Dr. Crafts' force as a speaker and success as a director of great movement, seems to lie in his comprehensive acquaintance with the universal problems and difficulties of his age and his wise policy of dealing with these. He is no theorist. His scholarship is ripe. His practical experience in the progress of social science has been extensive and his leadership has been suported by governments and congresses in many countries..

Dr. Crafts's visit to Peterborough will doubtless attract the attention of everyone. Arrangements have been made for him to speak at two mass meetings on Sunday. One in the opera house at 4.15, the other in George St. Methodist church at 8.40. He will also preach in St. Paul's church in the morning and St. Andrew's at night. One has little conception of the ability and energy of a man like Dr. Crafts. But a partial view may be had from the following reference

Since 1878 has been active in Sunday school work and has participated, (usually with his wife) in twenty-nine Sunday school assemblies, known as Chautauquas, and in countless conventions; founded the American Sabbath Union, 1888; lectured in all parts of the United States as its Field Secretary, 1889-90; founded the Reform Bureau, since named the International Reform Bureau, 1895; chief editor of the Christian Statesman, 1901-3; 20th Century Quarterly since 1906. Author of 33 books: Through the Eye to the Heart; Wayne for Eye Gate, Trophies of Song 1874; Childhood, the Text Book o the Age. 1875; The Ideal Sunday School, 1876; Fireside Talks on Genesis, Song Victorious, 1877; The Bible and the Sunday School, The Two Obsians, 1878; The Coming Man is the Person tChild, Illustrations of the International Sunday School Lessons Symbols and System in Bible Reading, Normal Outlines, 1879; Rescue of Child-Soul, 1880; Normal Half Hours, Plain Uses of the Blackboard, 1881; Talks to Boys and Girls About Jesus, Teacher's Edition of the Revised Testament, Successful Men of To-day, 1883; Must the Old Tiestament Go? Talks and Stories of Heroes and Holidays, The Sabbath for Man, Rhetoric made Easy, 1884; The Temperance Century, 1885; Reading the Bible with Relish, 1887; The Civil Sabbath, 1889; Practical Christians, 1893; Social Progress, 1895; Before te Lost Arts, Protection of Native Races against Intoxicants and Opium, 1900; The March of Christ down the Centuries, 1902.

A statement in a leading journal speaks of him in the following terms: "We had the privilege last Sunday of hearing Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts on 'Living and Dying Nations.' His business is that of moral overseer and policeman for the world. His hand shaped and pushes moral legislation in the committee rooms of Congress, and he is the terror of law-breakers in our cities and towns. One week he is shutting up gambling rooms or suppressing impure literature in some great city or small inland town, and the next he is driving traders in firearms and intoxicants from the islands of the South Pacific. His Bureau is no theoretical affair, but has solid results to show for his work. Dr. Crafts is himself a flying wedge of reform wherever he goes, and rarely visits a town or a city without driving the law through some social evil. As he passes through a town impure literature vanishes from the news stands, and the voices of boys crying the Sunday newspapers are hushed on the streets. His lectures on 'Living and Dying Nations' is a masterly marshalling of the facts of history to prove the power of the Sabbath and of righteousness to preserve nations, and of irreligion and vice to rot them."

Dr. Crafts has been touring in Europe for the past four months, and has very recently returned from London, Eng., where he took part in the World's Congress on Temperance. He gives his first messages to Canada, and has assumed a large share of responsibility.

NOTHING IMPROPER

Minister of Militia Says He Boarded With Family, But There Was Nothing Wrong In Relations With Miss Chalefour—Latter Declares Letters Were Meant For Blackmail — Addresses To-day.

Kentville, N.S., Oct. 15.—Interest in the Borden v. Carruther's case was intensified yesterday afternoon when Sir Frederick Borden took the witness stand. The libel complained of in the defendant having circulated copies of The Calgary Eye-Opener containing letters written by Mrs. Maria Allison alleging improper conduct between Sir Frederick Borden and Hester Chalefour, her daughter.

Sir Frederick underwent a gruelling cross-examination, and flatly denied the allegations of the witnesses for the defence. The inquiry took a very broad turn.

Miss Chalefour yesterday morning, while declaring that she had received $3,000 from Borden and saying he had called on her, denied positively that there had been any improprieties.

Sir Frederick Borden in his evidence swore that he had never called on her or taken any interest in her.

Mrs. MacPharland absolutely denied all Mrs. Allison's evidence. She had only met Sir Frederick once, and that was in regard to The Eye-Opener article. Mrs. Allison's statements were untrue, every word of them. She had never received pay from the Government for services not rendered.

Counsel and judge will address the jury to-day.

When the court opened yesterday afternoon Sir Frederick was in the ante-room, while the court-room was crowded. After two unimportant witnesses had been heard, Sir Frederick was called to the witness stand. He said he was Minister of Militia and Defence; was formerly known as Dr. Borden, being a medical practitioner.

He had lodgings and boarded there. Judge Forbes, then member for Queen's, and other M.P.'s and other men were there.

He knew the daughter, Hester M. Chalefour. Mrs. Borden had told him of Miss Chalefour's application for a position in the hospital. Arthur M. Dickey, himself and another had signed the recommendation. He saw Miss Chalefour at her mother's house about three months after she went to Montreal. She came back to her mother's house over Sunday and went back to Montreal. When next he saw her it was about Christmas, in Ottawa, on the street. He saw her very seldom from that time on, and did not see her in the United States. He thought he met her on the streets of Montreal several times, but had no particular conversation with her.

Sir Frederick knew nothing of Mrs. Archambault, keeper of a Montreal boarding-house, who he said he had never seen. He had never visited her house in Montreal, nor any house in Montreal for the purpose of meeting Miss Chalefour. He had never visited her on St. Lawrence street, or Dufferin square.

A copy of the The Eye-Opener was produced and the alleged libel was read. Sir Frederick said he knew nothing of Miss Chalefour's reasons for leaving home. The allegation that he was keeping her in a boarding-house at 893 Palace street, was false. He provided no means for her staying there, and did not know Madame Clement and had never seen Miss Chalefour at Madame Clement's, or at Ellen Williams'. He had never heard of Dr. Dukebury's place in Boston. He had heard she had a house at Cutremount, but had never seen her there, nor in Boston. He had never made improper proposals with her. He never was to the Stanley House, Montreal, with her, and did not register as Mr. and Mrs. Brown."

Sir Frederick said he never paid $2,000 to Miss Chalefour, nor had he paid her any money.

Sir Frederick said that while Miss Chalefour was in Boston last week, he had not seen her. Miss Chalefour had visited him in his office in 1897 and 1898, to tell him her troubles at home. There never was any impropriety in the visits, which were made in the day time. Sir Frederick said he had left Mrs. Allison's house in consequence of her interfering with her daughter.

Miss Chalefour yesterday morning declared that certain letters, produced, had been written by her, but at the instigation of her mother, who desired to get evidence. "This rubbish is mine," she admitted, when one letter was read, which said: "We used to go to the Stanley Hotel and register as Mr. and Mrs. Brown. Had I not been so tied down I would have had him divorced and married him. I have more experience now. I would have a claim on his estate as a common law wife, and I shall make the claim."

"All I said in those letters was absolutely all lies—nonsyrot," she asserted. "In 1898 she had written to her mother for $60, but didn't get it.

In one letter the initial "B" appeared. At first she said it referred to one Polly Barns; later she admitted it stood for Borden. She had said, a person could identify Sir Frederick as her uncle from a photograph. Her elderly admirers she always called uncle.

Witness said she met lots of men, Sir Frederick among them, at a house of assignation. She had stayed there three weeks, but nothing improper had occurred with anyone.

She identified a photo of a house as one towards which she had paid $1,000 of Sir Frederick's money. "Sir Frederick hauled the first thousand out of his pocket," she said. "The second $1,000 was paid to her two years ago in Sir Frederick's office. The last time she called he had the money in his pocket. This was all the money she had got from him."

To Mr. Wickwire, witness insisted that the letters had been written to her mother at the latter's instigation to make evidence for blackmailing Borden. She swore that she never had had improper relations with him.

GRACE ELLISTON,

Demure Grace Elliston is the woman's stage favourite. Not because of her gorgeous gowns, but because of the woman-like way in which she acts. Manager Henry B. Harris, foreseeing this, has cast her this year as the star in a woman's play, "An American Girl from France." Two women wrote it—Harriet Ford and Caroline King Duer.

PACK OF WOLVES CHASE FARMER

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Farmers' flocks in the back townships of Pontiac County are suffering very heavily this year from wolves, which seem to have been driven from their haunts in the woods because of lack of game.

Joseph Gilpin, bailiff of Otter Lake, near Shawville, was coming along one of the bush roads in Huddersfield in his buggy a few nights ago when a pack of wolves took up the trail and soon dashed out of the woods into the road. The brutes snapped at the horse several times and one caught the animal by the knee, and almost caused it to fall. It was only by driving furiously that he escaped.

WIFE COULD NOT SEE THE JOKE

Hamilton, Oct. 15.—Arthur F. Zimmerman, who was arrested on the charge of bigamy for the Brooklyn police, and afterwards released, says that it all came about through a joke he played on his wife. He says that for fun he wrote her stating that she was but one of seven or eight wives, and that he was about to contract another alliance. His wife took these communications to the police, and that was what led to his arrest.

CRUSHED UNDER FATHER'S WAGGON

Toronto, Oct. 15.—Little Freddie LeHarr, 3 years old, climbed upon his father's wagon for a ride as he was leaving the brickyard. This is not unusual, and the father paid but little attention. The roads in that section of the city are of a sandy nature, and the heavy wagons had worn deep ruts. It was the jar created in crossing one of these that caused the little chap to lose his hold and fall under one of the wheels of the wagon, which crushed him so badly that he died later at the Sick Children's Hospital.

ATHABASCA ON A ROCK

News of Stranding of Big Vessel is Brought Into Owen Sound by S.S. Assiniboia—Tug is Despatched to Her Aid—Can Be Saved If the Wind Remains Unchanged—Bow is Fifty Feet on Ledge.

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 15.—In a terrible snowstorm, accompanied by a southwest gale, the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer Athabasca, Capt. Alex. Brown, went on a shelving rock at the Flower Pots Island, 30 miles from here, shortly after one o'clock yesterday morning. The steamer cleared at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on her regular trip up to Fort William. She had a cargo of about six hundred tons of general merchandise and two first-class passengers, and one second-class, on her list.

Word of her mishap was brought to this port by the company's steamer Assiniboia, which passed the stranded vessel on her way down from Fort William at 6.30 yesterday morning. Capt. Brown reported that the water was four feet deep in the forward hold, the ship's bow being 50 feet on a flat rock, with the main part afloat in 15 fathoms of water. The spot is within 200 feet of the lighthouse and half a mile from the regular course.

In a megaphone conversation with the Assiniboia, Capt. Brown said he had endeavored to get a call for assistance through by Tobermoray on a passing tug.

From appearances it was thought that the steamer might release herself before assistance arrived.

C.P.R. Superintendent Buchanan chartered the tug Tarrison, one of the largest on the lakes, and went to the relief of the vessel yesterday afternoon. The company's steamer Manitoba, which will pass the point on her up trip last night, may also render assistance.

The Athabasca is one of the trio of Clyde built steamers, brought to the Upper Lakes by the C.P.R. on the opening of through traffic in 1884. She is 270 feet long, and was brought to this country with the steamers Alberta and Algoma, the latter of which was wrecked the following year, with great loss of life. The Alberta is now in harbor.

In the opinion of the officers of the Assiniboia, the Athabasca will be saved, unless the wind changes. Should the wind come from the north it is likely the big liner will be driven to pieces on the rocks.

Since the new steamships Assiniboia and Keewatin were placed on the line the smaller vessels of the Athabasca class have been got of commission at intervals. The Athabasca was put in the service at the end of September for the fall trade, and this was her second trip.

Town Wrecked by Storm.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 15.—The town of Denmark, Tenn., it is reported, was wrecked, two persons were killed and several are known to have been injured and others are missing, as a result of the night's storm.

According to the telegram, the ruins of the town are burning.

Discrimination Alleged.

Montreal, Oct. 15.—A representative body of Quebec and Montreal importers waited on Hon. L. P. Brodeur yesterday and protested against the postage charges recently imposed, alleging that Montreal and Quebec were discriminated against.

Ohio Labor Troubles.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 14.—When a vote of 196 to 15 the Ohio Federation of Labor yesterday seated a number of so-called "Insurgent" delegates, 100 delegates, representing fifteen organizations immediately withdrew in a turmoil, and called a rival convention.

National Organizer M. Grant Hamilton, speaking as the representative of the national council, said that the dispute involved the perpetuity of the union labor movement. Max Hayes, of Cleveland, a leader in the fight to seat the "insurgents," declared that a crisis has been reached where it is to be determined whether the democracy of the labor moveemnt shall be maintained.

The fight here is regarded as a preliminary to a sharper conflict in the American Federation of Labor Convention at Toronto next month.

Don't Neglect SKIN DISEASE!

A WONDERFUL HEALER THAT DESTROYS DISEASE GERMS.

The worst forms of eczema, scalp disease, and blood-poisoning often begin as simple sores. Maybe the warning signal is a rough angry patch on the arm or thigh, or a pimply sore on the head. Don't neglect the first stages!

A sore finger-end or chapped knuckle has over and over again paved the way for serious disease. In the same way cuts and bruises frequently lead to blood-poisoning, festering, and obstinate sores. The reason is clear.

In the air around us and on our bodies are myriads of tiny microbes, many of them "the advance guard" of infectious and contagious disease. So long as the skin is whole, the delicate tissues beneath are safe. Immediately the skin becomes unhealthy or broken by a cut or small sore, these germs swoop down, contaminate the flesh, and provoke inflammatory disease.

Torture day and night, obstinate resistance of all ordinary methods of treatment, and a tendency of the sores to spread are amongst the penalties for neglecting skin-disease.

Eczema or blood-poisoning, once having gained a foothold, are each most difficult to get rid of. They bring to their victims nights of burning torture; or may even cost the amputation of a limb.

There is only one safe course. If a little Zam-Buk is applied promptly to the affected part, immediate attack is made upon these dangerous germs. Zam-Buk is famous for its antiseptic strength, its purity, and its unique herbal character. By the influence of this rare balm (which is entirely different from mere ointments), the dangerous germs are killed and ejected from the tissues along with the other bad matter drawn out. The flesh is thus soothed by Zam-Buk, and completely purified.

When the tissues have been made perfectly sound, a new protective layer of healthy skin is made to grow. The worst wound and most obstinate sore will be found to yield to regular dressings of Zam-Buk. For this reason Zam-Buk is now often prescribed by doctors and used by nurses.

Zam-Buk contains none of the rancid animal fats or mineral poisons found in many of the cheap, antiquated ointments. On the contrary, Zam-Buk is a skilful combination of certain rare and valuable herbal juices—the outcome of patient experiment in most up-to-date laboratories and is truly the last word of science on the treatment of injuries and skin-diseases.

Mothers will find it an ideal balm for the delicate skins of young children; and in using it have the assurance that they are applying Nature's own healing essences. Zam-Buk is on a plane of its own. Nothing else is "just as good." Nothing at all approaches it. Ask for Zam-Buk and accept nothing else.

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES.

Zam-Buk is a sure and certain cure for piles, ringworm, festering sores, ulcers, bad leg, blood-poisoning, eczema, cuts, burns, sprains, bruises, scalds, sore heads, chapped hands, cold sores, chilblains, cold cracks, scalp sores, diseased ankles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, and sciatica. All druggists and stores sell at 50 c. box, three for $1·25, and post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for prices.

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catelogue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance :—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents on ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

THE CLEANEST OF BARNS

From Farm and Dairy.

Milk from the Brookside farms retails in New York City at 20c. a quart and the cream at 72c. a quart as compared with 8c. for milk and 40c. for cream of ordinary grades. The Brookside Farms Dairy is owned and managed by Mr. S. L. Stewart, Newburg, located about 60 miles from New York, on the western shore of the Hudson. This dairy is the only one in the world that is producing an absolutely pure milk, the bacterial count of the marvelously pure milk as produced on this farm, as taken by weekly samples in the year 1908 was less than 165 per cubic centimeter (about half a teaspoonful). The remarkable purity of this milk is apparent at a glance when it is known that the bacterial count of milk produced at the average farm dairy is from 1,000,000 to 5,000,000 per cubic centimeter. The milk that is classed as "Certified" milk by the medical commissions in the large cities and which is ordinarily considered very pure may contain as many as 30,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter and will pass as "Certified."

As further evidence of the exceptional purity of Brookside milk, it is recorded by the milk commission of the Medical Society of the county of New York that on Feb. 3, 1908, a quart bottle of Brookside milk bottled on Jan. 28th was opened and the contents partly used. The bottle was then recapped and left standing all day on a desk in a warm room. It was then put in a refrigerator and again opened on Feb. 17, or 20 days after it was bottled, and the contents were found to be still perfectly sweet. On another occasion, Mr. Stewart, the proprietor of the farm, placed a bottle of this milk in a refrigerator and it was found to be sweet after remaining there 43 days. This absolutely clean milk is simply the result of infinite painstaking and watchfulness as will be seen from the following brief description of Mr. Stewart's methods and work.

The cow barn as may be concluded from the illustration on this page is highly sanitary. Since the fight against bacteria is really a fight against dust, everything is eliminated about Brookside dairy that can afford a resting place for or tend to create dust. Every three weeks all the long hair on the cows' udders and flanks is clipped short, as it would afford a carrier for dust. Planer shavings are used for bedding instead of straw. In dry weather if much dust is being blown about outside the barn, the ground for some distance around is sprinkled.

PREPARATIONS FOR MILKING.

Twice daily the following operations are gone through with in grooming the cows before milking, the first beginning at 4 a.m. and the second at 2 p.m. These operations require an hour and a half morning and night with ten man to perform them. First, each cow is carried and brushed; second, all soiled spots are washed off each animal with a 2 per cent. solution of disinfectant; third, each cow is dampened all over with pure water; fourth, each animal's tail is washed with a disinfectant solution; fifth, each cow's udder is washed with pure water; sixth, all udders are washed with a mild disinfectant; seventh, udders are rewashed with sterilized water; eighth, each cow's udder is dried with a clean, sterilized towel for each animal. Following this all the doors and windows of the barn are closed tight and the walls, ceiling and everything inside is thoroughly sprayed with a hose, so as to make it utterly impossible for a single particle of dust to be floating about.

THE MILKERS AND MILKING.

The milkers then retire to the dairy building where all hands and faces are given a thorough washing after which they don white duck suits and caps which have been washed and sterilized since last used. The milkers are also required to bathe thoroughly every day, a shower bath for that purpose being provided as part of the plant equipment. The fore-milk of each cow is drawn into a separate receptacle and set aside, as it has been found that the fore-milk frequently contains bacteria which has entered the teats from the outside air. Within seven minutes after each cow is milked her milk has been cooled to about 55 degrees and bottled inside of the dairy building.

Professor Bailey, of Cornell University, on visiting the Brookside dairy, described briefly and most pointedly the methods of Mr. Stewart when he stated that he was simply applying "surgical cleanliness to dairying." Anyone who has been in a hospital or surgeons operating room, will readily appreciate what that means. When asked if all the little precautions he takes, are absolutely necessary, Mr. Stewart replied, "Never has one of these details been neglected, but that a big increase has immediately shown itself in the bacterial count in the milk."

"LITTLE DIGESTERS" SURPRISE PEOPLE

They Make Even Chronic Dyspeptics Forget Their Stomachs

When a man who for years has been unable to eat a square meal without being thoroughly miserable afterward—who has tried doctors and medicines without relief—who is, in fact, a chronic and almost hopeless dyspeptic—when this man finds that by taking a "Little Digester" regularly he can eat 3 hearty meals a day, and feel good over it, he is nearly as much surprised as delighted.

The number of those who have had this experience with "Little Digesters" is steadily growing. More are hearing of them—trying them—being cured by them—every day.

The makers have such complete confidence in them that they guarantee them to cure any case of Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Indigestion or Dyspepsia—or you get your money back.

Human Life Increased BY FOURTEEN YEARS

Longer life is due to better understanding of Nature's Laws and use of such medicines as DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

During the last century the average life of man has increased by about four years, insurance statistics prove this.

What is the reason?

People are learning to take better care of their health and to follow the laws of sanitation and hygiene.

The first law of health and the most important calls for "Daily movement of the bowels."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have helped to prolong the life of many because they have enabled them to follow this first law of health.

A torpid, sluggish condition of the liver and kidneys is certain to bring constipation of the bowels, clogging of the digestive and excretory systems, poisoning of the blood and give rise to the most dreadfully painful and fatal of diseases.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills purify the blood and cleanse the system as no other treatment can because of their unique and combined action on the digestive and excretory organs—the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Mrs. R. Morrow, Bracebridge, Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation of the bowels and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They not only relieved the trouble but have entirely cured the headaches from which I used to suffer, and have improved my health in a general way."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose; 25c a box; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ILL-HEALTH IN THE COUNTRY

From Farm and Dairy.

A writer in one of the large city dailies recently referred to the great amount of ill-health encountered in the country. He said: "Everywhere "one finds men and women who are "broken in health early in life, and "the usual cause given, is over-work. "The opinion prevails in the towns "and cities that the country is above "everything else, the place of good "health. City invalids are ordered "to the country to recuperate. The "simple fact is that unless the health "is cared for in the country, breakdowns will occur just the same as "anywhere else. Many country people work too hard, and suffer from "it, but many more suffer from neglect of the simple rules of health."

Unsanitary conditions are just as disastrous in the country as elsewhere. The writer quoted is in a large measure correct in his statement. Too many persist in living and sleeping in unventilated houses, and because many people regard "doctoring" as a sign of weakness, obvious symptoms are neglected until ailments have a firm hold and then the breakdown occurs.

A more general use of modern conveniences and labor-saving devices, some of which cost as little compared with the results they give, would do much to better the conditions noted.

WANT ASSESSMENT ACT AMENDED

From Farm and Dairy.

The campaign having for its object the securing of an amendment to the Ontario Assessment Act, which will give municipalities the power to tax improvement values at a lower rate than land values, is meeting with remarkable success. Already, largely through the work of the Central Canada Citizen of Ottawa, the councils of about 170 township, village, town and city councils have passed resolutions favoring the amendment. They will join in approaching the Government to have the Act amended.

Individual petitions are being circulated for the signature of farmers and others. A petition form that is being circulated for private signature reads as follows:

The petition of the undersigned Municipal Voters of the Province of Ontario sheweth that;

Whereas buildings, and other improvements, are the products of individual industry, and are acknowledged by all to be beneficial to the community, and taxing them discourages their production and is thus detrimental to the interests of the community,

And whereas land values are not the result of individual effort, but are the product of the community as a whole, and taxing them discourages holding land out of use for speculation, and encourages putting it to productive uses, thus conducing to the prosperity of the community.

Therefore your Petitioners pray that your Honorable Body will amend the Assessment Act so that municipalities may tax improvement values at a lower rate than land values, the difference in the rates, in every case, to be determined by the Municipality.

The petition forms are being sent out by L. B. Walling, 75 Yonge St., Toronto. Persons who would like to see the act thus amended are invited to secure and circulate these forms.

A POPULAR KITCHEN HELP

From Farm and Dairy.

The increasing popularity of the kitchen cabinet is assuming alarming proportions, and rightly so. We are informed by one of the largest makers of these cabinets that they have sold over 9,000 of these cabinets, particularly to farmers. This would look as if the farm home was to soon outdo the city home, in the use of one of the most up-to-date and useful of kitchen conveniences. The above illustration will show one of these cabinets with every convenience imaginable, close at hand.

Plan of Kitchen.
How Footsteps are saved.

These cabinets are made of hard wood, finished in a golden oak color. The baseboards, flour bins and drawer sides are of white basswood. The construction of the cabinets is of the best. The cupboards are finished with metal or zinc bottoms, which are most easily kept clean. There are no cracks, no seams or crevices to catch dirt and dust.

Our Household Editor had the privilege and pleasure a short time ago to visit a farm home in Peterboro Co., where a kitchen cabinet was in use, and the owner could not speak in high enough praise of the cabinet. She would not be without it, and would not sell it for three times the price, if she could not obtain a duplicate. The cabinets are not high in price, when one considers the great saving in time and strength that is the result of their use. Most satisfactory and easy terms can be had of the makers of these cabinets, which should enable any housewife, by saving a small amount each week, to own one of these most handy and labor saving conveniences. Be up-to-date and start saving for a cabinet.

"I can say I am very much pleased with my kitchen cabinet. I believe them to be labor savers, and I am sure you would think so also, after you had used one for a while. Mine is quite a large cabinet but has no drop shelf. It has, however, almost all the other attachments, such as drawers, bake board, flour bin, tea and sugar bins, grocery closets and a nice place for kitchen utensils. It also has a row of bins for spices. When I bake I can stand still and reach all I need to bake with.

"I rather think it saves me a good many steps in a day. They are also very handy in getting a meal. I have had mine now for four years and would rather part with any piece of furniture than my kitchen cabinet."—Mrs. William Hume, Perth Co., Ont.

A SECOND LIFE

"If I only had another chance!"

How often are these despairing words uttered when a man feels his strength ebbing, his vital forces depressed, his health undermined—often as the result of his own errors or follies—and he realizes the infinite possibilities which might lie in his grasp, could he indeed receive in Shakespeare's phrase, "a second life."

Happily for the world, this other chance, this "second life" is to be had for the asking, by means of that which has been aptly described by a famous physician as "the last word science has spoken" on the subject of such remedial agents, and to which by virtue of its health-giving properties, the name of Vitol—meaning life "health-producer"—has been given.

So potent is its force that it will not only restore the health and vigour which have been lost, but, if persevered in, will in addition impart the highest measure of nervous and physical vigour of which the individual is capable; for there is a maximum capacity of health for everyone, though he may not hitherto have had the fact impressed upon him. Doctors endorse this and daily prescribe Vitol in increasing quantities. The constituents which give this power are known to every physician, and one has testified to the supreme merits of Vitol as

after wasting illness and as a restorer of health, not only in nervous diseases (with their innumerable symptoms of discomfort and distress, including loss of memory, insomnia, irresolution, weakness of the will, &c.), but also in anaemia, digestive disturbances and consumption.

"IT SEEMED LIKE THROWING MONEY AWAY

Until I Tried Gin Pills."

Mr. P. Fitzgerald was completely disheartened. He had suffered so long with his Kidneys, and spent so much money on doctors without relief, that he had made up his mind he could not be cured.

Then, he chanced to read about the wonderful cures by Gin Pills, the great Kidney Remedy, and sent for a sample. The pills did him so much good that he immediately bought two full size boxes. And these two boxes of Gin Pills made him feel like another man.

But let Mr. Fitzgerald tell his own story of a really remarkable cure.

Provincial Asylum, Orillia
June 18th.

I have much pleasure in stating that the sample, which you sent me, led me to buy two boxes of Gin Pills from a local druggist. They are the best remedy for Uric Acid Trouble that I have ever tried. I must say that before using Gin Pills, I had undergone a long and expensive course of treatment by eminent specialists of Chicago. They did me no good—it seemed like throwing money away.

I still keep a box of Gin Pills on hand and take one occasionally. I am pleased to recommend them and bear testimony to their efficacy.

P. FITZGERALD.

After reading such a letter as this, you simply can't doubt the value of Gin Pills in cases of Kidney and Bladder Trouble. If you are a sufferer, write the National Drug & Chemical Co. Dept. B. Toronto, for a free sample of Gin Pills and try them at our expense. After you have seen for yourself just what Gin Pills will do, buy the full size box at your dealer's, and remember that Gin Pills are sold with a positive guarantee of a cure or money refunded. 17

AN UNFAIR PRINCIPLE

From Farm and Dairy.

Farm and Dairy believes that all farm improvements should be exempt from taxation. A farmer recently took exception to this principle. He claimed that as a general rule, the farmers who have fine barns and buildings have the most money, and, therefore, they should be taxed more heavily than farmers in less prosperous circumstances.

There are two fundamentally weak points in this objection. What would be thought of the village storekeeper if he told Mr. A. that he was going to charge him seven cents a pound for sugar while he charged Mr. B. only five cents, because Mr. A. was better off and therefore could afford to pay the increased price. Of course, no one would permit of such discrimination. Yet that is what we are told we should do by law in regard to the payment of taxes.

It is unsafe to conclude that because a man has a fine building he is better off than a neighbor who has neglected to improve his home and his farm. The former may have a mortgage on his fine building and his neighbor may hold the mortgage.

In Alberta, all improvements are exempt from taxation. The local municipalities have the power to impose taxes on farm improvements if they so desire. None have done so.

An agitation is under way in Ontario, which seeks an amendment in the assessment act which will give municipalities, the power to tax improvement values at a lower rate than land values. Over 150 municipalities have passed resolutions favoring this amendment. Petitions are being circulated among farmers for signature. This is the right way to secure the desired amendment.

MAKE THE BLOOD RICH AND RED

Miss Cynthia Hutchinson, Hanceville, B. C., writes: "My system was so completely run down that my friends as well as myself thought I could never get better. All medicines failed to help me. A trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food benefitted me and at the end of a month people scarcely knew me I had improved so much. The blood was enriched, colour improved, new leah was added, and I got strong and well."

CHEESE AND BUTTER INDUSTRY

From Farm and Dairy.

In a report issued by the director of dairying in the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Mr. G. A. Putnam, the cheese industry of the province is placed at $13,106,919.95. This was the value of 120,624,486 pounds of cheese manufactured during the season of 1908. This was produced from 1,661,039,751 pounds of milk. The creameries of the province manufactured 9,895,109 pounds of butter with a cash value of $2,355,170.34. During the present season there are 1,177 cheese factories and 97 creameries in operation in the province.

"The provincial department of agriculture," says the report, "is spending a good deal of money in the interest of dairy education and instruction, and is encouraged in this work by the response on the part of the producers and factorymen in keeping their premises in an up-to-date sanitary condition and in handling the milk in a cleanly, careful manner. Greater efforts than ever are being put forth by the producers to increase the average production of their dairy cows. A good deal of pure bred blood is being introduced throughout the province and a number of farmers are using the weigh scales and Babcock test as a means to assist them in weeding out unprofitable animals."

TO REVIVE SHEEP INDUSTRY

From Farm and Dairy.

The revival of the sheep industry in Ontario, which has been steadily declining, is being attempted by the Department of Agriculture, aided by the Sheep Growers' Association. The method chosen is the establishment of illustration stations in eight counties of the province. One has been already begun by Mr. Wm. Little, near Agincourt, York County, for early lambs, which will be sold in the open market in Toronto. Another station is being arranged in Muskoka for summer lambs. Six more for winter-fed lambs will be started in Leeds, Simcoe, Huron, Middlesex, Brant and Victoria counties.

The need for some action is indicated by the fact that from 1901 to 1905 the number of sheep in the province decreased from 1,761,799 to 1,324,153, an average of 31,353 a year; and by last year had further fallen to 1,143,898. In the first period the number slaughtered and sold fell from 739,148 to 603,736, and by last year was only 545,320.

The object of the work, which is being developed under the special supervision of Mr. A. P. Westervelt, is to show that there is a good profit in and with the ordinary grades of sheep. The farmers being chosen are not experts. They supply their own stock-grade ewes and keep account of the cost, the time spent, the revenue, etc., and for this labor are allowed a slight remuneration. The results of their experiments will be made known by the department on the expiration of their tests in 1912, which will allow for the product of two full years. The sheep are first inspected, so as to prevent any others than the ordinary grades being used. The farms will be open to anyone during this period, and information will be freely given by the farmer in charge.

HENS BEAT THE COWS

From Farm and Dairy.

In starting the poultry business it is easy enough to select a breed, but a more difficult matter to select individual merit. It is well known that every breed includes worthless specimens and poor strains, such as would be unprofitable even under the most favorable conditions. Therefore, care must be taken in the purchase of either eggs or stock.

As this more valuable stock comes into profit, a careful record of their eggs should be kept. It will pay to use trap nests, and, in hatching, note which eggs produce the best and most vigorous and thrifty growing chickens, and which develop into the most desirable for both egg producing and breeding. By carefully studying all these characteristics, one will be better able to make a wise selection for future improvement.

The expense to a farmer in getting started with pure-bred poultry is so small as compared with that of cows, sheep and hogs, that there should be no hesitation in improving the flocks on account of the necessary cash outlay. Think, for instance, of an ordinary farmer keeping fifteen or twenty cows. He would think little about paying $100 for a cow or bull to improve his herd, or of paying $50 for a sheep or hog; but when it comes to laying down even $10 for eggs or stock of pure-bred poultry, he stops.

Consider, too, that to-day well-managed farm flocks of 200 or 300 hens are paying the owner more clear profit in dollars and cents than a great many twenty-cow dairies. It seems that it is about time that more farmers woke up to these opportunities and invested a few dollars in good poultry.

Habit From the Dungeon.

Convicts who were forced to drag about a ball and chain at the galleys could often be detected when released by their habit of trailing one foot after the other. John Boyle O'Reilly, condemned to convict life in Australia for his Fenian sympathies, had also in after years a habit which told a like sad story. One who knows him said:

When walking abstractedly and mechanically he always went a short distance and then retraced his steps, no matter how wide a stretch he had before him. It was always three paces forward, turn and three paces back, exactly like the restless turning of a lion in a cage. One day I asked him, "Boyle, what was the length of your cell when you were in prison—how many paces?"

"Three," he said. "Why do you ask?"

"Because when you are absentminded you always walk three paces forward and then retrace your steps."

A Lesson in Physiology.

The school superintendent was in the habit of dropping in to the different class rooms and demanding a recital of lessons from the pupils. One day her active mind hit upon physiology as the study for examination.

It happened that the teacher did herself not like the study of the human anatomy and therefore had not drilled her scholars as she should have done. But the little girl to whom the first question was put so bewildered the superintendent and made her lose her patience that there were no more questions of a similar nature asked.

"Tell me," said the superintendent, "what a skeleton is."

The little girl thought for a short time.

"A skeleton?" she asked. "A skeleton? Why, a skeleton is a man with his insides out and his outsides off."

Wanted Them Labeled.

There was a certain master of foxhounds in one of the English shires who was greatly angered by the awkwardness of one of the gentlemen who invariably rode over the hounds. At one of the meets the M. F. H. rode up to the awkward hunter and in the most chilling tones said, "Mr. So-and-so, there are two dogs in the pack today, Slap and Tatters, which I am especially fond of, and I would esteem it a favor if you would avoid killing or maiming them with your horse's hoofs." "Certainly, my dear fellow," replied Mr. So-and-so; "but, as I do not know them, will you be kind enough to put tags on them for me?"

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

PROMPT JUSTICE.

The Magistrate Was Firm and Tried to Be Genial.

In the "History of Beverly," Mass., the following anecdote is related of a good justice of the peace in the old colonial times. On a cold night in winter a traveler called at his house for lodging. The ready hospitality of the justice was about being displayed when the traveler unluckily uttered a word which his host considered profane.

Upon this he informed his guest that he was a magistrate, pointed out the nature of the offense and explained the necessity of its being expiated by sitting an hour in the stocks.

Remonstrance was unavailing, for custom at that time allowed the magistrate to convict and punish at once, and in this case he acted as accuser, witness, jury, judge and sheriff, all in one.

Cold as it was, our worthy justice, aided by his son, conducted the traveler to the place of punishment, an open place near the meeting house where the stocks were placed. Here the traveler was confined in the usual manner, the benevolent executor of the law remaining with him to beguile the time of its tedium by edifying conversation.

At the expiration of the hour he was reconducted to the house and hospitably entertained till the next morning, when the traveler departed with, let us hope, a determination to consider his words more carefully before giving them utterance in the hearing of a conscientious magistrate.

JAPAN'S PAGODAS.

They Are Built to Resist the Shock of an Earthquake.

A remarkable fact in Japan is that pagodas built hundreds of years ago embody the principle of the modern seismograph, which is to minimise the effect of earthquake motion by the combination of an inverted pendulum with an ordinary pendulum, or, in other words, by the union of a stable and an unstable structure to produce a neutral stability, which renders the whole building least sensible to earthquake shock.

In the hollow well of every five storied pagoda a heavy mass of timber is suspended freely, like an exaggerated tongue, from the top right to the ground, but not in contact with it, and at the shock of an earthquake this large pendulum slowly swings and the structure aways and then settles back safely upon its base.

This is also the principle followed in the construction of all bell towers throughout Japan, where the bell acts as pendulum, and the roof, supported by posts, forms an inverted pendulum, as in the seismograph.

When an earthquake occurs a pagoda or a bell tower may be rotated or displaced, but it cannot be overturned as a whole.—Wide World Magazine.

A Willing Sect.

Dean Ramsay has a story of that border hostility between English and Scots which used to go to baiter lengths. A Scottish drover was returning from the south in particularly bad humor with the English, having done poor business, when he saw in Carlisle a notice offering a reward of £50 to any one who would volunteer for the unpopular task of hanging a condemned criminal. Seeing his chance to make up for his bad market and comforting himself with the thought that he was unknown there, he did the job and got his fee. As he was leaving he was taunted as a beggarly Scot, doing for money what no Englishman would. But he answered, with a cheerful grin, "I'll hang ye a' at the price."

Ways to an Untimely End.

The catalogue of the ways and means employed by otherwise sensible people to incur the risk of disease and an untimely end include running to catch trolley cars, breathing rapidly through the mouth instead of deeply through the nose, eating too hastily and overeating, "slouching" instead of standing and walking in an erect attitude, using unnecessary stimulants, failing to exterminate the pestilential housefly, which goes blithely about carrying the germs of disease; sleeping in ill ventilated rooms and failing to protect food from flies and other insects by proper screening.

Hard Luck.

Bob Footlite (actor)—Failure? I should think it was! The whole play was ruined. She threatened! How was that? Bob Footlite—Why, at the end of the last act a steam pipe burst and hissed me off the stage.

The Telegraph.

The first royal speech transmitted by telegraph was that delivered by the late Queen Victoria when she opened parliament on Nov. 15, 1837. The speed of transmission was fifty-five words a minute.

Peeling a Snake.

It is difficult to skin a dead snake, and the skin is often spoiled in the course of the operation, while, on the other hand, it is a simple matter to skin a live snake, and the skin thus gained is worth much more. Dead snakes bring from 2 to 5 cents, according to their size, and live ones from 25 cents to $1. One of the largest snake skin companies has factories in Sumatra. When a snake is received from a hunter it is seized adroitly by an operator, one hand squeezing the neck and the other holding the tail. It is then attached by the neck to the trunk of a palm tree, an assistant holding it by the tail. With the point of a knife the operator cuts the skin just below the head and, pulling with all his strength, peels it from the writhing reptile in the same way that a woman peels a pair of gloves from her hand.—Popular Mechanics.

Two Points of View.

"Good morning, Jones!"

"Good morning, Brown! Any news today?"

"Why, yes. You know my brother who works at the bank? Well, he went to business the other day and found £1,000 on the counter. And what do you think he did? Stole the money and tripped off to Canada. And when the news reached my father it broke the old man's heart."

"That's funny; You know, my brother works at a bank, too, and when he went to business the other morning he found £1,000. And what do you think he did?"

"What—stole it?"

"No; took it straight to the manager's office. And when the news reached my father, do you know, it broke the old man's heart!"—London Telegraph.

Streams of Light.

One night we were in a dense crowd watching a parade when during one of those unaccountable lulls which so often occur in large crowds a little fellow who was perched high up on his father's shoulder shouted: "Oh, papa, you ought to see! Way in the street they are just squirting light all over the people."—Delineator.

Successful Publicity.

The king of successful advertisers was given an interview.

"My methods are very simple," he said. "I learned them from watching a girl trying to keep her engagement a secret."

One Foot in the Grave.

"You see that strapping, robust man When I saw him last night he had on foot in the grave."

"Extraordinary! Who is he?"

"He is playing the gravedigger in 'Hamlet' at the local theater."

Smart Simplicity in Negliges

Empire Model in Lavender with Panel Front.

By Marjorie

ONE need not go far in search for the source of inspiration for the latest designs in negligee, tea gowns and strictly informal house gowns.

The long, somewhat closely fitting princess, the front panel, the raised waist line and even the elongated effects are most cleverly produced in these garments which contribute so materially to one's moments of comfort. I have used "moments" advisedly, because the woman who luxuriates in vast periods of an hour or two is the exception in these days.

It is a regrettable fact that more women do not possess these wardrobe necessities, not only because of the relaxation they afford, but in order to save outdoor clothes from useless wear and tear, which sooner or later show unmistakable signs of the lounging habit.

These garments may be made up most reasonably and attractively from goods offered on shop counters, or afternoon and evening gowns are remodeled into negligee and tea gowns, so there seems small excuse for any woman not to possess them.

I have in mind several women claiming the most enviable assortment of tea and breakfast gowns, half and full length negligee, who resort to this economical and artistic way of employing gowns only fit for this service.

They are remodeled, using more of the self-material, or combined with another. High-necked gowns are cut low, square, round or in a V, sleeves are cut to elbow length or made longer, narrow skirts are pleated and made into bustle effects, and so the work progresses.

Women not familiar with the little scheme seldom their extravagance, but knowing ones can only admire their ingenuity.

Marquisettes, voiles and lisle crepons are much used where semi-transparent materials are desired. Albatross, cashmere, challis, imported and domestic flannels, crepes, silk, wool and cotton are shown in new and most attractive patterns. There is, however, a strong feeling for plain colors, relieved by hand or machine work, lace, braid and band trimmings.

Swisses, dimities, lawns, linens and linenes are the washable materials preferred.

Yokes, fichus, large flat collars, the newest rippling into revers, the side ruffle, scarf ends and the more close fitting lines may be counted upon as the leading features.

Bolero and simulated bolero effects are carried out with flat trimming and in a corresponding material, usually figured. Yokes and panel effects are embroidered, braided and trimmed with lace. Edges in many cases, especially on the half length negligee, have scalloped edges, piped or embroidered. An otherwise plain little dressing sack is rendered quite pretty by this simple treatment.

Shirring is much employed for distributing the fullness at the shoulders and waistline. The Gibson plait still holds its own and is not infrequently the excuse for some trimming which lengthens the waistline.

BELT AND SCARF EFFECTS MUCH FAVORED.

It is rather surprising that heretofore the scarf has not been more generally called into play for this style of garments. It has presided on numberless short-waisted tea gowns, but the passion for scarfs of the past season is the cause of the present vogue.

The first model shown here is a morning gown of soft French flannel in a dull yellow, relieved by several rows of very narrow black braid and a silken scarf that encircles the waist just above the normal line, terminating into a rosette and two scarf ends.

The second full-length model on the opposite side in cashmere closely resembles the cloth dresses worn at this time, save the deep pointed collar. It is a high-belted princess with the front panel trimmed with self-covered buttons. The collar is outlined by flat bands of satin matching the girdle scarf in a darker shade than the cashmere. The chemisette is of cream batiste.

The model in blue to the right of the centre is cut in deep points and the sleeves are bell-shaped. The wide collar ripples away into the revers previously mentioned. Bands of black satin are used as trimming, the same being employed for the tiny buttons and the scarf that threads its way from the side of the negligee to the back, where it is loosely tied in a knot and falls below the hem of the garment.

The last negligee is a coral-colored model in challis, laid in fine plaits on shoulders and sides. The neck is cut circular, outlined by a flat, shaped band. The side ruffle is of batiste, daintily hemstitched. The scarf is also carried out in black, cream or self-color.

This may be made in one or two pieces joined at the waistline.

Smart Menus and Guest Cards

As usual, the realistic menus of the moment display typical deck chairs, bathing machines, motors, balloons, dirigibles, monoplanes, and all the aerial modes of locomotion, as well as badges, sports, implements and pretty maidens with courteous partners engaged in one of their favorite games. More dainty, however, are the menus with fancifully cut edges, on the top of which rests, maybe, a bewitching girl or a beaming pierrot waving a shower of kisses, or, still better, a lovely floral device full of tender symbols.

The prevailing taste is for long, narrow menu cards, often framed with two or three gold or colored lines simulating an artistic vase, from the mouth of which escapes a bouquet of roses, picotees or carnations, in some delicate tint, spread out in the manner of a fan in such a way as to leave an open space between the green stalks. The guest cards en suite consist of a large wide ring on the lower part of which is inscribed a name, whilst on the upper half blossoms in a small nosegay of corresponding flowers with the stems hanging in the void space ready to be fixed to the rim of a wine glass, so as not to interfere with either the shape or the decoration of the bouquet-like ornament.

Many of these miniature cards are mere crescents tipped at each horn with a tuft of flowers, recalling those of the china services, damask napery, floral decoration or the banquet table, or, again, with the Christian name of the hostess or guest in whose honor the repast is given. The 2-inch posays of violets, forget-me-nots, lilies-of-the-valleys, painted and cut in imitation of the real thing, also find great favor; they are apparently tied with ribbon, on one floating end of which is displayed a name and on the other a motto or riddle.

Fashion Caprices

More antique silk, more supple and silkier than ever, is forging ahead in black, white and all fashionable colors for millinery purposes, especially as upper coverings for the crown and brim, with velvet for the underfacing. It is likewise in demand for the full, puff crowns on tarbans.

Diagonals, tweeds and homespuns are the fashionable materials for morning suits, and may be depended upon to give ample service. Coats are invariably long, with fastenings low and deep shawl collars. Three large buttons make the usual closing.

Bands of Chinese and Japanese embroidery (relief work in gold or silver thread) on rich colored satins are used in many ways for trimming hats, gowns, and as vests and waistcoats.

Tiger effects in fancy plumage are new and very striking for morning hats.

Tricorne hats appear in fur, cloth, satin and velvet.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—It is understood that the settlement arrived at by the adjusters who have been working out the insurance loss sustained by the burning of the library wing of the Provincial Parliament buildings, will be seventeen per cent. of the total insurance carried by the provinces.

The award of the appraisers will give Ontario $127,500 on the total insurance of $750,000 on the whole building. The loss on the contents of the building, including the library, which were uninsured, is estimated at $300,000.

Auto Party Narrowly Escapes.

Melbourne, Ont., Oct. 15.—In their 45-horse-power touring car, running at the rate of 30 miles an hour, a Toronto party consisting of Mrs. S. Gallagher, her two daughters and her sister, who were returning from Detroit, escaped death last night when the chauffeur was forced to take a 40-foot embankment when he struck a piece of bad road a few miles from this village.

Mrs. Gallagher and the chauffeur, Arthur Hastings, were thrown heavily against a fence, a picket of which tore the young man's side. Mrs. Gallagher had only a few bruises and the other ladies landed in a pile of sand. The car was put out of business and it required a traction car to haul it back on to the road.

30 Tons Pressure on a Bar of Soap

¶ Every bar of Taylor's Borax Soap is put under a pressure of thirty tons to drive out the moisture.

¶ We use only the purest cocoanut oil from the Isle of Ceylon. Then we boil it doubly long and mix in the borax. While boiling we run thousands of gallons of clean water through the soap which carries away all impurities.

¶ Twenty-one days are required to make a single cake. The labor of more than 200 people is represented in the cake.

¶ We put every bar through an ageing process equal to six months in your pantry. You don't have to age this soap.

¶ The bar is hard and firm. It wears much longer. The borax softens the water which also reduces the amount of soap by almost half that ordinarily required.

SOCIALISTS WANT REVENGE.

Rioting In Europe as Result of Ferrer Execution.

Rome, Oct. 15.—Indignation meetings were held throughout Italy yesterday in consequence of Wednesday's events at Barcelona.

In this city the protest against the execution of Ferrer has brought business almost to a standstill. Workmen generally have abandoned their employment. No street cars are being operated and cabs and automobiles remain at their stations with no one to take them out. The whole normal life of the city is interrupted.

Among the masses the feeling grows more turbulent as the people attribute the execution of the revolutionist to reactionism, Vatican influence and Jesuit support.

The Spanish and Austrian embassies and the Vatican are closely guarded by troops and it is thought that the measures adopted by the police and military authorities will prevent serious outbreaks.

Paris Casualties.

Paris, Oct. 15.—The police records show that one policeman was killed and 78 persons wounded during Wednesday's rioting. Among those arrested were five notorious anarchists.

Socialists Vow Vengeance.

Brussells, Oct. 15.—The Socialists yesterday declared a boycott against Spanish goods and resolved to keep the flag at their headquarters at half-mast until the execution of Ferrer was avenged.

Records There to Prove, Says Cook.

Atlantic City, N.J., Oct. 15.—Expressing astonishment at the statement of Edward Barrill, Dr. Cook yesterday maintained that he had ascended to the summit of Mount McKinley, and said further that if an expedition will follow the route he took they will find the records deposited by him at the summit of the mount.

Cook was given a military escort home.

Must Pay for Jilting Sweetheart.

Bracebridge, Oct. 15.—Before Justice McMahon at the Assizes, Miss Elizabeth Wright of Baysville was awarded $1,000, against Frederick Bastedo. Bastedo is a prominent farmer in McLean Township. The wedding was to have taken place last September, and was postponed without reason three or four times to definite dates, on one occasion the bride-to-be having guests invited, bridesmaid engaged, and feast spread, when the defendant failed to appear.

900,000 Square Miles More.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Capt. Bernier, the commander of the Arctic, arrived in the city yesterday morning to report to the Government upon his recent trip to the north.

He has brought with him maps showing the territory of which he took formal possession in the name of the Dominion of Canada, and he estimates that it covers an area of 900,000 square miles.

Arrested in England.

Brantford, Ont., Oct. 15.—William Thurston, who was tenant on a farm near this city belonging to William Brittain, is under arrest in London, Eng., charged with fraud involving $320, he having sailed on the Virginian with his family recently. Whether he will be brought back or not, will be a matter for the consideration of the Attorney-General's Department.

Deliberately Shoots Girl.

Pittsburg, Oct. 15.—Angered because he had been reprimanded, and, believing his cousin, Margaret Lang, aged 16, had complained to his mother, little George Augustian, aged 7, shot and instantly killed the young woman yesterday.

Collapse Of Shepherd Perjury Charges

AFTERMATH OF ELECTION PETITION THRESHED OUT---PERJURY BECOMES PURGERY

Truth of Shepherd's Election Trial Story Demonstrated---After Two Witnesses for Prosecution and One for Defence, Magistrate Dismisses the Wilson Charges---Crown Abandons Brundrette Charge---Plain Evidence of a Conservative Agreement or Arrangement With Shepherd, As He Swore There Was---Complete Collapse of the Purity Campaign Merger.

After a short innings the prosecution in the Wilson-Brundette, so-called Shepherd perjury charges were "cleaned bowled" yesterday in the Police Court. In yesterday's issue was printed the evidence taken before recess in the Wilson charge. After the hearing resumed three more witnesses were examined, the counsel for the Crown and the defence made their arguments, and the Magistrate, after a clear and logical summary of the evidence, delivered judgment dismissing the Shepherd charge and afterwards intimated that with the same or similar evidence to offer in the Brundrette charge it would be a waste of time to proceed with that and the Crown withdrew it.

Geo. Benton was the first witness called after adjournment. He stated that he might have been at the White House during the election, and might have seen Shepherd there. He had some dealings after the election with Shepherd, when the witness wrote to Shepherd to send word to Mr. Moore. This was done at the instance of Mr. Burnham. He could not say as to whether Shepherd had done as requested or not. He had understood that Shepherd was doing some work for Conservatives. He had understood that from Peter Gardner.

Herbert Kendry, the next witness, testified that he was a son of James Kendry, ex-M. P., and had helped in the campaign in the Conservative interests.

"Was there any suspicion on the part of the Conservatives or some of them that corrupt means were to be used in the election?"

"Yes."

"Were there some means adopted to prevent this?"

"I heard there were detectives."

"Did you know that Shepherd was out seeking information?"

"No."

"Did your father not tell you that he was?"

"I never heard my father mention his name, that I remember of."

J. H. Burnham was called.

He testified that he was the candidate in the Conservative interests, that Mr. Kendry was his agent, and Mr. R. M. Waddell, secretary treasurer of the Conservative Association.

"Did you know that Shepherd was one of the detectives working in your interests?" the witness was asked.

"Yes, I had heard that he was one."

"Did Mr. Gardner tell you that money was paid to Shepherd?"

"I can't recollect that I was advised by Gardiner about that."

Mr. Burnham was questioned about the telephone in Mr. Wilson's room. It had not been put in at his expense, and if the expense of the telephone was included in the official list of expenses it was through error.

Mr. Wood pointed out that it was a Machine telephone and therefore nothing had been paid for it, as no charge has yet been made for the use of any of the Machine 'phones in the city.

Mr. Burnham was asked as to hiring of detectives by the Conservatives and said that it was done to benefit not the Conservative party, but "public morality". He had acquiesced with the others in having men to do detective work. He was quite sure that he had not spoken to Mr. Kendry about Shepherd until recently and had known nothing of the payments made to him until recently. He did not know this at the time of the election.

Charge Dismissed.

This was all the evidence heard and Mr. Wood made a brief argument. He held that the charges had been fully sustained. He stated that Mr. Wilson ,hitherto an active worker, had, in this case, received notice that the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company were to remain neutral. He therefore had nothing to do with the campaign, and yet he was being dragged in in this way. Mr. Wood argued that the charges were sustained by the word of two men against one, and could not be affected by what some one else did at some other time.

Mr. Gordon, for the defendant, argued that there was no evidence against his client. Because Mr. Wilson might be reflected upon was no reason why the case should go to trial. He pointed out that the evidence of Mr. Waddell showed that Shepherd had been left to his own devices as to getting information.

He pointed out that at the interview on the night at Mr. Kendry's house, Mr. Kendry had informed Shepherd hat he would not see his family starve. He maintained that there had been an arrangement made, that in pursuance of this arrangement Shepherd had made reports and had been paid by Mr. Waddell for supplying this information.

Magistrate Dumble, in giving judgment, said that he was not dealing with the morality of the case or the merits and conduct of the two parties. It was a case of perjury, and the point was whether Shepherd's story was true or untrue. There was no doubt that Shepherd had made the allegations with which he was charged. It was for the Magistrate to decide whether there was sufficient evidence to put Shepherd on his trial or not. Mr. Kendry had sworn in a broad, genral way that the allegations were wholly untrue.

"It is stated," said Mr. Dumble, that Wilson, having first had an interview with Shepherd, went with Shepherd on Sunday to see Mr. Kendry. For reasons the parties understood they did not want to be seen together. Mr. Wilson went by George street and Mr. Shepherd by Water St., and they met at the bridge and went to the mill, finding Mr. Kendry here. It was his custom to be at his office on Sundays. Shepherd was a complete stranger to Mr. Kendry. There was no reason why he should go there unless for a special purpose. What was said there is not stated by Mr. Kendry. Mr. Shepherd, on the other hand, swears that there was an agreement entered into.

Mr. Dumble pointed out that on the next night there was further conversaion about the matter at Mr. Kendry's house, at which here were present Messrs. Kendry, Shepherd, Peter Gardner and Waddell. Conversation took place along the line of Shepherd's assisting the Conservative party. The Magistrate held that Mr. Waddell's evidence showed that Shepherd had been paid for the services arranged for.

"Is there any judge or jury in the country" asked Mr. Dumble, "that would say that this man corruptly and wickedly swore to what was false? I don't think there is, and why should I, therefore, send him on to trial. I dismiss this charge.

Brundrette Charge Withdrawn.

At the conclusion of the Wilson charge, which was dismissed, the charge commonly known as the Brundrette charge was brought forward.

It was founded upon the information:

That Robert H. Shepherd, in swearing at the election protest trial, that he had been engaged or employed by James Kendry, John G. M. Wilson and "the said William Arthur Brundrette to go into the Liberal Committee rooms, under false pretenses, and to act a false part, whereas "in truth and in fact the said Robert H. Shepherd never was employed by the said James Kendry, J. G. M. Wilson, and W. A. Brundrette for the purpose aforesaid, nor for any other purpose at any time, whereby the said Robert H. Shepherd did then and there commit wilful and corrupt perjury, contrary to the criminal code.

Both the crown and defence said they were ready to proceed and W. A. Brundrette took the witness stand:

Mr. Dumble—Isn't this charge virtually the same thing all over again, with one name substituted for another?

Mr. Brundrette—I have been falsely charged by Shepherd. I promised the Canadian General Electric Company that I would not take part in the election contest, and I kept my word and now I am compelled to rest under the charges made by Shepherd at the election trial. I think I should have a chance to set myself right.

Mr. Dumble—This Court is not for the purpose of serving private or personal ends.

After a little interchange between the lawyers the Magistrate, as a favour, consented to take Mr. Brundrette's statement, which was taken by regular procedure, as follows:

I met Mr. Shepherd at the C. G. E. Anglers' cottage, down the river, on Wednesday, September 9, 1908. There was nothing passed between Wilson, Shepherd and myself about the election. Shepherd brought the matter up and stated that he had made up his mind to support the Conservative candidate in this campaign; he considered he hadn't been used fairly by the Liberal party. I told him I was taking no part whatever in the campaign, and that I could give him no information. That covers all my conversation with him. I was not a party to any agreement with Shepherd to do anyhing for the Conservative party. No mention was made of a cheque for $200, neither my own cheque nor any other.

To Mr. Gordon: "I was not out with Shepherd in a canoe on Sunday. I was out fishing with him on Saturday morning. As far as I know Shepherd was not invited to the cottage. Did not canvass a man to vote for Burnham in the last election. If any

CRUELTY OF MIDDLE AGES IN 20TH CENTURY

PARADING EL ROGHI IN A CAGE THROUGH STREETS OF FEZ.

Here you see with your own eyes the cruelty of the middle ages revived in the twentieth century.(

This remarkable photograph, taken in sun-baked Morocco — Morocco, where every man turns his face to the east at least twice a day and prays to the same God of mercy as you do—has just reached the Ottawa Journal. The man in the cage, who is being paraded before the people on a camel's back, is El Roghi Bou-Hamara, pretender to the throne of Morocco. His tormenter is the Sultan Mulai Hafid, whose barbarous nature was pleased by this spectacle in the streets of Fez.

El Roghi's crime was that of aspiring to the weak and shaggy Moroccan throne. Only a few months ago Mulai Hafid himself was a pretender.

This photograph was taken by a French correspondent in Fez. He says that El Roghi was dignified, but occasionally swore roundly in his native tongue at some soldier who would prod him with a bayonet.

After the parade he was exhibited opposite the sultan's palace for four days in the cage, which was covered with a canopy, thus showing the mockery of the sultan, for a canopy is a symbol of royal power in Morocco.

Following this El Roghi was placed in a dungeon in the Sultan's palace, and day after day he was taken before the monarch and questioned. The cruel monarch was gloating over his captive and working himself up by the sight of the live man to a pitch where he could enjoy the horrible death he planned for him.

Two accounts are given of El Roghi's death. One is that he was taken into the Sultan's menagerie, and, in the presence of Mulai Hafid, disembowelled. While awaiting merciful death, he was tortured, and when he no longer breathed his body was torn limb from limb and thrown to the animals.

The other story is that the sultan and his chamberlain took the manacled prisoner into the menagerie and thrust him into a cage of lions. The animals pounced upon El Roghi, and, after severely injuring him, left the victim and refused to return, despite the furious goadings of the sultan. The latter then drew him out of the cage with hooks, and, pouring oil over the still living man, set him afire, feeding the flames with oil-soaked rags until nothing was left but the charred bones of the pretender.

Only a week before this the representatives of the powers called on Mulai Hafid in a body and protested against any cruelties being practised on El Roghi.

How long will civilization stand for this sort of thing?

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 15.—Meagre dispatches received to-day tell of heavy damage done by a tornado in Georgia, Alabama and eastern Tennessee. Three persons are known to have been killed and it is believed the death list will swell materially, as reports come in from the stricken district. Rain and hail fell. Many streams are flooded and the hail stones, which are unusually large, did much damage to crops.

THE WRONG MAN

John Jones Was Not the One Who Was "Begging."

John Jones, who was remanded on Tuesday on a charge of vagrancy, came up before acting Magistrate, City Clerk Armstrong, at the police court this morning and was dismissed, the police evidently having got the wrong man. Several ladies from East City where it was alleged that the prisoner had begged, were called but Jones was not the man that had called at their places.

He stated that he was only in town a couple of hours and had never been across the river.

VILLAGERS PLEASED

Examiner Special.

Omemee, Oct. 15.—The people of Omemee are to-day wearing the smile that won't come off, because of the success achieved by the deputation which interviewed the Board of Railway Commissioners this week at Toronto in regard to improved railway facilities at that village.

The deputation consisted of Warden Geo. A. Jordan, Col. Sam Hughes, M. P., Dr. Mason, M. P. P., and reeves Beatty of Omemee and Boate, of Emily.

The result of the interview was that all trains will stop at Sturgeon St., in Omemee, baggage will be unloaded there and a temporary shelter will be erected and kept well heated. The improvements will be effected as soon as the survey for the proposed grain route is completed.

Mr. Tiffin, of the G. T. R., agreed to the above and the Railway Commission readily sanctioned it.

CASE ENLARGED

Darcy Dunlop Charged with Assaulting Jas. Morrow on Wednesday Night.

Darcy Dunlop was charged in the police court this morning with assaulting James Morrow on Wednesday night. He pleaded not guilty, and City Clerk Armstrong at the request of the defendant enlarged the case until to-morrow morning to allow Dunlop to bring a witness.

James Morrow stated that he got into a scuffle on George St. on Wednesday night with Dunlop and another fellow. Dunlop kicked him and the injury received required medical attention.

Two other witnesse were heard, who saw the row and who saw Dunlop kick at the complainant.

MOB VERSUS POLICE

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Paris, France, Oct. 15.—A wave of rioting is surging over Europe. The excitement over Spain's execution of Francise Ferrer at Barcelona is still rising, and to-day's demonstrations were more serious than any preceding. France is in a furore and battles between crowds and the police are reported from a dozen cities. In Italy the situation is even worse. Austria is also aroused and feeling is running high in Germany.

STR. ATHABASCA FAST ON ROCKS AND A FIERCE GALE IS RAGING

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 15.—Steamer Athabasca is still fast on the rocks off Flowerpot Island, and on account of the high seas and heavy gale still raging it has been impossible for tugs to get to her assistance. It is feared that if the fury of the storm does not abate the vessel may be seriously damaged, if not destroyed. Passengers and crew are still on the vessel, and though not in immediate danger, much anxiety is felt on account of the heavy pounding of the boat by the huge waves.

Woman Arrested On The Street In The Early Morning Was Discharged

Kate Van Norman pleaded not guilty at the police court this morning to a charge of wandering about the streets, being unable to give a satisfactory account of herself. This woman only a short time ago, was released from the Mercer Reformatory, but City Clerk Armstrong, who acted as Magistrate this morning, decided to give her another chance and she was allowed to go.

P. C. Newhall stated that between 12 and 1 o'clock on Monday morning last he saw the prisoner, accompanied by a man and two or three young fellows, following her going down George street. They went into the restaurant and ordered something to eat. They were talking and laughing. The man with her got some cigarettes. When they came out they looked up and down the street to see if a policeman was around. The prisoner, with the man, went west on Hunter street. They stopped a few yards west of Aylmer street. When the prisoner saw P. C. Newhall she ran into a lane. She turned and called him a bad name, saying, "You are not going to take me." He had to use considerable force to bring her to the police station.

Lost Their Way After Dark Driving Through Otonabee

The experience of two young men, two young photographers in fact, while returning home through Otonabee on Wednesday night, was something of a joke though from their standpoint it was quite the reverse. Not being on more than a passing acquaintance with the location of the main roads it was not long after twilight fell that they became muddled in their directions but persuaded themselves that they were speeding homeward. They turned here and there following the fences and grumbling about the weather and wishing it was the middle of July with the moon at the full. Finally they awoke to the fact that they were not making any progress and lit matches to get their bearings and lead the horse along, for somehow it seemed unfamiliar with the road and often took a misstep into the ditch. They learned from a farmer that they were five miles or more away from their route and finally got started again and managed to keep the horse on the highway. When they arrived home when the streets were all deserted, they found that the horse was blind. That explained the animal's inability to keep between the wheel ruts.

Brought Her Future Husband To Visit One Who Is To Hang

Wilkesbarre, Pa., October 14.—Mrs. Mary Nazarko, wife of Stanley Nazarko, the Slav who is to be hanged to-day, visited the county gaol yesterday in company with Michael Mazeski, the man she is to marry after her husband is executed, and requested the sheriff that she be permitted to witness the hanging. The condemned man was willing that his wife, whom he deserted in Russia ten years ago, and the man who is to be her second husband, be present and see him on the scaffold, but Sheriff Rodda said the law would not permit it. Nazarko has left a will in which he bequeaths $1,000 to his wife and her future husband. He is perfectly satisfied that the two should wed. Nazarko will be hanged for killing a woman with whom he lived in this country.

Directors Of Havelock Light Co. Face A Serious Charge

On Monday of this week, Messrs. Dr. Holdcroft, Aleck Rose, J. W. Bryans, W. T. Curtis and Wm. Mathison were served with writs.

The writs are the result of an amended claim in the action of Bennett vs. Rose, concerning disputed stock holdings in the Havelock Electric Light & Power Co. The claim has been amended by adding Messrs. Mathison, Curtis, and Bryans, as party defendants with Dr. Holdcroft and Mr. Rose, the five original directors of the Company, and asks that judgment be given against them for $5,000. In addition the amended claim sets up that there was a conspiracy formed and carried out by these gentlemen to defraud the stockholdess by cancelling from them much, if not all, of the Company's affairs.

The Court has allowed the action to be so amended but on the terms that the plaintiffs will have to pay for all costs thrown away by reason of this, which are said to amount to several hundred dollars.—Havelock Standard.

Havelock Syndicate To Bore For Oil And Gas In Belmont

"The Tiffin Oil Gas and Salt Syndicate is the title of a syndicate composed of local capitalists who will drill for oil and gas in Belmont in the course of a few weks.

Mr. Aleck Rose, of town, is the originator of the Syndicate. For years he has known of certain properties in this vicinity that showed every evidence of being oil and gas bearing. Lately he secured options on about 1500 acres and organised the Syndicate to test and develop the prospect.

The Syndicate consists of one hundred memberships of the value of $25.00 each, and enough memberships have already been subscribed in town to warrant operations being commenced at once. Mr. Wesley Davidson who has been appointed agent and manager of the Syndicate, is away now procuring a drilling outfit, and in the course of two or three weeks, drilling will commence in Belmont, probably on Mr. Jas. Haughton's property, lot 2, concession 1.

All the members of the Syndicate are extremely optimistic regarding the prospects to "make good", and it is to be hoped that the tests will realise their expectations as it would prove of inestimable benefit to themselves, to Havelock and the surrounding district.—Havelock Standard.

THE SECOND COLLAPSE.

Another case of "the engineer hoist with his own petard." The Wilson-Brundrette charges of perjury against Robert H. Shepherd in the police court yesterday suffered a similar inglorious collapse to that of the West Peterborough election petition of which they were the natural sequel. It did not take long to show that Shepherd did not commit perjury when in the election protest trial, he swore that he was employed by James Kendry, J. G. M. Wilson and Roland M. Waddell to procure information as to doings in the Liberal committee rooms. Jas. Kendry and J. G. M. Wilson gave evidence denying in glittering generalities and inconsequent details the full truth of Shepherd's evidence to the effect that there had been agrement or arrangement with the parties named and to the effect stated. But it only required the evidence of Roland M. Waddell, secretary of the Liberal Conservative Association, and consequently almoner-general of the party, to show that there must have been an arrangement such as Shepherd testified to, for he, Waddell, proved that it had been carried out through him, the official purse-bearer of the party—who had paid Shepherd for his services, even making one payment of twenty dollars through J. G. M. Wilson. Under such circumstances it was natural for the magistrate to say that no judge or jury would convict on a charge of perjury when such evidence had been presented and the equally natural sequel was the dismissal of the Wilson charge. It was also natural that the Magistrate should intimate that it would be a waste of time and needless expense to go into the Brundrette charge, which was "the same thing all over again with one name substituted for another," and after the magistrate with an unusual complaisance had taken Mr. Brundrette's deposition to permit him to deny that Shepherd's charges as against himself were unfounded, the Crown announced that the Brundrette charge was withdrawn. Thus came the second collapse—the second example of the petitioner and his Conservative allies being confronted and defeated by the very means they had concocted in their effort to humiliate and harass the winner of the last Dominion election and discredit the party to which he belonged. They went out for wool and came home shorn.

This—from the Conservative viewpoint—lame and impotent conclusion of the campaign of high morality and political purity in West Peterborough, emphasizes strongly two things. It shows in the first place, that all the false-swearing, all the exhibition of conscienceless moral degeneracy, in connection with the election trial, proceeded from the unsavouring instruments, employed by the Conservative party to ostensibly advance the cause of righteouaness, but in reality as was proven, to entrap the Liberal candidate and his supporters to the party advantage of the Conservative candidate. It shows, in the second place, the Pharisaic hypocrisy of the latter, who, posing as a purist of phenomenal spotlessness, was, in fact, the head and front of the foul mess of perjury, which has made the name of Peterborough to stink in the nostrils of the community and country. It is proper to insist upon his, for the late petitioner in the election protest, at the police Cour yesterday had the assurance, if not effrontery, to continue to pose as the apostle of plitical purity. He swore that detectives were employed by himself and his co-workers, not in he interests of the Conservative party—"no, sir, in the interests of public morality." This from the gentlemen whom Mr. Justice McMahon practically declared responsible for the nauseating free-and-easy swearing performed by Gates and his "bunch." Justice McMahon said, "the petition is founded upon Gates"—Gates who was employed by Mr. Burnham and paid $50 for his services to collect "evidence" and who showed himself fitted for such work, by being driven out of the witness box, as an unmitigated liar, utterly unworthy of belief, as were, as declared by the court, "the bunch," which Mr. Gates, by the help of Mr. Burnham's money, had "rounded up." Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. It is not difficult to perceive the influence behind a certain course of self-destruction.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN IRELAND.

Whatever may have been the faults of Liberal Governments in Great Britain many of them may be regarded as off-set by the measure of justice they have meted out to Ireland, with the result of transforming the Green Isle and vastly improving the independence and condition of her people. Captain O'Meagher Condon, a prominent Irish-American, who received the death sentence in 1847 for participation in a fatal affray in Manchester, but subsequently pardoned, has revisited Ireland after an absence of forty years. In a speech recently delivered he is reported as saying:

"We have passed through Ireland, and we have seen the results of the work which has been done. We have seen thousands of farms become the property of the tenants, men formerly subject to the beck of the landlords. We have seen those men masters of their own homes, having the profit of their industry for themselves instead of its going to landlords who spent the money elsewhere than in Ireland. We have seen thousands of houses sanitary and pleasant to look at and we have rejoiced at it. The reproach has been removed which too often in the past we heard from visitors to Ireland, in the words, 'How poorly your people live.' We feel sure that an increase of work in the same direction will result in making Ireland the garden land it was destined to be by nature. (Cheers.) We have seen again old men and old women relieved from the necessity of begging charity. Old age pensions have at least relieved them from pauperism. (Cheers.) And we have seen the establishment of a national university in Ireland for the first time. (Cheers.) * * * * We were told we should find only children and old men in Ireland. We have found thousands of young, vigorous, athletic men working there. (Cheers.) Everything is very much improved."

Ireland has had her woes and her sons in other lands will be glad to learn from a witness who can be trusted not to exaggerate, the great improvement in general conditions, which lead to the hope that the happier days are in store, and that the sad saying "unhappy Ireland" will cease to have the mournful significance of the past.

GAS, INDIGESTION AND HEARTBURN GO

Makes Your Out-of-Order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach, or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odours. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, outof-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent. case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

man says to the contrary he is stating what is not true. I met Wilson, Peter Gardner, and Mr. Waddell and others at Wilson's rooms in the White House. I won't say that I did not discuss politics with Mr. Waddell. Gardner told me he got reports from Shepherd.

The Magistrate read his record of Brundrette's sworn statement to the latter, and as the Magistrate signed it, he remarked that he, Brundrette, could show that to his employers, and it would constitute his exoneration.

The Charge Withdrawn.

Mr. Wood then stated that the charge, founded on Brundrette's information, was withdrawn, the lawyers bagged their briefs and Robert H. Shepherd, purged of both charges, retired from the Court. The Magistrate endorsed the $500 marked cheque for bail over to Mr. Hall, and the last chapter in the appendix to the West Peterborough election protest was closed.

AN ISLAND FROM LAKE KILLARNEY

One of the Scenes in "Sweet Innisfallen," Bernard Daly's Latest and Most Successful Play.

From the beautiful Lakes of Killarney, we are to be shown in scenic effects one of its islands in the new romantic play, "Sweet Innisfallen," with Bernard Daly as the sweet singing Irish laddy, Larry O'Connell, as a star of the first magnitude. Mr. Daly and his new play promise much that is beautiful in stage setting, as everything about the production is fresh and new. The location of the action of the play, an island in the historic Irish Lakes, gives a fine opportunity for beautiful scenic display. The story is said to be strong in plot and action, with Irish wit and humour on tap from the rise of the curtain in the first act until its fall at the end of the fourth and last. As a singer of Irish ballads, Mr. Daly has no superiors and that is saying much; for to be a successful Irish comedian, necessitates a fine tenor voice. Mr. Daly and Company in "Sweet Innisfallen," will appear at the Grand Opera House, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 20, under the auspices of Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians.

MR. GOODWIN'S S. S. CLASS HONOUR HIM WITH ADDRESS

Last night the members of Mr. Jas. Goodwin's class, in the Charlotte St. Methodist Church Sunday School, waited upon him at his residence, 172 Westcott street, and presented him with an address and a gold monogram ring. The occasion was Mr. Goodwin's retirement from the congregation of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, to associate himself with St. James' Methodist church.

Mr. Goodwin has been a member of the Charlotte Street Church Sunday School as pupil and teacher for about 30 years, having been teacher of one class for fifteen years. The following is the address:

Mr. James Goodwin.

Dear Teacher,—We, the members of the Bible class, so long and faithfully taught by you, deeply regret the severance of our association as teacher and scholars, while we remember the many pleasant and profitable Sunday afternoons when we have listened to your instructions.

We trust that the lessons you have imparted to us from God's word, may bring forth fruit in our lives to His glory. As a small token of our esteem, we ask you to accept of this ring. Should God's providence in the future lead you back to Charlotte St. Church you may be assured of a hearty welcome from the girls of your old class. Wishing every blessing, both temporal and spiritual, to Mrs. Goodwin and yourself. (Signed)

TRAGEDY IN PRISON

Girl at St. Petersburg Takes Poison to Avoid Execution.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 15—The circumstances attending the suicide of a girl named Matrena Prisiashnuk, who poisoned herself while lying in Kieff Gaol under sentence of death, have just been ventilated.

Eckart Horn, a young political convict, serving five years' imprisonment, was confined with a number of other "politicals" in the cell adjoining Prisiashnuk's.

He established communication with the condemned girl by taps and knocks, and she welcomed his suggestion that he should procure poison for her.

Thanks to the somewhat lax surveillance, Horn obtained the poison and excavated a tiny hole through the wall dividing the two cells. In the intervals of his work he concealed the cavity with clay.

He eventually passed the poison through the hole in the spout of a tin kettle, and after a whispered farewell with Prishianuk, watched her swallow it.

He wrote a long and pathetic letter to his finacee, describing the occurrence, and it was through the seizure of this letter that his participation in the tragedy was discovered.

He was tried before the Kieff court, but was acquitted.

After refreshments had been served Mr. Simpson was made the recipient of a handsome gentleman's companion accompanied by an address, expressing regret at his departure and wishing him every good fortune in his new home. Mr. Simpson, in a few words, thanked the donors for their handsome gift and expressions of good will. A very enjoyable hour was then spent in a social manner, the gathering breaking up at an early hour. The staff of the local branch of the Traders' Bank also presented Mr. Simpson with a handsome suit case before his departure. Harry will be greatly missed in canoeing and hockey circles, but all join in wishing him every success in his new home.—Lakefield News.

DETROIT WINS FIERCEST GAME OF SERIES AND TEAMS ARE TIED

Result in Doubt up to the Very Last--Hard Battle All the Way---Number of the Tigers Injured---Final Game in Detroit To-morrow--Jennings' Men Win Many New Sympathizers.

Detroit, October 14.—Fighting with their backs against the wall in such straits that, had their rivals succeeded in taking the game, the world's championship would have been over, with the Pittsburg Pirates the winners, Hughie Jennings' Detroit Tigers beat the foe back this afternoon, evening up the score of the world's series to three games each, and making the game to be played here on Saturday the crucial and deciding one for the title.

Everything considered, it is doubtful if any world's series game of recent date has included as many features of soul-stirring excitement. The long lead which the Pirates secured at the start, the inspiring batting rally in which the Tigers tied the score, and the plucky manner in which Jennings' men then forged ahead and stopped the invaders in their ninth inning rally, all kept the crowd of spectators on the anxious seat, and the finish found them raving like as many maniacs. The fierceness of the play in the closing inning baffled description. The Pirates ran bases like wild men. Wilson ran into Tom Jones at first, injuring him so severely that he is at present in an hospital, with scant chance of taking part in the closing game. A moment later Schmidt went down in the path of Abstein as he slid into the plate, sustaining a nasty cut in the leg. In the very next play Wilson slid into third, though out by an easy margin, and gashed Moriarty's ankle. The crowd made a rush at the Pirate runner but was pushed back before anything like a hostile demonstration had occurred.

It is certain that the closing game of the series is likely to develop one of the fiercest contests that baseball has ever witnessed, and already the railways are preparing to flood the city with tourists who will swell the throng in attendance.

To the Detroit battery and the stick work of Delehanty was due more than any other factors, the success of the Detroit Club. Mullin, though he had had but one day of rest since his last game, pitched superbly after the first inning, in which he all but lost. Schmidt gave what was by all odds the most stirring exhibition of catching during the series. His back stopping was perfect, and one play, in which after making a difficult catch of a foul near the grand stand, he turned and threw out Miller at second, was probably the finest effort of the day. He also closed the day with a wonderfully quick throw to Moriarty, retiring Gibson after Abbattachio had struck out.

Outside the first and ninth innings Mullin held the Pirates to two scattered hits. The interior of the Detroit clubhouse after the game resembled that of a hospital full of victims of a serious accident. On a cot lay Tom Jones, still in a semi-comatose condition, from which he rewived occasionally under the administration of the club physician, Dr. Keane, to vomit.

Schmidt and Moriarty were bleeding from their gashes, and Trainer Truhill was cauterizing the wounds which had been left by the Pirates' spikes. Jennings divided his time between slapping his well men on the back and looking anxiously after the treatment of the injured.

The club room was filled with comment regarding the sort of vengeance which the Tigers would surely take on the concluding game of the series, and regret was everywhere heard that Wilson would not be occupying an infield position where he could cover a base or get out of the way. Abstein, who spiked Schmidt, was designated as a marked man. The rancour which had been smouldering between the two teams broke into flame all along the line.

SAM CRAWFORD
Whose batting has helped Detroit in the present series. He played first base yesterday after Tom Jones was hurt. Crawford at one time was with Chatham in the Canadian League.

Deciding Game To Be Played In Detroit On Saturday

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—By the toss of a coin it was decided that if a seventh game was necessary to decide the world's championship it will be played in Detroit on Saturday.

This decision was reached after the game at Forbes Field yesterday. Ban Johnson represented the American League. To avoid endless argument and senseless criticism of the commission it was decided to resort to the time-honoured device of tossing a coin.

"Heads," said Ban Johnson, and "heads" it was.

The American League decided to honour its champion city by selecting Detroit, though making a great financial sacrifice in so doing.

Detroit must now win to-day's game in Detroit to make it a tie, and if the Tigers are successful Mullin will likely pitch again on Saturday, with Adams on the opposing firing line. This should make one of the hardest contests in the history of the game, and all the critics, Pittsburg excepted, are pulling for Detroit to win to-day.

There has been considerable kicking by the players during the series, and many fines have been opposed. Silk O'Loughlin fined Clarke, Leach, Gibson and Camnitz $25 apiece, and Umpire Klem fined Miller $100 for four steps he took towards him after being called out on strikes, just $25 a step.

A Pittsburg paper yesterday published absurd charges that the games were all framed up so as to play out the string of seven games, which drew out only emphatic denials from the presidents of both leagues, but some libel suits from the players, who claim to have been maligned. Manager Clarke's statement that "it was a canard of the lowest "type" about tops off the situation.

The games are absolutely on the level, both teams are playing their very best, and all the players are eager for the championship honours and the glory, not to mention the financial reward.

The winners will get over $1,900 apiece and the losers about $1,300. The players share only in the first four games, the receipts in the following contests going to the club owners and the National Commission.

Base ball's brightest stars, Ty Cobb, the American league's greatest batsman and base runner, who scored the first run in the present world's series, and Hans Wagner, who is generally regarded as the greatest ball player living. He led the Nationals at bat. Thousands have been wagered by the supporters of the rival teams that Wagner will outhit his youthful rival, and vice versa.

ITALIAN RUNNER UPSETS RECORD

(By Tip Wright.)

What do you know about this Emilio Lunghi person who came over here from Italy, trained on a diet of spaghetti and chianti, and romped off with the half-mile championship of the United States, cutting three-fifths of a second from the half-mile record?

Pretty tough to see Kilpatrick's great performance of 14 years ago smashed to everlasting smithereens, and by "one of them foreigners," as Martin Sheridan puts it. But as "Kil" was the first to congratulate Emilio, etc., about all the rest of us can do is to come in.

The half-mile is a killing distance. It is almost a sprint, and it takes the heart out of the best of them to go he route. For 25 or 30 years the best half-milers have been Americans. Prior to 1881 England had the cream of the performers at this distance, and now Italy forges to the front with Lunghi.

An interesting little table showing how the world's record has been sliced from time to time by the 880-yard men is appended. It tells a story of athletic development hard to refute:

1864—R. E. Webster, England, in 2.07 1-2.
1866—P. M. Thornton, England, 2.05.
1868—E. J. Colbeck, England, 2.02.
1870—R. V. Somers-Smith England, 2.02.
1872—G. A. Templer and T. Christie, England, (dead heat) 2.01.
1872—A. L. Pelpham, England, 1.59 3-4.
1876—W. Slade, England, 1.59 3-4.
1876—F. T. Elborough, England, 1.57 1-2.
1881—L. E. Myers, America, 1.56.
1884—L. E. Myers, America, 1.55 3-5.
1885—L. E. Myers, America, 1.55 2-5.
1888—F. J. K. Cross, England, 1.54 3-5.
1895—C. H. Kilpatrick, America, 153 2-5.
1909—E. Lunghi, Italy, 1.50 4-5.

From left to right the men in this group are Managers Jennings of Detroit and Clarke of Pittsburg, Umpires Johnstone of the National league, and "Silk" O'Laughlin of the American league. They were discussing ground rules when the photographer snapped them.

It is likely that J. B. McArthur and Dr. Billy Wood, of Toronto, will be the officials in Saturday's big game at Riverside Park, between Peterborough and the Parkdale Canoe Club. The Peterborough secretary wrote to the Paddlers asking them to suggest officials and Messrs. McArthur and Wood were mentioned. They are perfectly acceptable to the local club and will therefore act on Saturday. Much interest is being taken in the game among local people and the attendance will be large.

ANNUAL SPORTS AT THE GROVE SCHOOL

Most Successful Field Day at Lakefield Preparatory School.

The Annual Sports Day at the Grove Preparatory School on Wednesday was a great success, though the inclement weather somewhat marred the day's enjoyment. A number of prominent guests were present, among them being Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, R.D., G. B. Hilliard, Esq., Colonel Greenwood, Mrs. Tate, Rev. A. W. and Mrs. Mackenzie, Lieut. Hilliard and many others. The success of the day was largely due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Marling and to those gentlemen who kindly acted as officials. G. Cockshutt captured first prize in throwing the cricket ball, throwing a distance of 170 feet, J. Crombie won the hundred yards, B. Hamilton ending a close second.

B. Hamilton was the successful contestant in the obstacle race and S. Broughall finished first in the sack race.

Bennet captured the half mile race, J. Crombie ending second.

All the events were eagerly contested and during the day some interesting races were witnessed.

The following gentlemen acted as officials:

Starter—Lieut. Hilliard.

The sports were under the direction of the Grove Athletic Association, the following being the officers:

MURDER PROPHESIED

Swedish General's Death Foreseen by Friend in a Trance.

Stockholm, Oct. 16.—Swedish papers are excitedly discussing well-authenticated cases of "prophecy" connected with the assassination of General Beckmann in Stockholm at the time of the Czar's visit.

General Bjoerlin, a close friend of the murdered officer, who lay ill in Varberg, saw the whole scene of the murder before it took place. General Bjoerlin lay some days in a state of delirium, during which he spoke much of General Beckmann.

On June 26 he fell into the delusion that he was in Stockholm, and wanted to go to his friend's help, and late at night he cried to his nurse, "Sister, can you smell the powder?" and finally exclaimed, "I have seen Beckman being shot. I saw his blood in the street."

General Bjoerlin passed the whole night in a state of excitement. He fell asleep at six o'clock, and woke with his faculties clear. His first words were, "You will see they have shot General Beckmann." Three hours later he received the morning papers with the first account of his friend's assassination.

Prof. Sidney Alrutz explains this as a case of telepathy. The murderer Wang, he points ont, had planned General Beckmann's assassination in advance, and his plan was "telepathically conveyed to the psyche of General Bjoerlin.

RICH MICA VEIN ALONG PEACE RIVER

Deposit Two Miles Long and Sixty Feet Wide Found by Prospector.

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 14.—That there is enough mica to supply the demands of civilization for many decades in one solid vein, two miles long nestled away in the almost impenetrable blue granite chambers of the Peace River canyon is the claim of a prospector who reached here yesterday. The vein is situated at a point beyond which no man who has ever attempted to navigate the foaming waters of the Peace River through the canyon has escaped with his life and to build a railway to this vein would require millions. The prospector recently spent a year exploring in British Columbia and in the Peace River, and has amazing stories to tell of the almost inexhautible riches of that yet undeveloped country.

This particular vein of mica, with mica ranging in price from $25 to $1,000 a pound in the markets of the world the biggest gold mine ever discovered, would be a mere bagatelle,, is situated, to be exact, close to the British Columbia inlet of the canyon, 30 miles from the Alberta side of the mountains, just on the western side of Mount Selwin, and at the junction of the Parsnip and Finlay rivers, where they join to form the Peace.

"There is a solid hill of mica in that canyon," said the prospector. "The vein, as far as I could find, was two miles long and 50 feet wide. Nobody knows how deep it is, since mica is the deepest mineral there is. The mica lay there in great sheets, that I could lift up and turn over with my hands. There is no gold mine on earth that can come anywhere near it in richness."

BARRIE'S REASON FOR HIS DIVORCE

Wife Was in Love With Rival Novelist And So He Set Her Free.

London, October 15.—James M. Barrie, the novelist and playright, who was yesterday granted a divorce from his wife on the grounds of the latter's misconduct, told the court his reasons for seeking divorce, yesterday afternoon.

Barrie said that in 1908, he permitted the co-respondent the use of a cottage which the novelist owned at Farnham. It was at this cottage that the allaged misconduct took place. The plaintiff said that the matter first came to his ears from the servants, and that when the accusations were made known to his wife she admitted their truth. Barrie said that he offered to forgive the offences on condition that the defendant should break off her acquaintance with Cannan. He also said that he would consent to an agreement of separation. But these offers were refused by Mrs. Barrie, who pleaded with her husband to set her free, declaring that Cannan was the only man in the world for her.

No damages are asked by the plaintiff, but Cannan is mulcted of the costs.

They are called "Catspaw" Rubber Heels because they don't slip, the Canvas Plug prevents slipping. They are a great comfort and offer a sense of security to the step not found with any other Rubber Heel. Take none but "Catspaw." All dealers.

CHILLY HIDING PLACE

London, Oct. 16.—Hearing noises in the booking-office at Bowes Park Station a constable crawled towards the place on his hands and knees. The intruders, however, were on the alert and presently decamped and hid in the neighbouring allotments.

A second constable, assisting in the search, came upon Henry Baker, an Islington stoker, crouching behind a bush. "I'll come quietly," said Baker, genially. "I'm getting cold here. I've been listening to your fellows talk. They nearly trod on me once or twice."

Wm. Johnston, an old offender, was identified as his companion, while under arrest on another charge and they were jointly accused of stealing a bag and contents worth £40.

At Middlesex Sessions on Saturday Baker was sentenced to six months' and Johnson to twenty months' imprisonment.

If you only knew what comfort "Catspaw" Rubber Heels will bring, you would put them ono at once. Ask Shoe dealers or repairers.

A DREAM THAT CAME TRUE

London Wedding Prevented by the Tragic Death of Bridegroom.

London, Oct. 15.—A remarkable story of the spedy fulfilment of a dream was told at the Stepney coroner's inquiry as to the death of Solomon Litmann, aged thirty, a tailor which occurred at a restaurant in Whitechapel-road.

The man's wife, a prepossessing young German girl, told the Coroner, through an interpreter, that she and Linman had lived in Berlin for some years. Two weeks ago they were married in a private house in Berlin and came to England this wek. They had intended to be married properly on Thursday in a registry office.

The Coroner: And we are holding the inquest — an inquest instead of a wedding. I can't understand about this marriage in Berlin.

The girl said that she and her husband had not got the necessary papers at the time, and there was considerably more difficulty in getting married in Berlin then there was in London.

She aded that on Tuesday night she had a dream that e was taken ill and died suddenly. Presently he woke up, and when the girl told him of herd ream, he said, "I am not quite dead yet; I shall live a long time."

A few minutes afterward he sat up, complained of pains in his heart, and died almost immediately.

Dr. Ambrose said that death was disease of the heart.

SECOND CROP OF POTATOES THIS YEAR

Mr. John Williams, Boswell Ave., has a quantity of potatoes on display in White & Gillespie window. They are the second crop from the one garden and are large specimens of the tuber family.

It is not often that a second crop of potatoes can be produced in one season in this section of Canada. But one instance has just come to light, in which the second crop has been harvested within the city limits. Mr. J. Williams, who resides on Boswell avenue, rased his first crop of early potatoes in July. A few days later he planted a second crop, which have just been unearthed. They turn out to be in the pink of perfection, are unusually large tubers, and in fine, clean condition.

In the same window may also be seen some samples of mammoth mangels, grown on the farm of Telford Bros., Ennismore.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

THE HONEYMOONERS.

The "Honeymooners," Geo. M. Cohan's most successful musical comedy, thoroughly pleased a large audience at the Grand Opera House on Wednesday evening. The show is a typical Cohan one with plenty of sparkling music, lively, action, pretty girls and funny situations, and kept the house in a hilarious condition from the first curtain. The plot as usual a slight one, hinges upon the marriage of a widower to a widow. One has a daughter and the other a son, of whose existence the other is ignorant and the complications that arise through their unexpected arrival furnishes most of the fun. The company was a capable one and the production lost none of its enjoyment through their efforts. Will Dunley, the comedian, sang pleasingly and showed himself to be a clever dancer. Some of the song hits were "Nothing New Under the Sun, "The Hat My Dear Old Father Wore," and "I'll be Here."

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Enjoyable Evening Spent at Home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Gordon, Perry Street.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rock Gordon, Perry St., on Monday last. About thirty-five of Mr. Gordon's friends assembled, it being a quiet celebration of the anniversary of her birthday. Progressive euchre, music and dancing were enjoyed, after which a light luncheon was served.

Among the musical numbers were piano selections by Miss E. Kelly, Mr. C. McIntyre, Mr. Foster, vocal solos by Mr. John King and a number of mandolin selections, all of which were much enjoyed. Mr. Gordon received many happy returns of the occasion.

MOUNTAINEER'S TRAGIC TALE

Buried 200 Feet From Crag in Lake District—Rope Gives Way.

London, Oct. 15. — Through the snapping of the climbing-pole by which he was suspended while ascending the Eagle's Nest Ridge of Great Cable Mountain, Wastdale Head, Cumberland, Mr. Thos. James Rennison, chemist's assistant of Kirby Stephen, fell into a gully 200 feet below and was instantly killed.

Mr. Renison, who was twenty-nine years of age, was a skilled cragsman, but had never previously attempted the Eagle's Nest, which is known as the most dangerous climb in Lakeland. He was accompanied by Messrs. Fred Botterill, of Leeds, Fred Aldous, and Oliver Thorneycroft, of Manchester.

When the party started Mr. Rennison expressed a ish to lead, and he, accordingly went first, Mr. Robt. terill Mr. Aldous and Mr. Thorneycroft following in the order named. When some 200 feet up, and about 12 feet from the "belay" at which Mr. Mr. Botterill stood, Mr. Rennison slipped and fell. Mr. Botterill attempted by holding the rope to stop his fall, but the rope tautened and broke, and Mr. Rennison fell into the Needle Gully 200 feet below.

Mr. Thorneycroft reached the body within a few moments, but life was extinct, the unfortunate man's neck being broken. Mr. Rennison was a heavy man, and his first fall of 25 feet would probably have broken any climbing rope.

Troubled by His Boots.

A pathetic feature of the accident was that Mr. Rennison's sister was climbing with another party on Scawfell and had arranged to meet her brother after his ascent of the Eagle's Nest. As he did not join her she returned to the hotel in the evening and was heartbroken at the terrible news.

At the coroner's inquiry at Westwater Hotel, Mr. Millican Dalton, who refused to be sworn, remarking that he spoke the truth, said that Mr. Rennison, his cousin, was an experienced climber and knew how difficult the Eagle's Nest ascent would be. His boots had been troubling him when he started out, so he borrowed the witness' boots to walk to the foot of the climb, and then changed to his own. The Eagle's Nest has been ascended previously eight times by various persons, but hitherto there had been no accidents.

Mr. Botterill deposed that at the time the accident happened Mr. Rennison was in the very worst part of the climb. He thought, considering the climbing Mr. Rennison had done this year, he was justified in attempting the Eagle's Nest. The rope by which they were joined together had been in use for some time and was a little worn, but even a new rope would have broken under the circumstances.

Witness had climbed the Eagle Nest five times and had led on four occasions.

The jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death," and added that there was no blame attachable to any member of the party.

Great Gable Mountain possesses two serious problems which have deterred many mountaineers from hazarding the climb. A needle of rock, 100 feet in height, has to be surmounted, and when the climber has overcome this he finds himself on a great overhanging ledge, and at that critical moment must swing his body across an abyss hundreds of feet dep to a rock opposite.

ANOTHER POTATO

Mr. O. S. Carver Grew Large Tuber on His Farm.

Mr. O. Carver gardener in North Monaghan, is one of the many citizens and farmers who have grown large potatoes this year. He recently showed the Examiner one that he casually picked from a pile. It weighed 1 lb., 11 oz. and is of the American Wonder variety.

A MUSICAL WONDER ALTHOUGH BLIND

Paris, Oct. 14.—America is likely to have another blind pianist as famous in the realm of classical music, both for playing and for composition, as Blind Tom was in untutored harmony. This latest prodigy is Francis Richter, who was born in Minneapolis twenty-one years ago. For the past two years he has been a pupil of the eminent master Leschtisky in Vienna, but he will study this winter under Henry Eames, an American teacher and composer, who recently returned to Paris after a summer spent with Paderewski.

Richter wrote an opera when he was sixteen years old, every note of which, including the orchestration, was dictated by him to his father. He began to play at the age of three years. Lately he has taken up concert work, appearing here and once in London with marked success. He will give other concerts in Paris during the winter.

Since coming to London he was learned the Braille system for the blind and now reads both music and books by that method.

His teacher says he is no mere freak player, but a genius who is bound to astonish the world with his compositions.

Fur bands appear everywhere on women's apaprel this season. They are seen in tiny lines on dancing frocks and on heavy Russian hats and cloaks.

A charming set seen recently was a scarf, short and 12 inches wide, and a hat trimmed with a band of the fur.

The scarf was worn softly folded over the shoulders and gathered into buckles at the bust.

The moire colonial hat had the edges softened by a generous band of the fur and little cockades of ribbon on either side.

LINE-UP SELECTED FOR TO-MORROW'S GAME WITH THE PARKDALE TEAM

Snappiest Practice of the Season Was Held Last Night, and the Local Team is in the Best of Shape for the Hard Game Before Them To-morrow---Crowd Will be Large

The weather man promises typical Rugby weather for tomorow'sbig senior O.R.F.U. game between Parkdale Canoe Club, of Toronto, and the Peterborough seniors. "Strong northwest winds, fair and cold" is the way he dopes it out and that should suit everybody. Judging by the interest that is being taken in the game there will be an unusually large turnout of spectators. It will be a game well worth seeing as the teams are evenly matched in weight and both are in shape to go the full distance.

The Peterborough team had the snappiest practice of the season last night and pulled off the plays in a manner that highly pleased the fans who watched the workout. Twenty-five men were out and they went at top speed all the way, following up the practice by a run. The men are in good shape and keen for the fray, and they will give a good account of themselves to-morrow. Although younger and lighter than any fourteen that has represented Peterborough in years, the ginger and speed is there and Parkdale will have no easy victory. Of course the odds favour the visitors. The Paddlers will have not lost a game in three years, and as they have been playing together for such a long period they should certainly have teamwork down to a science. However, the locals are not backing up any on account of the reputation of the visitors, and will make them realise that they have been in a Rugby game.

Better arrangements than usual have been made for the spectators. The playing field will be shifted closer to the grand stand, so that the fans will be able to stee every move from there. No spectators will be allowed on the field. A cable is being erected along the east side and the crowd will have to keep back of that while they will not be allowed outside of the fence on the west side. Ample police protection is being secured.

The executive after last night's practice and after a long deliberation selected the following team to represent Peterborough to-morrow:

Back—Craig.
Centre half—Quinlan.
Right half—Corkery.
Quarter—Campbell.
Centre scrimmage—Clarke.
Right inside—Dickson.
Spares—Staunton, Turner, Dorris, Ray.

All the above men are requested to meet for signal practice tonight at 7.15 o' clock at the usual place. Players ned not wear uniforms but every man must be out to-night for a half hour's workout. All the junior players are expected out to-night for practice and also tomorrow afternoon after the senior game. The juniors have a game with Lindsay here on Thanksgiving Day and every practice from now on must be well attended.

The officials in to-morrow's game will be J. B. McArthur and Dr. Wood, of Toronto.

Rev. Dr. Crafts The Guest Of Honour At A Banquet

Globe, Oct. 12th.—A complimentary luncheon was tendered to Rev. Dr. Wilbur F .Crafts by the executive of the Moral and Social Reform Council yesterday. Dr. Crafts is Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau at Washington, D.C. After lunch he addressed the gathering upon international aspects of the fight against opium and liquor.

He stated that it was the intention of the President of the United States to call another international conference upon the opium trade with China, to take place in Washington next year. He suggested that all Canadian reform bodies should petition the Imperial authorities, through the Federal government, asking that the trade be suppressed.

The guests at the luncheon included Rev. Drs. S. H. Chown, J. G. Shearer, J. G. Brown, W. E. Norton, Mr. Henry Moyle, Dr. Charles J. Copp, Mr. James Simpson, Mr. J. G. O'Donoghue, and Rev. F. A. Robinson.

Rev. J. G. Potter, Peterborough:—

Dear Sir,—The clipping herewith enclosed refers to a luncheon given to Dr. Crafts on Tuesday, 11th. In addition to those mentioned as present, there were Rev. W. J. Stackhouse, secretary of the Baptist Laymen's Missionary Movement and the Rev. W. A. Cameron.

Dr. Crafts spoke in the Metropolitan Methodist church on Sabbath morning and in the Queen St. Methodist church in the evening and on Monday morning addressed the Methodist Ministerial Association on the Dominion gambling and race track betting issues.

Dr. Crafts is a man of international repute and value who has laid the nations and especially the British Empire under obligation for his self-sacrificing service on behalf of moral issues especially that of the sale of liquor and opium in the Orient and among all native races.

Yours sincerely,
HENRY MOYLE.

Dr. Crafts will arrive in Peterborough to-morrow and will have a busy day on Sunday preaching twice and addressing two mass meetings.

Every man feels Kittenish occasionally; it's a good sign. Why not wear "CATSPAW" Rubber Heels, and feel that way all the time? All Shoe Dealers and Repairers sell them.

NO MEETING

Members of Canadian Club are Forgetful or Something Else.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Club was to have been held last night, but owing to unforeseen circumstances it had to be postponed. The attendance was not as large as it might have been, and those who were present didn't deem it advisable that they should proceed with the work. There were, in fact, only two present, Mr. E. L. Goodwill, secretary, and Mr. R. F. McWilliams. The absence of the other members was the circumstance that necessitated an adjournment, which was moved by the two members present and declared carried by the reporters present. Apparently Peterborough will have no club this year. This is the second meeting and the members who have been loudest in calling for a meeting have themselves, of necessity, no doubt, been conspicuous by their absence.

THROW AWAY ALL YOUR FEARS

Backache, Gravel and Rheumatism Vanish Before Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Palmer Rapids, Oct. 13.—Special.—The thousands of Canadians who live in daily terror of those terrible forms of Kidney Disease known as backache, Gravel and Rheumatism, will be deeply interested in the story of Mrs. Fred Kreiger, of this place:

OBITUARY

CHRISTOPHER LEARY.

The funeral of the late Christopher Leary who passed away yesterday morning will take place to-morrow afternoon. Service will be held at the residence of his son, 182 McDonnell St., at half past two and the funeral will leave the house at 3 o'clock and proceed to Little Lake cemetery.

Taking Care of Yourself.

There never was a time when people paid as much attention to their health and strength as they do now. Time was when fine stock and fine horses were fed more carefully than human beings.

The result of properly balanced rations has worked wonders with stock and recent experiments are proving that the same thing is true of mankind.

It has been found that Quaker Oats eaten often and regularly taking the place of heavy greasy foods will work wonders in the health and strength of a family.

School children fed frequently on Quaker Oats thrive physically and are always capable of the best work at school. For athletes, laborers, it is the best food. 24

OUR EXHIBIT of Pianos and Organs at the Fair and at our Show Rooms attracted great attention and admiration for their beauty of design, perfect action and purity of tone.

ONE MUSICIAN a graduate of one of the best colleges of music in Canada remarked that "The Newcombe Piano is one finest tone Pianos I ever heard.

OTHERS admired the tone of the Evans Bros.' Piano.

AND SOME others prefered the Sherlock-Manning—each and every produces perfect tones but of different qualities.

WE WOULD be pleased to discuss tone quality and Piano construction with you. There are reasons for different qualities and there are good, bad and horrible Pianos. Let us tell you about them before you buy.

WEDDING BELLS

BIANCO — SABATINO.

St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday morning last, when Miss Concetta, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donato Sabatino, was united in marriage to Mr. Pasquale Bianco. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Phelan, the church being filled with the friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Alice Kennedy, was attired in a handsome costume of cream silk, trimmed with pearls, and wore the customary veil. The bridesmaid, Miss Lucy Minnicola, of Peterborough, cousin of the bride, wore a costume of cream crepe de chene. Mr. Domenico Sabatino, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where the bride and groom received the congratulations of the assembled guests and a sumptuous wedding repast was served. The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome and valuable presents. The happy couple left for a trip to Bangor, Pa., and on their return will take up their residence in the village.

EXPLOITS OF A BOY BURGLAR

Father Charged With Receiving Stolen Property.

London, Oct. 15.—Father and son were on Thursday at Bristol committed for trial, the latter charged with burglary, the former with receiving They are Arthur Francis Wiley, forty and Harold Arthur Francis Wiley, sixteen, of Bishopsworth.

It was told how two houses were broken into during the night at Bedminster, a populous artizan district. In each instance the premises were entered by the windows being tampered with. At the business premises of William Lovell, electrician, of Herbert Street, the burglar ransacked the shop and stole money from the cash box and two Russian knives and a revolver, which had been hung up as ornaments.

Some days later Henry Heath, confectioner, of West Street, found that £58 had been taken from a purse in his trousers pocket while he was in bed, and a watch was also missing. The shop till had also been emptied and fifty packets of chocolates stolen from stock.

When the younger Wiley was arrested he said: "You will find the knives and revolver on the shelf." Detectives made a surprise call at his home, and some stolen articles were found. The boy's father at first denied any knowledge the affair, but according to a detective, said later on he had thrown the knives down the well.

Wiley, sen., now said he found the knives between the bed and the mattress, took them straight downstairs and without saying anything to anybody threw them down the well.

The detective mentioned that the boy had owned to buying a bicycle and conjuring apparatus, and the elder Wiley had declared he had also thrown the watch down the well.

Alfred Tozer manager of the cycle shop, said when a boy came to buy the bicycle, and produced some gold, witness sent for the lad's father, who said the boy had saved the money, but was not to spend it all. The younger Willey said he did not give his father anything.

THE REAL STORY OF HOW MEN LEARNED TO FLY

By Harry G. Farmer

The kite is really the father of the flying machine. A kite with a gas engine aboard is, in fact, what has solved the problem.

It was the hope of taking a ride in a big cloth kite—a hope which many a boy has cherished in his heart—that set the Wright brothers to experimenting with what became, seven years later, the first sucessful flying machine.

"Let's build a kite strong and light enough and with enough surface to lift a man," said Orville to Wilbur. About 500 square feet of surface ought to be enough to lift a man. Anyway we can soon find by trying how big the kite should be.

"We will make the kite something like the Hargreave box kite, with top and bottom surfaces. Then I will get in between and you take the rope, and run with the kite."

This was the plan as proposed by the younger brother. Wilbur said: "Bully. We'll try it."

"But where," both asked, simultaneously, "can we play with a big 40-foot kite without attracting a crowd and making ourselves look silly?"

This looked like a staggerer. A couple of bicyclemakers in Dayton running up and down the streets flying a 40-foot kite would have disturbed trade, to say the least. And a crowd of hooting boys would be in the way.

But Wilbur had an idea.

"Suppose," said he, "we go to some lonesome, godforsaken piece of the sea shore. The wind will be steady and that's one very important thing, the more lonesome it is the cheaper will be the living. We can knock up an inexpensive shed and this will serve for shelter for us and as a workshop and shelter for the kite. Why not?"

So the brothers wrote to the weather bureau at Washington, and asked about wind currents and where they could find a steady strong wind.

The weather bureau is full of information of this sort, and came back with a reply saying that the Cape Hatteras section of the North Carolina coast had 20-mile winds practically all the time. The government maintained an observation station at Manteo, an island near the life saving station at Kitty Hawk, near Kill Devil Hill. The place was quite remote, but provisions could always be had at Manteo.

The letter of the weather bureau man added that there were great sand hills—drifted by the wind—on the spot where the life saving station stands—hills four and five hundred feet high.

"Great," said Orville. "We could fly the kite from the top of one of the sand hills."

So the Wright brothers worked in their shop in Dayton, making the parts of a big kite, which was carefully designed on paper. Then they bought and shipped some rough lumber and tools to Manteo, together with the parts of their kite, and with gay hearts set out for a novel summer outing. For the Wrights at this time (1888) did not admit to themselves that they were doing anything but amusing themselves—playing, in their own way.

It was good sport; the Wrights have told me so. They built their shed, put together the parts of their kite and flew it. There was plenty of wind, plenty of room, and nobody to look on or laugh except a lonesome coast guard.

The kite flew and it was strong enough to carry up Orville, when he lay "belly-whopper" between the upper and lower planes of the kite. That part of the theory was all right but the kite would not stay up with its human freight. The wind was not strong enough, and one man was not strong enough to keep running with the rope.

But they found a new game. They found the kite to be fine for "sliding down hill on the air." Instead of using a rope to fly it they took the kite to the top of a sand hill and send it into the teeth of the wind. All that was needed was a light upward tilt of the planes and the wind would almost support the weight of man and planes. It would in fact support the thing long enough to make a long glide from the top of the hill to a point eight or ten hundred feet from the starting point.

This was "gliding". The kite became a "gliding" machine. The man aboard kept the thing balanced by wriggling his body, and sometimes the glider would be able to hover in the air like a soaring bird for almost a minute, supported merely by keeping the surfaces tilted up against the wind.

The kite "stays up" (that is, overcomes the downward pull of gravity, because it is tilted upward against the moving stream of air. The gliding machine — which is simply a kite without a string—is supported in the same way.

All this was soon clear to the Wrights. They found that a couple of surfaces forty by six feet, built of strong, light wood, and covered with stout cloth, were enough to support the weight of a man, if those surfaces were kept slightly tilted against a continuous volume of wind blowing at 35 or 40 miles an hour. Less wind would not be enough to maintain the weight.

The next important problem was to keep the apparatus balanced, and to steer it. Without some steering apparatus it was hard to keep the machine in a straight course.

So the Wrights spent several summers working on these problems. They fixed up a small plane in front which could be moved up and down. That gave the tilt. Move the small plane up and the machine would climb; move it down and it would head toward the ground.

With these attachments gliding became a science. It was no trick at all to start from the top of Kill Devil hill and go sailing off toward the ocean, remaining in the air for several minutes.

"If she only had something to keep her going," then said Wilbur, "instead of going a quarter of a mile she would go as many miles as we might want."

"That would be the real flying machine, wouldn't it?" assented Orville.

So they set to work (in 1900) figuring out the weight of a motor and propellers, and the size of a glider which would lift the weight of the motor in addition to the man.

In the fall of 1903, the brothers were at Kitty Hawk hard at work putting together the parts of a glider with a gasoline engine driving two large propellers, similar to those which drive a ship in the water. The cold weather was coming on, but the young men worked on through September, October, November and even into December, with no shelter but their barn and only an oil stove to warm them.

At last (Dec. 17, 1903) everything was ready for a try. The motor sparkled, the propellers whizzed, the engine roared. Orville crawled into his place in the machine. Wilbur balanced it along the monorail. She was off. In the face of a wind blowing 25 miles an hour the machine crept forward. She rose gently from the ground; she skimmed along free, of all support, about 10 feet from earth, and after covering between 900 and 900 feet, came to earth.

Man had learned to fly.

That performance at Kitty Hawk was the first flight of man in a heavier-than -air machine.

The work of the Wrights since then has been devoted to finding ways to get better control over the planes.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle

Thus it came about that a month later on the eve of the Feast of Saint Matthew, the Lady Mary, as she walked from Cosford gates, met with a strange horseman, richly clad, a serving-man behind him, looking shrewdly about him with quick blue eyes, which twinkled from a red and freckled face. At sight of her he doffed his hat and reined his horse.

"This house should be Cosford," said he. "Are you by chance the Lady Mary who dwells there?"

The lady bowed her proud dark head.

"Then," said he, "Squire Nigel Loring sends you greeting and tells you that Saint Catharine has been his friend." Then turning to his servant he cried: "Heh, Raoul, our task is done! Your master is a free man once more. Come, lad, come, the nearest port to France! Hola! Hola! Hola!" And so without a word more the two, master and man, set spurs to their horses and galloped like madmen down the long slope of Hindhead, until as she looked after them they were but two dark dots in the distance, waisthigh in the ling: and the bracken.

She turned back to the house, a smile upon her face. Nigel had sent her greeting. A Frenchman had brought it. His bringing it had made him a free man. And Saint Catharine had been Nigel's friend. It was at her shrine that he had sworn that three deeds should be done ere he should set eyes upon her again. In the privacy of her room the Lady Mary sank upon her prie-dieu and poured forth the thanks of her heart to the Virgin that one deed was accomplished; but even as she did so her joy was overcast by the thought of those two others which lay before him.

CHAPTER XVI.

It was a bright sunshiny morning when Nigel found himself at last able to leave his turret chamber and to walk upon the rampart of the castle. There was a brisk northern wind, heavy and wet with the salt of the sea, and he felt, as he turned his face to it, fresh life and strength surging in his blood and bracing his limbs. He took his hand from Aylward's supporting arm and stood with his cap off, leaning on the rampart and breathing in the cool strong air. Far off upon the distant sky-line, half hidden by the heave of the waves, was the low white fringe of cliffs which skirted England. Between him and them lay the broad blue Channel, seamed and flecked with flashing foam, for a sharp sea was running and the few ships in sight were labouring heavily. Nigel's eyes traversed the wide-spread view, rejoicing in the change from the gray wall of his cramped chamber. Finally they settled upon a strange object at his very feet.

It was a long trumpet-shaped engine of leather and iron bolted into a rude wooden stand and fitted with wheels. Beside it lay a heap of metal slugs and lumps of stone. The end of the machine was raised and pointed over the battlement. Behind it stood an iron box which Nigel opened. It was filled with a black coarse powder, like gritty charcoal.

"By Saint Paul!" said he, passing his hands over the engine, "I have heard men talk of these things, but never before have I seen one. It is none other than one of those wondrous new-made bombards."

"In sooth, it is even as you say," Aylward answered, looking at it with contempt and dislike in his face. "I have seen them here upon the ramparts, and have also exchanged a buffet or two with him who had charge of them. He was jack-fool enough to think that with this leather pipe he could outshoot the best archer in Christendom. I lent him a cuff on the ear that laid him across his foolish engine."

"It is a fearsome thing," said Nigel, who had stooped to examine it. "We live in strange times when such things can be made. It is loosed by fire, is it not, which springs from the black dust?"

"By my faith, fair sir, I know not. And yet I call to mind that ere we fell out this foolish bombardman did say something of the matter. The fire-dust is within and so also is the ball. Then you take more dust from this iron box and place it in the hole at the farther end—so. It is now ready. I have never seen one fired, but I wot that this one could be fired now."

"It makes a strange sound, archer, does it not?" said Nigel wistfully.

"So I have heard, fair sir—even as the bow twangs, so it also has a sound when you loose it."

"There is no one to hear, since we are alone upon the rampart, nor can it do scathe, since it points to sea. I pray you to loose it and I will listen to the sound." He bent over the bombard with an attentive ear, while Aylward, stooping his earnest brown face over the touch-hole, scraped away diligently with a flint and steel. A moment later both he and Nigel were seated some distance off upon the ground while amid the roar of the discharge and the thick cloud of smoke they had a vision of the long black snake-like engine shooting back upon the recoil. For a minute or more they were struck motionless with astonishment while the reverberations died away and the smoke wreaths curled slowly up to the blue heavens.

"Good lack!" cried Nigel at last, picking himself up and looking round him. "Good lack, and Heaven be my aid! I thank the Virgin that all stands as it did before. I thought that the castle had fallen."

"Such a bull's bellow I have never heard," cried Aylward, rubbing his injured limbs. "One could hear it from Frensham Pond to Guildford Castle. I would not touch one again—not for a hide of the best land in Puttenham!"

"It may fare ill with your own hide, archer, if you do," said an angry voice behind them. Chandos had stepped from the open door of the corner turret and stood looking at them with a harsh gaze. Presently, as the matter was made clear to him, his face relaxed into a smile.

"Hasten to the warden, archer, and tell him how it befell. You will have the castle and the town in arms. I know not what the King may think of so sudden an alarm. And you, Nigel, how in the name of the saints came you to play the child like this?"

"I knew not its power, fair lord."

"By my soul, Nigel, I think that none of us know its power. I can see the day when all that we delight in, the splendor and glory of war, may all go down before that which beats through the plate of steel as easily as the leathern jacket. I have bestrode my war-horse in my armor and have looked down at the sooty, smoky bombardman beside me, and I have thought that perhaps I was the last of the old and he the first of the new; that there would come a time when he and his engines would sweep you and me and the rest of us from the field."

"But not yet, I trust, honored sir?"

"No, not yet, Nigel. You are still in time to win your spurs even as your fathers did. How is your strength?"

"I am ready for any task, my good and honored lord."

"It is well, for work awaits us—good work, pressing work, work of peril and of honor. Your eyes shine and your face flushes, Nigel. I live my own youth over again as I look at you. Know then that though there is truce with the French here, there is not truce in Brittany where the houses of Blois and of Montfort still struggle for the dukedom. Half Brittany fights for one, and half for the other. The French have taken up the cause of Blois, and we of Montfort, and it is such a war that many a great leader, such as Sir Walter Manny, has first earned his name there. Of late the war has gone against us, and the bloody hands of the Rohans, of Gap-tooth Beaumanoir, of Oliver the Flesher and others have been heavy upon our people. The last tidings have been of disaster, and the King's soul is dark with wrath for that his friend and comrade Gilles de St. Pol has been done to death in the Castle of La Brohiniere. He will send succors to the country and we go at their head. How like you that Nigel?"

"My honored lord, what could I ask for better?"

"Then have your harness ready, for we start within the week. Our path by land is blocked by the French, and we go by sea. This night the King gives a banquet ere he returns to England, and your place is behind my chair. Be in my chamber that you may help me to dress, and so we will to the hall together."

With satin and with samite, with velvet and with fur, the noble Chandos was dressed for the King's feast, and Nigel too had donned his best silk jupon, faced with the five scarlet roses, that he might wait upon him. In the great hall of Calais Castle the tables were set, a high table for the lords, a second one for the less distinguished knights, and a third at which the squires might feast when their masters were seated.

Never had Nigel in his simple life at Tilford pictured a scene of such pomp and wondrous luxury. The grim gray walls were covered from ceiling to floor with priceless tapestry of Arras, where hart, hounds and huntsmen circled the great hall with one long living image of the chase. Over the principle table drooped a line of banners, and beneath them rows of emblazoned shields upon the wall carried the arms of the high noblemen who sat beneath. The red light of cressets and of torches burned upon the badges of the great captains of England. The lions and lilies shone over the high dorseret chair in the centre, and the same august device marked with the cadency label indicated the seat of the Prince, while glowing to right and to left were the long lines of noble insignia, honored in peace and terrible in war. There shone the gold and sable of Manny, the engrailed cross of Suffolk, the red chevron of Stafford, the scarlet and gold of Audley, the blue lion rampant of the Percies, the silver swallows of Arundel, the red roebuck of the Montacutes, the star of the de Veres, the silver scallops of Russell, the purple lion of de Lacy, and the black crosses of Clinton.

A friendly Squire at Nigel's elbow whispered the names of the famous warriors beneath. "You are young Loring of Tilford, the Squire of Chandos, are you not?" said he. "My name is Delves, and I come from Doddington in Cheshire. I am the Squire of Sir James Audley, yonder round-backed man with the dark face and close-cropped beard, who hath the Saracen head as a crest above him."

"I have heard of him as a man of great valor," said Nigel, gazing at him with interest.

"Indeed, you may well say so, Master Loring. He is the bravest knight in England, and in Christendom also, as I believe. No man hath done such deeds of valor."

Nigel looked at his new acquaintance with hope in his eyes. "You speak as it becomes you to speak when you uphold your own master," said he. "For the same reason, Master Delves, and in no spirit of ill-will to you, it behooves me to tell you that he is not to be compared in name or fame with the noble knight on whom I wait. Should you hold otherwise, then surely we can debate the matter in whatever way or time may please you best."

Delves smiled good-humoredly. "Nay, be not so hot," said he. "Had you upheld any other knight, save perhaps Sir Walter Manny, I had taken you at your word, and your master or mine would have had place for a new Squire. But indeed it is only truth that no knight is second to Chandos, nor would I draw my sword to lower his pride of place. Ha, Sir James' cup is low! I must see to it!" He darted off, a flagon of Gascony in his hand. "The King hath good news to-night," he continued when he returned. "I have not seen him in so merry a mind since the night when we took the Frenchmen and he laid his pearl chaplet upon the head of de Ribeaumont. See how he laughs, and the Prince also. That laughs bodes some one little good, or I am the more mistaken. Have a care! Sir John's plate is empty."

It was Nigel's turn to start away; but ever in the intervals he returned to the corner, whence he could look down the hall and listen to the words of the older Squire. Delves was a short, thick-set man past middle age, weather-beaten and scarred, with a rough manner and bearing which showed that he was more at his ease in a tent than a hall. But ten years of service had taught him much, and Nigel listened eagerly to his talk.

"Indeed the King hath some good tidings," he continued. "See now, he has whispered it to Chandos and to Manny. Manny spreads it on to Sir Reginald Cobham, and he to Robert Knolles, each smiling like the Devil over a friar."

"Which is Sir Robert Knolles?" asked Nigel with interest. "I have heard much of him and his deeds."

"He is the tall hard-faced man in yellow silk, he with the hairless cheeks and the split lip. He is little older than yourself, and his father was a cobbler in Chester, yet he has already won the golden spurs. See how he dabs his great hand in the dish and hands forth the gobbets. He is more used to a camp-kettle than a silver plate. The big man with the black beard is Sir Bartholomew Berghersh, whose brother is the Abbot of Beaulieu. Haste, haste! for the boar's head is come and the plate's to be cleaned."

The table manners of our ancestors at this period would have furnished to the modern eye the strangest mixture of luxury and of barbarism. Forks were still unknown, and the courtesy fingers, the index and the middle of the left hand, took their place. To use any others was accounted the worst of manners. A crowd of dogs lay among the rushes growling at each other and gnawing over the gnawed bones which were thrown to them by the feasters. A slice of coarse bread served usually as a plate, but the King's own high table was provided with silver platters, which were wiped by the Squire or page after each course. On the other hand the table-linen was costly, and the courses, served with a pomp and dignity now unknown, comprised such a variety of dishes and such complex marvels of cookery as no modern banquet could show. Besides all our domestic animals and every kind of game, such strange delicacies as hedgehogs, bustards, porpoises, squirrels, bitterns and cranes lent variety to the feast.

Each new course, heralded by a flourish of silver trumpets, was borne in by liveried servants walking two and two, with rubicund marshals strutting in front and behind, bearing white wands in their hands, not only as badges of their office, but also as weapons with which to repel any impertinent inroad upon the dishes in the journey from the kitchen to the hall. Boar's heads, enarmed and endored with gilt tusks and flaming mouths, were followed by wondrous pasties molded to the shape of ships, castles and other devices with sugar seamen or soldiers who lost their own bodies in their fruitless defence against the hungry attack. Finally came the great nef, a silver vessel upon wheels laden with fruit and sweetmeats which rolled with its luscious cargo down the line of guests. Flagons of Gascony, of Rhine wine, of Canary and of Rochelle were held in readiness by the attendants; but the age, though luxurious, was not drunken, and the sober habits of the Norman had happily prevailed over the license of those Saxon banquets where no guest might walk from the table without a slur upon his host. Honor and hardihood go ill with a shaking hand or a blurred eye.

Whilst wine, fruit and spices were handed round the high tables the squires had been served in turn at the farther end of the hall. Meanwhile round the King there had gathered a group of statesmen and soldiers, talking eagerly among themselves. The Earl of Stafford, the Earl of Warwick, the Earl of Arundel, Lord Beauchamp and Lord Neville were assembled at the back of his chair, with Lord Percy and Lord Mowbray at either side. The little group blazed with golden chains and jeweled chaplets, flame-colored paltocks and purple tanics.

Of a sudden the King said something over his shoulder to Sir William de Pakyngton the herald, who advanced and stood by the royal chair. He was a tall and noble-featured man, with long grizzled beard which rippled down to the gold-linked belt girdling his many-colored tabard. On his head he had placed the heraldic barret-cap which bespoke his dignity, and he slowly raised his white wand high in the air, while a great hush fell upon the hall.

"My lords of England," said he, "knight bannerets, knights, squires, and all others here present of gentle birth and coat-armor, know that your dread and sovereign lord, Edward, King of England and of France, bids me give you greeting and commands you to come hither that he may have speech with you."

In an instant the tables were deserted and the whole company had clustered in front of the King's chair. Those who had sat on either side of him crowded inward so that his tall dark figure upreared itself amid the dense circle of his guests.

With a flush upon his olive cheeks and with pride smoldering in his dark eyes, he looked round him at the eager faces of the men who had been his comrades from Sluys and Gadsand to Crecy and Calais. They caught fire from that warlike gleam in his masterful gaze, and a sudden wild, fierce shout pealed up to the vaulted ceiling, a soldierly thanks for what was passed and a promise for what was to come. The King's teeth gleamed in a quick smile, and his large white hand played with the jeweled dagger in his belt.

"By the splendor of God!" said he in a loud clear voice, "I have little doubt that you will rejoice with me this night, for such tidings have come to my ears as may well bring joy to everyone of you. You know well that our ships have suffered great scathe from the Spaniards, who for many years have slain without grace or ruth all of my people who have fallen into their cruel hands. Of late they have sent their ships into Flanders, and thirty great cogs and galleys lie now at Sluys well-filled with archers and men-at-arms and ready in all ways for battle. I have it to-day from a sure hand that, having taken their merchandise aboard, these ships will sail upon the next Sunday and will make their way through our Narrow Sea. We have for a great time been long-suffering to these people, for which they have done us many contraries and despites, growing ever more arrogant as we grow more patient. It is in my mind therefore that we hie us to-morrow to Winchelsea, where we have twenty ships, and make ready to sally out upon them as they pass. May God and Saint George defend the right!"

A second shout, far louder and fiercer than the first, came like a thunder clap after the King's words. It was the bay of a fierce pack to their trusted huntsman.

Edward laughed again as he looked round at the gleaming eyes, the waving arms and the flushed joyful faces of his liegemen. "Who hath fought against these Spaniards?" he asked. "Is there anyone here who can tell us what manner of men they be?"

A dozen hands went up into the air; but the King turned to the Earl of Suffolk at his elbow.

"You have fought them, Thomas?" said he.

"Yes, sire, I was in the great sea-fight eight years ago at the Island of Guernsey, when Lord Lewis of Spain held the sea against the Earl of Pembroke."

"How found you them, Thomas?"

Given Up To Die

No. 100 George St., Sorel, Quebec.

"I suffered from womb disease for seven years, with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by six different doctors without any benefit.

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier.

I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

Answer This Question

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe there very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge the world to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the famous woman's remedy for woman's ills. Unless it is a very good medicine and the claims made for it are honest, such a record would have been impossible — fraud or misrepresentations would long ago have been detected and the business gone into oblivion. Read this unsolicited letter:—

Dovedale, Sask.—"I was a sufferer from female weakness—I monthly periods irregular and painful and a bad discharge, backache and wretched headache, and had felt weak ever since the birth of my twins. I tried doctors but got no relief. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after three weeks I was feeling much better, and now I am well again."—Mrs. Bessie Bily, Dovedale, Sask., Canada.

When a woman like Mrs. Bily is generous enough to write such a letter as the above for publication, she should at least be given credit for a sincere desire to help other suffering women. For we assure you there is no other reason why she should court such publicity.

We say it in all sincerity and friendship—try this medicine.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

THE WHOLE ORCHESTRA.

Man Not Even the Second Fiddle Nor Drummer.

Professor Emil Reich in his work on "Woman Through All the Ages" delicately insinuates that in American life she is "the whole orchestra." He says:

"These women—the American maid and wife—are fundamentally different from their sisters in Europe, whether in the past or present. Far from taking the slightest interest in man, they look down upon him. Man in America plays neither first nor second fiddle. He does not even beat the drum. He is the mere lamplighter of the orchestra of life in the United States.

"Nothing is more common in the States than to be asked by one of their 'bright' women: 'How do you do this or that thing? What trick have you for doing it?' In their minds, in their innermost minds, they are firmly convinced that * * * all the great artists have their 'tricks' with which they work upon the audience. In native elemental talent they do not believe at all. How could they? They have themselves not the trace of such talent.

There are over 12,000,000 pianos in American houses, used mostly by women, yet there is not a single American pianiste of even the third order. There are thousands of schools for American women, yet there is not a single American woman of note as a scholar.

I calmly state that the American woman is not and cannot be anything like the type of womanhood that, from the Hellenes downward, all European nations have considered as the right model. Women, then, in America cannot develop and have never developed that peculiar charm of either beauty or grace that in Europe has always been held to be the greatest power of women.

The last word, then, in American womanhood is this, that they represent actually what the ancient Greek myths (if myths they be) represented symbolically—a realm of amazons grafted upon a realm of man. The old Greek amazon is, indeed, the evident archetype of the woman of the United States.

SUMMER HEADACHES.

Cure Them by Reducing Amount of Meat Eaten.

The warm weather is very conducive to headaches. In fact, some people claim they feel the best so that they become easily fatigued and irritable. Unless these people take very good care of themselves they very easily acquire the habit of invalidism and suffer throughout the summer months. The sun may cause one head to ache by bringing the blood into it too strongly, but the average headache is not caused by warm weather, but by the summer diet.

With regard to this most important matter, most people who suffer with sick headache are really suffering from liver attacks. Meat, fish, soup stock, all become quickly tainted at this season, and tainted food is likely to be the cause of illness at any time of year.

The woman who cares for the health of the family will see that she does not use veal, pork or tinned goods to any extent, and of course the last mentioned must not be kept after the tin has once been opened.

It is important to reduce the amount of meat and starchy foods during this weather. The main function of these is to supply bodily heat, so as less heat is necessary now the style of living should be changed. Take the appetite as an indication of how much you should eat. If you are not keen for your meals do not worry. If your head aches try one week of light diet. Take plenty of milk, eggs, bread and butter, ripe fruit and a few green vegetables.

In this way you will give your system a chance to get rid of whatever poisons are in your blood and will prevent high blood pressure, which is really the cause of throbbing headache.

Mrs. Pankhurst to Come Here.

To add to the excitement of the war for and against votes for women which is to be waged in New York next winter word has just come from England by cable to Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch that the redoubtable Mrs. Pankhurst, originator of the suffragette movement in England and leader of its most militant branch, will visit America at that time. She will do so, that is, if she is not sent to jail first. She is at present involved in a lawsuit as to the right of a subject to petition the premier in person, and her friends expect her to go to jail in the end, but they hope that she will manage to get to America first.

Mrs. Pankhurst will remain in the country six or seven weeks, and while in New York her engagements will be managed by the League of Self Supporting Women, of which Mrs. Blatch is president. Among other things there will be a Carnegie hall meeting in her honor.

Child's Allowance.

To encourage children to save money give them as many pennies each week as they are years old and allow them to save it. When each has saved $5 put it in a bank and add to it each year. It is a very little beginning, but children with money in a real bank are very desirous of adding more to it. By the time the little folks are grown there will be a good bank account, which will be helpful during college days.

WOMEN WANT TO FLY.

But Only One So Far Has Invented Her Own Machine.

Interest in the science of flying has not been confined to men. Women also have taken to aerial navigation with enthusiasm. But, as the aeroplane still remains a thing of questionable safety, few of them have been allowed to take the risk. It is interesting to know, says Vogue, that it was a woman, Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, who conceived the idea of forming the Aerial Experiment association, of which her husband was the most conspicuous member. Mrs. Bell suggested the formation of the association and made the proposition to furnish the funds with which to carry on the experiments.

More than fifty women in this country have made ascents in spherical balloons, but Mrs. O. J. S. Miller of Franklin, Pa., holds the record of being the only woman to go up in a dirigible. Wilbur Wright has taken up six women, including his sister, Miss Katherine Wright, Mrs. Leon Bollee, Mrs. Lamar Weller, Countess Lambert and Mrs. Hart Berg. While staying in Paris Miss Anne Morgan witnessed a flight and immediately asked Mr. Wright to take her up, but at that time it was not considered safe to do so. Miss Morgan is deeply interested in the subject, and it is said that she wishes to form an aeronautic club.

Miss E. L. Todd of New York is the first woman to invent an aeroplane. She now has her machine ready for the installment of the motor and expects to drive it herself. Among other prominent American women who have made ascensions in spherical balloons are Mrs. Cortlandt Field Bishop, Mrs. Newbold Le Roy Edgar of New York, Mrs. G. A. Cody of Chicago and Miss Natalie Forbes, daughter of A. Holland Forbes. Mrs. Cody, who is an enthusiastic navigator of the air, declares that she felt less alarm in making her first balloon ascent than she did when taking her first automobile ride.

HANDY COOKING UTENSIL.

A Fuel Saving Device That Cooks Three Vegetables at Once.

Time, money and space are saved by the cooking utensils designed by an Ohio man, and all housekeepers will readily understand the merits of this article by merely glancing at the illustration. This utensil consists of a stewpan with three separate compartments in which three vegetables may be cooked at once over one lid of a stove or one flame of a gas range. The pan comprises a skeleton frame of bottom and top hoops and side bars and three receptacles, one taking up half of the capacity and the others being quarters. Each of these receptacles has a clip which fits over the rim of the frame and by which it may be lifted into place or out again. As each of these vessels is separate it is not necessary that the vegetables to be cooked in them require the same length of time. As one is done the partition can be lifted out. Such a utensil when used on a gas stove uses up only one-third as much gas as under ordinary conditions.

SEASIDE SOUVENIRS.

Plants and Shells Utilized in Making Attractive Articles.

If your vacation is to be passed at the seaside, especially if you have small children who must be amused, set them to collecting shells of different kinds, which you can turn into souvenirs for the home friends at small cost.

One young woman is collecting for a dressmaker friend a large number of pebbles in different sizes. These will be used instead of the lead weights or shot that in light fronts so often show a dark shadow, even through several thicknesses of material.

She is also gathering clam shells, the largest she can find, which when well scrubbed and tied up by the dozen or half dozen make welcome gifts to housekeepers, who can use them for individual pate dishes.

To a brother who is fond of botany and has not had an opportunity to be much at the shore she will give a collection of the choicest seaweeds she can find on a summer ramble. These are floated on blotting paper, then carefully transferred to loose sheets of paper of equal size provided with holes at the back for binding.

Where it is impossible to preserve the color of the weeds, the girl who has a pretty knack with water colors has made a sketch of them from nature, copying the tones carefully. On each page is written the date, place and time of finding the seaweeds.

Another friend, who is an amateur gardener in a small way and likes to propagate her own plants, will be taken a flour sack filled with the sea sand which is needed to mix with potting soil. This can be stowed in a corner of a trunk to save expressage.

For a hostess who entertains often there will be a set of seaside favors to be used at a dinner for place cards. Scallop shells of equal size have holes bored at each side and the center of lower edge and are tied together with baby ribbons in three fluffy bows with hangers. Inside the shells are placed a couple of small pebbles to rattle, or there can be a quotation or conundrum bearing on the sea or seaside pursuits instead.

HINTS FOR THE SEWING ROOM

Remember, a felled seam conceals all raw edges.

When a scallop is padded and then buttonholed it is stronger.

Rolling and whipping the beading to sheer materials is a good idea.

Ribbons run through buttonholes are as dainty as if placed through insertion.

Two yards of forty inch material with two yards of lace and ribbon will make one chemise.

It takes four yards of forty inch nainsook and three yards of ribbon to make a plain nightgown.

It takes two and one-half yards of nainsook forty inches wide, with four yards of lace, to make drawers.

Three-fourth yard of batiste will be needed to make a corset cover. Ribbon is varied in yards according to the taste of the designer.

Don't sew lace insertion on a summer dress right over the material. Do cut away the stuff from underneath and give the insertion a chance to proclaim itself as lace.

In making French seams use a small stitch and clip the goods with a pair of sharp scissors so the edge will not be ragged when turned and stitched the second time. "Stay" French seams well to prevent their ripping at the ends. It makes an ugly seam when it comes apart.

FASHIONABLE ROMPING.

English Lament on the Decay of Deportment.

It is all very well to hold up the hands in horror at the romping in fashionable ballrooms—and no doubt the lack of grace therein displayed is deplorable, says the Lady's Pictorial—but one must give people what they want. They will not come and tread stately measures, but they will romp, and one must fain maintain, therefore, that these hostesses are wise who try to make their guests enjoy themselves.

After all, we do not invite our friends to our houses in order to teach them deportment. It seems practically useless to give a dance at all this season unless a cotillon with absolutely novel figures is included in the program.

Now, the cotillon is not a dance, strictly speaking. You can chase, run, skip, leap, through it if you like. It does not make for elegance. Yet there is no question about it, it is indispensable this season, and to this favor we must come if when we pipe in our guests we expect them to dance at all.

NEVILLE'S SWORD HAD STRUCK AT THE ANGLE OF THE SHOULDER AND THE NECK

"AND what have we here?" murmured the Duke d'Alva to General de la Concha. It was the Marquis de Turgot, French Ambassador to Madrid and the host of the evening, who gave him his answer.

"Pierre Soulé, shepherd and gardener, pirate and fiend, come now as Minister of the United States," he whispered before leaving his two friends. Then he made his way, bowing and smiling, toward the group that had appeared in the arched entrance to the ballroom.

Pierre Soulé, a slight, handsome figure, was escorting his wife. At a respectful distance followed their son, Neville. Each of the three would have attracted attention in any gathering. The Minister was then in his fiftieth year and was noted for his resemblance to the first Napoleon, with his splendid, flashing eyes and his quiet air of dignity and command. Mrs. Soulé had been one of the beauties of the South and the years had dealt more than kindly with her. Her charm of feature and manner had been passed to her son, whose strong, clean cut face and upright carriage brought admiring glances from all sides.

The Soulés received the formal welcome extended by De Turgot with equally formal salutations and passed on into the crowded room, where moved the glitter and fashion of diplomatic life and the upper social circles of the Spanish capital. The Duke watched the little stiff scene in the archway and turned to the General.

"This is the man who proposes to take Cuba from us?" he asked.

"To take or buy it," nodded the other. "It appears that if we prove amenable we are to have some millions of pesos. If we are stubborn and refuse to accept the generous offer made by this republic of cotton planters and ship builders then must we stand and deliver."

"Truly, a flattering policy," snorted D'Alva. "But has this man the authority of his country to advance such preposterous schemes?"

"Not, as I understand, a full commission to negotiate. But he has been what they call a Senator and has repeatedly urged in public speeches the annexation of Cuba. President Pierce, we are informed, is entirely in accord with the plan. Such is the explanation of the presence of Soulé here."

"What did De Turgot mean, gardener, pirate and fiend, next?"

"Soulé has led an adventurous life. I was at some pains recently to collect information wanted by—well, never mind by whom. But it was wanted when we first had word of his appointment. He was born in France and at the age of fifteen was forced to flee to the Pyrenees as a result of a political conspiracy against the government. While in hiding he was a shepherd, as de Turgot says.

"Later he was a journalist in Paris and was arrested for treason. He escaped to Hayti and at the age of twenty-four landed in the United States, penniless, knowing not a word of English. Yet here he is as you may see, rich, they say, and certainly powerful."

"A remarkable place, this adopted country of his," said the Duke, with a sneer. "And how did he bring about his rise?"

"How shall I say, my friend? It is a nation of madmen, I think. For a time he was a common laborer in a place they call Kentucky. He trained himself as an advocate and in time became widely famed as a pleader. It was then but a step into the political field. In their Senate he was a leader of that faction which seeks to maintain human slavery and his other interest was the annexation of Cuba. And there, so far as I know, you have the story of Pierre Soulé."

The two were rejoined a moment later by the Marquis, who made no secret of his dislike for the newcomers or his irritation at having to receive them.

Close to a Secret.

"He is probably well aware of your sentiments," remarked De la Concha after De Turgot had fumed for some minutes.

"If the accounts of his passage through France are correct he should be," flashed the Marquis. "It was quite uncomfortable for him en route, we are told, and I can well believe it. Louis Napoleon has little love for the American Republic and still less for its expatriate. When one remembers the trouble he has caused over this Cuban affair it is easily seen that my imperial master would not strew his path with roses."

The General glanced keenly at him. "Perhaps you will receive specific instructions as to your treatment of him," he suggested. But De Turgot answered with a shrug.

Presently the orchestra made itself heard above the hum of voices and the gayly dressed company began to separate toward the sides to leave the floor clear for the dancers. Those who took no part moved slowly after a time in decorous promenade, and the three Americans watched the procession in silence. Suddenly D'Alva turned to De Turgot.

"All the same, my friend, this Mme. Soulé is the most wonderfully handsome woman in the room," he said.

Some little distance away they could see the Americans approaching. The opinion ventured by the Duke seemed to be shared by those in the vicinity of the Soulés, for the wife of the Minister drew many eyes. General de la Concha warmly supported it.

"In truth a noble, queenly woman," he said, watching her with enthusiasm. The Marquis de Turgot did not answer immediately. With the movement of the crowd the Americans came nearer. A minute later they were abreast of the noblemen. And then De Turgot leaned toward D'Alva, raising his voice a trifle above the conversational tone.

"Do you think so?" he said. "For my part I scarcely share in your admiration for the woman. She is handsome, if you like, but she reminds me too forcibly of Marguerite de Valois."

His words did not reach the ears of the Soulés, but they were heard distinctly by several persons who surrounded the Americans and were friendly with them. Before they had half completed the circuit of the room once more the Minister had been drawn aside and the insulting remark had been repeated to him. He needed no elaboration. To his mind, as to all others, the reference to Marguerite de Valois could only be a deliberate attempt to cast a slur upon Mrs. Soulé, suggesting all that might be associated with that famous beauty of another century, divorced wife of Henry IV. and licentious daughter of Catherine de Medici.

If the General and the Duke were surprised at the course of action chosen by De Turgot they showed no sign of it. No further comment was made, but a common purpose held them in their places. Something must come of this, and when it did the Marquis would have need of them. Meanwhile De Turgot seemed to have forgotten his remark and his two friends seemed not to have heard it. The situation was quite in hand, reposeful, as was fitting with gentlemen of distinguished birth and position. And then, moving toward them through the press as the music came to an end and the dancers intermingled upon the floor, they caught a glimpse of Pierre Soulé.

The Challenge.

No one of the three but admitted reluctantly to himself that a prince of the blood royal could not have comported himself with greater gallantry. Soulé's head was up and he advanced at a dignified pace. His eyes, always expressive, were like veiled flames, but his countenance and actions were under perfect control. Noticing only De Turgot, he came to a halt at that gentleman's side. The Marquis affected not to notice him, keeping his gaze fixed upon a distant corner of the hall. Noting this Soulé applied a significant pressure with his elbow and spoke in a low tone, using French.

"I have heard, sir, of your indecent remark. You shall hear from me to-morrow."

As he turned his back and retraced his steps De Turgot turned to the others with a significant gesture. They understood, without a word of explanation, that the Marquis had fulfilled one of the direct and peremptory commands laid upon him from a source brooking no disobedience. General de la Concha permitted himself a quiet smile. But the Duke d'Alva did not smile. His wife was a sister of the Empress Eugenie and he did not always approve of the methods of his imperial brother-in-law.

The centre of the floor was almost empty now, and through the space they were interested to see Neville Soulé apparently making his way toward them.

"What now?" exclaimed the General. "Is his own son to act as his second, or is the young man to have a chance at you himself, De Turgot?" The Marquis shook his head and waited the approach of the Minister's son. When Neville stopped before the three, however, it was evident that whatever his mission he was not concerned with the French Ambassador. His clear, assured glance was fixed upon the Duke d'Alva. The Duke returned the look. When Neville was certain that he was observed he spoke.

"Pardon me for the intrusion, Monsieur, but may I have a word with you."

"Certainly," said d'Alva, stepping forward.

"I have the honor to make myself known to you. I am Neville Soulé. It has reached my ears that you made certain remarks concerning madame, my mother, a few moments ago. You shall hear from me to-morrow." The Duke was too surprised to be ready with a reply. He merely bowed and the other walked rapidly away.

"Come. Here is consequence enough for one short sentence in one short evening," the General burst out. "First the Minister challenges De Turgot, then the son calls out D'Alva. Is there not a cousin or an uncle or some one to fall upon me? Will you fight the young fire-eater, D'Alva?"

"Certainly not," returned the other. "I am no murderer. It is a mistake. He will learn what he has done as soon as he and his father compare notes."

"At least, my affair is to go forward," said De Turgot, grimly. "But I am forgetting my hospitality. We will talk further of this. Good evening."

As D'Alva had divined, the two Soulés had acted independently. It was not until after they had returned to their home at the Embassy that each learned what the other had done.

"Father," began Neville, "I have no doubt you will say I should have told you, but I learned that the Duke d'Alva insulted my mother this evening, and I challenged him."

"You challenged D'Alva!" exclaimed the other. "You were mistaken. It was not the Duke but De Turgot who offended. And I have challenged him." They looked at each other in silence for a moment.

"I acted upon exact information," said Neville.

"And so did I," returned Pierre. "Who gave you yours?"

"Monsieur Doumouries."

"Ah," said the Minister, pacing the room slowly. "Doumouries. I think I understand. Did the Duke accept?"

"He bowed. I took that for acceptance."

"Well, you cannot draw back now and I would hardly care to have you. If my suspicions are correct the same hand that brought about the situation to-night would bring it about again if necessary. The Duke is reckoned one of the best duellists in Spain, my son."

"The same may be said of the Marquis when he is in France, father." And so they parted for the night.

By noon the next day the Duke d'Alva had further occasion to shake his head and grumble over the name of his brother-in-law. It was clear that his remark as to settling the misunderstanding with Neville made at De Turgot's ball had been repeated by wire in Paris not many hours later. He was holding in his hand a cipher message from no less a personage than Louis Napoleon himself.

Broadswords Selected.

The message gave him to understand, in vague terms, that he was no longer to call himself a member of the French Emperor's family if he failed to accept Neville's challenge. He did not like it. He was not accustomed to fighting without due excuse. Such tactics savored too much of the ruffler and bravo. But there were very real and vital reasons why he could not afford to sacrifice the friendship and good will of Napoleon III.

His decision was fully formed by the time Neville's seconds called upon him, a few hours later. He gave no intimation that there had been a mistake, but confined himself to the formal preliminaries. He acknowledged acquaintance with the two gentlemen, Secretary Perry and Colonel Milans del Bosch, and referred them to those he had already picked out, General de la Concha and Count de Punonrostro.

A meeting between the four seconds took place that evening. General de la Concha recited the terms of the affair which his principal, as the challenged party, had the right to name. The weapons chosen were broadswords and the time set was three days off. These arrangements were not pleasing to the representatives of the American, who had hoped for pistols. Neville had never held a broadsword in his life, and D'Alva was an accomplished swordsman.

While these matters were being discussed a curt communication from Pierre Soulé was delivered to the Marquis de Turgot. It called attention to the fact that a meeting was in process of arrangement between the Minister's son and a Spanish nobleman.

"It is, therefore, Minister Soulé's privilege to request the patience of the Marquis de Turgot for a short time. He assures the Marquis that after the meeting referred to has taken place he will be entirely at the disposal of the Marquis."

De Turgot was quite willing to postpone the affair, and within a few hours it was known throughout Madrid that Neville would have precedence over his father in settling the dispute. Madrid was indifferent as to how or in what order the Americans fought, but it was most anxious lest in some way they should escape the necessity of fighting at all. The popular notion was that Americans had small stomach for personal combat, that their sole interest was in keeping a shop or in selling a bale of cotton, and that if actually dragged to the field of honor they must inevitably be killed. Fear was freely expressed that they would escape under cover of night and leave the country, thus depriving the capital of that desirable consummation.

Perry hurried back to the Embassy after the interview with D'Alva's seconds. Both the Soulés were awaiting him.

"It's rather too bad, Neville," was Perry's greeting. "He's picked broadswords, and you've got three days."

"I expected that," said the Minister. Neville was indifferent. "You can't expect to bring yourself abreast of the Duke in cleverness within three days," went on Pierre. "But there is one thing you can do. You can learn the difference between swinging a sabre and using a hunting knife. There is a good master of a broadsword in the city. You shall take a long lesson each day."

The Duel.

He accompanied Neville to Le Grand, a professional duellist, next morning, and for three hours the young man was drilled in the use of the heavy weapon with which he must defend his life. Neville took little interest in the manœuvres and went through them half-heartedly. His father took him to task when they went home together.

"Consider a moment," said Pierre. "It is your right to risk your skin as often and as carelessly as your please, but it is to be remembered that you are here as an American and that you are fighting for an insult placed upon the name of your mother, whether or not D'Alva was guilty."

"It wearies me, father," was the answer. "I can see no object in all this following of rule. The broadsword is a weapon, not a dancing stick. Let D'Alva be a 'villain that fights by the book of arithmetic.' I have learned how to stand on guard and that's enough. Let the Duke look to himself when we have once laid to with the blades." And Pierre, glancing with approval at the athletic build and square shoulders of his son, was content.

In the event it proved just as well that Neville had formed his own conception of the way in which he would conduct his share of the duel. When the young man presented himself at the home of the fencing master the next day he learned that Le Grand had left the city hurriedly. The explanation, which Pierre was not slow to grasp, was that the same power of which De Turgot and D'Alva were pawns had sent a peremptory order to the duellist.

On the morning set for the meeting the young American, with his two seconds and a surgeon, drove in a carriage to a field about five miles from the city, according to prearrangement. The Duke arrived a few minutes later.

The preparations were quickly made. To D'Alva the affair was one of slight moment, now that he was fully embarked upon it. He would kill or seriously wound the young man and he hoped that his brother-in-law would be satisfied. Three parallel lines were marked in the turf with a sword point. Across the central one the men would face each other. Neither must retreat beyond the line behind him on pain of being branded poltroon and coward.

Neville was a model of strength and virile youth as he stood with arms and neck bared, ready for the first word. He was lithe but firmly muscled and he moved on his feet with the exact poise of an animal. To D'Alva's seconds he looked dangerous. But the Duke, while approving the handsome figure before him, saw nothing but a fair target for his blade and a man who could not hope to equal the skill of a Spanish duellist. The Duke himself was sturdily built and his reach was a thing to fear.

The two men faced each other for a long minute, eyes flickering against eyes in the first clash of personality that precedes such a combat. In Neville's face was no trace of fear or uneasiness. The Duke's mouth had set in his fighting smile. Whatever his opponent might prove to lack in knowledge of the game he knew in that instant that the American would not give an inch. And then General de la Concha spoke the sharp words of command and the harsh clash of steel to steel rang out.

The Duke opened his play with a graceful feint and a quick, ripping downward slash. Neville parried clumsily and the wrinkles at the sides of d'Alva's mouth tightened. This was decidedly too simple. He had supposed that the American, apparently a gentleman, had some small knowledge of sword play. But the fellow was a novice. Was it true, then, that this nation of cotton planters never trained themselves in the essentials of the field? He caught a weak thrust, turned it aside and stepped in with a wicked swing of his blade. Again Neville caught it in time. The Duke was preparing a quick volley of blows which should beat down this awkward guard and end the matter when he was thrown back suddenly from the offensive to laboring defence.

Neville had waited but a moment to get the feel of his weapon and test his adversary. Now, without warning, he put into play his own theory of the broadsword duel. It was a fight, as he understood it, to be won by the man who could deal the best fair blow. He had no mind to wait until he was scientifically spitted. He twirled the heavy sabre above his head like a switch and went at his opponent as if cutting a swath in a rank of reeds.

Another Meeting.

The Duke gave before the onslaught, his confidence suddenly deserting him. This was not the method he was used to. Neville was hacking at him as if he were a squad of troopers. A warning cry from one of his seconds told him he had reached his line and desperately he turned at bay. Blow after blow sang about his ears and the shining line of light with which he was protecting himself sank. Then came a dazing, aching shock, and the world went black before him. Neville's sword had struck at the angle of the shoulder and the neck.

That night came another brief and exquisitely formal note from Pierre Soulé to the Marquis de Turgot. The affair in which his son was engaged having come to a happy termination, the Minister was now at liberty to resume his own differences with the Ambassador. He would give himself the pleasure of having his seconds wait upon any gentlemen designated by De Turgot. The Marquis was ready and named Lord Howden and General Calfier. General Valdes and M. Picon acted for Pierre Soulé.

Broadswords having gone well with the Soulé family, the power that had managed the whole affair from Paris sent word to the Ambassador that it would be well if he named pistols. Having obeyed so far he did not draw back at this, and his seconds were instructed accordingly. The distance stated in the terms was ten paces, and Pierre Soulé was almost gleeful when the result was announced to him.

On arriving at the appointed place with his attendants the Minister found the opposing group awaiting him. He noted with quickening suspicion that the man who accompanied De Turgot as surgeon was Doumouries, a man he had quickly identified as a confidential agent of Napoleon III. and the one who had dragged Neville into the quarrel with a falsehood. He turned to General Valdes.

"If I am hurt, General, keep that man away from me," he said, indicating Doumouries. "On no account let him approach me, and it would be as well if you kept an eye upon him while loading the pistols."

Pierre did not think that Doumouries was a surgeon or that he had any right to be present in that capacity. But he made no comment. The ground was already chosen and marked and Soulé's seconds were satisfied with the arrangement. The place was protected from passersby on the road by a high stone wall. On the side toward which the American moved, since the other was already occupied by De Turgot, he would stand with his back to the wall. He observed the fact, but as it was fully fifty feet behind him he felt that there was little danger of ricocheted bullets and raised no objection.

The opponents were of about the same build and height. Neither showed the slightest degree of nervousness or anxiety, for both were old hands at the business of taking and offering life on the field of honor. They received the pistols from their respective chief seconds and stood erect and at attention. General Valdes had won the right to give the word.

"Are you ready, messieurs?" he asked after a pause.

"I am ready," said Soulé, and the Marquis echoed the phrase.

The Line in the Wall.

"Fire—one—two," began Valdes, counting slowly and pausing a full second between each utterance. Somewhat to the surprise of the spectators neither of the duellists raised his arm at the first syllable, according to the usual practice. Aparently each had had the same plan, to reserve fire until the opponent had discharged his weapon. At "two," however, both men levelled quickly and fired. The reports sounded as one and when the smoke had cleared it was seen that neither Soulé nor the Marquis had altered his position. Both had missed.

There was no suggestion of a settlement and the weapons were quickly reloaded. Once more the adversaries stiffened at their marks and General Valdes stood forward for the word.

"Messieurs, are you ready?"

"Ready," they answered, sharply.

"Fire!"

There was no hesitation this time. The arms rose like mechanical parts of a clockwork and the double explosion drowned the "one." Almost instantly the Marquis was seen to fall. He did not sink slowly. It was as if he had been hurled backward by a strong hand.

His seconds, hurrying to his side, soon ascertained the cause. He had been dangerously wounded in the groin and the sharp shock had taken the support from under him. Pierre Soulé stood with folded arms, unhurt, watching the opposing seconds and Doumouries as they tended their principal.

Several minutes passed and he had not moved. Then he was conscious of the white face of General Valdes coming toward him. Valdes seized his arm and turned him squarely about.

"Look, look!" he said. "Look at that wall. Do you see the line in the masonry?"

The Minister studied the wall as he was bid and finally made out the mark that his second indicated. From top to bottom some change of construction had left a perpendicular line of cement between the stones.

"Well," he asked, "what of that?"

"Don't you see?" the other almost shouted. "Where you stood you were directly in front of that line. It was murder they meant, simple murder. And to think that I failed to see it! I swear by the saints I will call out De Turgot myself if he recovers from this." But Soulé restrained him with a smile.

"He has enough, and in any case it was not the Marquis. He is at least a brave man. Doumouries did it, counting upon the advantage that De Turgot would insensibly adopt from the presence of the line. And Doumouries—is he worth your while?" and he smiled again at the grimace of disgust that swept upon the face of his impetuous second.

It was thought at first that both D'Alva and De Turgot would die of the injuries they had received. Under careful treatment they recovered. During the subsequent period of Pierre Soulé's service as Minister of the United States he and all appertaining to him were treated with profound respect in Madrid.

MADAGASCAR SPIDERS.

Their Wonderful Webs and an Experiment in Weaving.

"It is interesting to know the practical uses to which the webs of a large Madagascar spider might be applied to replace silk for woven fabrics," said Fisher S. Williams of London, who is interested in the manufacture of silk.

"I know from visits to the interior of Madagascar that the webs spun many feet across the walks or shady avenues of gardens are sufficiently strong to hang thereon a light bamboo walking cane. At the Paris exposition of 1900 a whole piece of fabric eighteen yards long and eighteen inches wide was exhibited which was woven out of this web, for which it was necessary to provide 100,000 yards of spun thread of twenty-four strands.

"For its manufacture 25,000 spiders had to be brought into requisition, and these were procured by offering the natives so much a hundred; but, not knowing or ignoring the purpose for which the insects were required and having a get-rich-quick desire, they brought them in by basketfuls, mostly dead. It was found necessary for the winding off machines to go to the spiders instead of calling in the spiders to the filatories. However, the piece of cloth was completed and was of a shimmering golden yellow color.

"The idea of obtaining silk from the spider is an old one, as distinguished men in France discoursed on the subject as long ago as 1710, but the first study of this Madagascar spider came up some ten years ago, and the spinning of its web was then undertaken. It is only the female that spins. The first difficulty in obtaining the thread direct from the insect consisted in contriving how to secure the living spider so as to wind it off by some mechanical process from the insect. This was originally performed by confining spiders in empty matchboxes, with the abdomen protruding. The extraction of the web does not apparently inconvenience the insect, although care has to be taken not to injure it."—Washington Herald.

Some College Spelling.

No one can blame the colleges of this country if they demand as one of the requirements of admission the ability on the part of the student correctly to spell words with which he would express his thoughts. Essays submitted by 250 students contained an average of five mistakes to each pupil. Nearly fifty men made the mistake of placing an unnecessary "e" at the end of a syllable, as "departement," "developement." A very common error was to transpose the vowels "ei" and "ie." "Relieve" and "receive" were the words most sinned against. "Preceding" and "succeeding" offered difficulties to many, while "offered" and "preferred" proved troublesome. Why "principal" and "principle" should so often be incorrectly used by college students is a mystery. There are a few simple rules for spelling which should have prevented at least half of the mistakes. Before the age of fourteen these rules should be part of the educational outfit of the student in the grammar schools. —Professor W. B. Bailey of Yale in New York Independent.

A Crooked Parallel.

It was decreed by the convention of 1818 and the treaty of Washington of 1846 that the boundary between the United States and Canada from the Lake of the Woods to the Pacific, a distance of 1,270 miles, should follow the forty-ninth parallel. The surveyors who have lately completed the location of the boundary have found that the astronomical parallel varies from a direct circle around the earth, and Professor Otto Klotz explains the curious fact that the line, instead of being straight, is at one point 800 feet south of the direct circle and at another place 600 feet north. It was decided that the astronomical parallel, or line through places wher the pole is 41 degrees from the zenith, should be the accepted boundary. This decision was followed, but local attraction in some places deflects the plumb line, and therefore the zenith and the astronomical forty-ninth parallel proves to be a quite irregular line.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Chinese Imperial Decree.

The east is the east. Here is an "imperial decree" from the capital of China: "In view of the importance of the offices and appointments of Grand Secretary Na Tung, who is in mourning for his parent, his incumbency of such is ordered to be changed to an acting capacity. He is commanded to attend to his duties as usual after the expiry of a hundred days' mourning and is earnestly desired to attune his feeling of filial piety with his faithfulness to the state so as to satisfy the throne's reliance upon him."

WOMAN IN WILDERNESS

WHAT MISS MANSFIELD MET IN DARKEST AFRICA.

Adventurous Young Englishwoman Who Has Completed a Trip Through the Heart of the Dark Continent Tells Her Experiences—Boarding the Lions, Not to Mention Elephants—Rosy Rhodesia.

"Well, I've learned the meaning of the expression 'hanging on by the back teeth.'"

The speaker was Miss Charlotte Mansfield, the charming and talented lady who has just returned from an adventurous journey through Central Africa, and she was giving an account of her experiences.

"You see, I'm not at all brave," continued Miss Mansfield, "and ever since I can remember I have been frightened in the dark. Judge, then, my sensations when I found myself under canvas for the first time in my life, and realized that I was alone in the African wilderness, guarded only by strange native 'boys,' my dog, and my camp-fires. And I had heard disquieting accounts of a tendency the natives have to desert at awkward junctures.

"My fears were not lessened by the sickly cries of prowling hyenas; and before my 540 miles' march from Broken Hill to Abercorn was over I suffered still greater tremors from occasionally hearing the grunt, grunt of a lion keep time with the pad, pad of its paws.

"One whole night I passed in terror in a small house, built by a white man, who had subsequently deserted it, while outside a lion did sentry go, my 'boys' having retired to their camp. I covered up the windows of my appropriated shelter as best I could with the materials to hand—a map and a Union Jack—and sat shivering, with only my dog to keep me company, listening to the beast's growls. When day dawned the brute took himself off, but my vigil had partly turned my hair grey.

"I had, on another occasion, an encounter with a young lion, with no walls between us, and it is not an experience I should be at all anxious to repeat.

"I was out walking with my little dog a short distance from camp when the creature appeared suddenly on the scene, and I had a moment of horrible fear before, to my great relief, the lion turned aside and made off.

"One morning, when I turned out, as usual, about five o'clock, I found some excitement among the natives. And no wonder! All around and quite close to the tent was the spoor of elephants which had passed on their way to the water. How thankful I was that none of them had blundered against or through the frail structure!

"There was one other frequent source of dread to me which I have not yet mentioned—namely, the crossing of rivers and swamps. My bearers would carry me over in a 'machila,' a hammock swung on a pole, with one man at each end, and, though the actual bearers were supported by others on either side, I was in constant fear of falling into the rain-swollen waters. To keep from giving myself away to the natives by screaming out I had to requisition all my reserves of fortitude.

"When we arrived at a native village, it was a never-failing source of delight to me to watch my 'boys' bartering with the village women for the necessary supplies of meal.

"Each week I had to give my 'boys' two and a half yards of 'limbo'—thin calico, blue or white, the latter being preferred—worth about 8½d. or 9d. With half a yard of 'limbo,' a large basket of meal could be bought; and, though money is accepted, 'limbo' is preferred, being the only clothing the villagers can get, except a coarse cloth made from tree-bark.

"At several of the villages I bought curios for myself, and generally I purchased some 'cuckoos' and eggs. 'Cuckoos' are small fowls, about the size of the English bantam, and could be bought at three for 1s., and the eggs were proportionately small and cheap.

"Before leaving the subject of camping, I may mention that I always slept with my rifle by my side and my revolver under my pillow, in case of emergency. As it was winter, the nights and early mornings were icy cold, necessitating warm furs for comfort; while in the middle of the day it was so hot that I had to wear a sun-helmet.

"When I publish my book on Rhodesia, I intend to give full particulars of all matters interesting to intending or prospective emigrants from this country. I may say that the possibilities of the country delighted me.

"Take Northeastern Rhodesia. The chances of a man who is not in a hurry to get rich in five minutes are splendid—that is, the chances of a healthy, happy, and, ultimately, prosperous life. His gun and his axe can will go a long way in supplying his wants for the first year or two, and if he is content to wait he will have a beautiful home and farm by-and-by."

"What capital is necessary?"

"Well, one man I met started with £50, and leased 100 head of cattle from the Government. After seven years, he has now 750 head of cattle of his own, and a beautiful farm to boot.

The Duke's Pipe.

The Duke of Connaught possesses a unique collection of pipes. On one occasion an American billionaire asked him to do him the honor of presenting him with one of his treasures. If such a favor were conferred upon him, he added, he would never smoke another pipe till the day of his death. The Duke was a little amused, but he gave the pipe. Some time after His Royal Highness again met the American, who assured him that his pipe was the sweetest he had ever smoked. "I'm awfully pleased to hear that," replied the Duke, "because I found, after I had given you the pipe, it was not one of mine at all."

Forest Fires.

In an effort to prevent the usual fall forest fires the state commissioner of forests, fish and game, James S. Whipple, has issued a special appeal to campers. "Too great caution cannot be exercised in regard to fires," says Mr. Whipple. "No match, cigar stub, cigarette or tobacco from a pipe should be thrown down until the person using it knows it has no fire on it. We must not guess; we must know. Campfires should never be built where there is danger of the fire getting into dry soil. Build fires only on sandy or gravelly places, where the fire cannot run. When leaving a fire it should be put out. We mean actually put out. Many are just smothered. Put them out."—New York Tribune.

East Indian Snake Bite Cure.

Writing to the London Daily Mail, a correspondent who has spent several years in India says of the cure there for snakes bites: "It may interest you to know that common malt vinegar, the trade article, has been used in India for some years past as a certain cure for snake bite. The bite of the cobra is cured by it, and in every village all over the country the headman is now supplied with a bottle of it by the government. The method of application is to make a cut between the wound and the heart about one inch long and one-fourth of an inch deep close to the bite and to rub the vinegar into it with a sponge or piece of cotton rag."

The London Police.

The London policeman, aside from the matter of pay, has every advantage over his New York contemporary. He is looked up to with respect. His slightest command is obeyed in the public streets. He takes himself very seriously and is grave and solemn under the weight of his responsibility. I never saw a London policeman laugh or even smile, except in one instance, and he was an Irishman and possibly might be considered too human for his office. His relation to the people is entirely different from that of the New York policeman. The greatest power over him is that of parliament, and all political parties are friendly to him. He is occasionally investigated by royal commissions, which investigation is impartial and, if anything, friendly to him. It is their hope to find everything as it should be.—William McAdoo in Century.

Snails as Delicacies.

One thing which the English visitor to Paris detests, according to a French newspaper, is the edible snail, which is becoming a greater favorite among the Paris gourmets. Returns show that in 1907, 560,000 kilograms of snails passed through the markets in the French capital. A similar quantity was consumed last year, and the returns up to the present indicate that the quantity eaten will be still greater. There seem to be fashions in gastronomy as well as in millinery, so we learn that the frog is becoming less popular—in fact, few are eaten today. —London Globe.

PROTECTS YOU FROM COLDS

As the only way to reach catarrh is by inhaling medicated air, it follows that the healing balsams of Catarrhozone can't fail to cure. It is a purely vegetable antiseptic—soothes and heals wherever it goes.

The germ-killing vapor is inhaled at the mouth and instantly spreads through all the breathing organs. Every case of bronchitis and catarrh is rooted out, and such health and strength is imparted that these troubles never again return.

Catarrhozone has cured thousands, and here is quoted the experience of Mrs. James A. Tweedie, of Jay Bridge, Maine, who sent for sixteen outfits of Catarrhozone for friends in her locality. This lady gives very full particulars why she did so. Her daughter, fourteen years old, had doctored for catarrh, obtaining no benefit, tried lots of other remedies, but al failed—recommended by a neighbor to try Catarrhozone. Instead of despairing, as she had good reason for doing, obtained Catarrhozone and before it was done, as she states, she was completely cured. No wonder she recommends it. Child had dropping in the throat, hawking, spitting; father thought she was going into consumption; could not sleep at night, and adds: "I only wish anyone suffering from catarrh to give it a fair trial."

Just Breathe "Catarrhozone" and You're Insured Against Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh and colds. Large size, guaranteed, $1; medium size, 50c; small trial size, 25c. All dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

MISMATED.

Unhappy Marriage the Lot of Many Famous Men.

"No sun warmed my rooftree; the marriage was a blunder; she was nine years my senior." Seldom did the last of the great Victorian novelists, George Meredith, refer to his first marriage, in 1849, with Mary Ellen Nicholls, widow of Lieutenant Nicholls and daughter of Thomas Love Peacock, writes an English paper. But on one occasion he broke the silence concerning that unhappy episode in his life with the foregoing pathetic words. It is some satisfaction to know that when the first Mrs. Meredith died, in 1860, this great writer enjoyed some twenty years of much happier domestic life with Miss Vulliany, a lady of French descent, whom he married in 1864 and who died in 1885.

Several other men of genius contemporary with George Meredith had reason to regret the matrimonial yoke. John Ruskin, for instance, after falling in love as a boy with a beautiful French girl whom he wooed with poems, romances, dramas and mute worship, receiving nothing in reply but chilly indifference and lively ridicule, married at the age of twenty-nine a lady of great beauty, Euphemia C. Gray, of a family long intimate with the Ruskins. The marriage, we are told, was arranged by the parents of the couple, was a somewhat hurried act, and brought no happiness to either. Ruskin was immersed in his studies and projects, while his wife was devoted to society, and six years after the marriage she left him, obtained a nullification under Scotch law and ultimately became the wife of John Everett Millais.

Then there was George Frederick Watts the famous Royal academician, who, when he was forty years of age, married Miss Ellen Terry, who was not then out of her teens. As might have been anticipated, the union of two such artists, only one of whom was permitted to pursue his art, was tempting disaster, and after a short time the marriage was dissolved. Subsequently Watts married a Scotch lady, with whom he lived for years in great happiness.

Tragic in the extreme was the marriage of Carlyle to Jane Welsh, whose heart had been given to Edward Irving, but the gifted orator was engaged to a Miss Martin and was held to his vow. The absence of love coupled with the bad temper and irritability of the famous historian led to much unhappiness both for himself and his wife, who confessed that the years were to her the "bitterness of death."

The Chancellor From Wales.

"The business man of the Cabinet," Mr. Lloyd-George, has been having the tussle of his life lately with his Finance Bill; but he always has been a hard fighter.

Born of a family of Welsh farmers, David Lloyd-George and his sister were in infancy left fatherless. They were brought up by an uncle who was only a village shoemaker, but had spirit enough to set himself to learn Latin and French, in order to coach David for his preliminary examination, which enabled him to become a solicitor at twenty-one.

Young Lloyd-George early showed the stuff that is in him, and in his struggling days he was responsible for the forcible entry of the villagers into the churchyard to bury an old quarryman beside his daughter, as he had requested. Legal proceedings followed, but, eventually, Lord Chief Justice Coleridge found that the villagers had acted within their rights.

Because of his pro-Boer principles, Mr. Lloyd-George was one of the most unpopular men in England during the recent war, and when he went to Birmingham to address a meeting he narrowly escaped lynching.

Others Didn't Count.

A well-known writer was touring in Ireland.

"You see thim mountains," said the driver of the jaunting-car.

"Yes."

"Thim's the highest mountains in the wurruld."

"Is that so?" asked the surprised Cremand."

"It is," assured the driver, "except-in,' av coorse, thim in furrin parts."

ATHLETIC TRAINING.

To Acquire an Excess of Muscle May Prove Injurious.

Nothing could be more elusive than the idea that by a period of athletic training a man can lay in a stock of health and strength upon which he can draw later while engaged in a sedentary occupation. The truth is that the big muscles and hypertrophied heart of the athlete are perilous possessions for the man who no longer has the time or the inclination for using them. When he stops the exercises by which he gained them, instead of simply returning to their original size they suffer one or another of the many forms of degeneration and become incapable of performing their original services.

It is not quite true that all exercise for its own sake is harmless, for it is well to be prepared for the meeting of life's little emergencies as well as its ordinary and daily demands, but it probably is true that the emergencies apart, every man does enough in going about his customary business and pleasure to keep himself in the condition which that business and pleasure demand and that anything besides is superfluous or injurious. That athletics take one into the open air is less a commendation of athletics than an indictment of our houses, offices and stores for lack of adequate ventilation. If all the air we breathe was pure air we could get along well enough without any open air at all. Any man who has the muscle he needs for doing the things he wants to do and should do has all the muscle he ought to have. To acquire more is a silly waste of time and perilous besides.

FEET OF SEA BEASTS.

Their Appearance When the Skin Is Stripped Off.

Of all the feet that I have looked at I know only one more utterly ridiculous than the twisted dipper on which the sea lion props his great bulk in front, and that is the forked fly flap which extends from the hinder part of the same. How can it be worth any beast's while to carry such an absurd apparatus with it just for the sake of getting out into the air sometimes and pushing oneself about on the ice and being eaten by polar bears? The porpoise has discarded one pair, turned the other into decent fins and recovered a grace and power of motion in water which is not equaled by the greyhound on land. Why have the seals hung back? I believe I know the secret. It is the baby! No one knows where the porpoise and the whale cradle their newborn infants—it is so difficult to pry into the domestic ways of these sea people—but evidently the seals cannot manage it, so they are forced to return to the land when the cares of maternity are on them.

I have called the feet of these sea beasts ridiculous things, and so they are as we see them. But strip off the skin, and, lo, there appears a plain foot, with its five digits, each of several joints, tipped with claws, nowise essentially different, in short, from that with which the toad or frog first set out in a past too distant for our infirm imagination. Admiration itself is paralyzed by a contrivance so simple, so transmutable and so sufficient for every need that time and change could bring.—Straud Magazine.

Advertures of a Composer.

The career of Mme. Marie Horne, the talented composer, whose clever work includes some of the most attractive numbers in those popular plays, "The Belle of Brittany" and "The Persian Princess," reads like a romance. Born and educated in France, Mme. Horne subsequently spent many years traveling in Europe and America. Her family had many interests in Spanish America, where she has had the unique experience of sleeping in dug-outs and Indian reed huts. On one occasion she was compelled to spend the night on the top of a volcano 15,000 feet above the sea-level. Mme. Horne was formerly the possessor of a beautiful, highly-trained soprano voice, and delighted to sing as an amateur, but, unfortunately, she lost it a few years ago owing to a terrible accident. The lace of her dress caught fire from a lighted candle, and, before assistance arrived, she was so badly burned that she had to remain swathed in cotton-wool for a year. On her recovery Mme. Horne turned her attention to composition, with the greatest success.

The Dancing Pole.

The south magnetic pole is described by Professor David of Sydney university, a member of the Shackleton expedition, as a point that travels around with a kind of waltzing movement in a circular area thirty miles in diameter and changes its exact position from day to day and hour to hour. It was observed with a Lloyd-Creak dip circle, which has magnetic needles that tilt more and more nearly to vertical as the pole is approached. The ordinary compass was used also in the observations, but refused to act when near the pole.

LIVING IN GERMANY.

The Struggle For Existence by People of Small Means.

How people of small means have to struggle for existence in modern Germany is illustrated by remarkable figures just published by the imperial statistical office. A year ago the office caused 900 families in different parts of the empire to begin keeping a systematic account of their incomes and disbursements. Every family received an account book in which it was requested to keep an itemized record of money spent on food, clothing, fuel, medical attention, presents, education, amusements, etc.

A teacher and his wife without children, whose income was £145 ($725), contrived to save £6. Another teacher and his wife, also childless, earned £160 and spent £171. Their deficit was caused by their spending £25 more for food and £8 more for entertainment than the other teacher.

A cabinetmaker and his wife, with one child nine years of age, earned £92 and lived on £94. A painter's apprentice and his wife, also with a child of nine, earned £76 and spent £80.

A married policeman with two children of ten and sixteen had an income of £118 and saved £10, while a married clerk with two children, aged four and five, earned £88 and ended the year with a deficit of £11 10s. A widower with two children and one servant girl earned £160 and spent £62 more than his income. This family spent over £30 on sports, amusements and entertainment. A married couple with three children, the father being a brewery workman, earned £88 and saved £7 10s. The family spent only £33 10s. on food.

The account books sent in by the various families revealed that in order to accomplish the above results the most Spartan economy was required. In most cases not a single farthing was spent unnecessarily. The statistics attract especial interest in view of the new internal revenue taxes on various commodities, which will shortly come into effect, making articles such as tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, coffee, tea, sugar, matches, beer, cognac and gas mantles dearer.—Berlin Cor. London Mail.

Illuminating Shells.

Experiments have recently been made at Toulon with shells intended to illuminate the sea at a distance from the land, thus disclosing the presence and movements of an enemy at night. The shells are made to explode at a great height and to give light for a sufficient time to permit an examination of the surface of the sea for several miles from the shore. The officers in charge of the experiments regard the illuminating shells as more effective than searchlights in disclosing the position of hostile ships. Another form of shell has been proposed which shall in bursting over the sea spread a cloud of thick smoke about the batteries on shore, thus preventing them from seeing the approaching ships and rendering the illuminating shells useless.—Youth's Companion.

The Same Old Fair.

The old county fair with its fun and its fakers,
The old county fair that's the same every year—
The prize-stock and fowls and the mowers and rakers
And Mandys that giggle and Reubens that stare,
The pink lemonade and the shell games that work us,
The old village band that squeaks in the square—
Hurrah! Rah, rah, rah! It's more fun than a circus!
Hurrah for a day at the old county fair!

COATED TONGUE HEADACHE DIZZY SPELLS

Your overworked stomach is on strike. It refuses to secrete pepsin enough to act upon the food. Refuses also to secrete acid enough to enable the peptic secretion to do its work.

What's the result?—dyspepsia, headache, sick all over.

Give to the stomach the assistance it requires—or in other words try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which cure more weak stomachs than any other medicine you know of.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills put the kind of life into a weak stomach that enables it to digest and assimilate all kinds of food.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Cured Mr. William Martin, a Well-Known Lumberman in Perry Sound.

"I consider that Dr. Hamilton's pills make the best all round medicine. My stomach got disordered and all kinds of complications set in. My blood grew thin, my color got pale, and I had the worst kind of headaches. The food I ate all disagreed with me and I was constantly bilious and suffering from acute dyspepsia. A wonderful change took place when I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they gave me appetite and strong digestion. I had no more bad dreams, no sick stomach or headache. I was in fact like a new man, and will always recommend and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sure to benefit at once. Try them, 25c per box, at all dealers, and insist on having only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. In yellow boxes only.

What you want is an Edison Phonograph

DO not be misled. The only kind of sound-reproducing machine that is perfect is the one that Edison invented and the one that Edison makes.

It is the one with the smooth and perfect sapphire point, that doesn't require changing with each record and that doesn't scratch—two points alone that should influence your decision.

Only in the Edison do you find the music-reproducing idea at its best.

Don't take our word for it. Compare the Edison Phonograph with all other instruments side by side, on the same music, if possible, and then you will know better than we can tell you.

Edison Phonographs are sold everywhere in Canada at the same price, $16.50 to $162.50. Standard Records, 40c. Amberol Records (twice as long), 65c. Grand Opera Records, 85c. There are Edison dealers everywhere. Go to the nearest and hear the Edison Phonograph play both Edison Standard and Amberol Records. Get complete catalogs from your dealer or from us.

GRAND RALLY

BOYS

THE

EXAMINER

WE WONDER if it ever occurred to the boys of Peterborough that the selling of papers was a stepping-stone to a successful business career in future years.

DO they recognize the fact that this little business offers them an opportunity to

MAKE

100 Per Cent ?

or in other words, to double the money invested in selling the EXAMINER to transient buyers.

BOYS buy the EXAMINER at one cent each, and sell it for two cents each ; or in the case of weekly patrons, they pay six cents per week and receive ten cents from the subscriber, thus making a profit of 62 2-3 per cent.

DO you know of any business in the city that pays such profits with as little chance for bad debts ?

IT only requires a Boy to HUSTLE, the same thing that is required when he gets into a bigger business world.

OF course we do not mean to say that the Boy, to become a successful business man, must be a newsboy, but we do say that the successful newsboy has gained an experience that is of much service to him in after years.

MONEY IN NEWSPAPER ROUTES.

Another boy was only thirteen when his father died, leaving two hundred dollars insurance, a widow and four younger children. The insurance money was loaned out to a neighbour at six per cent., as a sort of reserve fund, and while the widow did plain sewing, the boy carried newspapers morning and evening. After three months' experience with this work he borrowed twenty-five dollars and purchased the smallest newspaper route in town. Vigorous canvassing for new customers made that route so productive that in six months he paid back the loan. The lender offered another loan of fifty dollars, which the boy took, buying two more routes. These were covered by boys hired to do the work, however, because he felt that all his energy must go into the original route, so that he would at least be certain of good returns from that. Principles of management learned by this plan made him so successful that in less than five years he owned every newspaper route in his town. His mother's two hundred dollars was still intact, and his brothers and sisters going to school. A legacy of two hundred dollars fell to the family. This, with the original two hundred dollars and another hundred the boy had saved, was paid on a home costing twenty-eight hundred dollars, the balance to be cleared off at the rate of twenty-five dollars a month. Three furnished rooms were rented at a total of about twenty-two dollars monthly, and this money, it was agreed, should never be spent. Newspaper routes, odd jobs and the mother's contributions kept the family and paid the instalments. In four years the income from furnished rooms, put away in the bank, grew to more than one thousand dollars. The mortgage was finally cleared off, and the boy, now nearly twenty-one years old, started to get an education at the high school.

THERE are a number of Boys in Peterborough making four and five dollars per week, not necessarily all selling the Examiner, but some easily make three dollars per week selling the Examiner exclusively.

Boys! Be Boys of Business

Get in the game. It won't hurt you, but will give you a right start. You will have money of your own to save or buy useful needs with.

BOYS ! Take your spare time between four and six o'clock and see what success you will have between now and Christmas.

NEWSBOYS' BONANZA

Old World News

Interesting Items From Across The Sea.

ENGLAND

"Say your prayers and save yourselves," were the last words of George Baker to his companions as he sank in Osborne Bay, Isle of Wight, the victim of a boating accident. Deceased, with two others named Fred Frost, and Alfred Cook, set out from Cowes in an open sailing boat for the purpose of fishing, but owing to the stormy weather they ran for Osborne Bay for shelter. Here they encountered a heavy squall ,and the little craft was capsized. The three struck out for the shore, but on account of the rough sea and the heavy oilskins they were wearing, this was a task of the utmost difficulty. After swimming for some distance Baker became exhausted and sank. Frost and Cook, after a swim of two miles, reached the shore in an exhausted condition.

Attempting to shoot himself at his son's grave, was the charge brought against Arthur Beckett, aged sixty-three, at the Enfield Police Court, recently. Hearing a revolver shot in the cemetery, one of the gravediggers ran towards the direction whence the sound came, and found a man kneeling at a grave. The gravedigger sent for the police, and when an inspector arrived he found Beckett lying across the grave, which turned out to be that of his son. Beckett told the inspector that he had put the revolver in his mouth and shot himself twice. He handed the inspector two letters, one giving directions for his funeral. At the hospital Beckett said, "I'm out of work and tired of my life."

Until recently Staffordshire has been without any prosecution of motorists, but having set out to do the thing, Staffordshire was determined to do it well. A new and original police trap for motorists was laid on the road near Trentham. A distance of exactly six hundred yards was measured off, and matters were so arranged that whenever a motorist approached this part of the road an electric bell was run. Directly he entered upon the 600 yards another electric bell was rung, and the times in each case were checked. The consequence of all these elaborate precautions was that six defendants were fined various amounts up to £4.

IRELAND

A peculiar accident, in which a cyclist clashed into a motor car and was killed, occurred at Balton recently. After being engaged in a football match, the victim, Joseph Byrne, in company with his brother, started to cycle home. They had just passed outside the village, riding down an incline, when, at an elbow on the road the unfortunate youth, who had been cycling with bowed head, crashed into a motor car travelling towards the three. The impact was so great that young Byrne's head broke through the thick glass wind-guard, the sharp edges of the glass jagged through and across his throat, and among his further injuries were a fracture of the skull and facial disfigurement.

A singular case of death caused by having a tooth extracted, is reported from Ballyboy, Co. Monaghan. At the inquest the evidence showed that deceased had got a tooth pulled about a month ago and that the gums had been bleeding at intervals. He then had another tooth extracted from which time the bleeding became general, and continued until his death. Dr. Hunter gave evidence that there was no want of skill in the extraction of the teeth, but that deceased was subject to a constitutional condition which would result in such bleeding. This class of persons gave no indication of their condition, and the most trivial operations upon them might prove fatal.

As the result of a peculiar accident at Belfast, recently, a young lady artist sustained injuries which are likely to prove fatal. The victim, Miss Marion Patton, was a student at the art school of the Technical Institute, and when the Art Master was changing the position of an antique plaster cast, it fell with a crash on Miss Patton's head, inflicting shocking injuries.

SCOTLAND

The crew of the Firdochty boat Sunshine lately had a narrow escape in Orkney waters. While they were going to sea from Kirkwall, a warship was observed at big-gun practice. Suddenly one of the shells plunged into the water alongside the boat, and, ricochetting, passed across the boat's deck, on which were the skipper and another man at the helm. The shot plunged into the sea on the other side of the boat. The warship was about a couple of miles distant at the time. The incident has been reported to the authorities.

A miner's terible death is reported from Motherwell. Alexander Boyd, 17 years of age, an underground haulage engineman, was in the act of cleaning his engine when his sleeve caught on a pin on a revolving shaft and he was dragged round at a terrific rate. His right arm was torn from the shoulder, and his head was frightfully battered by coming in contact with the wall. No one saw the accident happen. Death must have been instantaneous. Part of the sleeve of his shirt was found twisted round the shaft.

Hearing something fall, the daughter of Alexander Walker, a coachman of Dundee, one day recently ran into the kitchen, where she found her father hanging by the neck from a rope fixed to a press door. The stool, which the man had used in order to fix the rope, had been knocked down, and it was the noise made by its fall which had attracted the girl's attention. She immediately rushed for the neighbours, but they appeared too excited to think of cutting the rope, and when the police arrived Walker was dead.

MORE TALES OF CRUELTY IN THE RUBBER COUNTRY

It is Termed a Regular Devil's Paradise---Native Children Thrust Heads Downward Into Holes---Work of Inhuman Monsters.

London, Oct. 10.—A narrative of the horrible atrocities which are said to have been practised on the defenceless Indians in the Putumayo rubber country in Peru has been received from our correspondent.

This rubber collecting business is carried on by the Peruvian Amazon Company, of Salisbury House, London Wall, registered at Somerset House. The secretary of the company, Mr. A. W. Smith, has written as follows in regard to the terrible allegations made against their employees:

The directors have no reason to believe that the atrocities referred to have in fact taken place, and, indeed, have grounds for considering that they have been purposely misstated for indirect object. Whatever the facts, however, may be, the Board of this company are under no responsibility, as they were not in office at the time of the alleged occurences.

Then follows a series of formal statements made by people who declare they have seen the inhumanities practised on the natives. Extracts are given below, though it should be borne in mind in view of the terrible nature of the allegations that this evidence may yet be controverted.

From a declaration made by a Brasilian citizen, Joao Baptista Braga, before a commandant of the Brazilian army:—It would be an endless task to relate the innumerable crimes that I have seen committed during my stay in this section. Here, recently, in the month of July, the tachaua known as Tirachuaca and his wife were held prisoners in chains.

When Jimenez—who had been temporarily absent — arrived, he had them brought into his presence, and told them that if their tribe did not appear within the space of eight days he would show them what he would do with them.

Live Torches.

The eight days passed and as the tribe did not come he ordered a can of kerosene to be poured over them, and then, striking a match, he set fire to these unfortunates, who fled to the forest, uttering the most desperate cries.

Naturally, upon seeing such an awful crime committed ,I expressed my horror at it to Jimenes, who replied that if there was anybody who wished to protest against the orders he gave he would be served in the same manner, and that if the company kept him as chief it was because he knew how to do his duty.

From a statement declared before a notary at Iquitos by Daniel Colentes:—Martinangui ordered a commission to set on fire the houses of some neighbouring Indians and exterminate them, with their women and children, as they had not brought in the amount of rubber that he had ordered.

The order was strictly carried out, for the commission returned in four days bringing along with them fingers, ears, and several heads of the unfortunate victims to prove to the chief that they had carried out his orders.

A Brasilian paper, the "Journal de Commercia," published at Manaos, printed an account of a "barbarous deed" close to the Brasilian frontier. This was a narrative of a butchery of inoffensive Indians by a band of Peruvian rubber collectors.

Having killed twenty-five they discharged their weapons at the Indians who were constructing the roof of a house. These poor unfortunates, pierced by the bullets, some dead, others wounded, rolled off the roof and fell to the ground.

Women and Children Butchered.

Not content with these cowardly murders, they took the Indian women of advanced age, threw them into the canoes of the Colombians and conducted them to the middle of the river and then discharged their rifles at them, killing them all.

What they did with the children was still more barbarous, for they jammed them head downwards into the holes that had been dug to receive the posts that were to support the house.

The Peruvians after taking possession of the merchandise, conducted the Colombians, the tachaua (Indian hief) of the Andoques, two Indians, and an Indian woman to Matanzas, the dwelling place of Norman, the journey taking two days.

Here the prisoners were tied up with cords and afterwards shut up in one of the houses, where they passed a night of torture. In the morning the tachaua and the two Indians were taken out to a near-by knoll and clubbed to death.

WHEN TO USE DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were originally a prescription used in the doctor's private practice and their benefit to mankind has been increased many thousand fold by their being placed on general sale throughout the world with the doctor's own directions for use. They are entirely safe and contain no opiate or habit-forming drugs.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a remedy to use when the blood is thin as in anaemia; or impure, as in rheumatism, or when the nerves are weak, as in neuralgia, or lifeless in paralysis, or when the body as a whole is ill nourished, as in general debility. They build up the blood, strengthen the nerves and cure the troubles of women and growing girls, and many forms of weakness. That thousands of people have tried this treatment with good results is shown by the constantly increasing number of cures reported.

Mr. Paul Charbonneau, a young man well known in the town of St. Jerome, Que., is one of the host who bear testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says: "When I left school I became a bookkeeper in an important office. Probably due to the confinement I began to suffer from indigestion and loss of strength. I became pale and seemingly bloodless and was often seized with palpitation of the heart and violent headaches. I tried several remedies, but they did not do me a bit of good. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and did so and the use of eight boxes brought me back to perfect health and strength. I have since enjoyed the best of good health and cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PENNY BANKS

Favoured in Ottawa But May be Abolished in Brantford.

The officers and trustees of the Brantford Ontario public schools it is reported are beginning to find that the penny banks system which they have been using for the past couple of years is becoming a nuisance and is taking up too much of the teachers' and principals' time. A move is now on foot to try and do away with it altogether. Interviewed in this respect Dr. Glashan replied that he thought the penny bank system was an excellent scheme and he would like to see it pushed to the farthest extent. When asked if it was causing any trouble among the teachers here, or taking up too much of their time, Dr. Glashan answered "not at all."—Ottawa Journal.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

"I do not know whether novel-reading is evidence of weakness of mind. The practice, however, is generally confined to people who have little to do, and have not much mind." Now, we should like to know what our readers think of such a delivery as that from a coroner's bench! We venture to state that ninety-nine out of every hundred who read novels, will turn up their noses in disgust at what they will designate "arrant rubbish." Plato long ago remarked that there is no book so bad but that something can be gained by reading it, and to prove him right we have but to note that the wisest men of all ages have been omnivorous readers. But there is much to be said in favour of the person who does not care to dip deep into the pages of a present-day novel. With the exception of a few authors, to be counted on one hand almost, the output of the writers of the present day, may be correctly termed "slush." It is hard to believe that in so short a time as fifty years a race of giants should have been succeeded by a race of pigmies, but so it is, and the great public, who cannot be contented in these days of rush and gush to sit down quietly and read the good old three-volume novels of the geniuses of past days find ample satisfaction in the full-flavoured, quick-lunches that their literary restaurateurs are only too willing to serve up to them. But are they the better for it? And are their sons and daughters any the better for it? Years ago Harrison Ainsworth caused untold mischief by the publication of a story depicting the exploits of Jack Sheppard. He candidly owned in his last days that he was sorry that he had written it. But Jack Sheppard did not contain in its pages a moiety of the sensationalism that is created by the present day flood of detective and social problem yarns. Probably it was to these that the coroner referred. If so, he was not very far from the mark in his utterances on the subject.

The Bishop of Worcester, Dr. Yeatman Biggs, in his visitation address at Worcester Cathedral some time ago, asked if it would not be well to cease denouncing public-houses as such.

"What was needed was not the destruction, but the reform, of the public-house, and a more general recognition that some kind of a public-house was a national necessity.

At the same time, there must be drastic punishment for those who turned what was meant for the public good into an opportunity for public hurt.

The best members of "the trade" desired to make their houses places of general meeting and innocent recreation and refreshment, and would be helped to accomplish this more truly by sympathetic than by vindictive legislation.

The above is not quoted as an argument against local option but just to show how differently people view things. As a matter of fact conditions are so utterly diverse in England, and in Canada that comparisons are almost impossible, but anyone who has seen the wretched condition of the slum Englishman and the homeless character of his surroundings will readily feel the force of the Bishop's remarks.

When Archbishop Magee years ago gave vent to the famous expression, "I would sooner see England free than England sober," he drew down a storm of invective on his head. But what he meant was that England, in the shackles of misery, dirt, and sin, was being too little attended to, and England, in regard to her drink bill, altogether too much.

They know how to drink beer in Bavaria. Last year Bavarian brewers made 488,261,389 gallons of beer. They exported 78,299,402 gallons, mainly to other German states, leaving enough at home for a consumption equalling 248 quarts to each man, woman, and child. We have heard topers exclaiming ecstatically that they have "a glorious thirst." They should go to Bavaria.

It is positively amazing with what tremendous celerity Messrs. Cook and Peary have given their voyages of discovery to the world. Scarcely a week had elapsed before books purporting to be true and graphic descriptions of their wanderings and sufferings were on the market. Probably many of them were snapped up by eager purchasers, anxious to have the full tidings of the great discovery of the Pole. People who eat before they think are likely to have tears to drink. We've been quoting so much poetry lately that it seems as if we had contracted the disease of writing it ourselves. Just as certain of the nurses in Molokai contract leprosy by too close association with the disease. But there's really quite a philosophical ring about that couplet:

People who eat before they think,
Are likely to have tears to drink.

There's quite a flavour of Poor Richard's Almanac about that. We'll let it stand.

To return to our subject. If these poor gudgeons would only consider for a moment that it is a practical impossibility for such books to be full of complete accounts of the journeys that they purport to be there would surely be fewer of them bought. Many of them are set up in type ready to be launched at a favourable opportunity. Articles revamped from various newspapers and periodicals with just a few words at the end of the book to give colour to authenticity and up-to-dateness by stating that the explorer arrived on such a date and there's the whole thing in a nutshell.

Those ladies who seek to preserve their youth and good looks by an application of tetrachloride to the hair should take warning from the medical evidence lately produced in a Westminster Police Court.

A charge was laid against W. H. Eardley, manager of the hair-dressing department at Harrod's stores, and Beatrice Clark, his assistant, which had reference to the death of a Miss Helonora Catherine Horn-Elphinstone Dalrymple, who died while undergoing a dry shampoo at the stores on July 12. The fumes of tetrachloride were shown to have a most depressing effect on the heart, and an experiment with it on a rat's hide had killed the unfortunate animal in forty seconds. Under such conditions, even if possessed of all the charms of an Adonis adorned with hyacinthine locks, we would prefer to let nature have its own way with our headpiece.

When Honus Wagner, of baseball fame, gets too old to indulge in nimble running of the bases, there is still an excellent chance of making a living, available to him. He seems to be a past master in the art of contortionism, judging by his counterfeit agonies, when hit by a ball the other day. His successful presentment would have done credit to the cleverest mendicant who walks the streets. His case bears a striking resemblance to that of a man who was recently nabbed at Ilford, Eng. We are told that his arms were contorted; his body was curiously twisted, and when spoken to he said he was paralyzed with rheumatism. When told he was under arrest he made a bolt, and when caught again his paralysis had left him. Looked at from the point of view of fair play the tactics of the one gentleman seem about as honest as the other.

A dictionary will probably strike the average mortal as the last species of literature to which one should go to be amused and enlivened. And yet it really is one of the most interesting. Before the era of dictionaries, letters were diffused by word of mouth. Then came glosses, traced in beautiful red ink, over the difficult words, but they defaced many a beautiful manuscript. Then, by successive leaps glosses grew into lexicons, and from lexicons to the modern dictionary. The first English dictionary was published by Richard Huloet, in 1552, and its immediate successor issued in 1573, by John Baret, was printed in English, Latin and French. It was probably this work which is alluded to in the records of the Boston (Scotland) Corporation, under date 1571: "That a dictionarye shall be bought for the scollers of the Free Scoole, and the same boke to be tyed in a cheyne, and set upon a desk in the scoole, whereunto any scoller may have accesse, as occasion shall serve."

We shall dilate further on the subject of the dictionary next week.

GOUGH BROS. BUY ESTATE

Paid $70,000 for Valuable Property Which Toronto Council Had Proposed to Use As a Park.

RESIDENTIAL PURPOSES

Toronto, Oct. 16.—Gough Brothers, the Yonge street clothiers, have just completed the purchase of the Larratt Smith estate, on Summerhill avenue, adjacent to Reservoir Park, which the city recently refused to secure for park purposes.

The estate consists of nearly seven acres, including a house and is assessed at $40,000. The city had an option on the property for $63,500 and Property Commissioner Forman valued it at $1,000 less. After discussing the matter carefully the Council decided that, while the property was good value for the money, the city was not in a position to purchase any more land for park uses at present. The offer was therefore turned down.

It is learned that $70,000 was paaid for the property. The deal was put through by H. H. Williams.

It is probable the purchasers will resell for residential purposes.

KIDNAPPED CHILDREN

They Disappeared From St. Louis Early in August and are Found Alone in a Chicago Street.

POLICE ON THE CASE.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Two Italian children, identified from photographs tonight as Tomasso and Grace Viviano, kidnapped from St. Louis August 2, last, and sought since by the police of many cities, were found early today on the north side of the city by Detective Stephen Parodi of the Chicago Avenue Police Station.

The children when found were sitting on a curbstone weeping. The girl, who is less than four years old, was sobbing bitterly, and Tomasso, her cousin, seven years old, was trying to comfort her.

Remembering the Viviano case, Detective Parodi asked Tomasso, who said he did not know whe re he lived, if his name was Viviano. The boy nodded his head and identified some photographs from the Central Detective Bureau. Tomasso could tell nothing as to where he and Grace had been since they were taken from their home.

MURDERED WIFE AND SUICIDED

DAUGHTER ESCAPED

Examiner Special.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 15.—This morning Harry Smith, an Englishman, shot and killed his wife and himself and tried to kill his daughter in the home, corner of Blackie and Holbrook streets, New Westminster.

Mrs. Smith, who is partly of Indian blood, was born in Nicomen Island, and married Smith two years ago. Their married life was marked with many quarrels. Smith was an old man-of-warsman, and had been watchman on the ship Ramona, sunk in the Fraser river last year.

The sixteen-year-old daughter, hearing shouts, rushed into the room and found her mother dead and Smith dying. Smith raised himself from the floor and pointed the gun at the girl, who knocked it aside. Smith fell back dead.

The girl and her younger brother, aged ten, fled and informed the police. The aged wife was shot through the brain. The bullet entered Smith's head at the right ear. It appears Smith and his wife quarrelled in the Exhibition grounds last night and subsequently on the street. Smith left a note addressed to the Chief of Police, which said his wife had made life unbearable. An inquest will be held.

Perhaps you prefer to have your wife warm her cold feet on your back, if so you don't need a WALPOLE Hot Water Bottle, made of one piece of Rubber, without seams and Guaranteed for two years. Sold by all druggists.

PRICE OF SHOES MAY ADVANCE

Scarcity of Hides and the Effect of the American Tariff Said to be the Causes—May Increase at Any Time

WEARERS MUST PAY

First it was rubbers and now it is shoes. There doesn't appear to be any doubt the price of these must go up. The reason is simple. Shoes are made of leather and leather is very scarce, therefore sells at a higher price. Just when boots will increase in price is not known, but it appears that it will be as soon as the manufacturers exhaust the supply of leather which they have on hand at the present time.

All the trouble arises from the supply of hides. In Canada, and in all other countries, there are fewer of these than there have been in the past. While the hides are decreasing the people are increasing and the use of leather is getting commoner every day. In Canada the situation is made still worse by reason of the American manufacturers, who are enabled by the low tariff to buy here.

"Hides have advanced in value from 50 to 100 per cent," said a tanner this morning. "We have been asking about a ten per cent. increase for the leather. The manufacturers are complaining at this, but the increase in price will have to be greater yet, or some of us will go out of business."

Those hides are used extensively for boot and shoe uppers, and as the price of sole leather has also taken a great jump it will be seen the manufacturers are getting hit at both ends. All of which, of course, means that the householders will have to og a little deeper in their pockets when they need new foot wear. They will not be able to save much by having their boots repaired either, for this also takes leather and consequently will cost more.—Exchange.

CATTLE WERE POISONED

Brighton Man Committed for Trial on the Complaint of His Son Yesterday—Was Very Strong Evidence.

POISON IN APPLES?

Belleville, Oct. 15.—Inspector Reburn, of Toronto, was in Brighton lately working on a cattle-poisoning case, as a result of which Lewis Leland, a farmer, 74 years old, was committed for trial on a charge of poisoning a horse and cow belonging to his son, John W. Leland. It seems that apples had been plugged with Paris green and strewn on the ground in the pasture where John Leland's stock fed. A cow died and a horse was taken very sick, but recovered. John Leland told Inspector Reburn that he suspected his father, and the officer investigated, making out a strong case against the old man, who was on Thursday committed for trial.

OVER ROUTE WEST OF CITY

Engineer Hay, With C. P. R. Engineer, Went Over the Route Suggested by the City Engineer—Nothing Decided

AVOID ENTRANCE PLANNED.

City Engineer Hay accompanied by Engineer Killaley of the C.P.R. drove this morning to the location of the C.P.R. grain route Mr. Hay suggested instead of that planned by the company. It is situated about two miles west of the city. It has been learned that Mr. Killaley has been over that part of the country. Mr. Hay stated at noon to-day that there was nothing definite to report on the result of their trip. It is likely that the work will be gone over again in order to avoid the present route if at all possible.

DR. CRAFTS TALKS OF THE INTERNATIONAL BUREAU

Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, Ph.D., Superintendent and Treasurer of the International Reform Bureau, who is to give four addresses here to-morrow in the interests of the work founded by him, arrived in the city this morning from Ottawa, where he had been addressing large gatherings. He was seen by a reporter this morning. The International Bureau, he said, was organized to fight four great evils, namely, intemperance, impurity, Sabbath breaking and gambling. They attack these evils by means of legislation, lectures and literature. Dr. Crafts, in his address to-morrow, will not follow the usual course of temperance lectures. He will speak of the evil done, not by excessive, but occasional drinking. Eminent scientists have shown that much injury is done to a man who only takes one drink a day. He will also touch on other reforms, such as gambling, impurity, and Sabbath keeping, not of a local, but of an international character.

He stated that Canada, as regards her Sabbath keeping and temperance laws, was ahead of the United States, her legislation in respect to gambling and impurity were weak as compared with the United States. Dr. Crafts will speak at St. Paul's to-morrow morning, at the Opera House at 4.15, at St. Andrew's church at 7 and at the George street church at 8 o'clock.

GAVE UP SHANTY WORK, WENT WEST AND NOW HAS THOUSANDS

Kinmount Man Left His Home With $45 and Returns From Oregon With $150,000—His Parents Have Shared in His Success and Live in Portland, Ore.

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Oct. 15.—Twenty years ago James Manary left Kinmount with forty-five dollars in his pocket. With this he went to Georgia. Now he has big interests in a lumber business in Portland, Ore., and is worth about $150,000. He was in town to-day for a while at the Simpson House.

The residents of Kinmount vicinity know Mr. Manary well. When but a young fellow he secured a job as a lumberman to go into the north country at fifteen dollars a month. Anyone who has been at a lumbering camp for a winter knows that the lumber 'jacks,' as they are called, do not sit around the fire all day and do nothing. It is up ahead of the sun, and early to bed at night. The work was harder twenty years ago too, than it is now, and the grub mainly composed of "red tiger," a species of pork. Thus the fifteen dollars looked small remuneration to young Manary. He thought that he might have been paid $16 a month, at the least.

The young fellow had actually started on his way to the camp when he decided to throw up the job. His father started him out with forty-five dollars capital and with that he went to Oregon. His success followed and he amassed a considerable fortune and sent back for his parents, who now live in the city of Portland. He lives near Mr. E. Thurston, son-in-law of Mr. A. Robertson, town. Mr. Manary is on a visit to his old home.

CENTRAL MILL HAS NOW CAPACITY OF 400 BARRELS OF FLOUR PER DAY

Has Been Equipped With the Most Modern Milling Machinery—New Brands of Flour Manufactured.

NOW IN OPERATION

The Central Milling Company have now one of the most modern plants in Ontario. For the past three months expert millwrights have been busy overhauling and installing new machinery of the latest design. The mill has now a capacity of four hundred barrels per day, running the entire twenty-four hours. Commencing on Monday, it will run both night and day.

Commencing the first of July work was started on tearing out the old machinery, preparing for the installation of the new. In the basement a seventy-five h.p. motor has been put in to run the rolls, of which there are twelve double stands on the first floor. On the ground floor a fifty h.p. Westinghouse motor operates the machinery.

The wheat, on being removed from the cars, is placed in the elevator, wher it is partially cleaned. It then passes through a large spout into the mill, where it goes through a number of separators and sifters, then to the rollers, where it is reduced. It passes through the sifting and reducing process several times, thoroughly purifying it before it is made into flour.

There are seven purifiers, one scourer, one separator and five dust collectors on the second floor. On this floor the flour is packed and prepared for shipment. On the top floor is situated thirty-six stands of elevators, a wheat separator and two scourers.

Two new brands of flour will be manufactured, "Big Diamond," and "Ocean Wave."

The work of installing the new machinery has been capably supervised by Mr. C. W. Avery, of Toronto. He has been assisted by Mr. E. Storey, of Inkerman, Mr. D. Fitzgerald, of Toronto, and a number of local millwrights. During the past week Mr. Blenchley, milling engineer of Stratford, has been here superintending the opening of the mill.

THE MANY RACES BENEATH THE BRITISH FLAG WILL BE MADE GOOD SUBJECTS THROUGH THE GOSPEL

The Christianising of the Empire's millions of heathen is probably the greatest problem that confronts the British people to-day was one of the impressive statements made by Rev. D. J. Cock at the meeting of the Boys' Club of Knox church last night. There are more Mohammedans than Christians beneath the Union Jack, and there are three times as many Hindus as Mohammedans. If the making of all these people into loyal subjects is to be successfully carried out it must be through the agency of the Gospel.

These heathen must become Christians to assure the solidity of Empire, and to assimilate the ideals of its components, which are, by their locations, of different colour, race and religion. "The mission is the only means by which these races can be made one."

Rev. Mr. Cook has been at Mhow, Rasalpura, Central India, connected with the work for the boys. His address, therefore, dealt with their young Easterners, who, in the speaker's opinion, are, if anything, superior to our own boys in any department in which they may be contrasted. The work in their behalf is only beginning to reap results which have given the missionaries an idea of the possibilities of the Indian nation. At football, cricket, tennis, gymnasium work, studies, etc., they have surprised their instructors by their ability. They have no idea of their own power and capability and care is taken to prevent the brown people competing in many things with the white as the former would, in most cases, be victorious, and they would discover themselves. At present they look upon the whites as akin to demigods.

The Indian boys are exceedingly bright. One case is especially interesting. He was only 16 years of age and he asked to write examinations with the teachers' course. The missionary was somewhat interested and queried concerning his standing, when he learned that he had received certificates for three different grades. The young lad tried the examination and received highest men's and teachers' diploma. That boy was a famine child who had to be fed with a spoon and for six weeks could not lift a hand for absolute weakness.

There are some 25 blind boys who are taught to read the Bible with the raised type. All these learn some useful trade suitable to their condition.

Another interesting case was a young lad whose leg was amputated. He was quite a scholar and went to Indore College. When he returned to Mhow he held up in great glee a medal which he had received from the governor-general of India, for his work on the parallel bars.

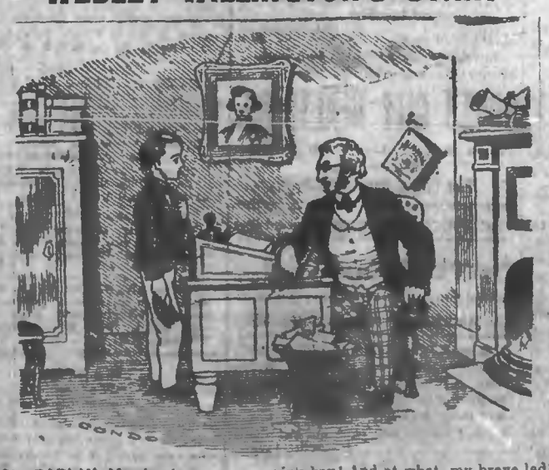
Mr. Cock emphasized the fact that while the industrial school cared for the bodies of the children, the great and main purpose was to save them and make them followers of Christ, and this work was going on all the time with very encouraging results.

The Rev. Mr. Keith spoke of the great pleasure it had been for the boys of Knox to have a little share in helping on this work, and knew that they would do more in the future.

Mr. Gordon Hall occupied the chair. The Rev. G. W. Rose of Alton, Ont., and Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's were among the visitors present.

At the conclusion of the addresses Master Shepherd in a neat speech, moved a resolution of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Cock for his encouraging address. This was heartily supported.

WESLEY WILLINGTON'S START



Mr. PARLIN, Merchant.
WESLEY WILLINGTON, In Want of a Place.

SCENE—Mr. Parlin's Counting Room.

Wesley (enters): Please, sir, I have come for a situation!

Mr. Parlin: How! A situation? Where, my lad?

W.: Here, sir, in this mercantile establishment.

Mr. P.: Upon my word, an interesting boy! And at what, my brave lad?

W.: At doing errands, sir. I have superior talents for the place.

Mr. P. (with an unusual look): I allow the truth of your representations, my young friend, but do you realize the severe duties it enjoins?

W.: O yes, to be sure I do, sir. I must apply myself with constant assiduity to replenish your sand shaker, keeping your ledgers, pointing the nib on your goose quill pen, and supervising the management of your property, in order that you may spend your declining years in ease and luxury, secure in the knowledge that your affairs are in more competent hands than your own, sir.

Mr. P. (aside): Truly, this is no ordinary human being. What dignified sentiments! Such pretty answers! I must query him further. (To W.): Well said, my fine lad! And now, pray, tell me why you have left your fireside to enter into commercial pursuits?

W.: Because I am the amiable and intelligent son of a plain honest farmer, sir, with many virtues and abilities.

Mr. P.: I am gratified, indeed, my modest stranger, to find you not at all puffed up with the opinion of your own importance. I entreat you to tell me more of yourself.

W.: There is little else to add. My father's fortune was swept away by a lightning rod agent, and in the very nature of things it became incumbent upon me to leave school and lend myself to the uplifting of commerce.

Mr. P.: Yes, yes, it was inevitable. But how deplorable that you must neglect your education.

W. (with a sigh): I have thought of that. Yes, sir, I will be bound to say, manhood is better than mathematics; self-reliance of more worth than Spencerian flourishes.

Mr. P.: Very right. I hope we will get along well together. I have wanted sadly to have a jewel like you to lean upon, and in the future, when you are rich, powerful, and great, be so good as to remember I have treated you with cordiality and attention, instead of displaying surly pride at our our first meeting.

W. (taking him kindly by the hand) Yes, such baseness would have rendered you deservedly odious. Believe me, I am not insensible to your respectful attitude. But, stay, do not throw yourself at my feet, or you will do me a great displeasure.

Mr. P. (aside): This is more than I deserve. (Brokenly): Here, my noble hero, as an earnest of my regard, is a silver half-dime, your stipend for a fortnight in advance. Pardon me, what is your name?

W.: Wesley Willington, sir.

Mr. P.: Well, Wesley, this is Mr. Jackson, the junior partner. Hark, thee, Jackson, this Wesley Willington—show him the greatest deference, for he is going to be over us as errand boy. (Jackson and Wesley go out). Am I not a fortunate man!

Double Presentation Was Made To A Springville Choir Member

An enjoyable affair was held last night at the Presbyterian manse, Springville, on the occasion of a double presentation to Mrs. J. Sullivan of Fraserville, (nee Mary Moffat) a member of the church choir, and ne of the foremost of the church's workers. Quite a number of the members were present, and during the evening the following address was read, on behalf of the choir to Mrs. Sullivan:

We, the members of the choir of the Springville Presbyterian church choir ask you to accept this clock as a token of our esteem. You have always been a willing helper in all our work. We wish you every happiness in your new sphere and your continuance as a member of our choir.

Signed on behalf of the choir,
EVA M. PRESTON,
JENNIE CATHCART,
Organist.

Mrs. Sullivan was also remembered by the Sunday School class, receiving a dozen silver spoons. The following address was also read:

We, the members of your Sunday School class beg to take this opportunity of expressing to you our gratitude for the manner in which you have conducted yourself as our teacher, and for the helpful way in which you have always explained to us the lessons. We ask you to accept this little present as a token of our esteem on the occasion of your marriage, and sincerely hope that you will long be spared to continue your labour of love as our teacher. (Signed)

KATHLEEN CATHCART,
PEARL BOWLES.

Mr. Sullivan replied for his wife, expressing her appreciation of the kind expressions of esteem and the wishes for future happiness.

Mr. Fred Wilson and Mr. G. Parry Jenkins of Hamilton, also made brief speeches.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Marsh proved themselves most hospitable hosts and a very pleasant evening was spent.

FENELON FALLS BOY FOR THE EXAMINER JUNIOR ROAD RACE

"Teddy" Heard, the Fenelon Falls youthful runner, will enter the Peterborough Examiner junior road race on Thanksgiving Day. Heard has been training for several weeks, and will be in good shape to enter the race. He has not been long at the running game, but has won a couple of races in handy style and should cut a figure in the Peterborough event. This is the first time the Peterborough race has been opened to runners from outside Peterborough county and Victoria county is going to make an effort to cop one of the events.—Lindsay Warder.

DRAGGED IN A RUNAWAY

Dummer Farmer Clung to Reins After Being Pulled Over Dashboard—Had His Ankle Broken.

RECEIVED MANY BRUISES

Mr. David Williamson of the 10th concession of Dummer met with a serious accident recently. He was driving along a side road between the 8th and 9th concessions when a tug broke and the horse started to run away. Mr. Williamson hung on to the lines and was dragged over the dash onto the shafts. He still clung to the lines and the shafts, however, but was finally forced to let go and drop to the road. When he attempted to get up he found that his leg was broen above the ankle. He as helped to his home, and Dr. Sutton was summoned to set the fracture when it was discovered that he had also sustained a fracture of the ankle joint.

STREET BUNGLING.

There has ben considerable aldermanic talk from time to time about providing George street with a permanent pavement. Suppose the improbable—that last year a permanent pavement had been put down; it would be ripped to ribbons before this. A short time ago George street was disembowelled to put in sewer services for new houses and the public library, and with the usual slop work and slovenly filling of trenches, numerous pitch holes were created. George street is again being dug up for gas pipes, etc., as is to be seen at three different places and where the gas men are not making holes, the street railway is doing digging. This will continue as long as the streets are allowed to be used at everybody's sweet will on haphazard principles. It would be the same if we had laid down a pavement costing a dollar a square inch. The people must have gas and sewer service. The same thing will go on forever or as long as there is an utter absence of system, and sane appreciation of responsibilities on the the part of our public servants. It would be an easy thing commending itself to the most common common sense, to have where water mains, gas mains and sewer mains are put in, the services put in at the same time as the mains are laid. That would prevent the streets being ripped up and filled with holes like prospecting pits in a mining district. When shall we have a little plain everyday horse sense applied to the management of the burdensome and, as results count, bogus expenditure of money upon our streets.

BIG BRITISH COLUMBIA.

British Columbia is an example and type of big things. It is the biggest province in the biggest dominion in the Empire, and it has many big things associated with it. The editor of the Examiner has received from Vancouver three samples of gigantic leaves of the British-Columbia maple. These leaves must have been the motive that suggested the adoption of the maple leaf as the emblem of Canada's far flung and wide spreading domain. One of these leaves has a stem fifteen inches in length and about the size of an ordinary lead pencil. The leaf measures from the base of the midrib to the longitudinal tip, thirteen inches, and the lateral spread of the leaf is sixteen inches. British Columbia has, to borrow modesty from our Yankee cousins, the biggest trees in creation, big mountains, big glaciers, big forest fires, big newspapers—the Vancouver World comes to us on Saturdays and on special occasions, big as the volume of the book of fate. Where when it has no big trees it has big leaves on lesser trees. It is the terminus of three of the biggest railway lines in creation, has big mineral deposits, and to cover all, it has big optimism and a big warrant for it.

AN OPPONENT'S TRIBUTE.

The Carleton Place Central Canadian contains the following editorial paragraph: "The Hon. Mr. Stratton, who has just emerged from his election trial in a manner which must be gratifying to him, is well spoken of by Mr. Thoburn, Conservative member for North Lanark. The latter has met him on several occasions and has heard much about him from his neighbours and friends. Aside from politics he is a man of mark. He is wealthy and generous and his first care is the prosperity of Peterborough. Wherever his great influence can be exercised to divert trade or traffic to his well-loved city he spares not and it makes no difference to him who secures the profit. But within politics he is not the monster of hideous men one would conceive from reading some of the papers. His position has probably made him a burden-bearer, but he himself is a kind, capable, courteous gentleman, who delights, public opinion to the contrary, to snip off the wire barbs in the political fence between the parties and who seeks to attenuate rather than accentuate their hostilities. He is a thinker who gives considerable space to the other men's views — a process which has the tendency to correct and clarify one's own.

CANADA AND SHIP-BUILDING.

Semi-official information comes from the Capital, that Canada is committed to an expenditure of twenty million dollars in the construction of a fleet of war ships of "assorted sizes." This proposed expenditure will be spread over a series of years — three or four. Australia proposed to undertake a similar expenditure for a similar purpose. Of course Canada's contribution to the colonial auxiliary of the Imperial navy includes men as well as ships. It is certain that the resulting war vessels of both countries will remain under the absolute control of the governments of Australia and Canada, respectively, except, of course, in time of war and until they are offered to the Imperial government. Thus we have the two Dominions expending forty millions as a contribution to Imperial naval defence, and in addition maintaining them and supplying or maintaining naval bases, coaling stations, etc. This seems to be a very fair beginning of cooperation by the Dominions beyond the seas in Imperial naval defence, especially if, as is probable in the case of Canada, at least, the ships are built and the money contributed to naval defence in other ways, is spent in this country. It is not in our interest that the scheme should be carried out under any other conditions. Of course twenty millions is a large sum, but if it is spent in Canada, the impulse it will give to the iron and steel industry and allied industries, the employment of Canadian labour it will create and the knowledge of ship building which will be imparted, will all be substantial offsets to the expenditure made. A knowledge of warship building, acquired by this country, can well be made the foundation of a large general steel ship-building industry. It is felt in some quarters, that the plant this country will accumulate in building her war-ships will become useless when our quota of ships is completed. Not necessarily so. With our great stores of coal on both our eastern and western seaboards, with vast stores or iron and vast water powers to be employed in their conversion into steel by electrical process there is no reason why we should not establish a great ship building industry, build our own commercial fleets and even do ship building for other countries as Great Britain has been doing and still does. Within the past third of a generation Canada has made such tremendous forward strides, has experienced so great a development that a ship-building industry for this country need not be regarded as a visionary possibility.

THE MAIL'S INCONSISTENCY.

The Toronto Mail and Empire makes itself less influential, and the party it assumes to represent more ridiculous every day. The comments of this newspaper on the Peterborough election case, the glaring headlines in which it was said that bribery had been conducted upon a wholesale scale, the pointed allusions to the wickedness of the Liberal party, the dreadful things alleged to have been done in the interests of Mr. Stratton, were all set forth in big type. Editorially the paper was just as uncontrolled and wild. Moral lessons were pointed from what it was stated had been proved at the trial. Comments were based upon the presumption that the evidence given proceeded from men of good repute, and was the truth. On Oct. 1, the Mail said:

> "To the right-minded citizen the revelations in West Peterborough are not agreeable reading. It is not pleasant to be told that fellow-electors have been bought at $2, or at any other price, per head. It is not inspiring to learn that votes have been lined up for sale, as cattle are in the market, and that the transactions have gone through as if they were the regular every-day operations in a campaign."

This comment was written when the evidence of men acting in the Conservative interest had been given in court. The following editorial remarks appeared in the Mail on October 4, when their real character or rather lack of character had been disclosed:

"That there was perjury in the West Peterborough election case is certain beyond dispute. A court of law can place no confidence in the evidence of such witnesses, and the allegations they make must fall to the ground."

Note the difference. When the trial was proceeding the Mail published the evidence of these creatures, commenting upon it unfavourably to the Liberal side, and was quite prepared to accept it as being gospel truth, and acting upon it, to turn Mr. Stratton out of his seat as the elected member of West Peterborough upon the ground that he had secured the same by bribery and corruption. After the trial judges had declared the witnesses to be perjurers, and their evidence not worthy of any consideration, the Mail is found shouting loudest in condemning its own witnesses as perjurers and unworthy of belief, and commending the judges for rejecting them. The Mail previously had precisely the same facts to analyse as the judges had, no more and no less, yet, for days its front page had been occupied with the evidence of men whom it now describes as perjurers and scoundrels, and upon whose word it was willing to dishonour a reputable public man. The West Peterborough election case is another example of the length party prejudice will carry a partisan paper. Those people whose misfortune it is to read the Mail and Empire may remain under the impression that the printed account of the Mail bore some resemblance to the facts; they will never know from the Mail that the witnesses brought forward by the Conservative party were scoundrels unworthy of belief, men who stated in open court that they would swear anything for money.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A merger of car companies is proposed. Quite natural; care are made to be coupled.

It is fitting that Canada should be represented upon a commission to meet in London to prepare a uniform map of the world. Canada will occupy the second largest space on such a map.

According to a Parliamentary return issued by the Secretary of State, from 1900 to 1908, inclusive, charters have been granted for 35,162 miles of railway. Of these 460½ miles have been built and 26 charters lapsed for non-fulfilment of conditions. Evidently optimism and financing have not gone hand in hand.

A license department "spotter" while drunk tried to 'catch' a London Ont., hotelkeeper, by asking him to take a drink in his own bar, and when the Boniface refused the government official pointed a revolver with four loaded chambers at the hotelkeeper's head. The department is responsible for such conduct. When a man is employed to procure a breach of the law, and in order to do his duty has to drink whiskey, he is apt to get drunk; and if he is low, as a man so employed is sure to be, he is apt to commit crime. This is a good deal like suborination to perjury in order to purify politics.

Take This Cake of Soap FREE!

We want every woman in this city to know how good Taylor's Borax Soap is. So we are making this unprecedented offer. Cut out the coupon in the lower right hand corner of this advertisement, take it to your grocer today, and he will hand you a 5c cake of Taylor's Borax Soap absolutely free.

Taylor's
ESTABLISHED 186

BORAX SOAP

Here is the utmost in a laundry soap!

It is the one soap which outlasts all others—two to one. It is the laundry soap which makes the whitest clothes and cleans without injuring delicate laces or shrinking heavy woolens.

And we're going to let you prove it absolutely at our expense.

For we want you to know, as over a million Canadian women already do, what Taylor's Borax Soap will do for you, how much more economical it is, and how much better work it does than any other soap in Canada.

It is a white soap, made from pure cocoanut oil from the Isle of Ceylon.

This oil is boiled doubly long and mixed with borax. Then every bar is molded under a 30 ton pressure to press out the moisture. It goes through an ageing process equal to standing six months in your pantry.

So the pressure and the ageing make a firm, compact cake of soap, one that will lather well, yet not dissolve into slime like an ordinary soap.

The borax in it softens the water, and makes the clothes white and sweet with half the rubbing.

Borax also keeps the hands soft and white.

You don't have to boil the clothes unless you wish. For this soap dissolves and removes the dirt quickly and easily without boiling.

It has qualities no other soap possesses, for no other soap is made with so much care or with such costly materials.

Yet it costs but 5c a cake everywhere.

But we prefer to let the soap itself win you.

So we offer you today, absolutely free, a regular 5c cake at our expense. Use it on your next wash day, then decide whether it is a better soap than you ever tried before. All we ask is that you make the test—the soap will prove its own merits. Send in your coupon today.

This Astounding Offer

is made because we know if you once try Taylor's Borax you will never be content to use any other Soap in your laundry. It would probably take thousands of dollars spent in advertising to induce you to buy your first cake, and by making this liberal offer we save both time and money in introducing to you the most wonderful laundry soap in Canada.

We can afford to buy but one cake for each family. Get yours today.

A Woman Has Management Of Chicago's School System

Mrs. E. F. Young Has Proven Herself a Wonderful Woman—Has Taught Many Famous Men Is a Home Lover and Has Fine Personality.

SHE IS 64 YEARS OLD

Chicago has turned over the management of her $50,000,000 school system to a woman. She is, of course, an unusual woman, but all the same she is a woman, and she has displaced man.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young was elected superintendent of schools in that city July 28. Her salary was placed at $10,000, while that of her assistant John D. Shoop, was made half that amount. There were unusual circumstances about this remarkable selection. In the first place, the office of the superintendent in Chicago has been a customary scene of turbulence for many months, and yet a woman was chosen to subdue the unruly factions. In the second place, Mrs. Young is sixty-four years old. She is vigorous and alert, but it is quite certain that no man at that age would have been elected. And, in the third place, Mrs. Young was the one woman in a list of sixty educators selected by a special committee as fitted for the place.

Mrs. Young is a Chicago woman. She was born in Buffalo, New York, January 15, 1845. She was brought to Chicago a few years later by her parents, and there she has stayed since. Her education was received in the schools she will now rule, and some of the pupils she taught in the lower grades are now her associates on the board of education. Advocates of women suffrage thought at first that this very definite proof of woman's progress in the world of affairs would strengthen it, but the disillusionment followed soon. Mrs. Young believes in woman and in her work, but she believes more in the home, and she has the courage to say so. It was the striking personality of the woman and her genuine power that won for her the place at the head of the second largest school system in the country.

On the day of the election Mrs. Young and five men were summoned before the board singly. The five men were called first. Each of them was given twenty minutes to discuss some topics of education. It was dinner-time when Mrs. Young was called and the board members were frankly tired. Yet they felt they must listen to the woman as they had the men .Mrs. Young talked not twenty minutes, but two hours, and when she finished there was not a bored man among the fifteen listeners. When she left the room she was unanimously elected as the official head of the Chicago schools.

Some of Mrs. Young's "boys" lined up outside her office to congratulate her the day she assumed her new duties. There was Peter Finley Dunne, of Mr. Dooley" fame. "I never thought Peter would turn into a Dooley," said Mrs. Young to the group, as she greeted them. "He was a good boy, but—well, I had only moderate hopes for Peter." And Mr. Dunne smiled and giggled much like the school-boy of old.

And then millionaire Granger Farwell was humbled by Mrs. Young's excellent memory. "Granger was a student in the Scammon school practice department," said his former teacher to the "boys," "and one day he said something funny. A group of superintendents and principals from other states were visiting there. One of them described a coral island and its formation and growth. Afterwards the teacher said, 'When you see how wonderful these islands are, you would hardly believe they exist, would you?' 'No,' piped up the little Granger, 'and I wouldn't believe it if I saw one.'"

And the "boys," now leading men in Chicago, blessed their former school teacher, a little less awestruck than they were a half-century before, but with more love and respect than ever in their hearts for her.

This woman, who has fought her way into the second highest executive position in the public schools of this country, has the simple tastes and the gentle manners of the old school woman. For twenty-five years she has been a widow and the mother-love in her has been given to the thousands of children she has taught and befriended ever since the day, fifty years ago, when she became a teacher in the old Foster school.

One looks in vain for any evidence of the "new" woman in Mrs. Young. She is all that is feminine. She is described by those who know her as being as good a cook as a scientist, and as fond of her hours at the coffee or tea table as of those at the desk. She is a womanly woman, but she has opened, as she says, "the real road to the kind of suffrage women need." She means by that that work well done is paid for in money and in honour and in power by the world.—John Evans in the Outlook.

ADVICE FROM A MOTHER TO ALL OTHER MOTHERS

The young mother — the inexperienced mother—is always glad to get the advice of the more experienced in the care of her little one. Thousands of mothers have emphatically said that there is no medicine equal to Baby's Own Tablets for keeping little ones well, or restoring health if illness comes suddenly. The young mother can safely follow the lead of these others. Mrs. John Shortill, Georgetown, Ont., says: "I would not be a day without Baby's Own Tablets in the house. I believe they saved my youngest child's life. At the age of three months she cried all the time with indigestion. Our doctor did all he could for her, but did not seem to help her. Then I got Baby's Own Tablets and they worked a wonderful change. They seemed to tone the stomach, moved the bowels regularly, and she has ever since been a healthy child." Sold at 25 cents a box by all dealers or by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DOES YOUR SCALP ITCH?

Are Your Hairs Dropping Out One By One.

If your scalp itches you are doubtless suffering from dandruff. The dandruff germ is digging up your scalp in little flakes, called dandruff and sapping the life of the hair bulb. No hair preparation that is a mere hair stimulant and tonic will cure dandruff, because it won't kill the germ that causes the trouble. Newbro's Herpicide is the latest scientific discovery; and it will kill the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect; kill the germ and you will have no more dandruff, falling hair, or baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN..

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

MIDLAND, FOR EXAMPLE.

Where is there anything in the Bible against the lottery, or gambling? Indeed, an argument that would justify gambling is found in the declaration that "the lot is cast into the lap, but the disposal thereof is of the Lord." The church of our fathers raised money by the lottery.

Point out to us anything in the Bible against procuring wives by purchase, as is the custom among many nations to-day.

There are some things which are supposed to be left to nature and decency to teach us, without specific Scriptural commands. It will never do to argue that what is not forbidden in the Scriptures in the very words is permitted. Practice condoned in the Scriptures in one age may not always wisely or safely be practised in our own.

When science is universally condemning the use of alcoholics as a drink by men in normal health when morality is pointing out its manifest evils to society, when enlightened business is showing its bad economics, it is no time to be lugging in the Scriptures to bolster up a falling evil cause that an advancing Christian civilization founded upon a truer apprehension of the spirit of the Scriptures condemns.—"American Issue."

Is Prohibition Right?

That is the fundamental question. We should not ask first whether prohibition will pay better than license. Economics should yield that place to ethics. If prohibition of the liquor traffic is a wrong principle, it should never have taken a place in our government, even though it would increase our prosperity one hundredfold.

Nor should the righteousness of the cause be made secondary to its practicability. We dare not say, "Prohibition is right enough, but it won't work." Duty is ours, results belong to God.

The principle of prohibition is right. Most of the laws of the land are based upon that principle. We prohibit murder, burglary, arson and other evil things. Hence we recognise the righteousness of the principle.

But should the liquor traffic be placed in the same category as these things? Only upon one ground. If the traffic in intoxicants works evil to mankind, then it should be treated as other evils.

The contention of the prohibitionists is that liquor is doing more injury to society to-day than anything else. We say it is worse to make a man a drunkard than it is to steal his property, burn his house, or even murder him. That is a fearful indictment, but we are confident that we have mountains of facts to substantiate it.

The only thing to do with an evil is to prohibit it. The liquor traffic is an evil and must not be legalised. Prohibition for this wrong is the only sane and tenable position to take.—"Clean Politics."

Workingmen and Local Option.

The Voice, of Winnipeg, a labour journal, publishes a statement by the Rev. Chas. Stelzle, which sets out the attitude towards the liquor traffic, and the question of Local Option. It says in part:

Midland for Example.

Among those who through self-interest or ignorance of the facts, are opposed to local option, the argument most frequently heard, is that it will kill the town. The best answer is to look for places that have been killed in this way, and if any can be found, then compare their conditions with those of Peterborough. After a diligent search, however, we have failed to find any place that has died from this cause. On the contrary, we find that without exception, business has increased, crime and violence decreased and taxes are lower. Midland is a live town in which local option has now been in force for some time. Listen to the results as told by three prominent citizens.—

Three statements are herewith submitted. The first is by the Mayor of the town, the second is by the Police Magistrate, and the third is taken from a letter written by the principal officer of the local branch of the Canada Iron Corporation, a large and important business organization.

What the Mayor Says.

Public sentiment is stronger here to-day in favour of Local Option than when we carried the measure by a sixty-seven per cent. vote.

Notwithstanding the fact that we have no liquor licenae fees, and are paying annual instalments to the amount of about five thousand dollars on a park, new school and cement sidewalks costing in the aggregate of about seventy thousand dollars, on which we paid nothing during the last license year our rate of taxation is no higher to-day than it was then. The question may be asked, "From what source do we get the money to pay for these additional advantages?" The answer is simply, "By our enormous increase in assessment, largely due to a heavy advance in building operations." Our citizens now have money to invest in this way.

You ask for a brief statement. The advantages resulting from the by-law are too numerous to mention in detail and be brief. I can only say that I most heartily endorse it from every standpoint.

I may just say that I received so many inquiries last fall respecting this matter, I prepared an outline of my views, a copy of which I now hand you; this you are at liberty to use as you wish, particularly those clauses I have marked. I presume the question which presents itself to every municipality considering the adoption of Local Option is what general advantages and disadvantages will follow, and will the former be sufficiently in excess of the latter to warrant the change? I can assure you that, judging from Midland's experience, no municipality will make any mistake or injuriously affect any phase of its welfare by adopting Local Option, but, on the other hand, will be so pleased with its results that they would not, under any consideration, return to license system, with its consequent evils. The results of efforts in other municipalities to repeal Local Option by-laws the last two years amply justify this statement.

E. Letherby.

The Police Magistrate's Opinion.

There can be no question that Local Option has been a great benefit to the town. I would never dream of going back to the old system.

Driving to Penetanguishene does not create the trouble it did during the first months of Local Option.

In my official capacity I was constantly troubled by complaints from wives abused by drunken husbands I have none of this now, showing that conditions in the home have changed greatly for the better.

F. W. Jeffrey.

A Prominent Business Man Speaks.

My observations of its workings have largely been in connection with the workmen of the firm with which I am connected. Previous to the closing of the bars, it was the usual thing for many of our men to be absent from duty for two or three days after each pay day, and after any shut-down of the works we always had some difficulty to get a full staff when starting up again. With the advent of Local Option this has ceased. We now experience no difficulty after pay-days, or after temporary shutdowns. Undoubtedly Local Option has given us more steady, reliable and contented workmen.

The labouring classes are undoubtedly the largest gainers by the closing of the bars. This is borne out by the fact that we are now served with fewer garnishees against our employees' wages than was formerly the case, indicating that they are paying their obligations as they go along and, in many cases, liquidating old debts.

The conditions of our streets and the atmosphere pervading them speaks so well for the effectiveness of Local Option, to those acquainted with the former conditions, that this phase of the question requires no comment. A. C. Adams.

The Fallacious Liquor Argument From Scripture.

We are told that there is no condemnation of alcoholic drinks in the Ten Commandments of the Bible and that thousands of the best men that have ever lived and that live to-day use them. Is that a conclusive argument in their favour? Does the progress of civilization and morals sanction all that the Bible in its very words does not condemn? It is possible to form a pretty plausible argument on Scriptural grounds for polygamy and concubinage at the present day, and we have known Christian ministers who conscientiously defend them, strange as this may sound.

Will anybody show us where the Scriptures forbid slavery? Point out where they condemn war in a sense that clearly forbids Christian nations from cutting each other's throats. Show us any clear and uncontradicted warrant for a republican form of government, or for the political equality of all men. For dreary ages, the supposed "divine rights of kings" was urged against popular government on Bible grounds. There are a score of blemishes of society for which the spirit of the Scriptures, interpreted by the spirit of God working therein for advancing civilization, condemns. The old legal maxim for the law's interpretation is "qui haeret in lingua haeret in cortice," "he who sticks in the speech, sticks in the bark," he does not get to the heart of the matter.

The matter of Local Option is simply an application to the saloon business of the principle of the referendum, for which organized labour has been so long contending. Whether or not, in certain communities, the people had an opportunity of freely expressing their will, is not the question at issue just now. It is the principle of whether or not the people have the right to express that will if they are given a chance, and having expressed it, the courts shall accept their decision as final. It must not be said against organized labour that it stands for the referendum only upon such questions as it is sure will be decided upon in its favour. Organized labour must be willing to submit to the people every question which concerns the welfare of the community, and as loyal citizens—and as loyal trade unionists—they should abide by the decision of the majority when the question under consideration has to do with the wellbeing of all the people.

The whole matter of the saloon, so far as the average workingman is concerned, has to do purely with personal indulgence and the satisfaction of his appetite. It should be no great hardship to him to make the sacrifice which will bring joy and happiness to millions of women and children—to say nothing about the men who, on account of weaker wills, cannot withstand the temptation of strong drink.

Campaign Notes.

There are now in progress in Ontario local option campaigns in over 150 municipalities affecting more than 500 licenses.

Among those who will go with Peterborough into the prohibition column next year are the neighbouring towns of Lindsay, Port Hope and Cobourg. In all of them, the temperance forces are active, vigorous and well organized.

All temperance advocates are proud of the splendid work that is being done by the local Catholic Total Abstinence Society, and hear with satisfaction of the rapid progress that is being made. A campaign is now under way to raise the membership to 1000 by the end of the present year. Judging from the achievement of the past there is no fear of failure. The T.A.S. alone will have almost enough votes to carry local option in January.

Friends are reminded that the address of the treasurer is A. Brown, 396 Water St.

Robinette After Agincourt.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—In addition to his motion to secure a postponement of the trial of his client, Walter Blythe, for the murder of his wife, T. C. Robinette, K.C., is considering an application to the High Court for the committment for contempt of court of all citizens of Agincourt who spoke to the motion protesting against the delays in the execution of the prisoner.

At the opening of the Assizes next week Mr. Robinette will move for the postponement of the trial to a time when it will be possible for Blythe to secure a fair trial, which he declares will be impossible anywhere in Ontario for some time to come, owing to the wide publicity given to the meeting and its resultant resolution.

Notice of his intention was served yesterday on Attorney-General Foy and Geo. T. Blackstock, K.C., crown prosecutor.

Speaking to a reporter last night Mr. Blackstock said, "I am not aware of the facts and, therefore, cannot say what I shall do. If they are as you say then it goes without saying that any meeting that expresses views on how a criminal trial should end is very strange and reprehensible."

LIBEL CASE IS PROVEN

Carruthers Is Found Guilty on All Counts of Having Traduced Character of the Minister of Militia and Defence — Nothing Is Proven Against Borden by Witnesses —Judge Charges Strongly.

Kentville, N.S., Oct. 16.—"Guilty of libel on every count," was the verdict which Foreman Moffatt of the jury trying the criminal libel suit of the King v. Carruthers, delivered at 8 o'clock last night.

It took four and a quarter hours to get an agreement. The point longest discussed was the charge of keeping Miss Chalefour for immoral purposes at the Palace street address. The jury filed in at 7.30 for instructions as to whether the charge could be applied to other localities. The foreman was instructed that it could not.

Late yesterday afternoon, while the jury were out, Sir Frederick and J. J. Ritchie, counsel for Carruthers, met on the court house steps.

"How do you do, Sir Frederick," said Ritchie. "How do you do," was the reply. Descending a few steps, Sir Frederick turned and said, "Don't you ever speak to me again." Ritchie replied, "I would rather speak to a black man, anyway."

Yesterday morning and afternoon the court-room was crowded to excess. Justice Drysdale delivered a charge to the jury so uncompromising against the defence that even the most ardent advocates for Sir Frederick were surprised.

The libel in question was, on its face, one of the worst possible in reference to a public man.

Defendant had pleaded that the statements were true, and that he believed on reasonable grounds that they were true.

The judge said reasonable grounds did not exist, and he withdraw this from consideration by the jury.

The second ground of justification was that the matter was one of public interest. He had ruled that matters of long ago, having relation to the present position of a man in order to guide the electorate, should be discussed, if they were true.

The evidence was then reviewed as the legal situation appealed to him. Even if Borden called on Hester Chalefour at Montreal, it was doubtful if this was ground for the assumption that he had enticed her there. There was no evidence that he kept the girl at 802 Palace street, in Montreal, for immoral purposes.

In regard to Mrs. McPharland having been separated from her husband by Borden, the judge said there was no reasonable evidence to this effect.

Miss Archambault's evidence was then reviewed. He told the jury to consider if Sir Frederick was even seen at her house by Miss Archambault.

Judge Drysdale thought they would do well to discredit the evidence of Hester Chalefour. She had admitted herself a blackmailer, a liar, and an abandoned person. No stock should be taken in her statements.

In his address to the jury on behalf of defendant, Mr. Ritchie, saying that he had been told that the majority of the jurors were Liberals, asserted that he believed they would be true to their oath, even though the case involved the reputation of a member of the Federal Cabinet. Sir Frederick's remark Thursday, "You are a political lawyer," had been a direct insult to the jury.

The real question, the lawyer declared was, did Borden commit adultery? Miss Archambault, the one disinterested witness, had identified him from a photo, as having stayed all night. Why was he coming to see a woman of her confessed character? The conclusion was undisputable.

Hester Chalefour was an admitted perjurer. As a witness for the prosecution, she had lied to shield Borden, not to condemn him. The cage where the bird was kept was the house at Outremont, bought with Borden's money.

"What was the $2,000 paid for?" asked counsel. "Sir Frederick is not a chicken. He is no easy mark. There can be only one reason." If Mrs. Allen's allegations were untrue, why had he not proceeded against her?

Borden and Miss Chalefour had been at the same hotel in Boston last Friday, and both declared they had not seen each other. Borden had admitted that she had been in his office many times. No innocent man received such visits from abandoned women.

W. E. Roscoe, crown prosecutor, argued that the cases in regard to Borden and Carruthers differed. It made no difference if Sir Frederick drank wine at banquets. He had not offended against the laws of the land. These things were irrelevant.

"These," said Mr. Roscoe, "are not the facts of the case. The real issue you are to determine on the real charges and evidence. If Sir Frederick's private life were under consideration, the fullest investigation would be courted." The manner in which The Eye Openers were left with and distributed by Mr. Carruthers was described as evidence that the defendant knew he was doing wrong.

If the statement that Borden had another woman, whom he had separated from her husband, were proved to be true, then Carruthers should be acquitted; if not, then he should be convicted. The charge was infamous if untrue. Mr. Roscoe scouted the idea of a man of Sir Frederick's stature and prominence hiding behind boxes. He also accepted as true the denials in regard to Borden's relationship with Miss Chalefour in Montreal.

BORDEN AT HALIFAX.

Conservative Leader Bitterly Attacks the Government.

Halifax, Oct. 16.—E. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, addressed a large party gathering in his own constituency last evening. He left for the West to-day.

Mr. Borden's address was a vigorous assault on the Government for its reckless squandering of public money for partisan purposes; the systematic encouragement and protection of camp followers engaged in pluadering the public treasury, the degradation of public life by lowering those high standards of public honor which prevail in the Mother Country; and the colossal blundering in the administration of great national undertakings.

The practice of denying or burking investigation in cases where it was abundantly evident that the public treasury had been unjustifiably invaded had been common and notorious. Mr. Borden recalled the Hayes-McAvity scandal. The Opposition's demands for an enquiry had been refused, the Minister of Finance declaring there never had been a fairer or straighter transaction.

The moose will be gotten out whole and sent to Toronto to be put on exhibition.

A CRISIS IN SPAIN

Opposition Paper Says Entire Civilized World Is Pointing the Finger of Shame at Spain as Result of the Death of the Great Reformer—Government Publishes Note Justifying Its Action.

Madrid, Oct. 16.—The Cortes reopened yesterday despite some opposition among the members of both the Senate and Congress to a sitting at this time. The Heraldo yesterday declares that the present situation has caused the world to point the finger of shame at Spain, and exhorts the Liberals of all shades of opinion to rise "against a Government which treats as anarchists those who do not kneel before the clerical's spectre."

The Municipal Council had a stormy session yesterday, during which recent political events were discussed with such bitterness that the Republican and Socialist aldermen withdrew from the meeting. The Socialist member, Senor Iglesias, began a declaration of protest against the putting to death of Ferrer, and when the President of the Council tried to silence him, shouted: "I will continue until I am dragged out by the heels by guards." The sitting thereupon was suspended, but when it was resumed Senor Iglesias returned to the charge amid a tremendous uproar, and finally the Socialists filed out in a body, and were followed by the Republicans.

The official gazette publishes a decree restoring the old system, which permits a payment of money indemnity in lieu of military service. The Universo Catholic says that it is not surprised at the Ferrer manifestos, which it considers an indication that the anarchistic and Masonic forces are inspiring a rebellion against all idea of government and justice." The paper denounces certain Spanish newspapers, which, it says, are trying to provoke disorders by reprinting accounts of what has happened abroad.

The Imparcial yesterday says that the country is on the verge of a precipice, and holds Premier Maura responsible for the present situation. It adds: "The patience of the country has reached an end. The protestations abroad prove that there is a common patrimony of liberty and democracy."

The Liberal says: "Parliament must vindicate the desire of the people to arrest the movement of retrogression which is annihilating them."

The Government has issued a semi-official note reprobating the demonstrations abroad and expressing the conviction that Governments and the public everywhere will ultimately justify the Government of Spain, because, the note says, the time is approaching when all forces for order must stand together against international anarchy.

Strike In Rome Continues.

Rome, Oct. 16.—The general strike continued unabated by the direction of Ferrer sympathizers. Even the radical Republican and Socialist newspapers were unable to get out their edition. Toronto, Oct. 16.—A gas explosion which resulted in no injury to the occupants of the house occurred at the home of John Denstone, 18 Davenport road, Thursday night shortly after 7 o'clock.

The family had just moved into the house and Mr. Denstone was cutting down the plumbing bill by putting in his gas fixtures himself when the explosion occurred.

He had removed the plug from the end of the pipe that projects down through the ceiling of the dining room and was about to screw on the fixture when the escaping gas was ignited by a coal oil lamp which stood on the table and the explosion followed.

Surgeon's Opinion OF KNIFE FOR PILES

Operating often a fad—The modern way of curing piles is with 98. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sir Henry O. Bardett, K.C.B., of London, England, in a recent address, said, "What we want are surgeons, who with wisdom to be conservative have courage to protest against the growing tendency to put a knife into everybody on the smallest possible pretext."

Too many doctors have a desire to use the knife at every opportunity. The rewards to them are rich, but think of the suffering of body and mind, the enormous expense and the risk of life itself. An operation should be the last resort, for in spite of glowing promises the results are often very disappointing.

Many a sufferer from piles has been cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after operations have failed. Hundreds of thousands have escaped operations by using this treatment first and thereby obtaining cure.

Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes:

"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles and lost each day about half a cup of blood. I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better but my old trouble returned and again I lost most blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent.

"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and believe the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles." 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Fifteen Killed In Storm.

THROUGH 3RD DEGREE

Kept Awake 94 Hours by Police Who Have Tried for Four Days to Get a Confession.

SAYS HE IS INNOCENT

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 16.—After he had been kept awake for ninety-four hours by the East St. Louis police Arthur Fowler was permitted to sleep for half an hour yesterday. At the end of the half hour detectives threw him to a sitting position and resumed the "third degree."

For four days the police have tried to wring from Fowler a confession that he is the burglar who killed Chief of Detectives Patrick F. Gill on September 5 last. He has confessed to three burglaries and twenty box-car robberies, but denies the killing.

"They are murdering me," said Fowler yesterday. "The nap they let me have was the worst torture. I would rather have been killed than awakened. My heart is weak and if this keeps up much longer I will die."

Fowler admits he has served two terms in the Joliet Penitentiary.

Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

Two Mills Using Same Quality of Wheat May Not Produce Same Quality of Flour

The quality of flour largely depends on the milling. Two mills might grind wheat of the same quality and the product of one far outclass the other. It is not only the high quality of the hard wheat used, but also the superior milling facilities, that places "PURITY" flour so far above all others. Our milling plant at St. Boniface, Manitoba, cost nearly $1,000,000, and is one of the most perfectly equipped mills in the world. The wheat itself is subjected to the most wonderful system of cleaning and scouring, passing through twenty distinct machines. Fifty-five steel rollers, the largest in Canada, reduce the wheat into flour. Then it is purified and dressed by "bolting" it through silk sifters of fine mesh. Not a "branny" particle or speck of dust is ever found in "Purity" Flour.

You may have to pay a little more for Purity, but baking results, quality and quantity, prove it is worth far more than the slight difference.

We have two other modernly equipped mills at Brandon, Man., and Goderich, Ont.

WAGNER SAYS LUCK IS GREATEST FACTOR AND DECIDES GAMES

Pittsburg, Oct. 15.—"It's heads I win, tails you lose in this game of baseball." That is the opinion of Hans Wagner. The mighty German is naturally a tactiturn fellow when somebody starts the talk on the subject of the American game. Not that he is not talkative when you once gain his confidence and he feels free to loosen his tongue, but he carries the subject to everything else except the diamond with special reference to automobiles, for motoring is Wagner's hobby.

"The team that has the luck wins the series," said Wagner. "The average fan who sits in the grandstand does not realize what a big difference luck, or good breaks, as the players call it, makes, but every player who ever broke into the major league game knows that it is half the battle. With everything else equal, luck decides every ball game. If you stop to consider that, you will agree with me that it is true. Take, for instance, two teams that are evenly matched. If they both play perfect ball, and the element of luck does not favour either side, those two teams will play forever, and the score will remain a tie. No one needs to be a ballplayer to understand that. Common everyday reasoning proves it to be true."

All of which goes to show that Wagner is as good at philosophy as he is at baseball.

"Baseball," he said, "is a business with me, and I attend to it with all the ability I have, the same as every man attends to his business. If I win, all right, that is what I am trying to do; and if I lose I am sorry, but it can't be helped, for I have done the best I can. That is the way every ballplayer looks at it. They are trying to win all the time, and if they don't it is not their fault. Both teams can't win. There has to be a loser, and I repeat, in the long run, it is the team that has the bad breaks that loses the game."

YOUNG WOMAN STAR GOLFER

London, Sept. 13.—Although no woman has ever dared to compete for the amateur gold championship of England, it is by no eans certain one of the sex will not some day wear the proud title.

Miss Leitch, an 18-year-old golfer, is looked upon as the next woman champion of England, and her play has shown such consistent improvement that few men care to test her strength.

Among Miss Leitch's performances is a round at Silloth in 72, which has impressed every golfer in England. The course record, 66, is held by Renouf, a brilliant professional and it as made after unlimited opporuntities. As there is no rule against women competing in the amateur championshp, Miss Leitch may occupy the proud position some day.

BASEBALL

The man who says it's crooked is always on the job. There is one down in Pittsburg and he has prevailed upon the Dispatch of that city to air his views regarding the world's series. He says they have been fixed up with a view to playing the whole seven games and fattening the exchequers of the Pittsburg and Detroit clubs. The writer claims not that the players themselves don't try to win or try to lose but that the management put in pitchers known to be weak or out of condition. The allegation is made particularly in the direction of the Pirates. Both Clark and Jennings should get after this "sport," or preferably the paper that lent itself to a plain yarn. There are doubtless many thousands of fans who think they could run a ball team from the grandstand better than the manager can, but they have never proved it. The Pittsburg complainer has probably been betting indiscreetly. Past performances fail to show that there has been any desire to prolong the agony and there is no reason to doubt the probity of Clarke, Jennings or the Commission.—Buffalo News.

RUGBY

The Rugby squad had a very good practice last night. The weather was more propitious than on the previous couple of evenings and some snappy signal drill was gone through. The scrimmage needs a couple of heavyweights and there is talk of putting in Frank Oliver and Cap. Simpson. Neither of these two gents, as anyone who knows them ca ntestify, can squeeze (?) through a keyhole and they would make a good scrim.—Lindsay Warder.

They are called "Catspaw" Rubber Heels because they don't slip, the Canvas Plug prevents slipping. They are a great comfort and offer a sense of security to the step not found with any other Rubber Heel. Take none but "Catspaw." All dealers.

Help For Athabasca.

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 16.—Supt. Buchanan, who left for the scene of the mishap to the steamship Athabasca, grounded on the Flower Pot Island, in the Lake Huron-Georgian Bay Channel, yesterday morning telephoned that the steamer was six feet out of water forward, and with sixty feet of water at her stern, and she would have to be lightered. A big bowlder had penetrated the bottom, and the vessel was leaking badly. He asked that the Alberta be despatched at once, and she cleared at 2.30 with fifty freight handlers.

Mayor Harrison later receive a message from Parry Sound offering to send the Dominion Government steamer Simcoe. The message was forwarded to Supt. Oborne at Toronto, who, while expressing appreciation, said that in all probability the Alberta and the two tugs would do the work. However, the offer was forwarded to Supt. Buchanan at Tobermoray. The powerful tugs Traveler and Mongolia and a lighter of the Playfair Wrecking and Towing plant are also available.

Children Kidnapped.

The children when found were sitting on a curbstone weeping. The girl, who is less than four years old, was sobbing bitterly, and Tomasso, her cousin, seven years old, was trying to comfort her.

Tomasso could tell nothing as to where he and Grace had been since they were taken from their home.

Manila, Oct. 16.—Thirty-six leaders of the striking cigar-makers were arrested here yesterday charged with criminal conspiracy.

This action is the result of the unionised cigar-makers striking for higher wages after the Payne tariff bill went into effect. Several serious riots have taken place.

The complaint on which the leaders were arrested includes a recitation of an alleged blood pact that was signed by the strikers. This was an oath each was required to take stating that if they betrayed the cause their brothers had the right to kill them without responsibility to the authorities.

Barrill and Cook May Meet.

New York, Oct. 16.—New York became the storm-centre of the North Pole controversy again yesterday, when Dr. F. A. Cook and several others that have figured in the discussion arrived here. This, though a separate bill, is really an integral part of the budget scheme.

Shelters Two Families.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—Two women standing on the corner of Belmont and Yonge streets about 12 o'clock at night, one with five children, the other with one, all strangers in the city, and with no place to go, was the unhappy situation that Motorman Garlick, of one of the Yonge street cars, discovered on Wednesday night.

Mrs. Agnes E. Chaplain with five children, and Mrs. Wray with one child, arrived from Belleville that evening at ten o'clock. Their husbands had come to the city a short time before, and Mrs. Chaplain had received a postcard saying that her husband, Charles Chaplain, a plumber, had obtained work, and asking her to come to Toronto and bring the children. When she arrived at the Union Station there was no one to meet them.

The motorman on the street car on which they had gone up saw them standing at the corner when he returned. Finding their position, he told them to wait, as he was just putting in his car. He returned, and took the whole party to his own home at 14 Belmont street, where he lives with his wife and nine children. They were sheltered for the night, and next day, by inquiring at the police office, the City Relief Office and the Salvation Army Men's Lodging House on Wilton avenue, Mrs. Chaplain found that her husband had been there the night before, but they did not know where he had gone.

The hospitality of Motorman Garlick and his wife is still being extended to the unfortunate party until the two husbands are found.

Short Sentenced for Theft.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—For the theft of about $800 worth of jewelry from John Martin of Cobalt George Daley was sent to jail for twenty days by Magistrate Denison yesterday. The theft took place about a week ago in the Palmer House, where Martin had gone to sleep in a shoe-shine chair. Daley admitted taking the jewelry from the complainant, taking a diamond ring off his finger, a nugget pin from his necktie and a gold watch and chain from his pocket. His plea was that he was drunk at the time.

Launch Goes Down.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 16.—The launch Sarah L., five days out of Walker, Minn., is believed to have gone down with all on board on Larh lake, in at three days' storm which swept the lake Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. A Government boat has been sent out to look for the wreckage or dead bodies.

The Sarah L. left Walker Sunday morning heavily laden with supplies, and was last seen at noon Sunday. It was then laboring against the rising winds in the narrows, and out of its course. It had on board a schoolteacher, Miss Maud Morical, of Walker; Mrs. Patrick Kennedy and her daughter Stella; Mrs. Karl Nasley, and 24 Indians.

IMPORTANT FACTS

"A quart of milk is practically equal to a pound of beef in food value."

Prof. Dean, of the Ontario Agricultural College: "The composition of wheat is higher in protein and heat of combustion than any other cereal for human food."

Results of analysis by Bureau of Chemistry by U. S. Dept. of Agriculture:

ORANGE MEAT is simply the whole wheat berry, steam cooked, mixed with salt, flaked and toasted. This process develops in each wheat berry the highest percentage of grape sugars. It converts the starches into a form most easily digested and assimilated. ORANGE MEAT and milk is a perfect food.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN

Examiner Special.

Washigton, D.C., Oct. 16.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 20 to 22, warm wave to average colder than usual and therefore this disturbance is not expected to cause very warm weather. The warm wave will be of short duration and will be followed by a cold wave in northern sections and very cool weather in southern states. The disturbance will not otherwise be of great force.

Last disturbance will reach Pacific Coast about 25, cross Pacific slope by close of 26, great central valleys 27 to 29, eastern states and provinces 30. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 25, great central valleys 27, eastern states and provinces 29. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 28, great central valleys 30, eastern states and provinces Nov. 1.

This disturbance will cause severe storms on many parts of the continent. Auroras are probable near 20. Tendency will be toward thunder storms on the continent and tropical storms on the Caribean sea. Cold waves will precede and follow the moderate warm wave.

During the week of Oct. 24 to 30, will be a good time to remain at home where you will have better chance of protection from severe storms. If you have a voyage to make by water better skip that week.

Cold rains south and cold and snows north will not be good for early sown winter wheat which should get a good growth before winter comes on. South of latitude 40 winter wheat sown late will do better than to sow early. Mid winter will probably be warm and rainy. All winter grain should be put in late. Corn and spring oats should be put in very early.

I advise farmers to keep a large amount of corn for use next year, and to not sell wheat at present prices. No general failure is expected, but in large sections of the country lying east of the Rockies some bad failures are put down for 1910.

Everything favours better prices for grain. The crops will not average as good next year as this while business matters promise to be excellent. A few big speculators are now trying to get possession of grain through option dealing and of course they want low prices. Farmers would be very foolish to sell their crops now. Better produce hogs, cattle and sheep, for they will bring good prices next year.

WHAT NEGLECT DID FOR HIM

Jas. E. Brant Suffered Torments From Kidney Diseases.

Then He Used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Became a Well Man—His Experience a Lesson for You.

Athabasca Landing, Alta., Oct. 16.—(Special).—That Kidney Disease, neglected in its earlier stages, leads to the most terrible suffering, if not death itself, and that the one sure cure for it in all stages is Dodd's Kidney Pills, is the experience of Mr. James E. Brant, a farmer residing near here.

Mr. Brant contracted kidney disease when a young man, from a strain, and, like hosts of others, neglected it, expecting it to go away itself.

But it kept gradually growing worse till after thirty years of increasing suffering the climax came, and he found himself so crippled that at times he could not turn in bed, and for two weeks at a time it was impossible for him to rise from a chair without putting his hands on his knees.

He could not button his clothes. He was troubled with Lumbago Gravel and Backache, and tried medicines for each and all of them without getting relief, till good luck turned him to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Dodd's Kidney Pills started at the cause of his troubles and cured his Kidneys. With cured Kidneys his other troubles speedily disappeared, and to-day he is a well man.

If you cure your Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills you will never have Lumbago, Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Dropsy, or Bright's Disease.

An Eton Character.

Stockbore, the Montem poet, used to be quite a character at Eton. He had been in the navy before he settled at the school and succeeded somehow or other in getting himself regarded as the licensed versifier of current events whenever Montem was celebrated. The quality of his verse was not high, if we may judge from one specimen. It ran as follows:

"In Royal George how many lads were drowned.
A summut near Spithead, not Plymouth Sound,
And with them went to swell the dreadful news,
A lot of women down, and several Jews."

He has got the main facts of the catastrophe all right, but the method of expressing them seems to leave something to be desired.

Stockbore was blessed with twelve children, whom he named Phoebo Boreas Ann, Hezekiah Samson, Venus Britannia, William Shakespeare Pindar, Isaac Simon Brunswick Granby, Silver Dove Ann, Georgius Antrobus, Mary Maud, Paul, Pauline, Herbertus William, and Saul Henry. It is a wonder that when they came to years of ability they did not combine to murder their devastating progenitor. Stockbore seems to have possessed a good deal of humor, however, and some real talent as an improvisator. George III. always gave him a piece of gold on the Fourth of June.—From "Eton Memories," by an Old Etonian.

Something Better Now

There was a time when people were satisfied with any glasses with which they could read, regardless of whether they were using one eye more than the other, knowing nothing of how the eyes were strained by wrong lens powers, and careless of the frame fitting the face. All this is changing now, a thorough examination by experienced men, lenses specially ground for each eye, and the neatest, most becoming mountings are now required by discriminating people who realize that nothing is too good for the eyes.

We make appointment for eye examination by our phones, Bell 1221, Mach. 7. It saves waiting your turn.

A.Y.P.A. HOLD SOCIAL EVENING

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's church, spent its first social evening last night, and made it the occasion of entertaining the Anglican students of the Normal School. In point of sociability and attendance no better social has ever been spent at St. Luke's. Miss Electa Strong and Mr. Chas. Crone, with the Rector, received the guests of the evening. In the unavoidable absence of the president, Miss Ethel Fakenham, the Rector, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, occupied the chair. The programme was as follows:

Chairman's address of welcome, Dr. Langfeldt.

Instrumental duett, Misses Elsie and Phyllis Dawson.

Vocal solo, Mr. Kenneth Shook.

Instrumental solo, Miss English.

Violin solo, Dr. H. G. Park.

Vocal solo, Miss Ruby Quartermaine.

Humour song, Mr. Chas. Coleman.

Vocal solo, Mr. Dudley.

Accompanists, Misses Charlotte English, Helen Davis and Walton.

After the programme a "riddle game" was played, which was most interesting and amusing, and in whih Miss Susie McCullough and Mr. Chas. Crane obtained the prizes. Refreshments were then served and a most pleasant evening was brought to a close with the singing of the national anthem.

The A.Y.P.A. is very much indebted to J. J. Turner & Sons for the loan of bunting and flags to decorate the schoolroom and to Coleman Bros. for the supply of an abundance of ice cream.

FEAT AT NIAGARA

George Maero of Milwaukee Commits Suicide in Novel Manner by Seating Himself in Stream and Sliding Over the Edge of the Falls —Guides Recover the Body Almost Immediately.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Oct. 18.—Within a half hour after he had gone over the American cataract Saturday afternoon, two guides at the Cave of the Winds, Wm. Barnett and George Wright, recovered the body of George Maero or Mavrowcordato, of Milwaukee, a man about 40 years old.

Never before in the history of the river under normal conditions has a body been recovered from the rampart of rocks that front the cataract.

Maero was seen to enter the water from the north shore of Luna Island by Joe Lennox, a hackman, a young bridal couple, fares of his, and Officer Alexander of the reservation force. The man first divested himself of his overcoat, light coat, vest and hat, and then waded into the stream. A man of 200 pounds in weight, Maero did not lose his footing in the current. The water at that point is very shallow. So he sat down in the stream, and then bumping along on the rocky bottom for forty feet, he plunged over the crest into the abyss.

Alexander was on Goat Island, too far away to stop Maero. The bridal couple, horror stricken, watched the man until they saw him borne along in the current and then turned away. Alexander ran to the Cave of the Winds House, and informed Barrett and Wright of the suicide. The guides, donning their oilskins and boots, went down the stairs and along the path, watching the boiling water at the base of the falls.

In less than five minutes Maero's body appeared bobbing on the churning water. By an odd turn of fate it was washed up on a flat rock and held there. Wright and Barrett, with ropes around their waists, clambered down on the rocks and secured the body with difficulty in the blinding spray, carried it to the wooden walk that is built over the rocks. Then it was brought to the top of the bank.

In a pocket was found a letter to the coroner. There was also a copy of a court paper recording the divorce of Mabel Walker Mavrowcordato, bearing date of April 15, 1907. On one of the suicide's fingers was a two-carat diamond ring, and from a chain about his neck hung a locket containing the picture of a pretty young woman.

The body was badly battered in its trip over the cataract.

In the dead man's clothing was found the following letter, addressed to the coroner: "Dear Sir,—Possibly to-morrow you will find me dead, if so, I wish you would forward my ring to my divorced wife, Mabel Walker, care of her father, box 21, Tomale, Wis. As to the rest of my belongings, you can do with them as you deem fit. I think you can realise enough out of my belongings to cremate my body. If you think fit you can give my body to some medical college, to show the evil effects of continued smoking of cigarettes for 40 years. I have no living relatives. You will find papers of identification in my inside pocket."

LONDON MOB'S DEMONSTRATION AROUND THE SPANISH EMBASSY

Socialists and Labour Bodies Carried Red Flag Draped With Crape--Police Called Out to Disperse the Rioters ---Tirade Against Rulers.

London, Oct. 18.—The red flag was raised in London yesterday afternoon and a large mob moved upon the Spanish embassy to make a demonstration of its disapproval of the execution of Prof. Francisco Ferrer, the convicted revolutionist, at Barcelona, a few days ago.

Several bodies of police were stationed at the approaches to the embassy and they drove off the crowds in their usual bloodless effectual way. The groans and hootings were plainly heard in the embassy and at Buckingham Palace.

The trouble began with a mass meeting in Trafalgar square, which was organized by several Socialist and Labor bodies. Several hundred members of these organizations marched to the square carrying red flags draped with crepe and bearing inscriptions denouncing King Alfonso. A black bordered banner was raised against the Nelson column with big letters that could be read from afar: "To hell with the murderer, Alfonso."

After J. F. Green, secretary of the Friends of Russian Freedom, called the meeting to order, he read a telegram from the Countess of Warwick: "No words are too strong to express Europe's horror at the murder of Ferrer."

Several Laborite members of Parliament delivered strong orations, Victor Grayson of Manchester, the Socialist member, capped the climax by declaring that if the head of every king of Europe was torn from his body, it would not pay half the price of Ferrer's life. He called the Russian Emperor a "dirty monster," and said that King Edward, "who could have prevented the execution," was responsible for whatever might happen in England as a result of it. He demanded the expulsion of the Spanish ambassador.

The Socialist societies carrying their banners then marched in good order to the Spanish embassy, singing revolutionary songs and hooting King Alfonso. A great rabble accompanied them, filling the streets.

It was dark when they reached the open square in front of the embassy and they found that the square was filled with platoons of police. The embassy windows were dark and there were no sign of life there. The police would not let the procession enter the square, or even stop. The crowds were turned back and kept moving up Victoria street toward the Parliament buildings, singing, shouting and groaning.

From many towns throughout the country come reports of momentary demonstrations, the passing of resolutions and the organizing of mass meetings in protest against the Spanish Government's action in executing Ferrer.

A prominent labor member of Parliament Saturday made it his business to enquire whether the Secretary for Foreign Affairs had made any protest to Spain in the matter. It is understood that if nothing has been done when Parliament reassembles next week a strong memorandum will be placed on the table, supported by nearly all the Labor, Socialist and Radical members, censuring the Foreign Minister, Sir Edward Grey.

The General Federation of Trades Unions of Great Britain has passed a resolution deploring the outrage.

Ferrer Buried In Ditch.

Barcelona, Oct. 18.—The relatives of Senor Ferrer were permitted to follow the body to the grave. It lay in an open coffin, according to the Spanish custom. Bullet holes were visible in the forehead. The authorities refused to permit interment to be made in a private grave, and buried the body in a common ditch. Permission was granted the family to mark the spot with a stake.

MILLION DOLLAR ELEVATOR AT QUEBEC TOTALLY DESTROYED

C. N. R's Structure, Together With Two Freight Sheds, Two Boats and Number of Cars Lost--One Fireman Killed---Fire Department Criticized.

Quebec, Oct. 18.—A fire loss estimated at from $1,000,000 to $1,250,000, and the death of one fire-fighter, mark the destruction Saturday night of the million bushel grain elevator owned by the Canadian Northern Railway.

The building was erected a few years ago at a cost of $400,000. It was destroyed together with 150,000 bushels of grain. Also to the flames were two huge freight sheds, well filled with goods; the customs house, three small freight sheds, the plant of the Quebec Cold Storage Co., and a number of loaded freight cars and two small boats.

The fire broke out in the elevator about eight o'clock, and as it was constructed of wood, and of a good height, it soon became a mass of flame, the firemen being quite helpless. The freight sheds of the cold storage plant followed, and then the dome of the custom house, a large stone built edifice, ignited and in a short time the place was in ruins. The records were saved. A stiff west wind fanned the flames and threatened the safety of the C.P.R. steamer Empress of Ireland, which was lying at Neford's wharf in a damaged state, and the steamer was moved across the harbor.

The fatality occurred when Jerome Fortin of the fire department and a C.N.R. fireman named Martel fell with a ladder from the second floor of the custom house. They alighted on the stone steps 50 feet below. Fortin was instantly killed, while Martel had both legs and several ribs broken, and sustained other injuries.

The fire was not under control until the early hours of the morning. Only the direction of the wind saved the lower town. The work of the fire department is being severely criticized and an investigation may be held.

POLICE ARRESTED SIX CHINAMEN GAMBLING IN HUNTER ST. LAUNDRY

Lee Nong Fined $50 and Three Other Celestials $20 in Police Court This Morning—Were Playing Game When the Officers Walked In.

THEY PLEADED GUILTY

Lee Nong who keeps a laundry at 232 Hunter street was fined fifty dollars for keeping a common gaming house and three other chinamen, Jim Lee, John Lee and Lee Ying were each fined twenty dollars for being participants in a game of fan tan. They appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning. They were representer by Mr. G. N. Gordon, who at first pleaded not guilty but later on consulting his clients put in a plead of guilty. His Worship imposing the above fines which were paid forthwith.

P. C. Newhall and P. C. Meagher raided the laundry on Hunter street last night about 11.45 and placed six chinamen under arrest. A game was in progress when the policemen entered and on making their appearance all was confusion. This is the first time chainsmen have been brought before the Magistrate for gambling and only the minimum fines were made. The officers gave their evidence in court this morning.

THE EVIDENCE

P. C. Newhall stated that under the instructions of a warrant he entered Lee Nong's daundry, 232 Hunter St. about 11.45 last night. He was accompanied by P. C. Meagher. On entering they found a game going on that appeared to be similar to poker. The witness produced a tin box which he found at Nong's right hand. In it was two dollars in five and ten cent pieces. These, the officer had seen him put in from time to time. He stood outside for two hours watching them previous to going in. There were wour previous to going in .There were four playing, namely, Lee Nong, Jim Lee, Lee Ying, and John Lee. Lee Nee and Lee Tan were looking on. As the game and the money was in the centre of the tamble, Lee Nong would take so much and put it in the box. John Lee seemed to be winning all the time. The officers watched through the little window. Lee Nong got up to put the tea kettle on and he caught sight of P. C. Meagher. He pointed him out to another chinaman.

P. C. Newhall then called for them to open the door. They took them money and hid it and quickly drew the cloth from the table. Jim Lee hustled to bed. On investigation the two dice were found in bed. The officer asked for the cash box but Lee Nong denied having one, saying that they were only playing for fun.

It was finally found beneath the carpet. John Lee had shoved a five and a two dollar bill behind a soap box. In his pocket he had $5.34 in small change. From the entire number witness took $20. Lee Nong called P. C. Newhall into the kitchen and told him that he would give him $20 if he would let him go. He made a similar proposal to P. C. Meagher and offered Chief Ruzel $100 as an inducement to let him go.

The table on which they played, along with several bottles of lager and a jar of whiskey were shown in court. Lee Nong stated that the money was for chicken and chop and suey.

The noise of the game could be heard across the street. Two of the prisoners, Jim Lee and Lee Tan live at this laundry, Lee Ying lives on George street and the others on Water street.

P. C. Meagher who accompanied P. C. Newhall was called. He explained how wthe game was played. Each player drew blocks from the centre of the table. Then each one put money in the centre of the table. They played very much hte same as cards. Lee Nong, Jim Lee, Lee Ying and John Lee were in the game.

P. C. Meagher found five bottles of lager and a jar of whiskey.

GATES TO THE FORE.

The Review on Saturday consumed a column of its "brain" space in an absurd attempt to prove that the petitioner in the West Riding election protest and his little special wing of the Conservative party were angels of light and much abused innocents. It brasenly attempted to show that in respect of the foul stream of corruption and crookedness which was revealed at the trial of the election petition, for which the judges held the petitioner responsible, the petitioner and the small section of the Conservative party, who acted with him, were the "victims of circumstances." They were not the victims of circumstances except those of their own creation.

Let us examine the facts. Mr. Justice McMahon declared "Gates was the foundation of the petition." In regard to this Mr. Burnham, in the Review, says:

"The question of offering rewards for information was submitted to Mr. DuVernet, K.C., Mr. Burnham's leading counsel in November, 1908. He approved of it and endorsed it by letter, at the same time saying what, of course, was plain, namely, that testimony paid for could not be expected to have the weight of volunteer testimony."

Is this correct? Mr. Du Vernet, in pointing out to Mr. Burnham that "testimony paid for could not be expected to have the weight of volunteer testimony," made it plain to anybody not blinded by vindictiveness that such a course as resulted in the employment of the impossible Gates was not wise, if not right. And Mr. Du Vernet was not alone in his disapproval. Mr. Burnham, through the Review, says:

"And finally the Gates affidavit was written down under the immediate superintendence and instruction of Mr. W. H. Moore, K. C., the petitioner's solicitor, who himself, paid Gates what he demanded, viz., $50.00, by cheque."

Is this true? It may be, technially; but, effectively, it is grossly untrue. As a matter of fact Mr. Moore was opposed to Gates' affidavit. He refused to have anything to do with an affidavit, for which money was demanded; and Mr. Burnham had to draw it himself, as was proven in court, when the affidavit was produced as an exhibit, in Mr. Burnham's own handwriting. It was a holograph, every line in Mr. Burnham's writing, and not type-written, as it would have been had it been prepared by his Solicitor, Mr. Moore, who very reluctantly issued the cheque for Gates' blood money—$50—drawn on an account that was a trust account under control of Mr. Burnham.

The full glory of Mr. Gates belongs to Mr. Burnham. He says through the Review: "There were some pitiful things at the trial of the protest, but none lay at the door of the petitioner."

But these pitiful things rested on the head of the petitioner, the head and front of "the pitiful things," at the trial—these "pitiful things" being Gates and his "bunch," who were the brilliant conception and execution of the immaculate purist, Mr. John Hampden Burnham.

Mr. Burnham, through the Review, says: "It is universally admitted that if the Liberal candidate had fought the fight as his opponent did, he would have been beaten out of sight."

It is not "universally admitted." Mr. Burnham himself will not admit it—does not believe it himself. If it had not been for the desperate and unscrupulous tactics—therefore unknown in this riding the Liberal candidate would have had a thousand majorty—men disguised as Government detectives, but in reality unscrupulous canvassers for and co-workers with the self-constituted Conservative candidate—a vituperative personal campaign—false statements promulgated in press, fly sheet and from the platform, to magnify the influence of the Conservative candidate and a host of other questionable devices and expedients which would have been shown had the cross petition come to trial. From the very beginning of his campaign, from the night of his nomination, down through the whole campaign to the Gates fiasco, and the farcical perjury charges, the so-called Conservative candidate and his clique were guilty of the most reprehensible tactics and acts. Mr. Burnham's very nomination had somewhat of the Gates' flavour. Everybody knows by what means he cuckooed other aspirants out of the running. One candidate for nomination said at the convention that Mr. Burnham, after inviting the former to propose himself for nomination, was confronted by him as an opponent, and no one will dispute the statement made by staunch Conservatives that money, at least $150, was raised to pay the expense of delegates. If these were not used to pack the convention, the result was that Mr. Burnham received the nomination, and succeeded in loading himself, like the old man of the sea, or a white elephant, upon the back of his party. Beaten, as was to be expected, he entered into a deal with Gates, to get "evidence" in some way and of some kind to upset the election, which deal proved a fitting and discreditable climax to a campaign of crookedness.

Mr. Burnham, through the Review, has the effronery to use this extraordinary language:

"But from the dawn of the campaign, over a year ago, to the present time, there has not been one single act or inclination on the part of Mr. Burnham or his supporters that did not show the fullest desire on their part to speak the truth and to court the light of day."

It is impossible to characterize such language as other than astounding impudence. In the face of the revelations in the protest trial, when only the first leaf of the record of infamy was turned; in face of his compact with Gates, condemned by the judges, and practically condemned by an eminent counsel and frowned down by a respected and honourable local solicitor; in fact of the avowed mendacity of the "bunch" the brood fathered by Gates; in face of the revelations of the Shepherd trial, in which in the interests of Mr. Burnham, a band of his co-workers, judged by the outcome, sought apparently to prove perjury, where no perjury was; in face of the deliberate and studied judgment of two of the foremost judges in Canada; in face of the decision of a police magistrate, founded upon the best evidence in the world—an agreement sworn to and carried out by Mr. Burnham's chief dispenser of funds—in the face of all this Mr. Burnham has the effrontery to pen the astonishing statement appearing at the head of this paragraph.

Mr. Burnham, through the Review says:

"Again we say that Mr. Burnham has hidden nothing and has done nothing to bring a blush to his face."

The skin must be as thick as the brain behind it is obtuse, and the capillary circulation very sluggish that cannot squeeze out a blush under the putrescent revelations of the election trial, and the condemnation of a Chief Justice of the methods employed to procure evidence.

Mr. Burnham, through the Review, or otherwise, should be the last man in the world to prate of political purity. He should remember that he was the creator of the "circumstances" of which he claims he and his co-workers were "victims." He was the creator of Gates and the "bunch," who were responsible for his undoing before the election court; he should remember that the only corruption, the only bribery proved at the election trial, was committed by the candidate or his agents. Shepherd swore that he voted for Mr. Burnham for a money consideration; and that Shepherd told the truth in his testimony, is doubly proven. A court has held that he spoke the truth, and his chief agent and purse-bearer sowore that the agrement, which Shepherd swore was made, was carried out, that Shepherd made reports as per agreement, and was paid for services rendered the candidate or his interests. Isn't that enough?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A corresponedent of the Buffalo Ex-Press, after discussing the whole political situation in West Peterborough, says:

"A queer thing about this situation, is that the Liberals are no "more better pleased to see the fail-"ure of the "Burnham" petition "than are the men of Mr. Burnham's "own party, in other ridings, as well "as Peterborough. He was offered "advice from his political friends, "but he would not take it and his "ears were deaf to their appeals—he "knew it all—that is why."

STEALING GLORY.

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

It is really a pity that the glories of the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York should have been weighed down with Vice-President Sherman's spread-eagle oratory. He told his hearers among other things that Fulton conquered the kingdom of the water; that Wilbur Wright conquered the kingdom of the air, that John W. Draper conquered the kingdom of light, and that Benjamin Franklin conquered the kingdom of fire. This list of "Americans," whom Mr. Sherman put in the conquering class may be let out with an old familiar newspaper line: important if true. But unfortunately for Mr. Sherman they don't happen to be true.

With the exception of Franklin's achievement, these conquests were but adaptations of what other men in other countries had done previously. Robert Fulton was not the inventor of the steamboat, nor the first to navigate a vessel by steam with success. James Watt, a Scotchman, took out a patent for a steamboat at Glasgow in 1769. The first steamboat ever built, named the "Charlotte Dundas," was launched on October 14, 1788, and was run successfully on the Forth and Clyde canal. The "Clermont" was not built until nineteen years after that, in 1807.

Because the paddle wheels washed down the banks of the canal the "Charlotte Dundas" was laid up. Henry Symington, another Scotsman, took out a patent for a steamboat in Scotland in 1801. Fulton, while in Scotland, heard of the steamboat and seeing the use that could be made of the invetnion on the wide rivers of America, obtained drawings of it and its engine. On his return to New York he, with the help of Livingston, built the "Clermont," in 1807, getitng her engine from Boulton & Watt, of the Soho Iron Works, near Birmingham, England.

As for the alleged conquest of the air Santos Dumont, a Brazilian, preceded Wilbur Wright, and Count Zeppelin, the German aviator, with his dirigible balloon, also had the start of the American. There were French inventors, too, whose flights were coeval with the performances of the Wright brothers. Photography was, as every one knows, first applied by Daguerre, a Frenchman, who was preceded by Wedgwood, Humphrey Davy and Herschell.

CHICKENS CAME BACK.

(Brockville Recorder.)

During the last Federal election one of the very strong points, so they thought, made by the Opposition journals, was the assertion that the Dominion Government had disposed of timber limits for a comparatively small amount, which lots were subsequently sold for a big price. In the House of Commons speeches were made on this "terrible iniquity," and the rafters were made to ring with denunciation by Mr. Ames and others. The story was told to the public, on every platform in full details, of how the villainous Interior Department at Ottawa had sold timber limits for a mere song to men who, in a few months or perhaps years, made a fortune out of it. This phase of the question was kept prominently before the public. Some men were called thieves. It is to be remembered that in Brockville constituency the Minister of Railways called attention to the fact that the act of the Dominion Government was practically on a line with the Whitney Government, who sold mining rights to certain friends for seven or eight thousand dollars, that in a few weeks were capitalized and put on the market at half a million. In neither case was there any dishonesty.

Just recently another very strong case of selling mining claims cheaply, that within a short time, became very valuable, has come to light. The Whitney Government but a few months ago, yes, a few weeks ago sold a certain area on what is known as the Gillies' limit. Among the purchasers of one of these limits, was a friend of M. J. O'Brien, who was in partnership with this gentleman. They paid for their limit $10,500 to the Whitney Governments. Now, just a few weeks after, they have sold this identical limit for $330,000. After paying the original price and all the costs of brokerage, etc., they cleaned up on the deal with the Ontario Government, over $300,000 net. Up to the present moment, not a single Conservative paper that was so horrified at the purchaser of a Dominion timber limit making a big profit, has found one word of criticism for this transaction of the Whitney Government.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Toronto, Canada.—"I shall endeavor to describe to you how I felt before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I scarcely knew what it was to be well. I had awful bearing-down pains and usually before my monthly periods I suffered terribly and had to go to bed. I was not able to walk across the floor the pain was so bad. I doctored for a long time, but the doctor's treatment did not do me any good. I gave up all hopes of ever being well again until one day my husband saw the Compound advertised in the paper. He decided to get me a bottle, and I am thankful he did. I had not taken one bottle before I began to feel better, and I kept on taking it until now I am a different woman. It also helped me during maternity and childbirth. I can thoroughly recommend your Vegetable Compound to any woman who is afflicted with female troubles."—Mrs. J. M. TWEEDALE, 188 Nassau St., Toronto, Canada.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

HISTORIC BRITISH FIRM INVADES CANADA

The Manufacturers of "Oxo," of London Eng., Opening in Toronto and Montreal.

The rapidly increasing interest in Canada on the part of the British Capitalist and British manufacturer is every day becoming more apparent. They are realizing that here is a tremendous, rapidly growing and friendly market, and many of the more progressive firms of the Motherland are hastening to establish themselves here.

One of the latest is the "Oxo" concern, whose head offices are in London, Eng., but whose operations extend over a good share of the civilized world. For a great many years they have been building up an enormous business in their concentrated beef food and "Oxo" is now to add Canada to its conquests.

At first sight it seems like "Carrying coals to Newcastle" for a British firm to import concentrated beef into Canada, when we supply them with a good share of the prime roast beef which appears on theri tables. But on the one hand, notwithstanding the plentiful supply of beef, the preparation of such foods as "Oxo" is practically unknown in Canada, and on the other hand the "Oxo" people do not depend on the local supply of cattle for their needs. If they did the tight little isle might quickly be stripped of its bovine population.

When "Oxo" began operations many years ago they adopted the rather daring policy of establishing great cattle farms in those distant countries where pasture was richest and the climate most favourable for rearing great herds of the healthiest cattle. Their first big ranch was on the River Plate, in South America. There they found conditions ideal, and there they now have millions of acres of pasturage and more than a quarter of a million of the finest cattle in the world.

This is the source of supply of "Oxo" which Canadians are now to have a chance to enjoy.

Every man feels Kittenish occasionally; it's a good sign. Why not wear "CATSPAW" Rubber Heels, and feel that way all the time? All Shoe Dealers and Repairers sell them.

Sales Doubling Every Six Months

Wonderful Demand for a Wonderful Remedy.

During the past few years, the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" have doubled every six months. For the six months from January to July of this year, the sales of this popular medicine were more than twice greater than for any similar period since "Fruit-a-tives" was introduced to the public.

The National Drug & Chemical Company of Canada Limited, the largest wholesale drug house in the world—Lymans Limited of Montreal — and Lymans Brothers of Toronto — are buying "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots. 100 gross mean 14,400 boxes, which retail for $7,200.00. This gives some idea of the steady demand for these wonderful fruit liver tablets.

It is safe to say that "Fruit-a-tives" is on sale in every drug store and in departmental stores and general stores carrying medicines throughout the Dominion. Nor is the sale of "Fruit-a-tives" confined to Canada. In many parts of the United States, "Fruit-a-tives" is the standard family medicine and hardly a day passes that the Fruit-a-tives Company does not receive prepaid orders from our neighbors over the line.

The many testimonials, which have been published in the leading papers, are the most convincing evidence of the great value of "Fruit-a-tives".

50c a box—6 for $2.50—or trial box, 25c. If your dealer does not handle them, any quantity will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

BERNARD DALY,

Who appears at the Grand next Wednesday, October 20th, in "Sweet Innisfallen," under the auspices Div. No. 1 Ancient Order Hibernians. Seats now on sale.

FEARED PARALYSIS

Mr. F. A. Kruta, Schwarta, Que., writes, "For one year I was a complete nervous wreck, could not rest or sleep, had indigestion and terrible headaches and constantly feared paralysis. Six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food made me well and strong. There is no treatment in the world so good as this for building up the nervous system."

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1008 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 50 stamps.

JOHNSON RETAINS THE CHAMPIONSHIP TITLE

San Francisco, October 11. — Jack Johnson retained the heavyweight championship by knocking out Stanley Ketchell in the twelfth round on Saturday. The climax of the fight was crowded into 34 seconds. Up to the beginning of the twelfth round there had been little on which to forecast the winner. The men clinched and wrestled to Johnson's corner. The negro broke away, and posing himself, dashed at Ketchell, who sprang to meet him. Ketchell drops his right at the black's lowered head. Johnson ducked, and the blow landed behind the ear. He stumbled, fell and stretched out on the floor, landing heavily. Ketchell backed toward the ropes with a faint smile on his battered, blood streaked face. Johnson rose slowly, as though dazed. As he straightened to his knees he looked at Ketchell and wildly leaped across the ten feet that separated them. His right shot into the white man's jaw. His left crushed to the stomach, and the right swung again with the speed of lightning, catching Ketchell's head as he reeled backward from the onslaught.

Ketchell dropped in a heap, and Johnson, unable to stop his rush, sprawled across his beaten rival's legs and fell full length himself.

The negro sprang to his feet with a bound, but Ketchell was out. Once as the seconds were counted over him, he feebly moved his arms and rolled his head. He gave no other sign of life and his seconds picked him up from the floor barely conscious.

John was still dazed. He clung to the ropes and looked about him in a bewildered way. The crowd broke into mumurings and seemed unable to realise that the fight was over.

Ketchell won many friends by his showing in the ring to-day. From the time he entered the ring until he was carried out, he was game to the core. Outweighed, overreached and in every way the physical inferior he fought a cool, well-planned gritty fight. His face was puffed, as he was bleeding at the nose and mouth before three rounds had passed, but he kept following the negro about the ring undaunted.

Johnson appeared to be holding himself back almost all of the time.

Johnson said: "He is a good puncher, and a strong man. I must say that he has given me a sorer chin than I ever had before."

Promoter Coffroth stated after the fight that $40,000 had been taken in. Ten thousand pepole saw the fight.

You Can Defy The SPRING FATIGUE

And nervous exhaustion, if you will make the blood rich and red by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Fatigue and weakness tell of weak, watery and impure blood.

Are you going to go through the usual suffering and discomfort of spring this year or take a hand in the matter of your health and build up the system?

It is for you to decide, for you know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blod, overcomes the fatigue, the weakness, the feelings of depression, and discouragement which come with spring.

The nervous system is almost always exhausted in the spring. Your appetite fails because the nerves which control the appetite are exhausted, and so it is with digestion and the working of the other bodily organs.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest spring medicine because it is the greatest of nerve restoratives. It forms the new, rich, red blood from which vigor, energy and nerve force are created.

If you would restore the healthful glow to the complexion, sharpen the appetite, improve digestion, strengthen the action of the heart, revitalize the wasted brain and nerve cells and round out the wasted form you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. No imitation is just as good. There is no substitute but will disappoint.

Mrs. John P. Shannon, Whiteside, N. S., writes: "I used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it an excellent medicine. It has proved to be a splendid treatment for headache and a run-down system."

Peterborough People Report A Good Year In Northwest

A friend of Mr. Thomas Lee, at one time market clerk of Peterborough, has received a letter from him containing interesting news from the West. Mr. Lee is residing at Gilbert Plains, Man., with his family, although he has spent considerable time at Davidson, Sask. The crop at his home was not as good as last year, owing to the grain having matured before its natural time, on account of the hot weather. Mr. Lee writes from Davidson, where he is looking after a farm owned in partnership by himself and J. J. Howden. Four hundred acres were under cultivation. A slight loss was sustained by a hail storm, but a good dividend is expected from the balance, which has not yet been threshed. The crops have never been better since Mr. Lee first went west in 1881. He was present at the threshing on James Sanderson's farm. The yield averaged 25 bushels to the acre of 300 acres, and oats at 60 bushels to the acre. Mr. Sanderson, who left Smith for the West, is delighted with the results. Wheat is now worth 94 cents a bushel delivered in the cars.

STILL THRESHING

There are thousands of acres still in stook, waiting to be threshed. Men have been exceptionally scarce and wages are high. Separator men and engineers receive $5 to $7 a day and laborers $2.50 to $3. Threshing outfits will be busy for six weeks yet before all the crop is handled. The town of Davidson is progressing rapidly owing to the fine country surrounding it and the progressive people residing there. Mr. Ed. Mann, formerly of Peterborough, is in the hardware business. He has had a fine year and declares prospects were never better than now. His son, Melville, is in the automobile business, and has already six machines ordered for next spring. Mr. Lee is enjoying good health, and has asked to be remembered to his friends in Peterborough.

What a Great Man Said to the Great American People.

Parisian Sage is a discovery of a celebrated scientist, who spent the best years of his life in perfecting this great hair tonic.

In giving his receipt to the American people he said, "Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world, but it is more than a fair dressing. It cures dandruff by killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair; it stops falling hair; it gives vigour and strength to the hair roots." Wm. Madill sells Parisian Sage at 50 cents a large bottle and guarantees it to do all that is claimed for it, or your money is refunded. If you do not reside near a druggist who sells Parisian Sage, send 50 cents to Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., and a bottle will be sent you all charges prepaid.

EVILS OF MODERATE DRINKING SUBJECT OF SPLENDID ADDRESS

The Grand Opera House was filled with a large audience yesterday p.m. who gathered to hear the address of Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau. The visiting gentleman was here in the interests of the temperance movement and spoke at four different meetings yesterday. Dr. Crafts is an interesting speaker and his words are bound to prove effective. He is a man of great and varied experience, having given many years of his life to moral reform work. At all gatherings yesterday, he was greeted with crowds.

At the Opera House yesterday afternoon, Rev. J. G. Potter presided, and after opening devotional exercises introduced the speaker. Rev. H. J. Keith led in prayer.

Rev. Dr. Crafts in his opening remarks stated that while Canada could boast of better Sabbath observance than the United States, yet the American people were ahead as regards the saloon evil. This was due to the present government legislation in that respect. Dr. Craft's subject will along the lines of economic losses from moderate drinking.

Continuing Dr. Crafts spoke as follows:

"This is not a discussion of drunkenness, nor of moderate drinking, as the road to drunkenness. No temperance writer or speaker will give the impression that he thinks of, or even a majority of moderate drinkers will become drunkards, although all drunkards undoubtedly were once moderate drinkers, and expected to remain such to the end. For that very reason it is nearly useless to tell even a weak and wreckless youth to beware of the drunkenness by which many of the strongest statesmen, warriors, and poets have been unexpectely overcome. He sees that a majority who use intoxicants do not become drunkards, and he is willing to take this risk, as well as others, for the sake of pleasure and popularity. All up-to-date temperance specialists, in the light of recent scientific experiments, have adopted as the central word of the discussion, in place of drunkenness, 'alcoholism,' which the doctors define as the chronic poisoning that results from the habitual use of alcohol, whether in the form of beer, wine or spirits, even in such quantities as would not produce visible intoxication.

How will we be turned aside more than a moment by the secondary issue of aduleration? Dr. E. G. Japiway, of New York city, and no higher medical authority could be quoted from the United States, said to me with intensity, when I made a casual reference in his presence to adulteration of liuqors, "the worst thing ever put in the drinks is the alcohol." This was strikingly confirmed by the report of a royal commission in Great Britain, appointed to settle the question to which the President of the Unite dStates has given attention, an appeal fro mthe attorney-general, "What is whisky?" The problem was whether that name should be confined to the products of "distilleries," strictly socalled, or might include the products of the

There is one more of the four cardinal principles of those who claim to be for 'temperance,' though not abstainers, that we rule out of this discussion, namely, drinking at public bars. Probably a majority of those in the United States and Canada and Australia and Scandanavia who have voted "No license for the city," or state, have not yet followed it, as President C. W. Elliott, of Harvard University, has recently done, with the personal verdict, "No liquors for me." They attribute the evil influence of the bars and saloons to the atmosphere of the place rather than to the alcohol. To them it is not the poison but the persons who sell it and who gather where it is sold and loa fand treat and plot against property and politics, that work the michief, or at least the major part of it.

Prohibition of murder also has failed to decrease murder in the United States. Of course, this does not prove that prohbiition has been inefficient in either case or should in either case be repealed, but only that it is not sufficient, and needs to be followed up by such arguments as we are here attempting, that will make those who are prohibitionists from public policy, abstainers also by personal conviction.

Some Experiments.

It is profoundly significant that it is in Germany, at such a time as this, that the first laboratory experiments have been made in a printing office as to the eeffct of moderate use of wine and beer on industrial efficiency, experiments, abundantly confirmed by others less directly industrial which show that the ultimate effect of alcohol is not to strengthen or even to stimulate mind or body—that is but the deceptive initial effect—but to reduce the work of both in quantity and quality. The experiment on printers were made by Dr. Aschaffenberg, than whom no medical and physiological specialist in experimentation was heard with pro founder respect by the specialists on alcohol who gathered in London at the 12th International Congress on Alcoholism in July, 1900.

A comparison of the results on normal and alcoholic working days showde in the case of one of the workers no difference, but the remaining thre showed greater or less retaration of work when they had taken even so small a portion previous to the working hours, amounting in the most pronounced cases to fourteen per cent.—ten per cent. being counted a fair average.

Alcoholism.

French Official Warning Against

One French argument against moderate drinking also has not only personal bearing, but national and international bearings. It was the military rivalry of France and Germany that made the census records of France, in the early years of the 20th century, showing more deaths than births, an alarm bell that roused earnest investigation by patriotic medical associations, the result of which was a scientific report attributing the natinoal decay chiefly to "alcoholism," defined, as we have said, as the chronic poisoning which results from the habitual use of alcohol, even when the latter would not produce drunkenness. Warning against alcoholism thus defined, were therfore put on city halls and on the walls of hospitals, in teh name of the French Republic, under the mottoes "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity" by order of city councils, over the signature of the Mayor and Health Office.

It should be posted in every city that even those who will not hear temperance lectures or read temperance literature must be compelled to see upon the very billboards the warnings of modern science, which, in this instance, show that even the moderate use of beer and wine produces disease and death not only in the drinker, but in his children's children. Last self love and parental love shall not be strong enough to induce some men to keep the channels of heredity free from alcoholic poison, the poster adds the patriotic argument, "for the future of the nation," which is pertinent still in France, thorugh this warning, has been so far headed that there were in 1908 more cradles than coffins; and it is pertinent in every land, for as alcohol is degenerating to every cell, it touches in plant, or animal or man so it is degenerating, not alone physically, but morally to "tch body politic" everywhere.

Here it is pertinent to note that "Liberty," often appealed to in defence of enslaving drinks, finds its rightful place as one of the watchwords of the French posters.

Using this word on the poster, for an illustration, in speaking for "No license" in Sydney, Australia, I told the story of a foreigner of the baser sort, who came to the United States not as the first immigrants came "for freedom to worship God," but rather for freedom to raise the devil. He had inbibed freely in a basement saloon in Baltimore and came out on the sidewalk, swinging his arms recklessly right and left until one of them came in violent contact with the nose of an American, who straightway knocked him down. Sprawling to his feet, he exclaimed, "I thought this was a land of personal liberty," "So it is," said the American, but your personal liberty ends where my nose begins." I had occasion to tell this story to a Y.M.C.A. audience in Korea through an interpreter who "brought down the house" by translating the words I have quoted, "Your personal liberty is not on my nose." Personal liberty is bounded by the law that protect the rights and liberties of others. No man has any rightful liberty to endanger his neighbours, or his own children, or even to poison himself. In the words of a German preacher, Dr. Oerter, speaking in Brooklyn to a thousand Germans of the better sort gathered to show that Germans are not all defenders of lawless Sunday saloons, "Liberty is the right to act without interference within the limits of law."

Some will not sign a pledge lest they "sign away their liberty." But in reality, as the Declaration of Independence was a pledge "of lives' and "fortunes" and "sacred honour" in defence of freedom, so the temperance pledge is a declaration of independence against an antqiuated an dfoolish custom.

If you ought not to drink, "why not decide you will not, rather than keep the question open to be debated every time you are asked to drink? As one of the foremost Congressmen, who has ben a pledged abstainer for five years said to me, "When you drink with anybody you must drink with everybody to give offence, and it is hard in such cases to avoid getting too much. But when you refuse everybody it is no offence to anybody."

"Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," all these will be promoted in every land by the elimination of intoxicating drinks which enslave and degrade and embitter.

"Alcoholism is the chronic poisoning which results from the habitual use of alcohol, even when the latter would not produce drunkenness.

It is an error to say that alcohol is necessary to workmen who engage in fatiguing labour, that it gives heart to work, or that it repairs strength. The artificial excitation which it produces gives place very quickly to nervous depression and feebleness.

The habit of drinking entails dissatisfaction from the family, forgetfulness of all duties to society, distaste for work, misery, theft and crime. It leads at least to the hospital, for alcohol engenders the most varied maladies; paralysis, lunacy, disease of the stomach and liver, dropsy. It is one of th emost frequent causes of tuberculosis. Finally, it complicates and aggravates all acute maladies. Typhoid fever, pneumonia, erysipelas, which would be mild in the case of a sober man, quickly carry off the alcoholic drinker. The hygienic faults of parents fall upon their children. If the latter survive the first months they are threatened with idiocy or epilepsy, or still worse, they are carried off a little later by tuberculosis, meningitis or phthisis.

For the health of the individual, for the existence of the family, for the future of the nation, alcohol is one of the most terrible scourges.

Paragraphs above are from posters put up by the French city governments to check national decay. What follows is from British Parliamentary Report on Physical Deterioration, prompted by failure of a majority of candidate for elistment in British Army to pass yhysical examination. In consequence, British city governments post these extracts as a warning, not only in Great Britain as a cure, but also in Australia as a preventive. For one or other of thes reasons such a warning should be posted in every city and town of the world, and read in schools.

The continued use of alcohol, whether in form of beer, wine or spirits, even though not to the extent of drunkenness, often leads to chronic poisoning.

Of 61,215 people the average deaths per year by insurance tables will be 1,000. Of 61,215 liquor sellers the leath average is 1,642. Of 61,215 Rechabites, abstainers, the death average is 560.

Sir Fredericy Treves, Physician to King Edward, declares that alcohol is an insiduous poison and should be subject to the same strict limitations as opium, morphia or strychnine and that its supposed stimulating effects are delusive.

Britain's Insurance Proofs.

Since all that a man hath, save honour, he will give for his life, the mightiest of all arguments, against moderate drinking are the scientific and business proofs of British insurance actuaries, based on more than three score years of classified insurance, that total abstainers, other things being equal, outrank by twenty-seven per cent. the very moderate drinkers, of stalwart heredity, that are able to pass the severe examination of life insurance companies. No test of moderate in any laboratory can equal this long test of the insurance companies. With thousands of dollars at stake, and with ages of actuarial statistics to go by they give as much conclusive proofs that alcohol shortens life as can be had anywhere else, and cannot be gainsaid. The origin of temperance insurance is full of significance. In 1844, Robert Warner, of London, a Quaker abstainer—there were few abstainers then in any fold—applied for life insurance. His examination was satisfactory except in one point, namely, that he drank water instead of wine or whiskey. On the ground that he was thus endangering his health he was rejected as "a bad life" that is, a bad risk. Later he was offered insurance if he would pay ten per cent. extra on account of the extra hazardous condition in which he had placed himself by his water habit. Instead of accepting it, he got a few abstaining friends together and organised what is now called "The United Kingdom General and Provident Institution," which for a while insured abstainers only, but soon opened a separate section for moderate drinkers, rebating to members of each section wherever it fell short of the expected mortality as scheduled in the regular insurance tables. The same plan has been adopted by the Sospire Life Association, also of London, and the Scottish Temperance Life Assurance Company. In the first and second named the actual deaths of abstainers fell short of the expected mortality twenty-seven per cent. more than the moderate drinkers, while in the other case the abstainers gain was twenty-six per cent.

(See "Alcoholic Beverages and Longevity" by Sir T. P. Whittaker, M.P., Contemporary Review, March 1904. The "life abstainer" in the oldest of these companies may have twenty-five per cent. off at the start, unless he prefers to have it added to the policy every five years. American companies have not usually given the abstainer his rightful rebates, but the American statistics tell the same story, as witness the following figures of President Greene of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn.

The expectancy of life at 20 years for an abstainer is 44 years, for a moderate drinker 15; at 40 years 28 and 11 respectively; at 60, 15 and 8. Those are utterly illogical who point to some exceptional aged drinker as a proof that alcohol lengthens life, or at least does not shorten it. Such exceptions prove nothing. Insurance statistics prove that even moderate drinking is slow suicide.

CATHEDRAL NOTES

Very Large Attendance at Special Services This Week.

St. Peter's Cathedral could scarcely have ever accommodated a larger crowd than that which attended vespers last night. It was the beginning of three days of preparation for what is known as the forty hours devotion.

An eloquent sermon was preached by Rev. Father Derling of St. Basil's Church, Toronto. He spoke on faith and during one portion of his remarks referred to the class of college men who in their petty pride imagine or come to the conclusion that their very superior education demands of them to reject the truths they previously believed. Mass was celebrated this morning at 5.30 o'clock and at eight o'clock and a sermon will be delivered this evening at Benediction which will commence at 7.30 o'clock.

Perhaps you prefer to have your wife warm her cold feet on your back, if so you don't need a WALPOLE Hot Water Bottle, made of one piece of Rubber, without seams and Guaranteed for two years. Sold by all druggists.

MGR. PROULX DEAD.

Vicar-General of Nicolet Taken Ill at Rome.

Rome, Oct. 18.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Mgr. Proulx of Nicolet, Que., who arrived here last week to celebrate his sacredotal jubilee at St. Peter's, and was stopping at the Canadian College, was taken suddenly ill with intestinal trouble. He was conveyed to the hospital of the English Blue Nuns, where he died after the Pope had sent him his benediction.

Spent Life in Nicolet.

Montreal, Oct. 18.—Mgr. Moyese George Proulx, vicar-general of the diocese of Nicolet, was born in the Town of Nicolet in 1839, and ordained a priest in 1859. He was for many years professor at Nicolet College, and was appointed superior in 1874. He never left the diocese in which he was born. He visited the Holy Land in 1872, and his letters to La Minerva are still talked about in journalistic circles. Not many years ago, too, a correspondent for a Toronto paper was at Nicolet reporting the speeches of several Ministers of the Crown. Two columns had to be wired, but the young lady at the office was inexperienced and broke down under the task. Hearing of the affair, Abbe Proulx came over from the college, and, being an expert operator, sat down at the key and flashed the "copy."

Evangelization Means Peace.

Buffalo, Oct. 18.—Amid the wild cheers of 600 of the most prominent men of Buffalo, Rev. J. A. Macdonald of Toronto declared Saturday, at the launching of the national campaign of the laymen's missionary movement in this city, that there could be no war among Christian nations while they were combined in the evangelization of the world.

"Canada," he said, "hopes to preserve this example of international good sense. She would not have it otherwise. While linked in the evangelization of the world, we, or no other Christian nation can ever strike hands in war."

"The greatest defence of a nation is not battleships, great navies or great armies. It is Christianity. America must take part in this world-wide movement to evangelize the whole earth. This country tried to live in isolation, to escape the worries and responsibilities of the other great nations, but it could not. I am not an imperialist, either. The nation as well as the individual that lives alone, for itself only, will die. As America could not escape its responsibilities, in its affairs of the world, so the Christian men of the country cannot escape their responsibilities to the heathen."

Carruthers Fined $100.

Kentville, N.B., Oct. 18.—W. M. Carruthers, who was on Friday found guilty of criminal libel, was Saturday sentenced by Judge Drysdale to a fine of $100, or six months' imprisonment. A. E. Dunlop begged the clemency of the court on behalf of the prisoner, saying he was an old man and unable to stand confinement, and that he was sole support of an aged sister, who was very ill, with heart trouble, and that his imprisonement would cause her death.

Before Judge Drysdale pronounced sentence he spoke briefly to prisoner stating: "You have been pronounced guilty by twelve of your countrymen, but owing to the circumstance that this was done during a political campaign, and that probably there are others as much implicated as yourself. I sentence you to pay a fine of $100 or to remain six months in jail." The money was forthcoming.

Awarded Big Damages.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—William Fitchet was awarded $1,500 damages and costs against J. M. Walton of Aurora, for wrongful and malicious arrest by the jury in the Assize Court Saturday morning. Fitchet claimed he was kept in prison for 17 days because of a declaration made by Walton that he (Frichet) was going to leave the province to defraud his creditors. At the time Frichet was said to have $4,371 in Walton's keeping, realised from the sale of the plaintiff's goods in stock.

In the witness box plaintiff swore he had no intention of leaving the province. The defendant is a banker at Aurora.

FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

Millions of leaflets are being circulated among the people of the Empire, informing the masses how to guard against Tuberculosis, of which 100,000 Germans die every year. The time is fast approaching when this disease will be treated like diphtheria and smallpox—the patient being isolated and removed from contact with others.

Meantime it is to be hoped the masses will learn the all-important lesson of guarding against coughs and chest colds, from which tuberculosis always springs. When your throat tickles, your chest feels tight and sore, when you sneeze and feel cold shivers up your back — that should be your warning.

Nerviline Will Assist

The following treatment is known to be very efficient: Give the chest and throat a vigorous hand-rubbing with Nerviline, and take twenty drops of Nerviline in hot, sweetened water. If there is any hoarseness or cough, gargle well with Nerviline and put a Nerviline Porous Plaster over the chest. By following this advice you can keep clear of colds, pneumonia, bronchitis, and preserve uniform good health. This is worth cutting out and preserving.

A GUARANTEED CURE
For Indigestion and Dyspepsia

There is no hesitation or quibbling about the claims which the Coleman Medicine Company make for their wonderful "Little Digesters". They come out straight with the statement that "Little Digesters" will positively cure even chronic Indigestion or Dyspepsia, as well as Heartburn and Sour Stomach.

They GUARANTEE "Little Digesters" to cure. If they fail, you get your money back, promptly and without question.

Of course they would not make such positive statements, or give such a guarantee, if they had not proved, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that "Little Digesters" WILL CURE.

"Little Digesters" do it simply and naturally, too, by helping out the weakened stomach — supplying just what it needs in the process of digestion, and enabling it to assimilate the food. Soon the whole system regains its vigor, and the stomach needs no further help.

"Little Digesters" are put up in little red boxes, sold for 25c by your druggist, or mailed by the Coleman Medicine Co., of Toronto. 29

HUGE COMMUNION SERVICE.

Thirty-Five Thousand Partake of the Sacrament at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Oct. 18.—Thirty-five thousand persons, representing practically every Protestant religion in the world, yesterday partook of an open air communion at Forbes' Field, the million-dollar baseball park here.

The service was the crowning effort of the promoters of the Centenary convention of the Disciples of Christ. Starting 100 years ago, with less than 100 persons, in an effort to bring all Christians into one great denomination, the immense gathering yesterday really represented two million persons, a great number of them Canadians and not a few from Toronto.

The services started with the immense gathering singing "Nearer My God to Thee," the 35,000 voices being audible for at least three miles.

Five hundred deacons, carrying trays upon which was unfermented grape juice and bread, emblematic of the blood and body of Christ, then passed along the aisles, administering the sacrament to every communicant. The services were conducted under the direction of Rev. Dr. Wallace-Thorpe, pastor of the First Christian Church here.

It required about 1,500 loaves of bread and 11 barrels of grape juice to feed and quench the thirst of the multitude.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Her mother, the Princess of Wales, has abandoned all idea of sending her to any school and is having her brought up in the same way that she herself was educated—namely, under the care of governesses.

New York City's first two-cent fare street car line has just received a franchise from the board of estimate. It will operate a line only a few blocks long, connecting one of the city's ferries with several important docks and terminals. The company will be allowed to increase its fare to five cents if it enters into traffic agreement with the other traction companies for free transfers.

Paris Draws Royalty.

Paris, Oct. 18.—Paris society is looking forward to a highly interesting season. No less than three kings will visit the French capital during the winter.

King Edward of England probably will be the first of the crowned heads to arrive. As on former occasions, he will be in Paris simply as the Duke of Lancaster. King Edward always patronizes the latest plays.

Towards the end of next month the young King Manuel of Portugal is expected.

Another monarch who is to make his first official visit to Paris, is Peter I. of Servia, probably in January. He will first pay a visit to the Czar of Russia.

King Leopold is now in Paris, but his visits are so frequent as to be no longer remarked here.

Will Causes Epidemic.

Wingham, Oct. 18.—It is believed the epidemic of typhoid fever that has been raging here for some days has been checked, and thirteen patients who are at present ill with the disease are all reported to be progressing favorably.

Two deaths have occurred during the week, and for a time some of the other patients were in a very critical state. The whole trouble seems to have originated in a contaminated well.

Fire Driver Drops Dead.

Wood Pulp Duty Free.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Wood pulp, mechanically ground, imported into the United States from anywhere in Canada except Quebec and Ontario provinces, is free of duty until otherwise directed, according to a decision by the United States Treasury Department.

If produced from pulp wood cut on private lands in Quebec and Ontario, it is admissible free of duty.

But if produced from pulpwood cut on crown lands in either Quebec or Ontario, it is assessable at one-twelfth of one cent per pound, and in the case of Quebec, there is added a countervailing duty of 25 cents per cord as the equivalent of the export tax.

Year is Bad For Champagne.

Paris, Oct. 18.—There is a prospect that the year 1909 will be one of the worst years experienced in the champagne industry, both in amount of yield and the quality. Rheims agents say that should there be an increase in consumption there will be a considerable shortage in the supply of the wines, as the present year is the third in succession of poor vintages.

Address Suppressed in uRssia.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 18.—The censor's unusual step of suppressing the telegraphic reports of David Lloyd-George's Newcastle speech was taken because of the statesman's declaration that it was time the laboring masses shook off the tyranny of the dukes and landlords. It sounded too much like a Russian revolutionary propaganda.

Greek Princes Ousted.

Athens, Oct. 18.—Premier Mavromichalis having announced the desire of the royal princes to have the bills relating to their services in the army adopted, the Chamber of Deputies, without discussion voted the bills abolishing the right of the crown prince to hold the post of commander in chief and of the other princes to hold military commands.

The adoption of the military reform bills veils another step in the military revolution which yet may involve the abdication of King George. It is understood that His Majesty feels acutely his abandonment by the great powers in the matter of Greece's aspirations for the annexation of Crete and has seriously considered the possibility of being compelled to abdicate as an outcome of the disappointment of his people.

Girl Went Hunting.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 18.—Hazing at the University of Missouri reached its climax on Wednesday night, when a crowd of boys and girls took Miss Leota Crider of Kansas City, a freshman in the College of Arts and Science, "snipe hunting." Miss Crider is now at the home of her father, S. P. Crider, a stock commission man in Kansas City. She departed for Kansas City soon after she was hazed.

Miss Crider was reared in the city and knows little of bird hunting. When "snipe hunting" was proposed she readily consented to hold the sack. The jokers say they never went far from Miss Crider, but she believed she was left alone and called several times. At last they returned and brought her home. She has left school for a few days to recover from the shock.

Fatal Auto Accident.

Tuxedo Park, N.Y., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Bruce Price, resident of Tuxedo Park, and widow of a New York architect, was killed in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon on the road from Tuxedo to Arden.

The car was going north on the main road of the Harriman estate near Arden station, when the chauffeur pulled out to one side to pass a car ahead. The machine skidded into the brush on the side of the road, throwing Mrs. Price against a tree, killing her almost instantly.

THE PETERBOROUGH SENIORS BADLY TRIMMED SATURDAY

Defeated by Parkdale Team in the First Senior O. R. F. U. Game by 31 Points to 1---Game Was Harder Fought Than the Score Would Appear to Indicate---Visitors Were Superior All Along the Line.

The Parkdale Canoe Club, last year's Dominion Junior Champions, holders of the O. R. F. U. title the year before, proved too much for Peterborough in the Senior O. R. F. U. fixture at Riverdale Park on Saturday, and won an easy victory by 31 points to 1. After the first quarter the locals were never very much in the hunt, although at that they gave the visitors a much harder fight for the victory than the lop-sided nature of the score would lead one to believe. Fumbles by the locals at critical moments gave the visitors far more points that they earned and the fates seemed to have deserted Peterborough as they had none of the luck that generally comes with a wet field and a slippery ball. Without attempting to detract in the least from the well-earned victory of the Paddlers it can be stated with truth that a lot of the visitors' scoring was fluky, while, on the other hand, Peterborough seemed to have left their horse shoes in the dressing room.

However, it must be admitted that the Parkdale fourteen is a pretty good team all along the line. They haven't lost a game in three seasons, and they play with a snap and a confidence that makes them formidable adversaries. There is nothing especially brilliant about the team of its methods, but they are hard-working, aggressive and splendidly conditioned, while they never let up for a moment. Their wing line is fast and tackles splendidly, while the men are always on the ball and are great ball getters. Behind the line the backs are steady and are sure, catch, kick and run nicely and work well together. Persistent hard work with that never-let-up-until-the-last whistle spirit is the secret of their success, and it is not to be wondered at that they triumphed over Peterborough's untried team. The locals were handicapped in having their first game against a team that has been working together for years and in having to oppose to such opponents a line-up that has never played together before, and of which a third of the members were playing their first O. R. F. U. Rugby. Under the circumstances the team did very creditably and although the big score looks bad those who saw the game know that the play was much closer than the statistics show. In fact it was so close during the first quarter that Peterborough's chances of an ultimate victory looked very bright.

The locals had, if anything, a little better of the first quarter. They started off by scoring a rouge, and held play in Parkdale territory for some time. Then when the scene shifted to the other end a long run carried it back and Peterborough had their best chance of the day to score, but a blocked kick a moment after lost them the opportunity. Still Peterborough forced and at the end of the quarter were still ahead. As timer Wasson walked on to the field to call time, one of the Parkdale men got the ball on a fumble, and ran sixty yards unopposed for a touch down. The Peterborough men thought that time was up and let him go, but the officials rightly ruled that time was not up until the play was completed.

In the second quarter, Peterborough continued to have about as much of the play as the visitors, until a series of offsides gave Parkdale the ball, close in, and they bucked over for a try.

The superior condition of the visitors, coupled with the fact that Peterborough were fumbling the wet ball, gave the Paddlers frequent opportunities to score during the last half, and they took full advantage of these openings, with the result that the score mounted rapidly. The rain that commenced shortly after dinner had its effect on the crowd and the attendance was only fairly good. The rain stopped before the game started and the first quarter was played in ideal Rugby weather.

In the second quarter, however, a drizzling rain commenced, which ended up in a heavy shower, just before half time. In the second half, however, it cleared again, and was fine until the end of the game, although the down pour made the footing uncertain and left the ball greasy and hard to handle.

The visitors had it on Peterboorugh in pretty nearly all departments. Their back division made fewer mistakes and kicked better, while the wing line, as a whole, was much more effective than was the local's advance guard. They gave their backs the best of protection, with the result that Beddoe, their strong booting centre half had plenty of time to get his kicks away. On the other hand when Peterborough had the ball the visitors' wings had little difficulty in breaking through and were on top of Campbell, often before he had time to get rid of the ball. The result was that Quinlan who did the punting for Peterborough had very little opportunity to do much kicking, as the wings were on him generally as soon as he got the ball. The left side of the local wing line seemed to be the chief cause of the trouble and it was through there that the Paddlers' wings were working for the most part. Then, too, the Canoeists' forwards tackled much better than did Peterborough and followed up faster, and more consistently. The locals were weak in their tackling, while the visitors shone in that important department.

Peterborough's untried back division, considering the work that they were called upon to do, and the ineffective protection the wing line gave them, did very well under the circumstances. They had few moments to rest, and while they were guilty of loose playing at stages, their fumbles were made in passing the ball, rather than in handling the kicks of the visitors. The backs caught well and ran the ball back in good style, in spite of the splendid following up of the Parkdale team. It was, as has already been said, when they were in possession of the ball that the rear guard made their mistakes.

The three half-backs, Quinlan, Corkery and Cahill, all played good games. For the last pair it was their first senior game and they handled themselves nicely, both catching well and working in some nice runs. Their work was very encouraging and both will be heard from often before the season is over. Quinlan was at centre half and a great share of the work behind the line fell upon his shoulders. In addition to doing all the kicking he started most of the runs, and did a whole lot of useful work. His punting was not as good as on other occasions, but he received little protection from the wing line and had to get the ball away in a hurry.

Allan Campbell, at quarter back, played a consistent useful game, and made few mistakes, although he had a busy afternoon, with a lot of interference from the Parkdale wings to bother him.

On the wing line O'Connor and Dickson were the most prominent. To the former a lot of line plunging was entrusted and he broke through for good gains on frequent occasions, while he and Dickson shone in stopping bucks. The two pulled down the man with the ball time after time when he attempted to come through their side of the wing line. Capt. Lundy, at outside wing, tackled nicely. The other side of the line was not so strong, although all three worked hard. It was the first senior Rugby for Hickey and Hall, and when it is figured out that they were up against some very experienced players their work was all that could be expected. Davidson worked hard all the time, and followed up well.

The scrimmage, Thornton, Clarke, and Eclestone made a formidable trio that fully held its own with that of the visitors. Beddoe and Cromer were the stars of the visitors. The former is a splendid punter, using judgment in his kicking, and he caught and ran nicely. Cromar was very fast, and his runs around the end and running back of punts were features of the game. Jimmy Dissette, the St. Michael's hockey player, did grand work at quarter, passing and bucking nicely. On the wing line Brockbank and Harper were always in the limelight, the former doing some grand tackling. The officials, Dr. Allen Brown, of Toronto, umpire, and Dr. A. W. MacPherson, gave every satisfaction, and their decisions were undisputed.

The line-up follows:

Peterborough — Full-back, Craig, Corkery; halves, Quinlan, Cahill; quarter, Campbell, Clarke; scrimmage, Thornton, Ecclestone; mid wings, O'Connor, Davidson; inside wings, Hickey, Dickson; out. wings, Hall, Lundy.

Parkdale C. C.—Full-back, Baillie; halves, Cromar, Beddow, Meagher; quarter, J. Dissette; scrimmage, Leonard, Addison, Duncan; mid wings, Durand, Adams; inside wings, Harper, Crawford; out. wings, Brockbank, A. Dissette.

Umpire, Dr. Brown; referee Dr. MacPherson.

Goal judges—H. R. H. Kenner and Geo. McDonald.

Timer—W. E. Wasson.

To . line judges—C. G. Graham, and F. M. Dela Fosse.

Yardsmen—E. Hurtubise, and R. Cameron.

Play started almost on time. Parkdale won the toss and elected to kick against the wind in the first quarter. Peterborough kicked off and the play went at once to Parkdale territory, a end for a twenty-five yardsbfigsbfigbz fumble, giving the locals possession. Quinlan punted over the line and Cromar was downed for rouge. Peterborough's only point of the game. Parkdale punted out from their 25-yard line, instead of making a drop kick as called for by the rules and were penalized by the loss of the ball. Quinlan punted to Beddoe, who marked and secured a free kick. A fumble gave the Paddlers possession at the forty-five yard line, and Jimmy Dissette went around the left end for a gain of twenty yards. Cromar then broke away for a twenty-five-yard run, but Parkdale were offside and Peterborough got possession on their twenty-five yard line. Quinlan made a beautiful pass half way across the field to Craig, who, after a forty-five yard run transferred the pigskin to Quinlan, who had a clear field to the touchline, but was overhauled by Beddoe five yards out, preventing Peterborough's brightest opportunity of adding to their score. On the first down Parkdale broke through and dribbled the ball to their forty-five yard line, where Peterborough recovered. Peterborough kept pressing. Just as Timer Wasson was announcing that quarter time was up, Quinlan punted to Cromar, who returned A fumble gave Meagher the ball, and after starting a run the Parkdale half passed to Brockbank, who made a long run for a try unopposed by the locals who thought that time was up. Jimmy Dissette converted neatly. Quarter score, Parkdale 6, Peterborough 1. The second quarter was hard fought all the way, and the most of it was played in a drizzling rain that turned into a heavy shower, before half time. Corkery ran the kickoff back nicely, and Quinlan followed up with a twenty-yard gain only to be brought down in splendid fashion by Beddoe The latter was kicking splendidly at this stage and the Peterborough backs had their hands full as the Parkdale wings were following up in grand style. Kicks and end runs gained for Parkdale until Brockbank went over for a try. He was called back for an offside, but Harper bucked through for a gain of 5 yards and was stopped a foot out. Leonard went over on the next down. Dissette failed to convert. Half-time score, Parkdale 11, Peterborough 1.

Parkdale pressed hard from the beginning of the third quarter. Cromar ran Quinlan's kickoff back to centre, where he was temporarily knocked out by a hard tackle. Parkdale lost the ball for interference by Crawford but recovered almost immediately on a fumble. Davidson and Crawford wer sent away for indulging in a little altercation, the only penalties of the game. A couple of Peterborough offsides carried the play into the local territory, and Beddoe kicked over the line to Craig, who was forced to rouge. Beddoe returned Quinlan's kickout and play remained in the vicinity of Peterborough's line. Parkdale broke through and blocked a punt from Quinlan and A. Dissette dribbled over the line, losing a good chance for a try by missing the ball, when he went to fall on it. Quinlan saved a touchdown by diving on the ball. The play in this stage was all in Peterborough's territory. Offsides helped Parkdale's advance and finally Harper was sent around the left end for another try, which Dissette did not convert.

Three-quarter score Parkdale 19, Peterborough 1.

The fourth quarter was a repitition of the third, with the fourth conditioned visitors doing most of the forcing. Early in the quarter, Beddoe punted over to Quinlan, who fumbled, but recovered and rouged. The kickout was returned, but Campbell got through a hole in the line for a thirty-yard run. A muffed pass, however, gave Dissette a chance for a run around the end and a thirty yards dash gave him a try, Hall pulling him down, when he had just crossed the line. The try was not converted. For the first time in the quarter Peterborough took the offensive after this score, and worked the ball to Parkdale's ten-yard line by a series of bucks and short end runs. Here, however, a fumble gave Meaghen a chance to start a dribble the length of the field, upon which Brockbank secured a try, which was not converted.

Final score, Parkdale 31, Peterborough 1.

Billy has been located in Strathcona and Edmonton, Alta., for the past four years and has been closely identified with lacrosse and hockey there during that time. He, with Mrs. Powers and their family, has come to his old home to be present at the wedding of Johnny Powers, which takes place on the 20th of this month.

He states that Edmonton hockey club will again challenge for the Stanley Cup and almost the same players as last year are available this year.

Fred Whitcroft will again manage the team. Those of the team now in Edmonton are: Winchester, Jack Miller, H. Decton and Bill Crowley. Bert Bolton is in Winnipeg but will sign up as soon as the season opens. A large number of very promising juniors are also available and a couple of them may be used.—Ottawa Free Press.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Chief Justice Falconbridge Presiding At Fall Assizes

Robert Fair Chosen Foreman of Grand Jury, Which Will Consider Two Cases—One of These is the Jopling Case.

HIS LORDSHIP'S ADDRESS

The Fall Assizes of the High Court of Justice for the County of Peterborough opend this afternoon at the Court House with Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge presiding. The members of the bar present were Mr. Shirley Denniston, K.C., of Toronto representating the Crown and Messrs. D. O'Connel, G. N. Gordon, F. D. Kerr, G. W. Hatton, L. M. Hayes, K. C., R. E. Wood and John Green. W. J. Johnston acted as Court Registrar.

The preliminary duty of swearing the Grand Jury was proceeded with, its personnel being as follows: Vincent Eastwood, T. C. Elliott, M. J. Bell, Robert Bullock, Wm. Comstock, Paul Costello, Robert Fair, R. Hamilton, W. G. Howden, Thos. Houston, Robert Shaw, F. Stanger and C. W. Waters. Mr. Robert Fair was elected foreman.

Chief Justice Falconbridge then began his charge to the Grand Jury. Two cases were to be submitted to them, one in which the charge was rape, and the other the Jopling case in which Fred and Harry Jopling were charged with manslaughter. His Lordship reviewed the first case pointing out its seriousness, stating that there was still a law in the statute books making the crime punishable with death. He emphasized the fact that the Grand Jury's duty was to determine whether sufficient evidence was produced to warrant a trial before the Petit Jury.

JOPLING CASE

His Lordship briefly reviewed the Jopling case and explained the law of self denuence. A man may protect himself, his wife and family and perents under all hazards.

In a charge of manslaughter there is no statement of antecedent malice or ill will .It means the killing of a person as the result of a sudden quarrel." "If you are satisfied from the evidence that death is traceable to injuries directly or indirectly received at the hands of the prisoners, it is your duty to return a true bill."

Chief Justice Falconbridge cautioned the Grand Jury to regard the evidence in this case as new and fresh as if they had never heard it before. They should dissociate the evidence from anything they had heard or read. Only the witnesses for the prosecution would be heard by the Grand Jury. It was also their duty to visit the gaol and report on the conditions existing. They had the privilege of visiting other public institutions such as hospitals, asylums, houses of refuge, etc.

His Lordship then went into the detail of the law after which the Grand Jury retired to hear the evidence in the two cases.

PITTSBURG TEAM WINS THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP

Detroit, Oct. 12. — Pittsburg won the world's baseball championship at Bennett Park on Saturday by defeating Detroit 8 to 0 in the seventh and decisive game of one of the greatest battles ever fought for the world's title. The National League won four of the seven games, making the third straight victory for the National League, the Chicago team having defeated Detroit in 1907 and 1908.

Tol Charles Adams, the phenomena young pitcher from teh Louisville American Association team belongs considerable credit for the victory. His wonderful pitching almost crowded Wagner, Leach, Clarke and other Pittsburg stars into the background. To-day's victory was his third of the series, and he held Detroit safely throughout the entire game. He allowed but six hits, and in only one inning, the fourth, did Detroit get more than one safety. Adams allowed only one base on balls, and in four innings he retired the hard-hitting American Leaguers in one, two, three order.

The crowd was a distinct disappointment as there were only 17,562 paid admissions. The receipts were $19,677, and this was divided $1,967 to the National Commission, each $3,936 to each club owner. The total attendance for the seven games has been 146,444, and the total receipts $128,308.50.

The two twirlers upon whom Detroit had pinned its faith in winning the great series were lacking when the critical time came. "Wild Bill" Donovan lived up to his name by passing six batters, and hitting another in the first two innings. While this allowed Pittsburg only two runs it had a bad effect on Detroit and Pittsburg scored often after that. Donovan allowed a two bagger and a single in the third but a snappy double play stopped Pittsburg form scoring.

George Mullin was sent in to bat for Donovan in the third and took his place in the box after that. The Detroit iron man was unequal to pitching four games of the seven and was easy for the Pittsburgs after Donovan had given them a start. Mullin was hit hard in the fourth and sixth, and Pittsburg soon piled up a commanding lead.

Play was fierce in the early innings, but Detroit grew discouraged as inning after inning went by and it could not score on Adams, while Mullin was helpless in holding the National League champions. Robert Byrne and George Moriarty were injured in a collision at third base in the first inning and both were forced to leave the game.

STOLE $93 FROM SALVATION ARMY

Robbed Cash Box at Barracks While Captain Was at Meeting.

Some one entered the home of the Salvation Army Captain on Tuesday night while he and his wife were holding service in the barracks, and stole $93 out of the cash box. This money had been collected for the Thanksgiving offering, and was only waiting the final collections to be forwarded to headquarters. The thief certainly must be one very familiar with the workings of the Army. He knew where the money was kept, and when the service was on, entered the house by a back window and went to the cabinet, took out the box and emptied it of the $93 and left by the back door. As soon as the Captain returned home he found the box on the table and the money gone. He reported it to the Chief of Police immediately, and from private information already at hand it is quite likely that the thief will be behind the bar to-night.—Parry Sound North Star.

"Catspaw" Rubber Heels will shorten distances for you by making the step safe, sure and springy. Try a pair. Any shoe dealer or repairer.

NEGLECTED HIS DUTY

Fireman Charged With Negligence In Mount Vernon Disaster Appears In Court To-day For Sentence—Judge Latchford Says He Would Never Send a Decent Man to Jail With Criminals.

Brantford, Oct. 19.—Justice Latchford, addressing the fall Assizes' jury that heard the case of Joseph McGuire, a former Grand Trunk fireman, charged with criminal negligence and neglect of duty, said that he would never send a man who was not a criminal to associate with criminals unless the offence was of an extraordinary nature.

The jury after five hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of guilty with a strong recommendation to mercy. The charge arose out of a wreck on the Mount Vernon grade, seven miles from this city, on Oct. 6, 1908, in which Engineer Fralick, Fireman Burchell of London, and C. Ribbles lost their lives. McGuire was in charge of a shunting engine, which he sent out behind a freight, and failed to protect its return to the city. A work train followed and a head-on collision resulted. McGuire, afterwards left the country, but came back for trial.

The coroner's jury brought in a verdict recommending indicting the Grand Trunk directors, and at the spring Assizes the jury disagreed. The prisoner has since been out on his own bail, which was renewed last night. He will appear to-day for sentence. N. L. Davidson was crown prosecutor.

Yesterday afternoon two grand jurors, Squire Hazelton and J. W. Murray, who failed to appear, were fined $20 each by Justice Latchford and 10 petty jurors were fined $20 each. No explanation had been received from the jurors in question by the sheriff, and the judge remarked that in future they would find it cheaper to attend.

To Investigate Wreck.

Owen Sound, Oct. 19.—Capt. L. N. Demers, Dominion Wreck Commissioner, will be here this week to investigate the accident to the Athabasca, coming from Quebec, where he is inquiring into the accident in the gulf to the steamship Empress of Ireland.

Members of the crew of the Athabasca claim that, though a blizzard was raging, the light in the Flower Pot Island lighthouse was not lit, nor was the foghorn blowing. When the danger was realized Capt. Brown ordered the wheelsman to steer to starboard. The wheelsman in the excitement turned to port instead. The mate observed the mistake and sprang to the wheel. At the same time the captain signalled the engines reversed, but it was too late.

Danl. Smith, lighthouse-keeper for nearly fifty years, says the light was lit, that he had been able to see the Athabasca's lights for some time, and that the snow flurries were intermittent only, and there was no necessity for the foghorn.

The damage to the steamer is placed at $40,000.

Mr. Thompson was single and lived with his sister.

RESCUED DROWNING GIRL BY DIVING FROM HIGH CLIFF

Young Baseball Player Eclipses His Diamond Glory by Saving Life of Pretty and Talented Daughter of Wealthy South Ontario Man

Delhi, Oct. 19.—William Buck, aged 19, the heavy hitting left fielder of the champion Delhi baseball team, has eclipsed his baseball glory by saving a young lady from drowning. Young Buck rescued from the waters of the Rhone River on Sunday Miss Leta Dalton, the pretty talented daughter of Dent Dalton, one of the wealthiest men of Southern Ontario. Buck has been presented by Dalton with the finest gold watch that money can buy, inscribed with the record of the deed of valor, and an effort will be made to secure the life-saving medal of the Humane Society.

Sunday was an ideal for boating, and Miss Dalton, accompanied by Miss Julia Wilson and her small brother, Arthur Wilson, were enjoying the water near Quance Mills. When their boat reached a point in the shadow of a perpendicular bank near the Buck home the boat overturned and the three young people were left struggling in the deep, ice-cold water.

Arthur Wilson, a brave little fellow accustomed to swimming, after a desperate effort, managed to tow his sister to safety; for which act he deserves great praise. The little fellow was so exhausted from his great effort that he was unable to go to the assistance of Miss Dalton, but he called loudly for help.

The cry was heard by Will Buck in his home near the top of the river bank. From the top of a sheer precipice he took in the situation at a glance.

"Here goes, but I don't know whether I'll come back!" he called out to his father, and he dived. A white hand appeared for a moment above the dark water and then disappeared. Young Buck swam for the spot, and managed with great effort to seize an apparently inanimate form as it sank.

Another moment and it would have [illegible]

Pitiful Story of Young Canadian Girl Fascinated by Glitter of the Stage--New York No Place for a Homeless Girl

New York, Oct. 19.—A bottle of poison and an unsealed letter of appeal for money to "dear mother" summed up for the police last night the story of the effort of Edith Thomas, 19 years of age, of Sherbrooke, Canada, to make a name for herself on the stage. The girl was found unconscious in her boarding-house, where she has been sick for ten days, since she came to New York from Danbury, Conn., where she parted from the small company with which she left her home. At the hospital it was said that she stood an even chance for recovery. The letter was directed to Mrs. Frank Thomas, Lower Water street, Sherbrooke, and read in part:

"I have been sick and have just $3.76. I have to pay my room rent here, so and then shall have but $1.75 to keep me until I hear from you. If you are able to let me have $20 I will take the train as soon as I get it. I have had enough and am in need of a mother's love. I will pay you back, mother, in more ways than one. I am sick and long for home. New York is a bad place for a girl who has no money. A girl dare not make friends with anybody. You can never tell who you are meeting, and some times when you think they are good and you go out they want to take you to some house, and the first thing you know you can't get out. This is New York, mother. I met a girl here who was treated in this way and I dare not go out.

"Hoping you will forgive me and with love,

"Your loving daughter, Edith."

Fighting In Hayti.

Cape Haytien, Oct. 19.—News reaching here gives brief details of a sanguinary engagement between the insurgents and the Government troops at Canongo, near Dajabon. The insurgents were in ambuscade behind a hillock and made a surprise attack upon the advancing troops. There were considerable losses on both sides.

The Haytien postal courier, who was taken prisoner, said that the whole frontier is in the power of the insurgents.

Major-General French Here.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Major-General Sir George French, whose distinguished military career has included service as commissioner of the R.N.W.M.P. from 1876 to 1873, is back in Toronto after five weeks spent in revisiting the West. Sir George carries his 68 years lightly, while his manner is marked geniality. He expressed great surprise at the rapid manner in which the western country is being populated.

True Bill Against Joplings.

Peterboro, Oct. 19.—In the case of Fred and Harry Jopling, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Arthur Hollard, the grand jury yesterday brought in a true bill. The case comes up to-day before His Lordship Sir Glenholme Falconbridge. Shirley Denison of Toronto is acting as crown prosecutor.

Change of Venue Refused.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Notwithstanding the arguments of T. C. Robinette, K.C., to the effect that the minds of the people of the province of Ontario have been prejudiced against Walter Blythe, charged with the murder of his wife, it was the opinion of Justice Magee, who opened the Criminal Assizes Court yesterday afternoon, that twelve men could be found who would give the prisoner a fair trial.

His lordship could not see that he should attach such importance to the meeting of the citizens of Agincourt as to warrant the granting of the application for a change of venue or a postponement of the trial.

No Hope For Cheap Meat.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—No hope of permanently lower prices for meat was held out by delegates to the fourth annual convention of the American Packers' Association, at its first session yesterday.

Michael Ryan, president of the association, said prices might drop slightly for a short time, as there had been some increase in the number of cattle raised recently, but this boon to housewives would be short-lived.

"Unless many, many more cattle are grown," said Mr. Ryan, "there can be no hope of lower prices, and America may find itself an importer of meats."

CHRISTIAN SOCIALISM

WHERE IT DIFFERS FROM ANTI-CHRISTIAN SORT.

Text: "Godliness With Contentment Is Great Gain" (I. Timothy vi, 6) —Pastor Russell Says That Time Is Not Yet Ready For a Self-Controlled World—Earth Is a Rebellious Province In Universe.

Sunday, Oct. 17.—Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, preached to-day from the text, "Godliness with contentment is great gain" (I. Timothy vi, 6). He said:

The only proper contentment is that which combines with godliness and which sees from the standpoint of God's Word the Divine power able to correct the difficulties which assail us and all mankind. The godly believer thus instructed is able to appropriate to himself the Divine promises of providential care and thus to be content with conditions which are not satisfactory.

On the other hand, those who either do not know of the Divine power, or have lost their faith in Divine wisdom, chafe more and more under present conditions. And the more discontented they become, the greater is their tendency toward ungodliness—doubt of Divine love, wisdom and power. Self-independence is a poor substitute and, as disappointments come, the combative find anger, malice, hatred, envy and strife surging through their minds. Then they become rabid socialists and are in the way to eventually become rabid anarchists.

Again we have those who term themselves Christian Socialists. These well-meaning souls perceive the situation of their brethren and say, Yes, the world should be socially transformed. Its riches should not flow, as at present, into the favored channels, but should be scattered everywhere for the general refreshment and comfort of mankind as a whole. They philosophize on what God surely would and surely would not approve amongst men, and then declare that all Christians should at once set about to secure to the world of mankind a just division of God's bounties. Their love and zeal for right principles we should and do admire and commend. But we cannot commend their course, their hopes, their preaching, by which they seek to obtain the ends desired. Recognizing the principles of Divine Justice they seek to apply these, forgetful of the fact that they have not the Divine Wisdom necessary to a proper application.

They seem to forget also that justice has been the same for several thousand years past, and that Divine Wisdom has not yet seen fit to establish Divine Justice amongst men. If they think that this is a neglect on God's part which they are wise enough to rectify, the thought is evidently an erroneous one. If they believe, on the contrary, that the time for the establishment of justice was not in the past, but has now come, they should be able to find and point us to a Divine revelation to this effect, practically authorizing them to take their stand now for socialism and explaining that the due time for the prosperity of justice has now come and how they shall proceed and what shall be the outcome. But do they offer us such evidences from the Bible? Do they offer us such proofs as these? Nay, verily. Like the other socialists they are merely discontented and become discontented seeking a remedy.

From the Bible standpoint the world is not properly ready for its own control under any form of government. It is a rebellious province in the Divine Empire—one in which sin and selfishness and death constitute the ruling elements. The Bible declares that what the world needs is a monarchy—a strong, centralized government in which the masses must not be allowed to have a voice at all, because, in their fallen condition, they know not what is for their own highest good. The Bible tells us that present institutions, under the power of selfishness, driving the wealthy in one direction and the masses in the opposite direction, is about to bring a universal crash—anarchy. This and atheistic socialism and Christian socialism, and, in a larger sense, general selfishness and discontent are urging upon the two great combatants, both of whom will fall in the struggle, never to rise again. However, according to the Scriptures, they will be succeeded by the Kingdom of God's dear Son.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER SAVED BY GIN PILLS

The Famous Kidney Remedy.

44 Woolfrey Ave., Toronto
March 21st, 1909.

"While engaged as assistant at Sterling Mines, Gray's Siding, Ont., I became familiar with the merits of Gin Pills.

On leaving Toronto, I left my wife (aged 51) and my daughter (aged 21) in poor health. The former had tried all sorts of remedies for her ailment—Middle Age or Change of Life. The joints in her hands were badly swollen and she suffered much pain.

It occurred to me that Gin Pills would help her and so advised her. This was a happy thought, for my wife wrote back to say she was trying Gin Pills.

Her next letter said that the pills were doing her good, and the second, that the swollen joints were fast disappearing. Also, her general health and color was vastly improved. Now, she cannot say too much in favor of Gin Pills. My daughter has also derived much benefit from their use." WM. B. CRAIG.

Simply write to the National Drug & Chemical Co. Dept. B. Toronto, and a free sample will be sent you. When Gin Pills have proved their great value, get them at your dealer—50c a box, 6 for $2.50.

That strong Government, that theocracy to which every knee must bow and every tongue confess to the glory of God, is the Kingdom that the world needs. Its rule of righteousness alone will bring to mankind the joy and peace and blessing which all crave, but which none of us are wise enough to know how to bring about—not even our socialist friends. The part of faith and the part of wisdom is to look unto the Lord from whom cometh our help. Nor should we look to him to approve our methods, but rather to be informed respecting his methods and to approve them and to co-operate to the extent of our abilities.

At a church congress recently held in Boston a day was given to the discussion of Christian Socialism. Both sides of the question were permitted to be presented. One minister, Rev. Eliot White, is reported in The Christian Socialist as having made the following statement:

"Let us answer, 'Hasten the day when Labor, united, shall shake off its chains!' Our part as Christians is to help men out of every bondage! We are not perturbed that Socialism, in its eagerness to rid Labor of material bonds, has not yet realized the weight of bonds spiritual. That realization will come in good time, and Christianity must be ready to show the workers of the world how to be rid of all those fetters of the soul which material emancipation will but render more apparent. But for Christianity, as too often now, to profess desire to free men of spiritual bondage, while repudiating any call or need to strike fearless blows at their material prison bars, is to lay itself open to justifiable charges of hypocrisy. This must yield to braver counsels, though the striving be even unto blood against the sin of slavery which still defiles modern industrialism.

"With widest meaning, then—inclusive of all that the most ardent and uncompromising Socialist lover of liberty has demanded, and embracing besides all that the Christian means when he proclaims the glory of spiritual freedom, Christianity must now take up the challenge and cry with world-wide voice like the sound of many waters and a mighty thunder—'Amen! even so, unite, ye workers; you have but your chains to lose, and you have a world to gain!'"

Brother White and the other dear souls who propose to get Labor out of the "slavery of modern industrialism" should be willing to concede that if now is the proper time for it, God is as much interested in that release as they or we or others could possibly be—yea, much more so. If, then, Brother White and others have receive some special commission authorizing them to preach a new Gospel or a new edition to the old Gospel they should produce the proofs of this authorization. Until we see the proofs we must doubt their existence.

On the contrary, the Scriptures declare that there is but the one hope set before us in the Gospel, even as there is but the one Lord, the one Faith and the one Baptism. Brother White and his coadjutors have not succeeded and will not succeed in making the world more happy by preaching to them the Gospel of discontent. Labor to-day is a hundredfold better fed, better clothed and better housed than in the days of Brother White's grandfather, and it is safe to say that it is a hundredfold more discontented. And Brother White, with doubtless the very best and noblest of intentions, neglecting the Word of God, the "wisdom that cometh from above" (James iii, 17), is really doing injury by his gospel of socialism. Our Lord was surrounded by conditions of sickness, sorrow, poverty, etc., so that he could properly declare, "The poor ye have always with you" (Matthew xxvi. 11). The apostles were similarly situated. Yet have we any evidence whatever that any of these attempted to break the chains of the "slavery of Labor?" Most assuredly not.

While our Lord went about doing good, and healed many of the sick, he by no means healed all of the sick nor comforted all the mourning ones. His favors were specialized, as in the case of the impotent man at Bethesda. "There were multitudes of impotent folks there" (John v, 3). But only the one was miraculously healed by our Lord's Word. Many widows were bereft of their sons, but only the widow of Nain had her son restored to her by the all-powerful Word of our Saviour. He came not into the world to heal the sick, but to die for the world as its Redeemer. He left the great work, the important work of healing all the sick—the mentally, morally and physically sick, and of awakening all the dead, until the establishment of his Millennial Kingdom.

We likewise may do good unto all men as we have opportunity and especially to the "household of faith." But we likewise must wait for God's time and manner for the general healing of the world's sorrows and troubles. When in fulfillment of the prayer our Lord taught us, God's Kingdom shall come and his will be done on earth as it is done in heaven, then all the blessing, all the helpfulness necessary to the full recovery of our race will be brought into operation. And it is not possible for any man or set of men, Christians or otherwise, either to improve upon God's great Plan of the Ages nor to hasten his Plan.

Is it urged that the early Church at its beginning established a communistic society? We answer that this was not a worldly establishment, nor with those who recognized worldly principles. It was merely a social arrangement whereby the Church at Jerusalem only sought to deal with each other as one family. It was not successful. It did not persist. It did not have apostolic commendation to other Churches. We may suppose, therefore, that the arrangement was Divinely permitted so as to show the Lord's people throughout the age the impracticability of such an arrangement at the present time.

Brother White and others would probably tell us that socialists are crying out that heavenly hopes are not satisfactory—that what they want is earthly riches and comforts and that these they intend to have; and that what the people want is what the pulpit must supply—otherwise the influence of religion will wane in the world and its ministers will become back numbers, whom no one will care to hear or heed.

We answer that this is all very true, but that the difficulty lies in the fact that the Gospel message is not properly presented to the people. The message which our Lord and the apostles presented is a consistent one, whereas the message from the majority of pulpits to-day is an inconsistent one. The people are told, by both Catholics and Protestants, that there is a heaven for the saintly who before dying shall become firmly established in the graces of the holy Spirit. As for the masses, they are told by Catholics that they must expect centuries of torment to be prepared for them. And by Protestants they are told that they will have an eternity of torment without hope of a release. And then both Catholics and Protestants unite in telling the poor world that such an arrangement for the future is the provision of a just and loving God, for which they should be deeply thankful, and that the troubles of this present life are partial penances for sin.

The Truth is so much more reasonable, so much more just, so much more wise and loving, that to every ear that hears it there comes a satisfaction, a harmony, which error could never produce. God's Word tells us that our race is a convict race—condemned to death because of father Adam's disobedience—because, as his children, we have inherited a share in his death sentence—not an eternal torment sentence. The Bible tells that Satan, who misled our first parents by misrepresenting God and his Word, has since misrepresented him to mankind and that he it is who is responsible for the "doctrine of devils" (I. Timothy iv, 1), respecting the tortures of the dead, whom the Scriptures declare "know not anything" (Ecclesiastes ix, 5). The Bible tells us that God, seeing that many of our race dying because of Adam's transgression, would be glad to return to fellowship with their Creator, and to be recovered from sin and death conditions, has made a provision for them. Our Lord Jesus by his death purchased the lives and liberties of Adam and his entire race. He died, "the Just for the unjust, that he might bring us back to God" (I. Peter iii, 18).

But why must we wait? Why must we pray, Thy Kingdom come? Why the delay? The Bible answers again that the Kingdom class must first be found—"the little flock" to whom it is the Father's good pleasure to give the Kingdom (Luke xii, 32). This Kingdom class is to be composed of the saintly few who form positive characters for righteousness by faithfully following in the footsteps of their Redeemer; by being taught of him in the School of Christ. These faithful few of present selection, or election, are symbolically spoken of as the "members of the Body of Christ," which is the church of glory; and again, as members of the Body of Christ, his Joint-Heirs in his Kingdom. The Kingdom will not be established until this elect Kingdom class is completed. Those must share in the sufferings of Christ and then the glory will immediately follow.

The Lord declares that the desire of all peoples shall come. The people of the world in general would desire the coming of the Lord's glorious Kingdom and would rejoice in it, if they knew about it. The Divine provision would satisfy their longings as nothing else could do. Brother White and all ministers of God should hold up before them the glorious message of the Divine Word. This would bring them joy and peace and rest of heart, notwithstanding the incidental trials and difficulties and weaknesses of this present time of distress. Socialism stirs up the minds of men to dissatisfaction and to worry and to fear and to strife, and leads them on and on into the great time of anarchist trouble. The Gospel message, on the contrary, would be helpful, comforting, sustaining.

True it is not all men who are able to receive the Gospel message; but those who cannot receive it would be far better off without the distracting Gospel of socialism, which merely arouses them to greater dissatisfaction. The Bible tells that in mercy God has hidden his Plan from the world and intends that only the saintly believers in the Lord Jesus Christ shall understand the secrets of it. "The secret of the Lord is with them that reverence him and he will show them his Covenant" (Psalm xxv, 14).

So then the work of the Christian ministers as Divinely appointed is to let the world alone to be dealt with in God's due time, and to comfort and sustain and instruct merely those whom they find to have the hearing ear of faith. These are to know the Truth and the Truth must make them free from errors and superstitions and bring them to the place of full consecration to God—sanctification. Such are to be informed respecting the Kingdom of which they are invited to become members, by becoming members of the Body of Christ through faith, consecration and obedience unto death. The world in due time will have the good blessing which God intends for it.

Socialism amongst men will be the Divine arrangement following the Millennial Age—following the lifting up of the race to perfection by the Redeemer—King. Then socialism will be a grand success, because of the perfection of all mankind then living, the unworthy having all been cut off in the Second Death.

MISS LAVINIA'S LOVER

The Result of the Search For the Man Who Went Away.

By VIRGINIA BLAIR.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

"Well, of course," Miss Lavinia confided, "I am glad to have it, but it's unsettling."

Mrs. Briggs sniffed. "It wouldn't unsettle me if any one left me $10,000. I would know what to do with it."

"Oh, well," Mrs. Briggs hesitated. "I'd get some new clothes right away and fix up the house, and entertain my friends, and take a trip and have an automobile"—

"I have thought of those things, but they don't seem to be just what I want, after all. Maybe I'll just put it out at interest."

"Now, look here, Lavinia Latimer," Mrs. Briggs said solemnly, "don't you do any such thing. You've got enough to live on, such as it is, and my advice is to take some of the money and have a good time. Goodness only knows you haven't had many good times."

"No, I haven't," Miss Lavinia admitted somewhat wistfully. "Well, I'll think it over, Jane."

And after Mrs. Briggs had gone Miss Lavinia picked up her big yellow cat and told him her innermost wish. "I'm going to use some of that money to find out where John Forbes is," she whispered, "but I wouldn't tell Jane."

But to look for the man who had left town ten years ago was not an easy matter. And Lavinia Latimer was not wise in methods. But she wanted to know the fate of her old lover, and so it happened that ten days after her talk with Jane Briggs, Miss Lavinia went to town.

"I'm going to buy clothes," was the reason she gave, but when she came to the big town it was not to the stores that she made her way, but to a dusty, musty little office in a squalid street.

"McDermott, private detective," said the sign.

Miss Lavinia was all pink and white and pretty as she stated her case. But Mr. McDermott set her at once at her ease. He was a brisk little man with curly white hair and red cheeks.

"So you want to find John Forbes," he said. "Is he a relative?"

"Oh, no!" And Miss Lavinia blushed.

"Owe you any money?" McDermott demanded.

"Oh, no, no!" Miss Latimer cried distressfully. "We were engaged fifteen years ago, and I couldn't marry him, because I had to stay with my old father and mother—and he—he went away—and I promised that when I was free I would let him know."

"Oh!" McDermott ejaculated, and after a pause, "Were you expecting to find him still single?"

"I—I'm not sure."

McDermott tugged at his mustache. "The chances are that he'll be married."

"Of course," Miss Lavinia agreed, "but I should like to be sure."

"Surely," said McDermott. "You just let me have the case, and I'll bring you news of John Forbes before you know it."

McDermott reported regularly once a week by letter to Miss Lavinia and as regularly received her answers.

Miss Lavinia wrote on pale violet paper that gave forth a perfume of fresh flowers in the stuffy little office. McDermott found himself laying those letters in a little drawer by themselves, and one day in early spring, when he had traveled out into the country on a case, he spied some violets by the wayside. He picked them and brought them home and laid them with the letters in the drawer.

McDermott had money of his own, so that Miss Lavinia's little fortune had no charms for him, but the thought of her delicate presence in his home often came to him with a sense of irresistible attraction.

"But if she finds John Forbes single she will marry him," he would say with a sigh, and the temptation to overlook clews was great.

In June he called on her and found her in her garden with a little low table in front of her on which was set forth a lemonade service. Miss Lavinia was in pale mauve with a hat wreathed with violets. "When you wrote you were coming," she said to McDermott, "I thought you would enjoy it better here in the garden—it's cooler."

"Well, if you knew what a nice change it was from that office in town," sighed the little man.

After that he came often, and gradually it began to be rumored in the town that Miss Lavinia was "keeping company" with a man from the city.

"Well, I must say that I like his looks," Mrs. Briggs told Miss Lavinia when she came over one morning after McDermott had called.

"He is just a business acquaintance," Miss Lavinia protested.

Mrs. Briggs sniffed. "I guess you wouldn't be dressing up in those pretty clothes and waving your hair just for a business man."

Miss Lavinia blushed and sighed. "You don't know how many things I have to look after since I got my money."

To tell the truth, the search for John Forbes began to weigh on her. She realized that with the coming of John Forbes would end the visits of John McDermott.

McDermott continued doggedly with his search. He didn't want to find John Forbes, or if he did find him he hoped that he would be married. But if Lavinia Latimer wanted anything, she should have it.

And as all things must have an end, the time came when John Forbes was located in a small western town.

"It's your John Forbes, all right," McDermott wrote to Miss Lavinia. "He was born in your town and everything tallies. But I don't know whether he is married. I'll find out. I leave on Monday for the west."

"Please," Miss Lavinia wrote back, "don't look him up. Come out and see me before you go—to supper Sunday night, if you will.

It was the first time that she had invited him to a meal, and her preparations were beyond the ordinary. She had in her days of prosperity hired a competent maid, and they brought out the silver and glass, and when McDermott sat down in the dim, fragrant dining room the feast that was set before him on the old mahogany was of broiled chicken and salad and delicate biscuits and strawberries and cream and cottage cheese and all the wonderful gastronomic triumphs of Maryland cooks.

And when he had finished he sat with Miss Lavinia on the front porch.

"I want to ask you a somewhat delicate question," he said, out of the silence of the dusk. "If I find John Forbes is single, what am I to do about it?"

"I don't know," Miss Lavinia faltered.

McDermott hitched his chair forward slightly.

"You love him very much?" he asked suddenly.

"I'm not sure," Miss Lavinia murmured in the darkness.

"Well, there's one thing I would like to say right here," the little man stated. "I wish to withdraw from the case, Miss Lavinia."

"Oh," she gasped, "but I can't do without you!"

"Can't you?" he cried radiantly. "Do you mean that you could love me? I've wanted to tell you how much I loved you for a long time—only there was John Forbes"—

"Oh, I didn't dream"— Miss Lavinia fluttered.

"It's more than human nature can stand," McDermott went on, "to expect a man who loves you to go and bring back another man to marry you."

"Yes," she agreed timidly, "it is. I—I think if you wish it—we will drop the case of John Forbes, Mr. McDermott."

But McDermott didn't drop the case. He went west and looked up the old lover and found him neither single nor married nor dead. But he was divorced and of doubtful reputation.

"He isn't worth another thought," McDermott said hotly when he came back. "And I'm not saying that because I'm prejudiced, either."

"Well, it relieves my mind to know," the lady confessed, "and, anyhow, if I hadn't tried to find him I wouldn't have met you—and"—

"You have promised to marry me in October," said her lover triumphantly, "so who cares for John Forbes or any other man—when you are going to be Mrs. McDermott?"

Remarkable Power.

A dear old lady was taken one day to a musical service in a Boston church. She had heard much about the fine voice of the soprano and was prepared for a treat.

She sat in rapt enjoyment until the service was over and then turned a radiant face toward her escort, who was a young grandson.

"Dear boy," she said, "you've given me a great treat. Her voice is perfectly beautiful. It made cold chills run all up and down my spine."

"It's too bad, grandmamma," said the boy, "but she didn't sing today, though she was there. The gentleman next me says she's been suffering from a bad cold, and one of the chorus had to sing the solos for her."

"What, dear?" said the old lady, looking momentarily distressed. Then her face cleared, and she patted his arm reassuringly.

"Never you mind," she said. "We can come again some time. But, after all, if she can make me feel that way without singing I don't know that it would be wise for me to hear her. Now, would it?"—Youth's Companion.

She Gave Herself Away.

Judge Davis was one day in his private office when he was president of the senate and acting vice president. A woman came into the room to see him. He turned and said, "Well, madam, what can I do for you?" She was neatly dressed in black, with an air of extreme poverty. She told a wretched tale of sorrow and suffering, winding up with the climax that she and her little family were actually starving and had not tasted food for two days. The judge seemed deeply moved. He excused himself for not attending to the case for the moment, as the senate was nearly ready to open. He looked at his watch with an air of vexation, as if it were not going, and said, "Can any one tell me what time it is?" His visitor pulled out a gold watch and told him the time. The judge said, "Can it be true that your children have been without food for two days when you have a gold watch in the house?" The woman saw the point of the judge's question and called out, "You are a tactful old thing!" and bounced out of the room. She was a professional beggar.

FRAUD BY TELEGRAPH

Bold Swindles Perpetrated by Use of the Wire.

THE WAY A BANK WAS FOOLED

A Lot of Nerve and a Little Telegram That Was Properly Delivered by One of the Company's Messenger Boys Made a Winning Combination.

Ninety-nine men out of a hundred will accept as gospel truth the contents of a telegram when it comes from the hands of a messenger boy. They buy and sell, pay out large sums of money, start on long journeys and do countless other things upon the suggestion of the little yellow or white paper slips with their condensed messages without in the least questioning their authenticity. This is an interesting fact, upon which hinges an enormous amount of the country's business, and it is also a fact upon which hinge some of the cleverest and boldest frauds in criminal records.

A lot of nerve and a little telegram was a combination that made possible a smooth swindle on a Des Moines bank. A well dressed man, apparently a business man of large affairs, called at the paying teller's window with a draft or check on an Omaha bank and asked if the Omaha bank had telegraphed notice that the draft was good. He got "no" for an answer and then informed the teller that such a telegram might be expected at any moment. Soon afterward the telegram arrived, delivered by a messenger boy, appearing to have come from the Omaha bank and authorizing the Des Moines bank to pay the draft. When the stranger appeared again he was given the $500. When the Des Moines bank people took up the matter by wire with the Omaha bank it found that the latter institution had not sent the telegram, and then it was discovered that the whole transaction was a fraud.

But how could the swindlers send a telegram from Omaha bearing the bank's name? They did it in this manner: An accomplice of the Des Moines man stepped to a telephone booth in Omaha and called the telegraph office. "This is the —— bank," he said. "Send a messenger at once to get a telegram for Des Moines." Then this accomplice hurried to the entrance of the Omaha bank to meet the messenger and there handed him the message for Des Moines. The telegraph company had no reason to believe otherwise than that the bank had actually signed the message, and it transmitted it. The Des Moines bank also accepted the telegram as genuine because it bore every mark of genuineness, and it paid out the money to the swindlers, who timed their fraud so that they got out of reach of the law on trains that left immediately after their game had been worked.

In two smaller western towns a similar game was worked, only for seven or eight times the amount. An alleged horse buyer appeared in one of the towns and made purchase of a carload of fine animals to be delivered and paid for at a later day, preceding which he made the acquaintance of the officers of one of the banks. On the day fixed for the delivery of the horses the alleged buyer deposited in the bank a draft for a large amount drawn on a bank in another town a hundred miles away. At the same time the bank received a telegram purporting to come from the distant bank authorizing the payment of this draft. The bank believed the telegram, paid out the money and then discovered that the telegram was fraudulent. It had not been sent by the second bank, but by a confederate of the alleged horse buyer. Later developments disclosed that this accomplice had called up the telegraph office in the distant town by telephone. "This is ——, cashier of the —— bank," he said. "Please send this telegram for me." Then he gave the message authorizing the first bank to pay the bogus draft, and this message the telegraph company sent without suspecting that it was fraudulent.

Some years ago an eastern man was induced to invest in worthless mining stock on the basis of a fraudulent telegram purporting to come from an expert he had sent out to investigate the mining property, but which was in reality sent in a manner similar to the above by a confederate. This eastern man's faith in telegrams cost him something more than $10,000.

The story of a fraud with an amusing side comes from across the water, with a London man of rather convivial habits as the victim. This man was forgetful and used to leave at home his office and safe keys. He also had a practice of leaving the city surreptitiously for a day now and then for a convivial time with friends, all unknown to his wife. One day this business man went on one of his periodical jaunts, and a rogue who knew his habits ventured to send this telegram to his wife: "Please send my keys. Love. Freddy." In due course of time the keys were delivered at the office door, and the rogue was there to receive them. He ransacked the whole office at his leisure, safe and all. Late that night the business man came home and was teased by his wife for his forgetfulness. This was news to him, but he kept his counsel. The next morning he discovered that his office had been robbed.—B. K. Maan in Pittsburg Dispatch.

MAN IN ISOLATION.

He Is of Little Consequence and Is a Barrier to Progress.

It is not an easy thing for a man to separate himself from the thought and activity and purpose of the community in which he lives and to pursue an isolated, disconnected and selfish part. He can't do it, indeed, and if he tries it he will only reduce himself to a cipher or stumbling block. The community will get on somehow, for it must, but if it has many members of this kind it will be dull, heavy and unprogressive.

Man in isolation is of little consequence, next to nothing. His association with others, the inspiration he receives from others, draw out his own powers. "The state," to this day, as Plato conceived it, remains "a product of mind." Out of the action and interaction of currents of mind, affected and even directed by variant views or opinions, comes the whole progress of man, of society, of the human race. We want what Burke described as "that action and counteraction which in the natural and political world, from the reciprocal struggle of discordant powers, draw out the harmony of the universe."

The most isolated man cannot separate himself from the situation he lives in. If such isolation were general or could be general it would be the negation of civilization.—Portland Oregonian.

NOISES IN VENICE.

The Way They Crash Upon the Normal Quiet of the City.

With all the water traffic and with not a horse or a cab or a wagon to wake the echoes, the utter silence of Venice is the thing that first impresses the traveler. Yet because there is no undertone of city noises in which occasional noises may merge the Grand canal at Venice seems to the sleeper at night the noisiest place in the world, for every little noise crashes into one's sleep, and the most wakeful hours of our six weeks in Italy were spent on the Grand canal in Venice. The bells of the churches probably do not ring louder nor more frequently than they ring in other cities, yet because Venice is so still these bells clang through the night like the alarm of a continuous and ever increasing fire. The bawl of a lovelorn human calf carrying home three drinks and a throbbing heart, a noise that may be heard by the attentive listener any place on earth after 11 o'clock, in Venice becomes insistent and demoniacal. The common quarrel in the street enters the bedroom at night with nerve racking distinctness, and the morning song of the market gardener bringing his wares to town in his silent boat smites the sleeper's ears like a call to arms. If Macbeth really did murder sleep, the crime was done in Venice.

There are, of course, considerable acres in Venice—islands—where the streets are paved and where commerce goes on in the ordinary way, except that there are no horses or carriages in the narrow ways.—William Allen White in Emporia Gazette.

QUEER BURIALS.

Uncouth Methods of the Nomads of Queensland.

Of all the modes of burial ever practiced by creatures in the shape of human beings the method of the Queensland nomads is certainly the most uncouth. After drying the corpse in the sun and knocking out its teeth for keepsakes they deposit it on a framework of rough poles and bury it under a few armfuls of rushes and old kangaroo skins, leaving the bush wolves to sing its requiem.

No member of the dead man's tribe will settle within a mile of his grave for fear of being haunted by the spooks making the burial place their midnight rendezvous. The metaphysical opinions of the Australian aborigines prove indeed that savages can be afflicted with an abundance of supernaturalism without betraying a trace of anything deserving the name of religious sentiment.

They believe in evil spirits whistling in the blasts of the storm wind and try to exorcise them by spitting in the direction of the sky, but for the conceptions of the Deity, of future existence, of repentance, atonement and consolation their language has not even a definite word. From somewhere in the land of their forefathers—eastern Asia perhaps—they have imported a notion faintly resembling the Buddhist doctrine of metempsychosis and believe that animals may be reborn as men and men as human beings of a superior rank.—London Answers.

Not So Bad as It Sounded.

In a downtown cafe two old college friends met by chance. They had not met before in several years and were properly delighted. In the course of conversation one, who had been long absent from town, bethought him of a mutual friend.

"Tell me," said he, "how I can reach Jim. I'd like to look him up tonight."

"My boy," said the other, "if you want to reach Jim you'll have to telephone to ——, an undertaker on Sixth avenue."

"What! You shock me. Jim dead! I —I am sorry indeed to hear it."

"Dead? Who said he was dead. He's a friend of the undertaker and has rooms near by. He has no telephone, but has an arrangement for using the undertaker's, as the place is open at all hours. Just telephone the undertaker, and the message will be carried around to Jim."

Tape Over a Soldier's Grave.

The custom of sounding taps over a soldier's grave originated with the late Captain John C. Tidball, U. S. A. On the retirement from the peninsula in August, 1862, Horse Battery A, Second artillery, was serving with the rear guard, and on reaching Yorktown one of the cannoneers died and was buried there. Not wishing to stir up the enemy by firing three rounds from the battery guns, as was customary, Captain Tidball substituted the sounding of taps, lights out, which impressive ceremony has since been observed at all military funerals at the close of the services.—Argonaut.

Barring the Party.

"Pray, Mr. Canning," said a lady to the English statesman, "why have they made the space in the iron gates at Spring gardens so narrow?"

"Oh, ma'am," replied Canning, with the delightful absurdity for which he was famous, "because such very fat people used to go through."

A Social Botanist.

Guest—He seems a very nice young man. What's his profession? Hostess—He's a social botanist. Guest—And what is that, pray? Hostess—Oh, we invite him especially to give attention to our wallflowers.

The Moisture.

"Does your wife cry when she gets angry?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton. "It isn't the heat of her temper that distresses me so much as the humidity."—Washington Star.

SUBMARINE RIVERS.

Cold Water Currents Flowing Along the Deep Sea Bottom.

The bottom currents of seas and oceans, such as those which possibly bring amber to our shores, are strangely disposed. The seigneur of Sark some fifty years ago was shipwrecked in his yacht near the island of Guernsey. He lost, among other things, a well fastened, strongly made chest containing silver plate. It was found a year later in deep water off the coast of Norway and restored to him.

In the really deep sea over a thousand fathoms down there are well marked broad currents which may be described as rivers of very cold water (only 4 degrees or so above freezing point). They flow along the deep sea bottom and are sharply marked off from the warmer waters above and to the side. Their inhabitants are different from those of the warmer water. They are due to the melting of the polar ice, the cold water so formed sinking at once owing to its greater density below the warmer water of the surface currents.

These deep currents originate in both the arctic and antarctic regions.—Sir Ray Lankester in London Telegraph.

THE BLUE WHALE.

A Monster Skeleton That Is Eighty-seven Feet in Length.

What is claimed as the largest animal in the world is represented by a colossal skeleton in the museum of Christchurch, New Zealand, says the London Globe. This is the remains of a large specimen of the blue whale stranded on the coast of that country. This whale is probably the largest of all living animals. The length of the skeleton is eighty-seven feet, and the head alone is twenty-one feet. The weight of the bones is estimated at nine tons. This gigantic whale gets its name of blue whale from the dark bluish gray of its upper surface. The tinge of yellow on its lower part has led to the name "sulphur bottom," by which it is known on the western side of the Atlantic. It is otherwise known as Sibbald's rorqual (Balenoptera sibbaldii).

The chief food of this gigantic animal is a small marine crustacea (Thysanopoda inermis), known to the whales as "krill." Another species of the same shrimplike group has been obtained in thousands from the stomachs of mackerel caught on the Cornish coast. The nearly related opossum shrimps found in enormous numbers in the Greenland seas form the chief food of the common whale. Some of the thysanopodae are phosphorescent and contribute to the luminosity of the sea.

After the Show.

A well dressed man, said to be a Englishman, has been arrested in Montmartre, Paris, on a charge of tendering bad half sovereigns for dinner and entertainments, which reminds us of the story about the touring company which has been doing very bad business in "the smalls." While the proprietor and sole responsible manager was standing outside the temporary theater (the Corn Exchange) a very small boy with a very large melon arrived and proposed to barter the fruit for a seat in the gallery. The bargain was duly concluded, and the scene now changes to the interior of the theater after the performance. "Boy," says the manager hovering; "that melon was rotten." "That's all right," returns the youthful critic; "it was yer show."—London Globe.

Difference in Time.

When it is noon at any given place it is similarly noon at all other points having the same longitudinal meridian and the sun is in its zenith when meridian and equator intersect.

For business convenience every fifteen degrees of longitude evenly divided from Greenwich has the same time, being the distance that the earth travels in one hour. In the United States we have eastern, central, mountain and Pacific time. Thus when it is noon at New York it is 11 a. m. at Chicago, central time; 10 a. m. at Denver, mountain time, and 9 a. m. at San Francisco, Pacific time.

A Famous Ink.

A famous ink long used in Germany was made of a combination of chromate of potash with a solution of logwood in the proportions of one part of the former to a thousand parts of the latter.

Horseshoe Graves.

The horseshoe in China as well as in other countries is looked upon as a harbinger of good luck. For that reason Chinese mandarins when buried have horseshoe graves.

Corks.

It is a good plan to keep on hand a supply of corks in assorted sizes. Twenty-five cents' worth will often last a year or more, and much time and trouble as well as food material will be saved. Corks have a way of disappearing from vinegar and molasses jugs on their journeys to and from the grocer's, and in opening bottles containing condiments and liquids the corkscrew often tears the cork to pieces.

If You Rid Poisons
FROM THE BLOOD

By awakening the liver and kidneys, you will be freed of pains, aches and the tired spring feeling.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood. Pains and aches have the same cause.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood when the liver and kidneys get torpid and slow in action and when, as a result, the bowels become constipated.

Get the liver and kidneys working right and away go the poisons. That is their work, to rid the blood of poisons.

When they fail because of the excessive accumulation of poisons in the spring, use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they will soon resume their natural functions with renewed energy and vigour.

No other organs of the body can filter the poisons from the blood so you must get the liver and kidneys active if you are going to restore healthful digestion, regular bowel action and free the body of pains, aches and feelings of fatigue and depressing.

It is only natural that the liver and kidneys should give out in the spring, when the blood is usually loaded with impurities, but you can quickly and certainly set them right by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This is the greatest of spring medicines because it is unique in its direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys.

Put it to the test this spring, and you will be astonished at its wonderful prompt and thorough action on the digestive and excretory systems. You can be certain that it will move the bowels, awaken the action of the liver and kidneys and completely purify the blood. GRAND RALLY

BOYS

THE

EXAMINER

WE WONDER if it ever occurred to the boys of Peterborough that the selling of papers was a stepping-stone to a successful business career in future years.

DO they recognize the fact that this little business offers them an opportunity to

MAKE

100 Per Cent ?

or in other words, to double the money invested in selling the EXAMINER to transient buyers.

BOYS buy the EXAMINER at one cent each and sell it for two cents each ; or in the case of weekly patrons, they pay six cents per week and receive ten cents from the subscriber, thus making a profit of 62 2-3 per cent.

DO you know of any business in the city that pays such profits with as little chance for bad debts ?

IT only requires a Boy to HUSTLE, the same thing that is required when he gets into a bigger business world.

OF course we do not mean to say that the Boy, to become a successful business man, must be a newsboy, but we do say that the successful newsboy has gained an experience that is of much service to him in after years.

MONEY IN NEWSPAPER ROUTES.

Another boy was only thirteen when his father died, leaving two hundred dollars insurance, a widow and four younger children. The insurance money was loaned out to a neighbour at six per cent., as a sort of reserve fund, and while the widow did plain sewing, the boy carried newspapers morning and evening. After three months' experience with this work he borrowed twenty-five dollars and purchased the smallest newspaper route in town. Vigorous canvassing for new customers made that route so productive that in six months he paid back the loan. The lender offered another loan of fifty dollars, which the boy took, buying two more routes. These were covered by boys hired to do the work, however, because he felt that all his energy must go into the original route, so that he would at least be certain of good returns from that. Principles of management learned by this plan made him so successful that in less than five years he owned every newspaper route in his town. His mother's two hundred dollars was still intact, and his brothers and sisters going to school. A legacy of two hundred dollars fell to the family. This, with the original two hundred dollars and another hundred the boy had saved, was paid on a home costing twenty-eight hundred dollars, the balance to be cleared off at the rate of twenty-five dollars a month. Three furnished rooms were rented at a total of about twenty-two dollars monthly, and this money, it was agreed, should never be spent. Newspaper routes, odd jobs and the mother's contributions kept the family and paid the instalments. In four years the income from furnished rooms, put away in the bank, grew to more than one thousand dollars. The mortgage was finally cleared off, and the boy, now nearly twenty-one years old, started to get an education at the high school.

THERE are a number of Boys in Peterborough making four and five dollars per week, not necessarily all selling the Examiner, but some easily make three dollars per week selling the Examiner exclusively.

Get in the game. It won't hurt you, but will give you a right start. You will have money of your own to save or buy useful needs with.

LOSS TWO MILLIONS.

Damage at Quebec Greater Than First Estimate.

Quebec, Oct. 19.—The destruction of property by the big fire that occurred in this city on Saturday night last is much more serious than at first supposed. The losses, it is said, will reach the two-million-dollar mark, and the total insurance is five hundred thousand dollars. The Board of Harbor Commissioners held a meeting yesterday and decided to rebuild their freight sheds at once on fireproof lines.

During the fire small boats from certain sections of the city landed men at Point a'Carcy wharf, who broke into the cold-storage warehouses and simply filled their boats with provisions and liquors, which they carried away.

The debris is still burning and ten streams of water are playing on the ruins, together with the aid of the Davies wrecking steamer Stratheona, which is moored to the Point a'Carcy wharf and throwing water from her powerful pumps upon the burning ruins to save the wooden wharves. The amount of provisions awaiting shipment in the cold-storage was very large. Mr. R. F. Cream, a local commission merchant, had twenty thousand dollars' worth of pork destroyed, which was all for shipment, and yesterday he telegraphed to every market centre to obtain pork to fill his orders, but failed.

Fire Apparatus.

Quebec, Oct. 19.—At the coroner's inquest held yesterday morning on the remains of Fireman Jeremie Fortin, killed at the burning of the custom house Saturday night, a verdict was rendered that death was caused by a fracture of the base of the skull, due to a fall from a ladder.

The jury added that they were of the strong opinion that the fall was due to the fact that the extension ladder was badly mounted, and that the organization for the handling of these ladders was defective.

Moulders In Fight.

Hamilton, Oct. 19.—There was a pitched battle last evening about six o'clock at the corner of King William and John streets, between union and non-union moulders. One of the non-union men was carried off with a big gash in his head, caused by a brick, and several others were injured. Warrants have been sworn out for a number of those implicated, but no arrests have been made yet.

The trouble started early in the year when the union men refused to submit to a cut in their wages. After a lot of negotiations the men were locked out, and all the stove founders started to open shops, importing some non-union men. They have been able to keep their plants going, and it looks as if the union had been beaten in the fight. Some of them have joined forces and have started a foundry of their own.

Scottish Rite Masons Meet.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Attended by the three masons of the highest standing in all America, the biennial meeting of the supreme council of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, southern jurisdiction of the United States, assembled here yesterday. Sovereign Grand Commander James D. Richardson of the southern jurisdiction called the meeting to order, there being present, among others, Dr. J. M. Gibson., sovereign grand commander of the supreme council of Canada, and Gen. Samuel Crocker Lawrence, sovereign grand commander of the northern jurisdiction.

The allocution of Grand Commander Richardson announced an increase of about 33 per cent. in the total membership of the order for the southern jurisdiction, the number of members who received the 32nd degree being 35,005, compared with 27,105 two years ago. It was announced that the next international conference would be held in this city, probably in 1912. About 40 candidates were given the Royal Order of Scotland degree last night. This degree is conferred only upon 32 and 33rd degree Masons.

Infringed Seed Regulations.

Meaford, Oct. 19.—As a result of an information laid by T. G. Raynor, a seed inspector employed by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the firm of Stephens Bros., seed merchants, were fined for contravention of the seeds laws. The information was first laid against John Reynolds of Reynolds & Co., Manitowaning, Manitoulin Island, who had red clover seed, a sample of which showed 12 noxious weeds to the thousand, while the limit is five. Reynolds pleaded that the seed had been furnished by the Stephens' firm.

Russell Fights Extradition.

Cleveland, Oct. 19.—The hearing of W. L. Russell, the extradition case of the Lima, Ohio, oil man, who is wanted in Toronto, Ont., on a charge of fraud, began before U. S. Commissioner Walther yesterday. Russell proposes to fight extradition proceedings, and has a number of friends here attending the sessions. Yesterday was devoted entirely to the reading of depositions bearing on the case. Commissioner Walther said the hearing would take up several days.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—U. S. Markets For Hogs Lower.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 84 carloads, consisting of 1640 cattle, 22 hogs, 769 sheep and lambs, and 23 calves.

Butchers.

There was a good demand for the best class of butchers, such as are taken for export on many occasions, but common and medium butchers were, if anything, easier, butchers having had a surfeit of this class during the past two or three weeks. Prime lots and loads sold from $5.25 to $5.45. Whaley and Coughlin having sold two loads at these prices; loads of good, $4.90 to $5.15; medium, $4.60 to $4.80; common, $3.75 to $4.25; cows, $3.50 to $4.15.

Feeders.

There was a good trade for feeders for the farm, as well as the distilleries, there being many buyers on the market. Steers, 850 to 1050 lbs. each, sold from $3.50 up to $4.50. Feeding bulls, 1100 to 1400 lbs. each, sold at $3 to $3.50.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number sold at $40 to $55 each.

Veal Calves.

Deliveries of veal calves were light and sold at $3 to $8.10 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts of sheep and lambs amounted to 769, all of which were sold, the bulk of them, 700, being bought by Wesley Dunn at fair prices. Export ewes sold at $3.50 to $3.90; rams, $3.50 to $3 per cwt.; lambs, at $6.25 to $6.75 per cwt.

Hogs.

Dealers report prices unchanged at $7.75 for selects, fed and watered, and $7.50, f. o.b., cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Oct. 18.—At the Montreal stock yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Oct. 16 were 2000 cattle, 3200 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 650 calves, while the supply for local consumption this morning amounted to 1275 cattle, 2700 sheep and lambs, 1175 hogs and 450 calves. There were no new developments in the market for cattle, except that a somewhat better feeling prevailed on account of the fact that supplies were over 300 head smaller than a week ago. The weather was cool and favorable for keeping stock, and the demand was good from both local and outside buyers, in consequence an active trade was done, and prices show no change, as compared with those of last Wednesday. Choice steers sold at 4¼c to 5c; good, at 4¼c to 4½c; fair, at 3¾c to 4c; medium, at 3½c to 3¾c; good bulls, at 3½c to 4c; canning bulls, at 2½c to 3c, and cows, at 1½c to 1¾c per lb.

Cable advices from Liverpool this morning stated that the weather was good, and that the trade in cattle was firm for best qualities. There has been no actual change in prices since this day week for American and Choice Canadian steers, but values for cows and heifers are ½c to ¾c per lb. higher. There was some enquiry from exporters here, but owing to the limited supply suitable stock offered for this branch of the trade little was done. The supply of sheep and lambs was very large, but as butchers generally were well cleaned out of stock, the demand was active and prices in consequence were maintained. Lambs sold at 5½c to 6¼c, and sheep, at 3½c to 3¾c per lb. Calves were scarce and prices rule firm, at $12 each, as to size and quality. The market for hogs was dull and weak, which was attributed to the fact that packers were well supplied for a few days, therefore they were indifferent and showed no disposition to operate. The bulk of the supply that came forward had been contracted for, consequently only a few lots were offered on the market for sale, for which $7 to $7.25 was bid for selected lots, while sellers asked $7.60 per cwt., weighed off the cars. One drover who came in last week with a double deck load for which $6.85 was bid and refused, ordered them to be slaughtered to-day and at the dressed price ruling he will lose considerable money.

Austria to Sell Radium.

Vienna, Oct. 19.—A certain amount of the 154 grains of radium chloride (equivalent to fifteen and one-half grains of pure radium), which represents the output of eighteen months from the works at St. Joachimsthal, in Bohemia, is to be put on the market by the Austrian Government. The Viennese hospitals and scientific institutions will first be supplied free of cost and the rest will be offered for sale at the price of $750,000 a gramme (15.4 grains).

The precious store, the largest quantity of radium that exists in one mass in the world, is at present in a burglar-proof safe at St. Joachimsthal, guarded day and night by armed watchmen. For conveyance to Vienna the radium will be placed in a lead capsule, and a number of responsible officials will have charge of the tiny parcel.

Dr. Jungman, the Viennese specialist for skin diseases, says that many marvelous cures have been effected in the hospitals here by means of radium. At the lupus hospital certain forms of cancer have, it is declared, been cured. The most disfiguring marks on the skin are removed, leaving not the slightest trace.

I shall call the President's attention to the 14th amendment of the constitution. The constitution says that only idiots, the insane and convicts may not vote, and I want to know if that bars women.

Something Better Now

There was a time when people were satisfied with any glasses with which they could read regardless of whether they were using one eye more than the other, knowing nothing of how the eyes were strained by wrong lens powers, and careless of the frame fitting the face. All this is changing now, a thorough examination by experienced men, lenses specially ground for each eye, and the neatest, most becoming mountings are now required by discriminating people who realize that no thing is too good for the eyes.

FOUR EYE WITNESSES TELL THE STORY OF THE FIGHT AT CHEMONG PARK ON AUG. 23

Fred and Harry Jopling Arraigned Before Chief Justice Falconbridge at the Assizes This Morning on a Charge of Manslaughter in Connection With the Death of Arthur Bollard---Grand Jury Returned a True Bill Against Them Yesterday.

VERY LITTLE NEW EVIDENCE WAS ADDUCED THIS MORNING

Four eye witnesses of the fight at Chemong Park on August 23, which the Crown is seeking to prove was responsible for the death of Arthur Bollard, of Toronto, on August 28, told the now familiar story of the trouble this morning when the trial of Fred and Harry Jopling charged with manslaughter in connection with Bollard's death, was commenced before Chief Justice Falconbridge. The Grand Jury returned a true bill against the prisoners yesterday afternoon, and they were arraigned this morning, pleading not guilty. They are being defended by Mr. D. O'Connell, while Crown Prosecutor Shirley Rennison of Toronto, is handling the case for the Crown.

Considerable interest is being taken in the case and there was a large attendance this morning.

Little new information was adduced in the examination of the witnesses so far heard, whose testimony adheres rigidly to that given at the Coroner's inquest and was not varied very much in cross examination. The medical testimony, which has not been touched upon yet is regarded as most important, and both sides have subpoenaed a number of local physicians to give evidence.

Mr. O'Connell, counsel for the prisoners, challenged half a dozen of the jurors called this mornig, but finally the following twelve were selected: Jas. Trotter, Mr. Breckenridge, John Coons, Peter Flood, John Bickle W. Miller, Edward Fitzpatrick, John Johnston, H. M. Fitzgerald, Potter, J. E. Middleton and E. J. Allen.

Crown Prosecutor Dennison in charging the jury, briefly outlined the points that the Crown intends to attempt to establish. He pointed out that it was not necessary that the prisoners should have been seeking to kill Bollard in order for them to be guilty of manslaughter, and then explained the circumstances briefly, after which the case for the Crown was commenced by the calling of Herbert Marks to the stand.

Marks, who was a friend of Bollard's, and his guest at Chemong Park at the time of the trouble, gave evidence on precisely the same lines as at the inquest. He told of the start of the trouble in the village on the morning of Aug. 23, when he and Bollard had met Harry Jopling in the village, and the latter had made remarks about Bollard's trousers, and called Bollard a name. He described going home with Miss Minns and Bollard on the night in question, and of the trouble which had taken place in which Harry Jopling and Bollard were engaged in, and in which Fred Jopling had taken a hand. Witness told of hearing Bollard then shout "Let go!" three times, and "Dirty!" twice. A wrestling match followed after. Bollard vomited and had to be helped home, and put to bed. Next day he complained several times at being all in, but went out sailing that afternoon, and on Wednesday, and danced on Wednesday night. On Thursday, however, he was so ill that a doctor had to be summoned. The witness was cross-examined at considerable length by Mr. O'Connell.

The counsel for the defence questioned the witness as to Bollard's habits and Marks testified that they were good. He admitted that the deceased smoked a pipe and had also smoked two boxes of cigarettes during the week he was with him at the park.

A new line was struck when Mr. O'Connell asked the witness if he and Bollard had had some apples on their sailing boat a day or two after the fight.

Marks testified that Bollard's sister had brought down some apples on the Wednesday after, two days before Bollard died, and that he and Bollard had eaten two of these. They were green apples.

Miss Ada Minns, who was with Bollard and his friend, Marks, on the night of the fight, told the story of leaving the pavilion with them to go home, and of hearing some people running down the road behind them. She had heard some one say: "Here he is" and Bollard had turned around and taken off his coat and said: "Yes, here I am," whereupon Harry Jopling had seized him. She corroborated Marks' story of the fight, and of hearing Bollard cry out "Let go," and "dirty," when Fred Jopling had hold of him.

Cross examined by Mr. O'Connell, Miss Minns said that one of the two who had come running down at them was Harry Jopling, but she could not say who the other was. It was not Fred Jopling.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Marks says that the other was Fred Jopling you say that?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"Yes, sir."

"You contradict Mr. Marks in that?"

"Yes, sir."

Miss Minns was asked if she had heard the evidence given by Fred Jopling at the inquest and if she had made any comment upon it. She stated that she had commented on one part of the testimony.

A Sensation.

Mr. O'Connell's next question caused a sensation.

"Did you say that it was a Gem lie?"

"No, I did not," replied the witness emphatically and indignantly.

"You had better be careful of your information," admonished Chief Justice Falconbridge, "before you insult the witness."

"I am a Crown witness," said Miss Minns, turning to the bench, "and I ask for the protection of the Court."

"You will get it, too," replied the Chief Justice.

Mr. O'Connell explained that he had been acting on information received from a brother of the prisoners and would not have asked the question otherwise.

"I have no doubt that you were acting on information," replied Chief Justice Falconbridge, "but she has denied it, anyway."

The point was allowed to drop and Miss Minns was dismissed.

Gordon Long and Charles Forsythe both of whom were examined at the Coroner's inquest, were called by the Crown, but little new evidence was adduced.

Long testified to seeing the fight and the wrestle that ensued and of helping to get Bollard home afterwards. He also told of being with Bollard on the night of the trouble and of the name Harry Jopling called him, which he had said he would not take from anyone.

Forsythe testified that he had heard Bollard say something about catching Harry down in the park on his rig, and also of him saying that there were too many around to fight there.

Bernard McManus, a new witness, was called just at 12 o'clock, but Chief Justice Falconbridge decided to adjourn until 1.15 o'clock, admonishing the jurors not to talk to any one, or allow any one to talk to them about the case.

In asking your gracious acceptance of the accompanying purses of gold, we do so, not from the standpoint of value but from the love that prompts the giving. THE WORLD'S FOREMOST INTERPRETER OF SONG

Mme. Blanche Marchesi, generally recognized as the world's foremost interpreter of song, will be heard in this city at an early date,, appearing in one of her delightful and famous song recitals in which she offers music-lovers the best fruits of her garden of song in a manner that has won for her the highest possible praise ever accorded any singer of this generation. As the gifted daughter of the world-renowned Mme. Mathilde Marchesi, of Paris, Mme. Marchesi has had exceptional opportunities for the cultivation of her voice No wonder then that one of Europe's foremost critics should address the young singers of the world in this fashion: "Go and listen to Marchesi, and realize what singing really means." One notes with pleasure in studying her programmes that not only every nation, but every style and every period are represented, that song of to-day may serve as a happy contrast to another written three centuries ago, and probably by an anonymous writer whose work valiantly survives his name. Mme. Marchesi is again accompanied by the eminent Belgian pianist, Mr. Brahm Van den Berg, whose playing was a generous delight last season, when he visited this country with Mme. Marchesi. At the conclusion of Mme. Marchesi's tour of Canada and the United States, she will visit all the principal cities of Mexico and Cuba, where a hearty welcome awaits her.

THE PAINS OF THE AGED
Are usually due to the tendency of the kidneys to wear out as age advances, giving rise to the accumulation of poisons in the blood and causing backache, lumbago, aching limbs and rheumatism. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are particularly prized by aged people because they can be relied upon to invigorate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and so remove the cause of pains and aches.

WATER COMMISSIONERS VISIT LINDSAY'S FILTRATION PLANT

Ozone System Will be Put to Severe Test by Provincial Board of Health--Mr. Matthews Says Water is Clear and Apparently Pure---A Filter for Peterborough After Dam is Built.

Peterborough is interested in Lindsay's experiment with the Ozone method of water purification. On Saturday evening the water commissioners of this city, Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman, Mr. W. H. Moore and Mr. W. H Hill, visited Lindsay and examined the electric filtration plant as it is now in operation. Mr. Matthews stated today to the Examiner that the Scugog water after passing through the ozoning process appeared clear and tempting. There was, no foreign colour, no bad taste and no malodour. The water appears to be all that could be desired for drinking purposes. Peterborough's drinking water is pumped from the river directly into the mains but the commissioners are considering a filtration plant. The Provincial Board of Health are preparing to put the Ozone process through a most rigid test. A special building has been erected and the water will be examined during a period extending over three months. This will mean an inspection under all conditions. Lindsay has gained considerable notoriety through the installation of this system of water purification. The Provincial Health Department will spend between $800 and $1,200 in this test as the success of the system is of wide interest. Peterborough will ultimately have a filtration plant either the sand method or the electrical method. Very much will depend on the report of the department's tests.

Contractor's Statements.

Mr. J. Howard Bridge, who installed the plant writes an open letter in answer to a criticism in a Toronto paper. The following is an extract from it:

It is a reply to Dr. Sheard:—You again assert that ozonization is in the experimental stage, although you have in your office evidence showing that for over seven years it has been continuously practised in Paderborn, Germany, where it has eliminated typhoid fever from the death list, that it has been used nearly as long at Wiesbaden, whenever the springs run low; that for three years it has been in use at Nice, France, and is now purifying 6,000,000 gallons a day there. You further say that "recent reports from Paris have proven that not only has the process been exceedingly costly, but that under certain conditions of water it is of very questionable value." Yet you know that the Paris plant, designed to treat 24 million gallons a day is still under construction and unfinished, and that it was not begun until years of tests by the most eminent scientists had established the superiority of ozone to sand filters. You known, too, that these sand filters had been declared unsafe and were frequently closed down because of their inefficiency; and you know that they were carefully operated at much lower rates of filtration than you contemplate for Toronto.

In regard to ozonisation being "exceedingly costly," this statement alone impugns your bona fides, for you saw at Lindsay that the entire process was costing only 44 cents per million as against $9 at Lawrence and $5 at Philadelphia for slow sand filtration.

You have contemptuously spoken of this as a "Yankee" invention, as if that discredited it. Is it your idea that science must recognise frontier lines, and that sanitary progress is retrogression unless it displays the Union Jack? But here again you are wrong, as usual. The system at Lindsay is the invention of an Englishman—myself.

Weird And Beautiful Display By The Aurora Last Night

The northern lights were very pronounced last night attracting the attention of practically everyone who found it necessary to be out of doors This mysterious phenomenon, awe-inspiring to the uneducated and the savant alike has not been clearly explained by astronomers. It is believed that there is a connection between disturbance on the sun and the aurora borealis, as the Northern Lights are known to astronomers. The Examiner had a conversation with Mr. G. Parry Jenkins, of Hamilton, who is the guest of Rev. Dr. Marsh, Springville, in regard to auroral display. He remarked that he had seen beautiful auroras in Labrador where the lights appear practically every night, but the magnificence of last night's display could scarcely be surpassed by any he had seen in the northern clime. The display probably reached a climax at 9.45. p.m., when the entire sky was lavishly decorated with long streamers of light which stretched from all points of the heavens seemingly uniting overhead. The grandeur of the heavens last night beggars description and Mr. Jenkins himself said he could scarcely describe it in a befitting manner.

Were Passengers On The Steamship That Ran Aground Near Rimouski

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Smiley, Hunter St. east, were passengers on the Steamship "Empress of Ireland" that ran on a rock, about four miles' sail from Rimouski last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Smiley arrived home on Saturday evening. When seen by an Examiner reporter to-day he stated that there was quite a panic on board when the ship went aground. The people got greatly excited. There were almost thirty feet of water in one hold ,and at first preparations were made to lower life boats, but later this was found to be unnecessary. The steamship was delayed several hours. The passage for three days after leaving Liverpool, Mr. Smiley stated, was very rough.

Edith and Lawrence Dole, the older of the two only eight years, who were coming to Peterborough to join their mother were also on the ship.

Mr. and Mrs. Smiley left here on July 29th, sailing from Quebec by the "Empress of Ireland." They visited in England and Ireland, principally at Mr. Smiley's old home in Manchester. Mr. Smiley came to Canada in 1863 and since then he has returned three times. But he much prefers Canada. The weather in England, he stated, was cold and wet, and he says that he never saw the sun shine from the time he left Quebec until he returned. The summer in England this year was an exceptionally cold one.

Owner Of Cole Bros. Circus Dies From Kick Of A Vicious Horse

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 19.—Martin J. Downs, one of the best known showmen in America and the sole owner of Cole Bros.' circus, died in the General hospital this morning, after suffering five months from the kick of a vicious horse. The accident happened at Grove City, Pa. After several unsuccessful operations had been performed, Mr. Down's leg was amputated above the knee a couple of weeks ago, Mr. Downs gradually sank, however, until death came. He was 44 years old, a native of Toronto, and had been a travelling showman for 20 years. A widow and one son survive here.

A Turtle That Measured Nine Feet In Length And Weighed 1500 Pounds

Mr. J. J. Turner, Jr., one day last week, while in the City of Montreal on business, noticed a large throng of people looking into a store window on St. Catharine street. On going up to the place Mr. Turner found that a monstrosity, in the shape of an immense turtle was occupying the attention of the people. Mr. Turner had seen some large turtles in the Zoological Gardens in London, England, but none were anything like the size of the one on exhibition in Montreal. It was nine feet, one inch, in length, and weighed fifteen hundred pounds. It was stated that this particular turtle must have been one thousand years old. It was caught by a fisherman in Lunenberg, Nova Scotia.

Wm. Hamilton Co. To Provide Apparatus For New Pump House

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held yesterday afternoon with Mr. T. F. Matthews in the chair and Mr. W. H. Hill and W. H. Moore present.

The chairman reported that the contracts with the Caledonian Iron Works Company for pump and wheel and with the Bishop Construction Company for the construction of the pump house had been accepted.

MR. BURNHAM AND THE "SAW-OFF."

Mr. Burnham, candidate in the last Dominion election of a section of the Conservative party, through the Review, seeks again to emphasize his superior political morality. He gives scant approval to the complimentary references to Mr. Stratton in relation to the ignominous failure of the attempt to vacate his seat. In reference to the commendation of Mr. Stratton uttered by Mr. Thoburn, Conservative meber-elect for North Lanark, and against whose return an election petition is pending. Mr. Burnham, through the Review, recalls the fact of his virtuous determination not to entertain an idea of a "saw-off," and insinuates that Mr. Thoburn's friendly remarks respecting Mr. Stratton were inspired by the efforts that it is asserted the latter had made to assist Mr. Thoburn to secure a "saw-off" with West Peterborough. The Review says:

> Mr. Burnham, however, would not "saw," so the project fell through.

In spite of all the shocks that Mr. Burnham's impugnable political virtue have received through the election trial and the subsequent perjury trial, he insists on parading his self righteousness as a pure-pure politician, and an unalterable and stony-hearted opponent to the crminal weakness of a compromise.

Would it surprise the public to know that there is strong evidence that since the election-trial failure Mr. Burnham has not been ignorant of an attempt to purchase the abandonment of the North Lanark election petition? Will it be denied that since the election trial, an influence not far from the office of Mr. Burnham's counsel, has made proposals to Mr. Thoburn, that in consideration of Mr. Thoburn making a substantial contribution towards wiping out a big part of the petitioner's share of the West Peterborough protest costs, influence would be exerted for the withdrawal of the North Lanark petition?

Is it reasonable to believe that Mr. Burnham is ignorant of the course taken? He boasts that he organized the Gates evidence-hunt on teh advice of Mr. Du Vernet. Is it at all likely that a more serious, if not shady proposal, to procure the withdrawal of an election petition for a money consideration, in which Mr. Burnham would be the chief beneficiary, would be undertaken without his knowledge, and consent?

Here have we not evidence that a lofty political virtue that was unflinchingly hostile on high principle to a "saw off," was willing to do for the sake of dirty dollars, what virtuous principles would not permit it to do?

THE DOMINION CONVENTION.

Mr. R. L. Borden has decided upon a Dominion convention to be called for the purpose of discussing where the Conservative party is at. This argues a very large enterprise on the part of Borden; he has set himself a ta difficult as the discovery of the N th or South Pole. For years the party has been drifting upon a sea of expediency buffeted and tossed about by contrary winds and the choppy seas of conflicting interests and ambitions, personal and party. Mr. Borden's decision has been taken none too soon, if he wishes to arrive at cohesion. We find one section of the Conservatice party, led by Mr. Borden, clamouring for "adequate protection." Another is demanding reduction in the duty on agricultural implements to ten per cent. Reconciling these conflicting desires, reducing the party to the acceptance of a consistent and uncontradictory policy will need more persuasive force than the leader of the party has yet developed. But who knows? Mr. Borden has shown a remarkable versatility in the assumption of strategetic positions, and he may be equal to healing the breaches that exist in his party in the matter of policy, as well as the matter of personal ambition of some of its most noisy and prominent, if not important, members.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

IN THE INTEREST OF ART.

In this age of materialistic enterprise when our best powers are given to the development of business and the making of money, all undertakings having for their object the cultivation of finer tastes, such as literature and art should be as an oasis in the desert. We cannot withhold our sympathy from aspirations that embody the cult of the beautiful, which is an universal natural religion. The predominant feature of natural creation is beauty of person, of flower, of tree, of plumage, of valley, clouds and gorgeous sunsets. We make our homes beautiful and even the most common objects of daily use, our clothing, our vehicles and all the conveniences of domestic life are beautified by some form of art or application of art principles. We all, who are touched with the spirit of the finer issues, sympathize with the beautification of the city by parks, boulevards, trees or flowers. Level with these forms of applied art should be the cultivation of an art that will beautify our homes or our minds. The Women's Art Association is a natural outcome of the finer or more spiritual fibre of the female mind, for we associate refinement of any form with women as readily as we group the bee and the flower that holds its honey. The Women's Art Association of Peterborough has done much to stimulate and develop taste and interest in art, and the bringing to the city of Frauleen Antoine Stolle, a diplomiste of the Royal Art Academy of Berlin, and a long time student of art, to deliver a lecture is another evidence of the desire of the Association to place within the reach of our citizens opportunities for the cultivation of artistic tastes and the enjoyment of art enlightenment and entertainment. Fraulein Stolle will deliver a lecture on "Old Friends and New in the Realms of Art," in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute on Friday night, November 26th.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Kingston is looking for new industries. It is to be hoped that Kingston is not talking in its sleep.

The new baby of the Queen of Holland has cut a tooth. If an Atlantic cable prings a-leak we should know that it was gnawed through by that tooth in transit.

Fame sometimes comes unsought. Gates and Alsept are in the same class as Cook and Peary, with in al cases the question of relative veracity as unsettled as the site of the Pole.

"If," says the St. John's Telegraph, "Canada's revenue continues to increase at the present rate the present fiscal year will establish a new record in Canadian prosperity." And, too, under a lessened rate of customs taxation. This is strong evidence of Canada's prosperity under Liberal rule.

PERJURERS FAIL.

(Hamilton Times).

The West Peterborough election petition against Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P., has been dismissed, and the member has been confirmed in his seat. We think it is hardly necessary to review the evidence of the trial to convince our readers that there has been a shameful conspiracy to deprive Mr. Stratton of his seat by wholesale perjury. Every reader who followed the course of the trial must have come to that conclusion long before the collapse of the case. On Saturday, when the judges very vigourously expressed their opinion of the principal witnesses depended on by the petitioners, their senior counsel frankly stated that in view of the court's opinion it was useless to proceed further. In dismissing the charges, Justice MacMahon spoke in scathing terms of the character of the tools by whose evidence it was sought to unseat Mr. Stratton. The principal witness, Gates, he regarded as a cheap perjurer. "Gates," said his lordship, "said in the witness-box, that $400 was his price or limit for perjuring himself, while he swore to the affidavit that was produced here for $50. I think that his limit is even under $50. I think he is a man who from his tone here and his actions in the box would perjure himself for $5 or even less." Mr. Justice Magee, who delivered judgment in the other cases, was scarcely less severe in his language in dealing with the evidence of the petitioner's witnesses.

The persecution of Mr. Stratton has been conducted with great energy and bitterness. The outcome of the trial shows that there was no foundation in fact for the charges against the member for West Peterborough. One can hardly fail to agree with the two judges in coming to the conclusion that it rested on perjured evidence, manufactured for the purpose of obtaining money. After hearing all the prosecution had to offer, Mr. Justice MacMahon significantly said:

> "I think that the foundation of the petition was furnished by Gates in the declaration he made and for which he received $50."

The statement is a terrible commentary upon the course of Mr. Stratton's enemies. It is difficult to understand how any man who aspires to move among decent citizens should have proceeded in that manner to obtain matter upon which to found an attack upon Mr. Stratton's right to the seat. Mr. Justice McMahon, evidently shocked at the disclosures of the evidence as to the means adopted, charitably said: "One cannot help thinking that the person who paid the money for that declaration could not have been aware of the strictures which have been passed on those who obtain affidavits from voters and for which a sum of money was paid." He found that attempts had been made to extort money from Mr. Stratton, and that the petitioner's witnesses had declared frankly their readiness to perjure themselves for a consideration. The court could do nothing but reject the evidence of such men; and the petitioners had no other to offer.

Ought such men to be allowed to enjoy their liberty and the avails of their crime? The man who fires another man's house, or who steals his property is sent to prison. Is not the purchasing of perjured evidence, wherewith to attack a man's seat in Parliament and his reputation, an even more detestable crime? Ought not both the perjurers and those who hired them to be severely dealt with?

A BRITISH TARIFF.

Kingston Standard, (Conservative.)

The Toronto News thinks that the panacea ofr England's ills is to be found in a protective tariff. Will a protective tariff relieve the overcrowding that exists in the great centres of population such as London, Liverpool, Manchester and Sheffield. If a protective tariff will have the effect of increasing the manufacture of goods in England, as the News claims it will, the result will be a greater congestion of population in these industral centres. That is the very evil the land taxes are meant to cure. If these are imposed, the Dukes and other great landed proprietors will be glad to dispose of their holdings, and their estates will be divided up into small farms occupied by the workers of the soil. That is what is being done in Ireland, and it must also be done in England and Scotland, "if a bold peasantry, their country's pride," as Goldsmith puts it, is once more to be seen in England.

THE MAN ON THE SPOT.

(London Advertiser.)

The elevation of Mr. Charles M. Hays to the presidency of the Grand Trunk Railway Company is a deserved promotion, and sound business policy as well.

No railroad in this country can be efficiently managed by a board of directors who gather periodically around a table on the other side of the Atlantic. This absentee control prevailed for a good many years, and we all know what happened to the Grand Trunk. When the old-fogey regime of Sir Henry Tyler came to an end there was no formal change in the constitution of the company, but Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson had the good sense to choose as the manager of the road a man experienced in the railway methods of this continent, and clothe him with powers which his predecessors had never possessed. Sir Charles was abundantly justified by results. In the wonderful story of Canada's material development during the past decade, there is no more cheerful chapter than the progress of the Grand Trunk.

The reorganization of the directorate is the logical outcome of the Rivers-Wilson policy. It is based on the simple principle of trusting the man on the spot. Mr. Hays will have with his new honours a larger discretion. It is a concession on the part of the British shareholders and directors which does them credit and will undoubtedly redound to their profit.

The offices of president and manager of the Canadian Pacific have been combined for some years, and the directors are chiefly Canadians, though the stock is largely held abroad. Perhaps the Grand Trunk will undergo a further evolution in the same direction.

SIR CONAN DOYLE TRACES KONGO GUILT TO RIGHT SOURCE

Famous Writer, After an Investigation of Belgium's Acts in Africa, Declares That the Responsibility for the Nightmare of Devilish, Barbaric Cruelty Rests on the Head of King Leopold---How the Natives' Land and Its Products Were Snatched From Them.

DOYLE'S TRUE BUT AWFUL STORY SECURED BY THE EXAMINER

We have all heard more or less of the white man's mis-rule and barbarity in dealing with the natives in the Kongo Free State. But to-day there was given to the world a volume that will make civilization shiver. It is by Sir A. Conan Doyle, the famous English author, creator of Sherlock Holmes, who having made an exhaustive investigation of the entire Kongo situation, has embodied all the terrible, tragic story in "The Crime of the Kongo." The book, which was placed before the public of England and America to-day, is published in this country by Doubleday, Page & Co., and special permission has been given The Examiner to print important extracts from it. The following is the most thrilling and revolting story that has ever been written of the Kongo horror, and Sir Conan Doyle's hope is that it may stir the nations to take action against the Belgian rule in Africa.—Editor.

BY SIR A. CONAN DOYLE.

Conan Doyle.

M. Renkin, the Belgian colonial minister has, within the past few months, been inspecting conditions in the Belgian Kongo Free State.

Before leaving Belgium he said that nothing would be changed in the Kongo. Last year the Kongo Free State was annexed to Belgium and exchanged its blue flag, with a golden star, to the tricolor of Belgium. M. Renkin seemed to think that change would end the reign of terror in the Kongo.

M. Renkin will be back no doubt with the usual talk of minor reforms which will take another year to produce, and will be utterly futile when reduced to practice. But the world has seen this game too often. Surely it will not be made a fool of again. There is some limit to European patience.

Belgium has enacted one long, horrible tragedy, vouched for by priests and missionaries, traders, travellers and consuls, all corroborated, but in no way reformed, by a Belgian commission. The nations have seen these unhappy people, who were their wards, robbed of all they possessed, debauched, degraded, mutilated, tortured, murdered, all on such a scale as has never, to my knowledge, occurred before in the whole course of history, and now, after all these years, with all the facts notorious, we are still at the stage of polite diplomatic expostulations.

Trace back the chain from the red-handed savage (known as the capita, or head of the natives) through the bibulous, worried agent, the pompous commissary, the dignified governor general, the smooth diplomatist, and you come finally, without a break, and without a possibility of mitigation or excuse, up to the cold, scheming brain which framed and drove the whole machine. It is upon the king, always upon the king, that the guilt must lie. There is no possible subterfuge by which the moral guilt can be deflected from the head of the state, the man who went to Africa for the freedom of commerce and the regeneration of the native.

America was the first nation to recognize the Kongo Free state in 1884, after Henry M. Stanley, for the king of Belgium, had secured trade treaties with chiefs along the Kongo.

With these treaties the king of Belgium asked the nation to recognize the Kongo Free State, which he had organized. The profession of King Leopold made the whole world his allies. The Kongo Free State was created amid general rejoicings. The veteran Bismark, as credulous as the others, pronounced its baptismal blessing.

KING LEOPOLD, WHOM SIR CONAN DOYLE CHARGES WITH FIRST RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE OUTRAGES, AND ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH OF KONGO BOY WHOSE RIGHT HAND WAS STRUCK OFF BECAUSE HE DIDN'T BRING IN RUBBER.

A governor general was elected. Under him were 15 district commissaries, who should govern so many districts, into which the whole country was divided.

Then, in 1887, an act was passed which declared that all lands that were not occupied by natives were to be the property of the state.

No land in such a country is actually occupied by the natives save the actual site of the villages and the scanty fields of grain or manioc which surround them. Everywhere beyond these tiny patches extend the plains and forests which have been the ancestral wandering places of the natives, and which contain the rubber, the camwood, the copal, the ivory and the skins, which are the sole object of their commerce. At a single stroke of a pen in Brussels everything was taken from them, not only the country, but the produce of the country." How could they trade when the state had taken from them everything which they had to offer.

Having obtained possession of the land and its products, the next step was to obtain labour by which these products could be safely garnered.

An act for the "special protection of the black" was passed. It allows blacks to be bound over in terms of seven years service to their masters in a manner which was in truth indistinguishable from slavery. As the negotiations were usually carried on with the capita or headman, the unfortunate servant was transferred with small profit to himself and little knowledge of the conditions of his servitude.

Under the same system the state also enlisted its employes, including the recruits for its small army. This army was supplemented by a wild militia, consisting of various barbarous tribes, many of them cannibals and all of them capable of any excess of cruelty or outrage.

King Leopold's wonderful system was perfected by employing 2,000 agents, who worked under the commissaries. They were white men, and they had orders to secure a certain amount of rubber from their districts. These agents employed capitas, who were barbarians. These capitas were armed with guns, invariably, and were masters of the native district in which they resided. If the natives did not supply enough rubber, the capita was given a beating; so to avoid the beating himself he beat the natives.

Imagine the nightmare which lay upon each village while this barbarian squatted in the midst of it. Day or night they could never get away from him. He called for palm wine. He called for women. He shot them down at his pleasure! He beat them, mutilated them and enforced public interest in order to amuse himself by the sight. Sometimes they plucked up spirit and killed him. The Belgian commission records that 142 capitas had been killed in seven months, in a single district.

In the Examiner to-morrow Dr. Doyle will describe the cruelties inflicted on the natives in the Kongo.)

MIGHTY MOUNT ROBSON

The interesting fact has just come out of the wilderness west of Edmonton that a distinguished party of British Alpine climbers have attempted to scale the icy summit of Mount Robson and have failed. Two points stand out distinctly in the story of this attempt and this failure. The first is that while they have failed they felt more than repaid for the long journey just to have seen and to have stood in the presence of this "King of the Rockies." The party were twenty-four days reaching the foot of the mountain from Edmonton. At John Swift's homestead on the Upper Athabasca August 24th they met Rev. G. E. B. Kinney who had "Cook'd" them. Kinney warned them that they were too late, but they pushed on. On September 7th, they began the ascent. When they had gone within twelve hundred feet of the summit of this mighty monarch of the hills, whose icy crown sits 13,700 feet above the sea, the famous Swiss guide, Moritz Inderbinen turned to the man following him and whispered hoarsely "Foehn" which is the name of the warm wind of Switzerland, which compares with our "Chinook." And lo there blew, down across the glacier the wind which softens the snow and makes the going bad. In the Alps the "Foehn" brings not only a thaw but often an avalanche and sometimes showers of ice. Most of the climbers knew, and better still they knew Moritz knew, and they halted. Even as they talked the storm broke over the crags and the night fell before they could escape the glacier over which they were travelling. It was with great difficulty that they made their way back to the timber belt.

The second point referred to above is the interesting fact that these British climbers did not doubt for a moment that Mr. Kinney had reached the summit. On the contrary they accepted his statement and congratulated him heartily. Professor Coleman, of Toronto, has already called Mount Robson "One of the show places of the world" and Mr. Hastings' description of the big hill seems to corroborate Prof. Coleman's opinion.

The British party was composed as follows: Geoffrey Hastings, Bradford; A. L. Mumm, London; L. S. Amery of the London Times; His brother, Capt. H. Amery and Mr. Mumm's Swis guide, Moritz Inderbinen.

Speaking of the grandeur of Mount Robson Mr. Hastings said it was a magnificent peak, the northerly face of which was a tremendous precipice. There was a great glacier on the mountain, which he understood was called the "Kinney glacier" in honour of Mr. Kinney. The river which rose on the glacier, said Mr. Hastings, divided into two streams, one of which flowed into the north fork of the Fraser River, and so into the Pacific ocean, while the other stream flowed into the Smoky River, thence into the Pesce River and so into the Arctic Ocean. On the north side of the mountain there were two glacial lakes formed by the melting of the glacier. It was a scene of great beauty. Great blocks of ice were constantly breaking off the glacier's tongue, the crash being audible many miles away. The great glacier on Mount Robson was fed by smaller glaciers from the south, west and east.

THANKSGIVING DAY BILL OF FARE

Prepare Ahead and Have Ready Before the Last Moment—Don't Let Your Thanks be Encumbered With "Much Serving."

The Thanksgiving bill of fare should be begun before Saturday. One who has to superintend the preparations has generally enough to do every Saturday to prepare the ordinary bill of fare. Thanksgiving pies, cakes, buns, biscuit, the seasonings and the ingredients for the turkey, should be on the way now. Let every chick and child about the house have a hand in some of the preparations, until the time when the oven is ready for the turkey.

THOSE HATS

Correspondent Complains of Measurements of My Lady's Head Adornments.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I was in church last night and one of those enormous crazy (?) millinery creations was on the head of a person who no doubt thought she was all right. Spiritually, etc., but if she only knew the misery she was causing "poor me" (?) to try and see the pulpit, she would either have shown the Almighty more respect than to have come to the House of Worship with a "dish pan" for a hat. The hat in question was at least fourteen inches in diameter, and ten inches high. I am about 6 ft. 2 inches in height and when sitting down can generally see the pulpit over and above an ordinary hat, but not over one of "Cleopatra's needles." Why will women so far forget themselves as to think that they are showing any respect for the Almighty and His House, when they dress up in what is only created to walk in a ten acre field with. I was going up town a few night ago and met three ladies (?) who were walking abreast on a six foot sidewalk. Imagine my plight, they did not offer to move out of my way and give me half of the sidewalk, but I had to step into the gutter to get by their hats, or excuse me their "umbrella" (hats), which reached across the sidewalk.

In my estimation no lady will wear one of these Brobdingnagian creations to church at least.—Yours, etc.

TEACHERS DEMAND INCREASED PAY

Owen Sound Pedagogues Want a Raise or They Will Resign.

Owen Sound, Oct. 18.—A demand has been made by the forty teachers of the town public schools for an increase in salaries, and they ask for an immediate decision, so that if the request is not granted those who desire may make a change before the first of next year. The teachers are determined, and their petition, when presented to the Board of Education, created considerable stir. The teachers ask that the Board make the minimum $450, and the annual increase $50 up to $800; to raise all teachers who have served five years or more to the present maximum, $600, and those of 20 years or more to the new maximum; to recognize length of experience wherever obtained.

First Meeting Of The Ladies' Literary Society Of The T. A. S.

Tenth Season is Begun Under Auspicious Conditions — Large Attendance and Splendid Lecture by Rev. Father McColl.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME

The ladies of St. Peter's T. A. S. held their first literary of the tenth season last Friday evening, at which an appreciative audience enjoyed a programme, which included a number of bright musical selections by the Misses Doris and McCabe. A number on the programme, that was much enjoyed was a vocal solo, "Remember to Forget," rendered in charming style by Miss Nora Fitzgerald.

The principal event of the evening was a lecture on "Books and Reading," by Rev. Father McColl. Father McColl's choice of a subject was a very happy one for the opening evening. The following synopsis of his very interesting discourse will give the reader an idea of the large amount of useful information and advice, which the speaker conveyed to his listeners:

The word "book" comes from the Saxon word "boc," (beech), because the Saxons usually wrote on beechen boards; just as the Latin word "liber," denoted originally the inner bark of a tree, which was employed for a similar purpose. It has, however, received an application anterior to its origin, and is also used with reference to written tablets of stone or metal. In its widest sense it dates from the most remote antiquity. The Ten Commandments were written on tablets of stone; the Babylonians and Egyptians traced inscriptions on rocks and bricks. Sheets of wood and ivory and of various metals were used and subsequently a great variety of pliable substances, animal and vegetable, crude and prepared. In the library of the University of Gottingen is a Bible, containing 5,373 leaves of birch-bark. Among the Greeks and Romans tablets of wood were in common use for writing purposes. Papyrus was also used in olden times. Parchment also formed a valuable substitute for paper. Satander possessed a beautiful Hebrew Pentateuch, written on fifty-seven skins of leather, sewed together with threads of the same material. It formed a roll one hundred and thirteen French feet in length, or one hundred and twenty English feet. The shape of wooden and metal books was square, but with papyrus and parchment the cylindrical form was adopted.

In the early ages books were very expensive. Plato paid $1,600 for three books, and Aristotle paid $3,000 for only a few books. In the middle ages material for writing became very scarce. Parchment was almost the only material available, and the demand exceeded the supply. In the process of preparation, however, books received the most careful attention. The monks transcribed, illuminated, and bound them. These books were often richly ornamented with gold and silver, and some, for particular uses, often had the covers encrusted with gems. Books were, of course, very scarce and dear, and teachers in those days taught without the aid of any text-book.

Printing made no immediate change in this condition of things, but finally printing presses were perfected and books became more numerous. But even two centures ago very few books were printed during the course of a year. No such thing as public libraries then existed. The coffee-houses were the nearest equivalents and these, indeed, were the chief centres of information and general knowledge of all kinds. In those days the newspapers consisted of a single sheet printed once or twice a week, and the new was very scanty and uncertain. As late as the latter end of the 17th century a man was considered well off if he possessed as many books as a boy will now carry home from school in a satchel.

Wonderful progress has been made in the manufacture of books during the last hundred years. The number of books current is inconceivably great. Books upon books on all subject are showered down upon us in alarming profusion. Not only books upon solid subjects, but novels, romances, and tales for the million, treatises on dressing and letter-writing and love-making and Heaven knows what else. Where there are so many millions of books there must necessarily be millions of readers. If books are printed they are bound to be sold. We have many readers, but have we many students? Have we many men who care to do more than merely read; men who strive to master any study. Most readers prefer to skim over many subjects than to master one; knowledge, therefore, is shallow, superficial and frothy; multiplicity breeds confusion and depth is hardly compatible with a very wide range of subjects. Therefore, the very extent of our reading leads to dissipation of mind. However, that would signify very much less than it does if authors of the day were always worthy of their calling. The amount of harm that is done in the world to-day by means of bad books is horrifying and heart-sickening. Books against faith and religion books full of infidelity, lax morals, etc., are most common, and appear in greater numbers, probably than those of an opposite nature. While, therefore, we cannot but rejoice at the many advantages which we enjoy in the present age we shall do well not to lose sight of the many dangers and pitfalls that accompany them. Great care must be exercised in the choice of reading matter. The book that merely excites the imagination is harmful morally, physically, and intellectually. There are many good books from which to choose, many charmingly written biographical sketches for instance, many good novels which tend to elevate and inspire the mind; there are the poets and prominent authors of both the old and new schools.

Our own library contains a very choice selection of reading matter; books which have been thoughtfully chosen, and which if they were not up to a certain standard would not be allowed a place on our shelves. If you must read, and, of course, you must, then read only that which will produce on your mind, heart, and spirit naught but an uplifting influence.

WARSAW WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, Oct. 14th.—The last regular meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Clements on the afternoon of Oct. 14th. The President, Mrs. David Miller, occupied the chair. The attendance was fairly good, 20 members being present. The meeting opened by singing "Blest be the tie that binds," and repeating the Lord's prayer. The minutes of last meeting were read by Sec.-Treas. and adopted. She also gave a short financial report which was declared correct. It was moved by Mrs. Choate, seconded by Mrs. Currie, that we have an "At Home" in the agricultural hall on Nov. 26th. The motion was unanimously carried. It was moved by Mrs. Geo. Clements seconded by Mrs. Jos. Edwards, that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. A. F. Choate for his kindness in placing his room at the disposal of the Institute for the library.—Carried. Moved by Mrs. Wm. Middleton, seconded by Mrs. Marvin, that we have a lady delegate to address us at the winter series of meetings.—Carried.

Some ladies who were former members, but have not yet renewed their membership for this year have taken books from the library and have not returned them are requested to do so as soon as possible. It was decided by motion of Mrs. Choate, seconded by Mrs. Matthews, that we send to Mr. Putnam, superintendent of Women's Institutes, for 24 Institute pins.—Carried. Several new names were added to the roll of membership making the required number to obtain the Government grant. Moved by Mrs. Choate, seconded by Mrs. Marvin, that the Institute spend $20 on books for the library.—Carried. Moved by Mrs. Choate, seconded by Mrs. Jos. Edwards, that Mrs. Marvin, Mrs. D. Miller, Mrs. Currie, Mrs Geo. Clements and Mrs. Choate be a committee to buy the above mentioned books.—Carried. It was also arranged to have a meeting of this committee on Oct. 31st, to select these books. An instrumental was now played by Miss L. E. Calder of Peterborough, which was followed by a paper on "Music in the Home," read by Mrs. Geo. Taylor and excited much favourable comment.

Mrs. Marvin also read a paper on "The books we should read" in which she mentioned works of the most celebrated authors, and many other good books which make desirable reading. The President then gave a short address on reading and books. The meeting closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne". Lunch was served by the hostess and a short time spent in social converse.

The next meeting will be held (D.V.) at the home of Mrs. David Miller on Nov. 11th, at 2.30 p.m. All ladies, whether members or not, are cordially invited.

Anglican Sunday School Workers

First Annual Meeting Last Night

The first annual meeting of the united Anglican congregations of this city in connection with the observance of "Children's Sunday" on Sunday was held in St. John's School last night, Mr. D. Spence, of St. Luke's, presiding over a good attendance of clergy, teachers and parents. The special service for the day was led by the Rev. Canon Davidson, who afterwards cordially welcomed the sister congregations. After the hymn "Forward be our watchword" had been sung, the Rev. Dr. Langfeldt gave a thoughtful address on the special subject "The personal responsibility of the individual of the congregation to the Sunday School." He proved that from every point of view it was advantageous to send our children to Sunday school and deplored the fact of so many young people being on the streets on Sunday afternoon. He urged every churchman and churchwoman to do their duty to help the clergy and teachers in their work in the nursery of the church, and condemned the sectarian differences which banished the Bible from our day schools. A model lesson on the church catechism, first four questions was given to a class of boys by Mr. R. J. Devey. The lesson was taught from the Rev. D. J. Caswell's chart forms, which teaches from symbols and letters in a most attractive way, and the class showed by their intelligent answering a welcome familiarity with the catechism for which the chart system of teaching in use for over a year in St. John's School is largely responsible. The Rev. H. R. Trumpour presented next Sunday's Scripture lesson most effectively. Those seated near the platform were provided with bibles and formed a class, following the teacher closely as from bible and map he skilfully drew lessons from the stirring account of St. Paul's trials in that memorable journey. It is hoped that these lessons may be of frequent occurrence as those present last night were quick to show their appreciation of the work of both the teachers.

Delightful music was sung by Mrs R. J. Devey, Miss Ruth Dawson, and Miss Ruby Quartermaine, all of whom are Sunday school teachers.

Mr. Common proposed and Mr. Edgar seconded a motion according the hearty thanks of the meeting to all those who had provided the various items of a most interesting and profitable programme, which the chairman declared carried unanimously, remarking that he earnestly hoped much good would result from the meeting to Sunday school work and to the workers.

The St. John's teachers then entertained the company to light refreshments and the meeting was closed shortly after ten o'clock by the Rev. Canon Davidson with the concluding prayers of the evening office.

Delegates Of Young People's Society Present Reports

Misses May Lees and Roma Langford Represented St. Andrew's Young People at Whitby—Report of the Proceedings at Conference.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

A very interesting meeting was held in St. Andrew's Lecture Room last night under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour.

Misses May Lees and Roma Langford who had been delegates to the Whitby Conference during the summer gave excellent reports of their sojourn in the Conference town.

Miss Lees gave a detailed outline of a day's occupation. Rising at 6 a.m., with breakfast at 7.30, the morning hours till 12.45 were taken up with devotional and intellectual exercises which proved exceedingly inspiring and helpful. The afternoons were free from meetings and given up to Croquet and tennis tournaments. Excursions were also occasionally arranged.

After supper an hour was spent in what were called "Life Talks," led by some Missionary. The eight o'clock hour each night was given to the discussion of the various religious systems, Buddism, Brahmanism, Taoism, Confucianism, etc.

The most pleasant thing about the whole Conference was the personal acquaintance with the Missionaries. This was a great treat. There is one great respect in which all Missionaries are alike and that is they like their work and always are anxious to get back again. Wherever you went throughout the grounds of the Conference College you met gladness and pleasant faces. Everybody seemed delighted and there is no doubt that everyone in charge did all that could be done to make the visitors happy. There were about 130 students in attendance and while all were happy the great purpose of the gathering was always kept before ourselves—to get more intelligence and interest in the great missionary problems of the church and to seek to get others interested.

Miss Langford gave a concise statement of the important points, in address of prominent speakers. The Rev. Mr. Priest, Baptist Missionary from India was the teacher in the Mission Study Classes and the subject of Study was "The Why and How of Foreign Missions." From the study there would come inspiration, spiritual uplift, strength of character, greater intelligence of God's work and a stronger devotion to the needs of others.

Mr. Ray of South America in his Missionary talk had shown how the Gospel was capable of saving and blessing so richly these Latin races and Canon Tucker speaking on the great Commission, Matt. 28. 18-20; had shown the progress and efficacy of the gospel of Christ. This was everywhere evident throughout the Acts of the Apostles, notably in the case of Philip and the Ethiopian Eunuch, and in a wonderful way in the influence of Paul's life and in its direction to begin so great a work in Macedonia.

At the conclusion of the reports the president Mr. Edson Wegg complimented the young ladies on the excellence of their reports and the great help they had been to the society.

The officers for the ensuing year were then elected as follows:

COBB AND WAGNER,
Whose movements were watched by the critical fans and comparisons made. They were really the players who received the spot light in the world's championship series.

SPLENDID PRIZES FOR THE EXAMINER ROAD RACES

Another Fenelon Falls entry for the junior Examiner road race and two more senior entries were received in last night's mail and it begins to look as if record fields were going to start in each event. The prizes for the senior race have been decided upon and are better than over this year.

The winner of the senior race in addition to holding the Examiner Trophy, one of the finest ever offered in this district, for one year, will receive a beautiful gold watch. The second prize is a handsome gold ring set with a ruby, the third a pair of gold cuff links and the fourth an artistic gold tie pin. The junior prizes have not yet been decided upon.

Al Spenceley, who made such a fine showing in the first Examiner road race three years ago, finishing fourth and leading the bunch three-quarters of the distance without any training, has signified his intention of entering, which means that there will be plenty of competition for somebody in the senior race. He is in good shape and may be counted upon to give a good account of himself. A dark horse entered in the senior race last year in the person of Sidney Veness, Dalhousie St., on whom there is no line whatever, but he may bear watching. It is almost impossible to figure on the winner of the junnor race in which there are entries from Hastings, Keene, Fenelon Falls and Lakefield in addition to many local entries.

LINDSAY TEAM TO PLAY HERE ON THANKSGIVING DAY

There will be a full practice of both senior and junior O.R.F.U. teams to-night at Riverside Park at 7.30 o'clock, at which all players are expected to be out as both teams must round into better shape before their next games. The seniors go into action against T.A.A.C. in Toronto on Saturday, while the youngsters have a battle royal on their hands when Lindsay come here for the holiday game. The junior game on Thanksgiving Day should be well worth seeing. Lindsay won the championship last year and are very confident of repeating the exploit. On the other hand the local club has a number of very speedy youngsters gathered from the Collegiate Institute and other junior teams, and as they are in splendid shape and have the benefit of Dr. McPherson's coaching for some time they will be right in the hunt. There will doubtless be a big crowd present as it is the only event of the holiday afternoon.

PIRATE CREW GET A GRAND WELCOME IN THEIR STRONGHOLD

Pittsburg, Oct. 19.—Pittsburg was baseball mad last night, the occasion being the great celebration in honour of the Pittsburg Baseball Club, winners of the world's championship.

Traffic along Fifth avenue in the down town section of the city was abandoned early in the evening, and the streets as far as Oakland, where Forbes' Field is located, was roped off in prepartion for the monster parade last night.

Such a parade had never been seen in Pittsburg. Mayor Magee and the mebers of his cabinet and all the players of the Pittsburg Baseball Club and the 14th and 15th Regiments of the National Guard of Pennsylvania formed the vanguard, and practically every political club of Allegheny county and about 100 athletic organisations were in line. Each section of the city constituted a division of the parade, while the business men and various trades unions marched in another class.

Forbes' Field was taxed beyond its capacity and the multitude covered the playing field. Mayor Magee, Congressman James Francis Burke and other prominent citizens of the city were among those who made addresses, each member of the ball club being introduced to the vast crowd and forced to make a remark of some sore. Mayor Magee presented each player with a check for his share of the receipts of the world's series. Pandemonium reigned as the men stepped to the platform to receive the award. Charles (Babe) Adams, the pitcher who led his team mates to victory three times during the great series, was the recipient of a great ovation, and besides the check as his share of the receipts, was given a purse of over $1,000 as a testimonial of his great work.

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE

The great success and popularity which the "Wa Wa," the fine summer hotel situated on the Lake of Bays, "Highlands of Ontario" has attained warranted the proprietors to materially increase the capacity of this resort, and it has been decided that an extension containing forty more rooms be added this year and ready for occupancy at the opening of the season next year. This addition to the hotel will be finished in the same plain but handsome style as the rest of the present structure and rooms will be connecting with bath between every two rooms.

The season this year has proved up to expectation and the house well patronized, in fact hundreds of people had to be denied accommodation owing to its entire capacity being taken up—in fact an auxiliary of fifteen tents was added to take care of as much as possible of the overflow.

If there were more hotels like this in the "Highlands of Ontario," thousands of more people would be attracted to the favourite resorts.

KNOX CHURCH SOCIAL

Social night at Knox church provided an enjoyable time for the members of the Young People's Society at their regular meeting last night. The programme provided a list of surprises which were appreciated by the audience until the individuals were singly called upon. Miss A. Bisson and Miss Lottie Chiles were heard in a piano duet. Mr. A. C. Davenport sang very acceptable, after which the surprises began. Those who prepared the programme had found out some incidents in the past of a number of the members and they had to speak upon those topics or relate the incidents connected with them. Mr. Richmond and Mr. Gordon Hill gave an exhibition of an attempt at drawing on a blackboard, blindfolded. Mr. R. F. McWilliams gave a talk on red sweaters, a rather moist experience he went through during a week's rain on Lake Simcoe. Mr. Wm. Lorimer was called upon and afterwards Rev. H. J. Keith told of a surprise he once received on the Mediterranean. Mr. Will Shepherd, Mr. McKenzie, Mr. Hillier were alled upon for impromptu speeches upon surprise subjects, which elicited great laughter. gram trimmed three hats for a prize which was awarded to the latter, whose millinery ability was apparently the best. Miss Eva Bartley's vocal sool was much appreciated. Much credit is due Messrs. Shepherd Ingram and Thompson for the very interesting programme they prepared. The evening was brought to a close by refreshments being srved.

Spoke at Charlotte Street League Meeting Last Night.

Last night at Charlotte St. the League had a very successful evening. Mr. Elcome, our local taxidermist, come down from Murray St. and gave one of his most interseting nature study addresses. The subject was "Migrations" and he handled it in his usual able manner. The address was not only interesting but instructive and many helpful thoughts were brought out by the speaker. In spite of the threatening atmosphere a large number were present, showing how well Mr. Elcome's talks are appreciated by his friends of Charlotte St. Epworth League.

HER BABY HAD ECZEMA

Mrs. F. Clark, Belmont, Man., writes—"My baby had eczema on her ear, she scratched it and it was in a terrible condition. Nothing seemed to help her. Hearing of some remarkable cures Dr. Chase's Ointment had made we began using it and with the third application the sore began to heal. The cure was thorough and complete and we give all credit to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

MRS. TURNER ON TRIAL

Little New Evidence Is Presented at First Day of Trial of Mrs. Mabel Turner—Mrs. Authers Tells How She Came to Give Up Her Baby —Afraid of Becoming Attached to It — Continues To-day.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—For nearly seven hours yesterday Mrs. Mabel Turner sat in the prisoners' pen in the Criminal Assizes, and listened, with pale, intent face, to the chain of evidence with which the Crown authorities are trying to fasten upon her the crime of murder: of strangling, with a twisted cord and her hands, the five-days-old daughter of Mrs. Annie Authers, whom she had been paid $100 to adopt. At 6 o'clock last evening the trial was adjourned, to be continued this morning. Mrs. Turner, when led to the pen, showed in her drawn, colorless face and sunken eyes the effects of the weeks of confinement she has undergone since her arrest, but apart from a spell of faintness as she stood up to plead not guilty to the charge of murder, the prisoner bore the long ordeal without showing distress.

Mr. George Tate Blackstock, K.C., who is conducting the case for the Crown, called eight witnesses yesterday: Mrs. Authers, mother of the murdered infant; Mrs. Maddeaux, with whom Mrs. Authers boarded; a doctor and three nurses from the General Hospital, and Mrs. Andrew Goldie, in whose house the police are trying to prove the murder was committed. With the exception of Mrs. Authers' evidence, the points have appeared before. Mrs. Goldie, after telling the jury about hearing in Mrs. Turner's room, on September 14th, strange noises which she thought sounded like a baby strangling, became hysterical, moaning and crying in a distressing way.

The first witness called was Mrs. Annie Authers, whose baby Mrs. Turner is charged with murdering. Mrs. Authers said she had made the acquaintance of Mrs. Turner through an advertisement that appeared in an evening paper in July last, in which the lady desired to adopt a baby.

Mrs. Authers stated that Mrs. Turner called at her home and explained that she was alone and lonesome, and was exceeding anxious to have a child to raise. On this occasion nothing definite was accomplished.

"When she called the second time," said Mrs. Authers, "she informed me that she would take the child within twenty-four hours. She did not take the baby on this occasion, however, but stated that she would like to have a deposit of $20 on the account of the $100 which I had agreed to give her. She said she wanted the money to buy clothes for the child.

This concluded Mr. Blackstock's examination, and Mr. Henderson, the counsel for the defence, proceeded to cross-examine the witness.

When asked by Mr. Henderson why she was anxious to have the baby adopted so soon after its birth, Mrs. Authers, who broke into tears, replied: "I was afraid if I kept it I would become attached to it."

DO AGENTS CONSPIRE?

Halifax Coal Merchant Describes Trade In Nova Scotia—Mr. Morrow Refuses to Produce Letters In Reference to Summons — Was Instructed by Directors of the Dominion Coal Company.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 20.—Many of the officers and general managers of the various coal companies throughout the province attended the preliminary examination in the Police Court yesterday before Magistrate Fielding, of J. R. Cowans, general manager of the Cumberland Railway & Coal Co., and Alex. Dick, general sales agent of the Dominion Coal Co. They are charged with conspiracy to restrict the output of coal and to put up the cost. The information was laid by J. B. McLaughlin, secretary of the U.M.W. of A., as an outcome of the Glace Bay and Springhill strikes. A number of U.M.W. officers were in court.

J. J. Ritchie, K.C., and E. M. MacDonald, K.C., were present on behalf of Dick, and Hector McInness, K.C., for Cowans. W. B. A. Ritchie acted for the prosecution.

At the commencement J. J. Ritchie contended that conspiracy, or concerted action should first be proved. The increase in the price of coal in Halifax couldn't affect the case so long as the increase wasn't made as the result of a pre-arranged agreement. Coal company officials had been subpoenaed and were in court. He couldn't see why Wm. Roche, ex-M.P., a Halifax coal merchant, should be called first.

However, Roche was called. He said he had been in the business for 13 years. In a general way, he would say that a large proportion of the coal mined in Nova Scotia was mined by the Dominion Coal Co., which had started operations in 1893.

Mr. Roche was asked by W. B. A. Ritchie how the price of reserve coal now compared with that in 1899. J. J. Ritchie objected to questions of this nature, and the magistrate ruled the question out of order, as it might lead to a question of whether fair wages were paid.

Mr. Roche to W. B. A. Ritchie said that the Reserve mine had been taken over by the Coal company, and the name Reserve was applied now to all the household coal supplied by the Dominion Coal Co. He believed the company tried to supply Reserve coal in Halifax.

The magistrate wanted to know if it was a crime to call a coal by any name it was desired to call it by. Mr. Ritchie said he wanted to find out just what the Reserve coal, sold in Halifax, was.

"As known in the trade in Halifax Reserve coal is coal shipped by the Dominion Coal Co. and supposed to be from Reserve mine," said Mr. Roche.

He had heard that representatives of the coal companies met in the city, but had never met with them. He did not know what they did at the meetings. There was no arrangement in regard to bunker coal. Witness was not allowed to name the price of coal to-day. He said he sold a great deal of bunker coal. It is supplied by the Dominion Coal Co. for the most part —more than they ought to, in some cases. They supplied people who should be supplied through the dealers. The Dominion had got the bulk of the trade on account of being able to mine properly and on account of transportation facilities. It had the coal trade along the coast almost exclusively. There was great difficulty sometimes in getting coal at all.

Bunker coal was supplied in Halifax to ships for less than was charged the Halifax dealers, he had heard. There was no price arranged for bunker coal. The price at Halifax was higher than at New York, and about the same as at Cardiff, Wales.

Mr. Ritchie said that the retail price of coal in Boston would be the same or a little higher than in Halifax, but an objection was lodged, and the magistrate ruled that conspiracy must first be shown.

Mr. Morrow was sworn. He said he was appointed agent for the Dominion Coal Co. at Halifax shortly after the Dominion Coal Co. was formed. Asked if he could produce letters from Mr. Dicks, and other documents relating to the summons. Morrow said he had not brought them with him.

"By whose direction do you decline to produce the letters in reference to such matters?" he was asked.

"By the direction of the directors of the Dominion Coal Co.," was the reply.

He knew of no arrangements between companies in regard to different collieries supplying different concerns, nor of any "working agreement."

"Are there any concern to which you will not quote your best prices, on account of any understanding that some other collieries is to supply them?"

"Possibly."

"Have there been times when you have quoted higher prices to some concerns than you would charge ordinarily?"

"Yes, when the season's contracts have not had the coal to spare."

In 1902 the standard price in Cape Breton was $3 for screened, and $2.75 for run of mine. If a man bought a single cargo now, he would have to pay $1 a ton more than in 1903. The nominal increase was $1 a ton; the actual increase about 40 or 50 cents to large dealers.

INSANE ARE NEGLECTED

Dr. Charteris of Chatham and Others Call Attention to Lack of Facilities For Care of the Weak-Minded of the Country—Smoking-room For Prisoners Awaiting Trial—Short Terms for First Offence.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—A smoking-room will be added to the jail if the suggestion put forward by Governor Chambers at the afternoon session of the annual Canadian conference of Charities and Correction at the Normal School yesterday, is adopted.

Governor Chambers did not advance the point jocularly, but from an earnest belief that the lives of his charges should be made no more burdensome than necessary during the period of their detention. He said that during his connection with the jail he found that ninety per cent. of the men prisoners found the greatest hardship in the deprivation of tobacco, and this he felt was an unnecessary hardship, and one which was not in the spirit of correction, but rather led the criminal to regard his punishment in the light of retaliation.

"If every country had as many insane persons in their jail as we have," declared Dr. C. R. Charteris of Chatham, "it is high time that the present asylums be enlarged, or new ones built. Ontario needs them more than the Parliament Buildings need a new library. Insanity is, like the great white plague, on the increase among us and, like it, it is capable of being cured to a large extent.

"No good can be done insane persons by placing them in jails. These people have their lucid intervals, when they recognise their surroundings. Thus an additional trouble is added to their already unhappy mental condition."

The suggested transfer of so-called harmless insane to country houses of refuge was not favorably looked on by the country authorities. No lunatics were harmless. They had to be watched with the utmost care. Moreover, the old people in these homes have a great horror of having insane persons coming among them.

He offered a resolution urging on the Government the necessity of one or more asylums in each county for so-called harmless insane persons, the cost of maintenance to be borne by the counties. It was sent to the committee on resolutions.

Dr. Helen MacMurchy complained that the native-born insane were being crowded out of the asylums by foreigners, who should never have been allowed to land.

Dr. English of the Hamilton Asylum suggested detention of mild cases in hospitals.

Major H. J. Snelgrove of Cobourg declared that criminal proceedings ought to be made to harmonize with the humanitarian-utilitarian spirit of the times.

The four theories as to the treatment of crime, punishment, protection, example and reformation all had their good points, but the state should concentrate its energies on reformation of its delinquent subjects taking care, of course, that its sovereignty was adequately maintained.

He favored the indeterminate sentence and compulsory labor for prisoners. By these means they should rid the community of the professional tramp, the drunken sot, and the habitual criminal, the "army of rebellious defectives." The educational and reformatory influences of the jail garden or farm was worthy of the highest consideration.

Lieut.-Col. Pugmire of the Salvation Army said that the machinery of the law existed, not to hold a man for a certain time and then let him out again to prey on society, but to teach him the lesson of life. What the released prisoners asked was not charity, but opportunity. They should recognize the tiny spiritual fibre vibrating in the worst of men.

Sheriff Middleton of Hamilton denied that it was the foreigner who was filling our jails. He favored longer sentences for the more determined criminal and shorter terms for ordinary offenders, than those given at present. He was doubtful about the value of the indeterminate sentence.

At the evening session W. L. Scott of Ottawa spoke on present needs of child rescue work. Nothing was being done in many parts of the province. There were defects in the Children's Protective Act, calling for amendment. Insufficient provision was made for local financial support. Too much was left to voluntary initiative. The Legislature should appoint a paid officer in every county and district in the province. Provision should be made for up-to-date juvenile courts, which were a farce without the essential element of probation. More facilities were needed for dealing with the feeble-minded.

Dr. J. T. Gilmour, warden of the Central Prison, cited some illuminative cases bearing on the making of criminals and the disabilities under which prison officials labored.

WAS A FAMOUS EDITOR

RECOLLECTIONS OF THE LATE CHRISTOPHER W. BUNTING.

The Journalist Who For So Many Years Ran The Toronto Mail Started as a Printer In The Globe Office —Worked at Sugar Trade Until He Entered the Commons — Ran Sir John A.'s Personal Organ.

The late Christopher W. Bunting was a man of whom everyone connected with the old generation of Toronto newspapermen speaks with kindliness and even with veneration, not only for his abilities, but for his genuine good fellowship. Though he has been dead now for over twelve years, an old-timer returning from California or some distant locality wanders into The Mail office, with which he was so long identified, and asks for Mr. Bunting and is shocked to learn that he is dead. His capacity was such that when he went into The Globe composing room as a lad to learn his trade as a printer, he was made foreman before his term of apprenticeship had expired. Later when he left the newspaper business and went to Niagara Falls, Ont., to engage in the sugar business, he was are long prominent as a Conservative, and in the seventies was elected to the House of Commons.

Old Conservatives on the Niagara peninsula used to hold a friendly grudge against Mr. Bunting, for the reason that hardly had he taken his seat than he removed to Toronto to become editor of The Mail, which had been established as a personal organ of Sir John A. Macdonald, and in which in company with the present owners he had obtained a financial interest. Later, when in 1886 a breach arose between himself and Sir John, he essayed the dangerous and very difficult game of independent journalism. He weathered the storm for eight years; indeed until several years after Sir John had been laid in his grave. Then it became apparent that the city of Toronto was the most absurdly "over-newspapered" burgh on the continent of America and then Bunting by his superb diplomacy effected an amalgamation without the sacrific of a single man, whereas the staff of The Empire backed by the power of Mackenzie Bowell administration was turned into the street with hardly a thank you for the up-hill work they had done. It is said of Mr. Bunting that though a merger of some kind was absolutely necessary he resolutely stuck to his guns and saved the situation of every employe from cellar to garret.

There are many anecdotes illustrating Mr. Bunting's disposition and temperament and one used to be told with great gusto by his old staff. There was in his day a politician, since dead, who was ambitious and thought that fame was to be achieved by the space given to his speeches in the newspapers. He was the type of man who, if the organ of his own party gave him three columns, would come round and whine that the reporters had not done their duty, and if the opposition newspaper gave "two sticks" to the same speech, would unctuously thank the reporters of that journal for the consideration shown him. Mr. Bunting was an expert in handling gentry of this kind. In his way he was a consummate actor and when the politician would come around with his complaint, he would send for the reporter and with a twinkle in his eye that the young man thoroughly understood, thunderously asked him:

"Why, in the face of my explicit orders, did you fail to report this gentleman's speech verbatim? How often have I to tell you a thing to make you understand it? Let me warn you, sir, that if this sort of thing goes on you will be dismissed."

The reporter would help out the farce by murmuring apologetically about not having time to transcribe all his notes. The politician would go away mollified and Mr. Bunting would laugh heartily after he had departed, and say to the reporter: "Cut the old grouch down to two sticks next time."

Inconsistent.

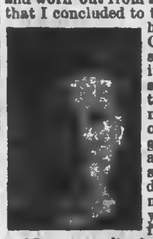
THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness, and I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly profited by them. I give you permission to publish this any time you wish."—Mrs. ALBERT WICKETT, Belleville, Ontario, Canada.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

CHEAPNESS OF G.T.P.

Tariffs on New Line Will Be Below All Other Routes.

A remarkable claim on behalf of the Grand Trunk Pacific has just been made by the well-known engineer, Mr. Duncan MacPherson, who has been prominently connected with the location and construction of the National Transcontinental Railway. He maintains that not only will the Grand Trunk Pacific be able to beat any existing railway in Canada in the cheapness with which it will be able to haul freight, but that it will transport grain from Winnipeg to Quebec cheaper than the cheapest existing water route and far cheaper than the present combination of rail and water routes between the two points. He bases this assertion on the directness of the G.T.P. route and the superior character of its roadbed.

"The distance between Winnipeg and Quebec," he said, "via the Transcontinental will be 1,351 miles, as compared with 1,771 miles via the Canadian Pacific Railway to Fort William, and lake, canal and St. Lawrence river, which route involves five trans-shipments of the grain. On the Transcontinental a Mallet articulated compound locomotive will be capable of hauling a gross load of 4,290 tons, or a net paying load of 2,860 tons, equal to 95,333 bushels of wheat. Assuming the earnings of such trains to be $4.40 per mile—which will be exactly double the earnings of the C.P.R. freight trains for 1908—it is found that even at this figure the cost per bushel over the 1,351 miles between Winnipeg and Quebec is 4.25 cents. The lowest known rate from Fort William to Montreal, via the lake, canal and St. Lawrence river, a distance of 1,216 miles was 4 cents per bushel in 1908. This 4 cents per bushel for 1,216 miles would be equivalent to 4 decimal 44 cents for 1,351 miles, so that at $4.40 a mile per train mile the engines could haul grain on the Transcontinental Railway, eastbound from Winnipeg to Quebec, for 0.19 cents per bushel cheaper than the cheapest existing water route could haul it the same distance, and 10.86 cents per bushel cheaper than the present combined rail and water routes.

"In fact," said Mr. MacPherson, "the G.T.P. will be able to haul the grain at about one-quarter the present rail and water rate."

Hamar Greenwood's Tour.

Hamar Greenwood, the member for York in the British Parliament, has not taken his annual trip to the Canadian Pacific coast this year, because he is putting in night and day sittings in the House of Commons, with speaking tours on behalf of the budget as extras. There are only about twenty speakers in England, who can command and hold large audiences, and Mr. Greenwood is certainly one of these.

He is now touring Cornwall and Devon on behalf of the budget league, an organization with Mr. Haldane, the War Minister at the head, which is re-invigorating the Government throughout the country. Mr. Greenwood started from Exmouth, the home of Sir Walter Raleigh, on the 10th, and toured by motor through two of the most beautiful and historic counties in the British Isles.

His plan of operation is to speak at a noon-day meeting in some quaint English town, and then to motor to a larger town, and take one and sometimes two meetings in one night. In this way, he will speak at all the principal Cornish and Devon places in about ten days. His voice never tires and his six-feet of good Canadian physique is equal to any work that runs up against him. He knows his subject, speaks lucidly and with a minimum of gesticulation, and never fails to ask for questions, and to deal with them pointedly and politely.

He ought to be at least Under Secretary at the Colonial Office, for if he does not know more about the colonies and as much about the Government of the home country as many so-called English statesmen, then he is not worthy of the Dominion of which he is always so keen a champion.

TESTING THE TEACHER.

A Curious Old School Report Made In Boston in 1722.

In the town records of the city of Boston there is a curious passage which records how a schoolmaster was examined and what happened. The manner in which the visit of inspection is recorded makes one incline to the view that the unlucky schoolmaster may not have had fair play, although if he was really inefficient he may be said to have been judged by his peers. In the record for the 22d of May, 1722, it is set forth that:

"Coll Pen Townsend, Jeremiah Allen Esqr. & John Edwards together with the Select men, Visitted the wrighting School at the Southerly End of Boston on Thursday the 24th April 1722, and Examined the Scholars under mr Ames Angers tuition as to their proficiency in Reading writing Sceyphering & the masters ability of teaching & Instructing youth his rules & methods therefore And are of Opinion That it will be no Service to the Town to Continue mr anger in that Employ.

Whereupon it was voted that the said Mr. Ames Anger should not continue master of the "Said Sout school."

It is true that nothing is said of the methods of spelling inculcated at the "wrighting School," and it is also possible that a clerk rather than the committee was responsible for the error of the record, but there is certainly something absurd in the passage as it stands.—Exchange.

Another Marathon Prodigy.

That Canada can turn out other great long-distance runners besides Tom Longboat, was made clear at Lowell, Mass., the other day when a dark-faced, slender boy from Quebec trotted home at the head of a long line of runners, including John J. Hayes, winner of the Olympic Marathon. Hans Holmer—for that was boy's name—not only won with the greatest ease, but clipped 18 seconds off the world's record for the distance. That he could have shortened it by minutes had he been pressed was the opinion of all who witnessed his feat. He ran the 26 miles and 385 yards in 2 hours, 43 minutes, and 37 seconds. Holmer is a resident of Quebec city, and is well known throughout Canada as a great long-distance runner. It may be that he developed his tremendous endurance climbing the hills of the Ancient Capital. Anyone who has ever walked much about the city in question will realize what grand training it is for anything from a marathon to a six-day bicycle race.

Peace Centenary.

The form of petition addressed by the Canadian Peace and Arbitration Society to the Government of the Dominion is well calculated to impress on the whole people of this country the value of peace and the hatefulness of war. The motive is to secure co-operation between Canada and the United States in arranging for an international commemoration of the close of a century of uninterrupted peace between these two countries. The petition should be widely circulated and numerously signed.—Globe, Toronto.

The Old Excuses.

DOING SOMETHING DESPERATE,

And After It Was Done Sylvia Really Felt Contented.

By JEANNE OLIVE LOIZEAUX.

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

The moonlight and her beauty softened the scorn of her glance when she saw that it was Max who had been sent back for her. She sat alone in Jack Burroughs' stalled machine. Jack and his wife had walked in, being due at an important function.

"You!" Sylvia's tone matched the intention of her glance.

"Even I, Sylvia," he replied with a rueful grin. "Fate is sometimes decent. A fellow has to risk what welcome is coming to him."

"It was horrid of the Burroughs to send you, but they had to get to that dinner, I suppose! My ankle still refuses to let me walk far, or I'd have gone with them afoot."

Tall and fair, cap in hand, he was standing with an offered hand to help her down and into his own little runabout. But she did not move. His glance followed hers to the gleaming object held fearfully in her lap. He took both hand and pistol as she explained.

"Jack would leave it when I insisted on their going and sending back the first respectable person they met"—

"Thanks! Are you coming?" He pocketed the weapon. But she only removed her big hat and veil.

"You know why I'm afraid! You're worse than a pistol. I can't trust you." Her tone was quite serious. "Next time you ask me to marry you I shall do something desperate! I would almost prefer staying here alone. Oh, Max, would you, for once, take me straight home? And behave? You used to be nice when we were children."

"I won't propose, in the car, I promise. But I will not take you straight home—it's too early—you and the moon are too divinely fair. I don't want to behave especially, but since I must I will. I will vary the program by asking you not 'Will you have me?' but 'Why is it that you won't have me?' Come?"

Finally she reached him her hand, but without excuse he suddenly took her in his arms and lifted her to his car. For a few minutes they sped along with the June breezes freshening on their faces. At length he spoke frankly, quietly:

"Sylvia, let's talk it over. I may have annoyed you—I may have made a fool of myself imploring you to be mine times innumerable, like a comic opera hero with the same old song. I don't know how to say it many ways. It all comes to the same thing—marriage or not. But I love you."

It pleased him to be whimsical, and Sylvia laughed. It was a change from the dead serious, anyway. He was never modest about his real worth. He continued:

"I am lovable, too, with an affectionate disposition. What is the matter, Sylvia? Please tell me. I will not ask you again—in the car—I promised—and never again at all once I see you do not love me. You have never flatly denied that, you know."

He turned his face away that she might speak freely if she would. Not that she had ever been embarrassed with him; he wished she had. At last she spoke:

"You bring this on yourself. I don't feel polite. You always make me so irritable and unlovely. I want to fly when I see you coming. I came out with the Burroughses to be rid of you and to save them from each other's company. I can't tell you just why it is, but the sight of you makes me contrary, and I cannot say what you want me to."

Speeding a little more, he turned to her coolly.

"You are never unlovely, Sylvia. Just how do I irritate you?"

They glided on through the soft dusk between the dark, sweet breathing woods and lighter meadow lands. On and on they came, nearer the city, whose myriad lights seemed to flash toward them from the dim hills.

"And you make me think when I don't want to. It's like pushing something away that you do not want to come too close. I simply don't seem to want to be married. I"— She stopped short.

"Is that it? Of course you have to decide that. What is it you do want in your life, Sylvia? To grow old alone? Your aunt won't always live. Do you want to earn your own living? Do you know of anything that would be a satisfactory substitute for married love? Do you want to study some art or a profession—medicine, for instance? Do you want to be an old maid and remember that you had a lover who, man and boy, would do anything—die for you, live for you and with you and give you what happiness he could coax from the scheme of things? Don't I interest you? Must I lose my money or must I take sick and almost die or save somebody in some romantic stunt to make myself interesting? I want to know where I am, what I can do. Are you tired of seeing me about? I might go away a few years. Shall I?" She laughed at his ridiculous, half practical, half sentimental vein so characteristic of him.

"Perhaps I am just too used to you, Max. You used simply to say you were going to marry me. The last year you have teased me by asking me till you make me cross. I don't know just how I do feel. I can't seem to get any perspective on you—or on marriage at all. You seem to stand between me and understanding. I am not a coward, but think of the responsibility! See the Burroughses—always on the ragged edge of a quarrel, undivorced simply because the only thing they agree on is hating a scandal! If Kitty had said no they might both have been happy. It's a big thing—being responsible for a man's happiness, especially if one might get to care very much, and I have nobody of my own, really."

His pulses sang at her words, but he forbade himself to reach for the hand which lay on her lap ungloved.

"Really, Max, the uncertainty and being bothered and all have put me on the verge of—anything, lately. I even thought how soon that little pistol would decide things for me! If this goes on I shall certainly study medicine, or jump from a moving train, or let myself be carried off by Dick Benton!"

She certainly needed some one to look after her, he reflected. He remembered that the mother she never knew had died of a broken heart. This might make her a little bitter and afraid. She seemed to have finished speaking. He had determined what to do. He spoke in a most matter of fact way, dismissing sentiment.

"I want something I left at the bank," he said. "I have dad's key. Would you mind if I stopped there a minute and at the Leader office? I forgot a notice that must be in the morning issue."

They were entering the city. She acquiesced, her head a little dizzy, her heart sinking at his silence. Had she made him think she could never—care? Would he never ask her again? What she thought she was losing became suddenly precious.

When they were on their way home another fear stole over her. Had she unconsciously shown her heart? She wished for the mother she had never known—the lovely, sad mother they had told her of. They were entering the driveway.

He helped her out and walked to the door with her. With her hand on the latch, she looked at him timidly, wistfully, a new look for Sylvia.

"Good night," she just breathed. "They are all out yet."

"Just a moment, Sylvia," and he drew her by the hand from the porch, across the lawn, to the old elm where they had played as children.

"Sylvia"—he let go her hand and faced her—"you fear the responsibility? I do not! I will answer for your happiness, which is my own. Can't you believe me? I got mother's old ring from the bank. Now, for the last time, in spite of what you have said, I ask you to marry me. Will you, Sylvia?"

He stooped to catch her low answer, but the sound of voices and steps came from the porch.

"They are coming home," she whispered. He took her by the shoulders.

"Answer me, Sylvia!" Tears stood on her cheeks as she laughed a little, pushing him from her as she said:

"Yes, yes, yes!" He felt his arm about her, his kiss on her lips, his ring on her finger. And she was content.

When at last he was leaving her she whispered demurely:

"I said I would do something desperate—and I have—you are accepted! I deserve anything for being so rash! When shall you tell auntie?"

"Tell auntie to find the announcement in the morning paper."

Sylvia gasped. But what was the use of scolding about what was done?

Starvation Treatment a Failure

The Sensible Cure for Indigestion is "Little Digesters"

Probably because the taking of food causes such intense discomfort, many dyspeptics think that by abstaining from this and thus—practically starving themselves—they can cure the trouble.

Of course, where Indigestion is caused by sheer gluttony, cutting down the food would no doubt do good. But in most cases Indigestion is caused, not by overeating, but by lack of physical exercise, and consequent lack of vigor in the organs of digestion. Partial starvation still further impairs the bodily vigor, and makes the trouble worse.

The dispeptic needs plenty of good, wholesome food. He can eat it, and DIGEST IT, TOO, if he takes a "Little Digester" after each meal. "Little Digesters" help the weakened stomach to do properly that which it cannot do alone—digest and assimilate the food needed to build up the system.

An Ancient Industry.

It would be difficult to say where exactly and at what date the manufacture of cotton fabrics began. In comparatively modern times, says Country Life, it has become an industry of importance in Europe, but it has flourished in the east from a period too remote to admit of calculation. The Egyptians certainly used both cotton and linen materials, for fragments of such stuffs have been preserved among the other relics of their ancient civilization, and there is much reason to believe that the elaborate draperies of the Assyrians were cotton or muslins finely woven and of delicate texture. In China, too, and India the same kinds of material have been the common wear of the people from time immemorial. In fact, everywhere throughout the east cotton fabrics were produced and used long before the primitive Europeans had begun to develop any of the graces of civilization or indeed had ceased to be anything but skin clad savages.

Most Awkward.

An old, steady going farmer was accustomed to ride to the market town upon a rather bad tempered horse.

One day his man Bob brought the animal, which was especially vicious that morning, to the door, the horse trying to bite and kick and giving a good deal of trouble.

The farmer mounted the horse with some difficulty and began to walk it out of the yard when Bob, who still entertained ill feeling against the animal, picked up a stone and flung it at him with all his force; but, alas, his aim was erratic, and the missile struck his master on the head.

Half dazed for a moment, the farmer turned slowly in his saddle, and, not suspecting the real cause of the blow, he measured with his eye the horse's hind hoofs and his own head and, settling himself in the saddle again, started off with the remark, "Well, he allus was an okard beggar."—London Scraps.

Tall and Short.

First Detective—What was the description of that absconding bank cashier we were told to look out for?

Second Detective—He was six feet tall and $50,000 short.—Philadelphia Record.

The Cost Was Enough.

Mr. Leslie Ward, more generally known as "Spy," the London cartoonist, who met with a golfing accident recently, tells an amusing story of Mr. Stirling Stuart, the famous hunting man, who was the subject of one of his cartoons. Mr. Stuart, who decided to sit for the cartoon, gave the artist the opportunity of choosing what costume he should wear. When looking over Mr. Stuart's wardrobe, Mr. Ward pulled out a jacket with a loud stripe, and said, "Come in this." Mr. Stuart arrived at the studio with the striped jacket, but trousers of an entirely different pattern. "I thought you would wear the entire suit," said Mr. Ward, critically eyeing his sitter's get-up. "My dear boy," said Mr. Stuart, "you don't suppose the man who built this coat lived to build the trousers too, do you?"

Tea Drinking.

Tea table etiquette was somewhat complicated in the days of that "hardened and shameless tea drinker," Dr. Johnson, when many people thought nothing of drinking 10 or 12 cups at a sitting. It was considered proper for the cups and saucers of a party of tea drinkers to be all passed up to the hostess in one bunch when replenishment was considered necessary, and in order that each person might be sure of getting back the right cup, the teaspoons were numbered. When the cups were passed up those who did not require any more were supposed to place the spoon in the cup.

A Daring Rescue.

A most gallant rescue of three men from imminent death was effected at Malta recently in the presence of an immense crowd. Three workmen, with the usual carelessness of such folk, had descended to examine the sewage tunnels of Valetta. They became asphyxiated and fell. After a time a cry was raised that they were lost. Two other workmen volunteered to recover them. They reached the unconscious men in the poisonous passage, 300 feet away from the shaft, and, almost exhausted themselves, brought them up to the surface. One of the men died soon after being rescued.

The Coming Lord Mayor.

For the coming year, London's Lord Mayor is likely to be Sir John Knill, who is a Roman Catholic.

When Sir John's father, the late Sir Stuart Knill, stood for election to the same office seventeen years ago, there was a great scene at the Guildhall, one liveryman mounting the hustings and asking his fellows to reject Ald. Knill. But he was elected, all the same.

At a banquet he gave to Roman Catholic bishops and priests at the Mansion House during his mayoralty he caused a sensation by toasting with great fervor, "The Holy Father and the Queen." Many held it disloyal to place the name of the Pope before that of His Majesty, and there was an angry outburst on the part of a section of the public.

Stenciled Playing Cards.

During the fifteenth century playing cards were executed by means of stencil plates. There are now few of these cards in existence, and they are very valuable.

Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

TAYLOR'S TUB TALKS

Don't Boil Clothes

It isn't necessary—it's expensive and it means doubling your work. You don't have to boil clothes when you use Taylor's Borax Soap, for it dissolves and removes the dirt in a jiffy—yet it never harms the daintiest textures, nor shrinks woolens.

It leaves everything whiter, sweeter and cleaner than you ever dreamed possible. Try it and see.

TUB TALK No. 2

To wash colored muslins, linens or lawns, first make a strong suds with Taylor's Borax Soap and luke warm water. Wet but one piece at a time. Unless the article is very much soiled, do not run the soap directly on the article. Rub gently with the hands until perfectly clean. Wring out the clothes, and rinse thoroughly in water of the same temperature as that previously used. Never boil colored clothes. A very little Taylor's Borax Soap added to boiled starch will prevent it from sticking, and makes the clothes iron smoother and easier.

FAT MAN SWEETHEARTS.

They Make Better Friends Than Lovers.

Why is it that so few fat men can properly make love? It is a fact they cannot. Is it because avoirdupois overbalances sentiment, or is it because their rotund jollity precludes the necessity of the intoxicating exhilaration of lovemaking?

Fat men are frequently indifferent, usually satisfied and always ennuied. They are genial, good natured, liberal and jolly, but did you ever see the little blind god so absolutely foolish as to aim his arrows at a fat man? No; a thousand times no.

For a real, whole souled ardent disciple of the art of lovemaking Cupid invariably selects the tall, slender man with dark, magnetic eyes and hair the hue of a raven's wing. Of course your tall, dreamy eyed man does not occupy the whole stage; he is merely the attractive center, and there are a few side acts both pleasing and agreeable where the fat man shows up well.

He sees the funny side of life, but he thinks more of a good dinner than a passionate kiss snatched in the dark.

He watches with amused indifference the frantic efforts of his Apollo-like brother in his mad rush for a proscenium box at love's matinee and calmly lights a cigar and settles back to a peaceful enjoyment of its soothing influence.

No, lovemaking is not for the fat man. He may be and often is a charming and faithful friend, loyal and true; as a fond and generous brother none can surpass him; as a dutiful and affectionate son he has no equal, but as a lovemaker he is distinctly down and out.

But does this worry the fat man? Not a bit of it.

As Mrs. Wiggs so graphically puts it, "If you hain't never eat turkey you do not know how good it is," and so the fat man, never having climbed to the halcyon heights of impetuous lovemaking, does not know how good it is and abides, peaceful and undisturbed by the whirlwind of sentiment in the valley of everyday content, while the surging mass of love's votaries struggle blindly up the pathway to gain possession of the prize for which the fat man has no desire.

No, the fat man cannot make love, even a little. But if you want a pleasant, jolly, loyal friend, one whose abundant optimism makes even a November fog seem cheerful, let me whisper to you a secret—choose the fat man.

IN THE NURSERY.

Bebay should have the coolest room in the house.

He should have his own separate little bed and not sleep with mother.

The bed should be soft and firm, and feathery bolsters and pillows should be excluded.

If foreign substance gets into the ear, a few drops of warm oil will give immediate relief.

Baby should not be given soothing sirups in any form. Consult a doctor if it does not sleep well.

The wee one will be less restless and will sleep longer and better if frequently sponged with soft cool water.

The little one should not be permitted to suck baby comforters to keep it quiet. They prevent baby from getting fresh, pure air.

It is almost invariably the case that the babies who sleep out of doors are stronger and less apt to catch cold than those who do not.

The best way to keep baby in good health and prevent him from becoming peevish and fretful is a proper amount of bathing, suitable foods and absolute quiet when sleeping.

If your child gets foreign substance in his nose, have him blow the nose hard, holding opposite nostril. Excite sneezing. Have him take a full breath, then give him a sharp blow on the back between the shoulders.

Beware of Flies.

Flies are a great menace to health. It has been proved that they cause many diseases, and therefore babies should be carefully protected from them. We know that the fly causes a large percentage of typhoid fever cases and that it is the chief disseminator of diarrheal diseases. Therefore during the entire summer every mother should wage unceasing warfare on the common household pest. The number of bacteria on a single fly may range from 550 to 6,600,000. Early in the season the number of bacteria is comparatively small, but it increases rapidly with the progress of the summer. Screen all food.

Beauty Baths.

A most excellent tonic bath is the salt bath. Before retiring at night dissolve a cupful of sea salt in hot water and when you rise next morning fill the tub half full of water and add the sea salt brine. You will emerge from your morning plunge in a perfect glow after a brisk rub with a coarse towel. Every nerve will tingle, and you will see a soft rosy glow on the skin.

A cheesecloth bag filled with a pound of oatmeal and twirled in a warm "tub" gives splendidly restful and beautifying results.

Woman's World

TO HEAD SCHOOL SYSTEM.

First Woman to Be Chosen Superintendent of Chicago Schools.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, former principal of the Chicago Normal school, has recently been chosen by the school board of the Windy City as superintendent of schools to succeed E. G. Cooley, resigned.

This is the first time a woman in the United States has held such a position, and Mrs. Young by her recent appointment has been promoted from a position paying $5,000 to one to which a salary of $10,000 is attached.

In an interview the newly elected superintendent expressed her pleasure at being the first woman to hold such a position and outlined her policy as one of unification of all interests. "When I first began teaching," she said in speaking of her work, "I made the mistake of supposing that every day I should do something in the line of study and reading outside my regular work. I found out, however, that a continual press of extra work and social engagements not only rushed me in everything I did, but left me no time for recreation. I then adopted the resolution that three evenings in every week should be devoted to study. This rule I have religiously lived up to and have found it an enormous benefit." As Mrs. Young is a trifle over sixty years of age, her experience in teaching extends over a long period. "I manage," Mrs. Young concluded, "to put in a pretty full day. The alarm clock is my constant bedside companion and arouses me every morning at 6 o'clock sharp. I utilize what time there is before breakfast on odd tasks and directly after the meal leave for school. There I am busy until the afternoon, when I return home and take my daily recreation in my gasoline runabout.

MRS. ELLA FLAGG YOUNG.

"No; I am not yet a speeder or a 'joy rider,'" she laughed in answer to a query. "I am merely after the air and do not want the whole street. My evenings I devote to my engagements or, as I have told you, to study in my quarters at home, where I have a regular office fitted out with a roller top desk and letter files."

When asked to what sort of study these evening hours were devoted Mrs. Young said her first efforts had been in mathematics. This was followed by specialisations in fields of literature. She then became interested in ethics and followed this by work in logic, metaphysics and philosophy, which last she regards as the most engrossing of all subjects and as involving all the rest.

Live Stock in Saxony.

In Saxony practically all of the live stock is stall fed for 300 days of the year and the largest portion for the full 365 days.

The Small States.

The area of Maryland is 12,210 square miles, 2,350 square miles of which are water. There are seven states in the Union which have a smaller area—viz, every New England state except Maine and New Jersey and Delaware. The gross area of none of these states equals the land area of Maryland.

Popular Science.

The sun is 400.7 times as large as the moon.

The actual distance of the moon from the earth varies from 252,972 miles to 221,614 miles, according to its position in the lunar orbit.

According to the researches of H. Fritzsche, about three-quarters of the rain which refreshes the continents of the earth is due to the vapors rising from the soil instead of to those coming from the oceans.

Professor Korn of Munich has established stations of distance photography at Berlin, Munich, Paris, London, Copenhagen and Stockholm. He believes it will soon be possible to take pictures at a distance not only of individuals, but of groups and scenes.

The Cookbook.

When frying mush, dip the slices first in the white of an egg. This makes it crisp.

Mashed potatoes should be run through a vegetable press as soon as boiled. After dressing they should be beaten with a fork until light.

Keeping vegetables in the cooking water after they are done spoils both looks and taste. After pouring water off, return to fire for a minute to dry off before dressing.

Rich pie crust is often cut into long, thin strips and browned in the oven, spread with a layer of jam and then with whipped cream. After spreading, place every two strips together, sandwich fashion, and serve.

Things Theatrical.

Both Albert Chevalier and Yvette Guilbert will make American tours this season.

Hamilton Revelle, the English actor, is to be in the cast of "The Coast of Chance."

Ida Conquest will be the leading woman for Charles Richman in his play "The Revelers."

Mrs. Alexander Salvini, the widow of the actor, may return to the stage in a play written by herself.

Rida Johnson Young has written a new comedy, called "The Lottery," which the Shuberts will produce.

The Royal Box.

Queen Maud of Norway wears an eyeglass.

The emperor of Japan can trace his descent as far back as 600 B. C.

No less than fifty-four royal residences, including shooting boxes, are maintained by the German emperor.

King Edward is a clergyman, although few people seem to be aware of the fact. He is prebendary of St. David's in Wales and gets a salary of £5 a year. He is entitled to preach one sermon a year in the cathedral.

Gas Burners.

Gas burners, like other things, are likely to get dirty. Often there is quite a little collection of rubbish on them, and if this is cleared away the improvement in the light is noticeable.

Mosques of Constantinople.

In Constantinople there are more than 300 mosques or temples.

The Coffee Plant.

The coffee plant or tree is a little different from most berry producers. Instead of planting the seed the coffee plant is grafted from the old tree and set out in hotbeds until it has become rooted.

Japanese Screws.

The threads of Japanese screws run the opposite way from ours.

Moors at Their Meals.

Moors take their meals squatting on the floor round a low table, on which is a steaming dish, into which each one plunges his fist in search of dainty morsels.

Sisal Fiber.

Fully 80 per cent of the income of Yucatan is derived from sisal fiber.

Humming Birds.

Cuba probably has the smallest humming bird in the world—Calypte helenae, named after Princess Christian—but it may have a rival in tininess in a Peruvian species of acestrura. The Calypte helenae is an exquisite little creature not quite two and one-half inches long, with a forked crimson gorget.

The Earth's Interior.

If we could penetrate the earth's surface to a distance of two miles we should find the place where water could not exist except in the state of steam.

Lotion For Wrinkles.

A simple lotion for wrinkles is composed of tannin, one ounce; rosewater, five ounces; glycerin, two ounces. Apply with a camel's hair brush. When used frequently wrinkles are likely to disappear, unless too deeply seated, and the appearance of new ones delayed.

The Musical Servant.

The following advertisement appeared recently in a Vienna journal: "A young girl seeks situation as general servant in small family owning piano. Desires to practice two hours daily."

Moonlight in Cuba.

Moonlight is so intense at times in Cuba that it causes sore eyes, and the natives go about with umbrellas and parasolnas. This affection is cured, according to a former consul general to Cuba, by washing the eyes with moonlight fallen dew. These dews have been found to have radio-active and electric properties.

As It Appeared to Ouida.

Ouida, the novelist, more than twenty-five years ago wrote in regard to the cry of votes for women, but requested that her paper be not published until after her death. "The cry of 'equality with men,'" she wrote, "is much the same as the rough's cry for equality in government. In both instances the rights of citizenship are demanded, but the responsibilities of citizenship are shirked. The woman demands the exercise of political power; the rough demands the same thing, but as the rough will not relinquish his enjoyment of lawlessness and license so the woman will not relinquish her claim in social difference and social precedence. Briefly, an enlightened and honorable man must submit to be jostled and trampled by the one and must stand aside with cat in hand for the other and is only in return to have invaded and snatched away the few civil superiorities to both that he has hitherto enjoyed." Ouida wrote, however, twenty-five years ago and knew nothing of the woman of the present day clinging to a strap while the "enlightened" man kept his hat on and sat oblivions in the seat, and the same woman was no doubt supporting herself and the "enlightened" man's children.

Washing Pets.

Cats and dogs should be washed at least once a week, says a writer. Do not keep the cats in a draft while the fur is drying. Any cat, even the alley breed, is liable to suffer from earache. Use warm water with a good amount of borax. Never rub soap on the fur or hair. Have it dissolved ready for use. Keep the little poodle dogs on a blanket to dry. Cut the hair away from the eyes. This fringe that hangs over the eyes will cause blindness.

Adjusting Shields.

The woman who does not have to wear shields in her dresses is as lucky as she is rare. It is surprising that, much worn as they are, shields are so badly worn.

They should be adjusted to suit the needs of the wearer, not from preconceived notions of a dressmaker. For this reason most women prefer adjusting their own shields.

As a rule, they should be set well to the front. For this reason the goose necked shield with the long arm is a wise choice.

One reason that women complain of the quality of their shields is that they are put in so that they wrinkle. This spoils the rubber and soon makes it unwearable. It is important to catch the edges as well as the armhole. The part that goes into the sleeve should also be firmly tacked, though this is often omitted.

While the truly careful woman sews her shields in half a dozen places, the busy woman is no less neat because she substitutes the smallest size of safety pins.

One girl has hit upon an ingenious way of adjusting her shield, which, though a nuisance at first, is a later comfort. Small pieces of wash ribbon are sewed to each edge of the shield and at the middle of bottom curve; corresponding pieces are sewed at the proper places on the armholes and on the underarm and sleeve seam. The shield can then be tied in place at a minute's notice.

Influenza Coughs—

Influenza seems to seek out the same victims year after year, and if the disorder is once contracted, one is ever after prone to catch it again. No remedy is so sure to cure, so certain to prevent the dangerous after-effects, as "Nerviline." The germ-killing, soothing, pain-relieving power of Nerviline is the marvel of every doctor. Ten times stronger than ordinary remedies. No wonder it breaks up Coughs, Colds, and Influenza in one day.

Nerviline

"Last Winter," writes J. E. Hemmingway, of Woodstock, "I was stricken down with influenza. Every bone in my body ached. My chest was tight and sore, breathing was hard, stabbing pains shot through my lungs and made me wince. My head swam with dizziness, and fever and high pulse dragged down my strength. Nothing but Nerviline helped, and it cured me quickly. For all Winter ills I urge every family to use Polson's Nerviline."

All dealers sell Nerviline, large bottles 25 cents.

THE LAMP OF POOR SOULS.

Above my head the shields are stained with rust,
The wind has taken his spoil, the moth his part,
Dust of dead men beneath my knees, and dust,
Lord, in my heart.

Lay Thou the hand of faith upon my fears.
The priest has prayed, the silver bell has rung.
But not for him. O unforgotten tears,
He was so young!

Shine, little lamp, nor let thy light grow dim.
Into what vast dread dreams, what lonely lands,
Into what griefs hath death delivered him,
Far from my hands?

Cradled is he, with half his prayers forgot.
I cannot learn the level way he goes.
He whom the harvest hath remembered not
Sleeps with the rose.

Shine, little lamp, fed with sweet oil and prayers;
Shine, little lamp, as God's own eyes may shine,
When He treads softly down His starry stairs
And whispers "Thou art mine."

Shine, little lamp, for love hath fed thy gleam
Sleep, little soul, by God's own hands set free,
Cling to His arms and sleep, and, sleeping, dream,
And, dreaming, look for me.

(Note.) In many English churches before the Reformation a little lamp was kept continually burning, called the Lamp of Poor Souls. People were reminded thereby to pray for the souls of those dead whose kinsfolk were too poor to pay for special prayers and masses.

COMING TO CANADA.

Why the Americans Are Flocking Into the Western Prairies.

One reason why American farmers are entering the Canadian West in large numbers is found in this extract from an article, "With the Invading Yankees," by Walter P. McGuire in Canada-West Monthly:

"Guess I'm pretty much like my father,' said a tall man. "His folks gave him eighty acres near their farm in Indiana in 1846, and he could have settled down there and made a living. But he didn't. He came west to the end of the railroad line—it was Iowa City then — and walked about ninety miles farther, and cut down trees at the edge of a wood and built a log house. Then he returned to Indiana and got mother—she was only sixteen then, and a year married—and they began farming. It was hard work, and they lived on nothing but corn bread and molasses one winter—I've heard 'em tell about it many a time—and for four years father hauled his grain to Des Moines, that was the nearest market and was thirty-seven miles from the farm. But they were happy there, and got pretty rich, and father always said he was glad he left Indiana.

"Now, I'm leaving old Iowa, and the old farm. Father paid $9 an acre for the place. I got $108. But I don't think I'd have moved if I hadn't got so restless on the old place, for I was making money enough to live on quite comfortable. You ever live on a farm? Well, if you didn't you ain't got any idea how hard it is to stay cooped up on 160 acres when you've got enough machinery to farm a place several times that size, and have to let it stand idle most of the time; and when you know how fine it is to stand in your doorway and look out over a strip of this old earth and can feel that it's your own and nobody can take it away from you; and when you figure that if you only went out to some new part of the earth, like your father did, you could look over a strip much bigger than that, and just as good for farming—then you'd know exactly why I've started for Canada. I mean," he added, looking out of the window, "why I've come to Canada. You wouldn't think, though, that you was in Canada if you didn't know it, would you? The same sights over again."

Health Declines When Kidneys Fail

After experimenting for nearly 20 years Dr. Hamilton discovered an absolute specific for weak kidneys. His pills of mandrake and buttercut cure permanently.

Can you afford to delay? No, your interest compels you to use this certain cure now—to-day. Only take Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and an absolute recovery is guaranteed. In thousands of cases relief has been instantaneous. Such was the experience of James G. Gordon of Marysville.

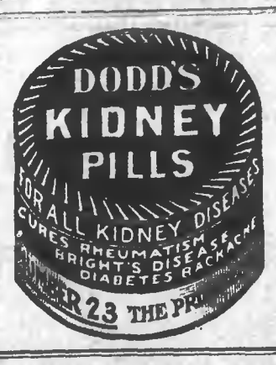
TWENTY YEARS A SUFFERER.

"My kidneys bothered me for twenty years. I had gnawing pains in the back, and my limbs ached with weariness all the time. My digestion was poor, and I had specks before my eyes.

"Dr. Hamilton's Pills helped me from the first day. Relief was immediate. They restored me, and my health's better than ever."

Hamilton's Pills Cured

All complaints kindred to kidney disease are prevented by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Their use insures you against Diabetes, Bright's Disease, and liver trouble. No house should be without such a valuable medicine. Sold everywhere by druggists, 25c per box, or five for $1.00.



Indian Cemetery Makes Trouble.

Acting under instructions from the Indian Department at Ottawa, A. W. Powell, the veteran superintendent of Indian affairs for British Columbia, went north recently with the object of breaking the deadlock now existing between the Indians at Kitsumkalum and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, respecting the building of the company's line through an Indian grave yard.

The Dominion Government, after investigation, has rejected the extravagant demands of its Indian wards on the Skeena River, and has accepted the offer submitted by the railway company as a basis of settlement. Work on the grade through the cemetery has been hung up for months owing to the uncompromising position taken by the Siwashes. The railway company now offers to grant 115 for the removal of each skeleton, allowing $200 for the purpose of establishing a new cemetery, and $1,000 to surviving members of the tribe as a balm for their wounded feelings. If the offer is not accepted within a week after its submission, the chief will be deposed and the work of removing the bodies will be proceeded with, even if force is exercised. The graves affected by this dispute number twelve.

The Siwashes several months ago demanded that compensation be paid surviving relatives according to the rank of the departed. Eight hundred dollars was asked for the privilege of disturbing the resting place of two venerable chiefs, who died nearly thirty years ago, and $500 for Indian men, $250 for Indian women and $150 for Indian babies.

The Rural Postmaster.

A good many summer sojourners, who during the past fortnight have been drifting back to the big towns, are full of sound and fury anent that peculiar type the Rural Postmaster. The potentate in question deserves to have his name spelled in capital letters, for he exercises a prerogative greater than any that his nominal employer, His Majesty Edward VII., would ever presume to, and often if he is located in a lonely place beyond the beaten path of the inspectorial staff he is nothing less than a czar. Instances could be multiplied of the tyranny that this individual exercises in a small community.

In the northern sections conditions are worst, though curiosity is more frequently at the basis of the trouble than mere tyranny. The postmaster or his family open the letters just to get news from the city. If the letter is interesting they show it to their friends and the person addressed does not get it at all. A Toronto man who had a sister sojourning in the pine woods for her health discovered this situation, and, being somewhat of a humorist, he went to see the postmaster, who was not a bad fellow.

"Look here, old man," he said; "I don't mind your opening the letters I write my sister, but for God's sake give them to her afterward."

The postmaster promised he would. He saw nothing unique in the request.

Ferrovim, the invigorating tonic, contains beef, the most strengthening food in the least bulk, Iron, which makes rich, red blood and gives strength and vitality to the whole body and just enough pure Spanish Sherry Wine to stimulate the digestion and thus aid the assimilation of the Iron and Beef. $1.00 per bottle at druggists.

Serviceable and Cheap.

The old gentleman showed a good deal of displeasure.

"It seems to me," he exclaimed testily, "rather presumptuous for a youth in your position to ask for my daughter's hand! Can you advance any good reason why I should give my consent?"

"Certainly, sir," promptly replied the suitor. (He refrained from adding, "Because I suit 'er," being a respectable young gentleman.)

"What?" pressed the old man.

"I am comparatively modest and economical in my personal expenditure," replied the suitor, "and I think, sir, that, altogether, you will find me less costly to maintain than almost any other son-in-law you could select."—London Answers.

An Admission.

It was at a little northwestern town in New South Wales. A traveling Englishman stood on the veranda of the public house watching the sun go down across the Black Soil plains in a splendor of purple and gold.

"By Jove," he exclaimed to an impassive bushman who was lounging against a post, "that's gorgeous, isn't it?"

The bushman slanted his head a little and looked critically at the glowing west. "Not bad," he drawled, "not bad—for a little place like Boggabri."

Two Texts.

A church in Scotland being vacant two candidates offered to preach, their names being Adam and Lot. The last named preached in the morning, taking for his text, "Adam, where art thou?" The congregation was much pleased and edified.

Mr. Adam preached in the evening, taking for his text, "Lo (low) here am I!" The impromptu and the sermon gained him the church.

Under the Mast.

Custom decrees that a gold coin, or at the very least silver, shall be put under the mainmast of each new ship launched. The coin bears the date of the year when the vessel is completed.

TORONTO COPS ABROAD.

How Two of Them Were Rescued in the Bowery by the N. Y. Coppers.

Some years ago two of the brawniest members of the Toronto police force who were bachelors and had saved a little money decided to spend a holiday in New York. Naturally they wanted to take in all the sights, and like most visitors who are not attached to a feminine companion, decided to take in the Bowery. They were men of sober habits and were not out for a riotous time. They just wanted to see the life of the East side. They took in "Suicide Hall" and Steve Brodie's, and many other delectable resorts, and presently, as is the hospitable custom of the Bowery with strangers, a waiter tried to steal some change from them. They protested and got in return a shower of Bowery dialect not unseasoned with what is legally known as "low abuse."

The two big members of Toronto's finest, looked at each other somewhat as did Bill Nye and Truthful James in Bret Harte's poem when they found that they had been cheated at poker by the Heathen Chinee. They rose and proceeded to take the change away from the waiter. There was a whistle and presently Bowery toughs appeared from all quarters like bees from a hive that has been kicked over. Back to back the big fellows fought their way to the street with Bowery boys dropping around them. An alarm was already in and presently the reserve squad of the station came along with their night sticks, ready to pull in the persons who were making a "rough house." By some free masonry the two Canadians managed to slip it to the New York "cops" that they, too, wore the uniform when at home. A fraternal relation was at once established and the squad turned in with their night sticks and finished up the job that the Toronto men had commenced. Then they all went over to the station and swapped yarns.

Big Hop Yield.

Operations at the Preston Hop Yards, one of the most extensive in Canada, were concluded recently.

For sixteen days, with but one interruption on account of a shower, 200 pickers, Indians from Brantford Reserve, worked harvesting one of the best hop crops gathered in years. In addition, it required a staff of 30 box-tenders, teamsters and laborers at the hop barn to care for the crop. The yield of hops was approximately 3,000 boxes, for which 50 cents a box was paid for picking, a number picking over one hundred boxes in all. The crop when dried and packed will aggregate twenty tons.

This unique enterprise has been conducted successfully for many years by J. D. Moore, ex-M.P.P., and now registrar of Waterloo. It annually attracts many visitors from a distance.

Are Not Immune.

The important thing is that there is a noticeable development of the spirit of independence in the party press on both sides, and that the politicians are awakening to the fact. This is one of the hopeful signs of the political situation in this country. Perhaps no greater calamity could befall a party than to allow any group of politicians to harbor the delusion that because they bear the party name they are immune from criticism and entitled to the thick-and-thin support of their party press. This is true of all parties; human nature is pretty much the same in all, and constant watchfulness is the price that must be paid for safety.—Sentinel-Review, Woodstock.

Fort Garry In Grain.

The reproduction of old Fort Garry gateway in threshed wheat and threshed oats as a feature of the decorations of Winnipeg in connection with the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science was the happy idea of Mr. J. Bruce Walker, the Commissioner of Immigration. The wheat used was the finest No. 1 hard, and the threshed oats were of the same high quality.

Grain Exports.

The Census and Statistics Monthly publishes records of exports of grain from Canada in the years, 1900, 1905 and 1908. Of wheat we exported in 1900, 9,359,640 bushels, in 1905 41,905,937 bushels and in 1908, 45,879,058 bushels.

Of oats we exported for the first year 9,106,680 bushels; for the second year, 3,869,302 bushels and for the third year, 4,829,025 bushels.

Of barley we exported for the first year 2,413,972 bushels; for the second year, 962,736 bushels, and for the third year, 2,707,154 bushels.

Wheat is obviously the great staple of our grain exports, but in 1903 we exported about 10,000,000 bushels as flour, which makes our total for that year about 56,000 bushels, or only 18,000,000 bushels less than the total quantity of wheat inspected for sale in the Northwest provinces.

Profits In Potatoes.

Calgary business men announce that $12,000 is the profit they are securing from 160 acres which they this year leased in the vicinity of Strathmore and planted in potatoes.

They say that the crop now being harvested will average at least 200 bushels to the acre. Two four-horse diggers and 16 men are harvesting the crop at 16 acres per day.

The potatoes will be stored at Strathmore in three-room houses each 30 feet by 20 feet, the total storage being 25,000 bushels. One full train of at least thirty cars would be required to handle this crop if it were necessary to ship all at once.

Naval Evolution.

There may come a time when there will be an imperial fleet jointly owned by all the dominions and administered by a board in which the dominions will be represented. But this will not be the next stage in the development of imperial defence. The first step is the creation of local navies by each of the dominions.—Winnipeg Free Press.

What Could Be Fairer?

Canadians have no unkindly feeling toward the American emblem, and are willing it should be thrown to the breeze with the same measure of toleration, be it great or small, that is shown to the Union Jack on United States territory. Could anything fairer be asked?—Brantford Expositor.

A Poem in Prose.

A woman dresses for a man, to capture him as best she can, by every little foxy plan her future to assure. Her figure first must fill the bill. She pads and pinches with a will, forms a background for each frill, the tempting game to lure.

With gown of voile, in princess style, with costly silks from orient isle. With fancy "pumps" that cost a pile, she seeks to gratify. For man she wears the gay "glad rags," though of their cost she seldom brags, and yet her spirit never flags until she satisfy.

And when she's lassoed fat the "brute" and dropped those ways so coy and cute, she still must sport a new spring suit to vie with all the neighbors. She dresses now for woman's eye. Poor "hubby" stands quite meekly by. He's proud, but sad. With long drawn sigh he thinks of all his labors.

A whole week's work to pay for that uncanny, gay peach basket hat. And as for gowns—his purse, once fat, is dying of consumption. For she must dress "like all possessed" to look as stunning as the rest. For woman now is all her cost, for woman all her "gumption."

An Economy.

It is a genuine economy to purchase laundry soap in large quantities and put it away to harden. One gets it for less per bar, of course, and the soap that has been allowed to harden lasts a great deal longer. If it has been purchased in long bars it should be cut into sizes convenient for use before it is put away. High shelves are excellent places for ripening soap, and one housewife always stores hers on the attic stairway.

Wooden Articles.

A German writer pleads for leaving wooden articles unpainted and unpolished. He maintains that they are not only more beautiful in their natural state, but actually keep better and are more easily cleaned.

The Typical Moro.

The typical Moro is never unarmed. He fights equally well on foot, on horseback, in his fleet war canoe and in the water, for he swims like a fish and dives like a penguin.

PROTRUDING PILES

Read the evidence that this distressing ailment is cured by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Some people find it hard to believe that anything short of a surgical operation will cure protruding piles. The doctors have brought about this belief. There is any amount of proof that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for this as well as all other forms of piles.

Captain Wm. Smith, Revelstoke, B. C., writes:

"It is with much pleasure I state that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching, protruding piles of many years standing, and it has completely cured me. I had previously tried many other remedies but they did me no good. I would strongly recommend this Ointment to those suffering from this complaint, for it is a good and genuine cure."

Mrs. Captain Chinnasmith, Salvation Army, Essex, Ont., writes:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two years ago I was taken with a severe attack of protruding piles and became so bad that I had to keep my bed and could lie in no position except on my stomach. Doctors could give me no help and the various oils and ointments used proved of no avail.

"One Saturday night when I was suffering untold agony my husband went to the drug store for a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I had heard of as a cure for piles. Although I had almost given up hope, to the wonder of those around me, I was able to be up on Monday and have had no difficulty from piles since. As a treatment for all kinds of sores and burns, Dr. Chase's Ointment works like magic."

Giants In the House.

Mr. J. Cathcart Wason, M.P., who recently gave a luncheon to Sir Joseph Ward, New Zealand's Premier, is one of two brothers in the House, the other being the Right Hon Eugene Wason. They are the tallest and heaviest M.P.'s. The former represents the most northerly constituency in the British Isles—namely, Orkney and Shetland—and he has completely won the hearts of his constituents. When he lands from the steamer, as all must do, in a boat, he does not wait for the little craft to be pulled up high and dry on the beach, but just puts his leg over the gunwale and wades stolidly through the surf. On shore he strides from one group of fishermen to another in his high boots, and you hear a constant succession of "Hoo's a' wi' ye, Sandy?" "Aweel, Andra; hoo are ye the day?" Thus it is he has secured the devotion of the men.

Manchester's Suburbs.

London is not the most congested section of England. The region about Manchester has this distinction. The latter has a million to start with, and Liverpool, only twenty miles away, has nearly 800,000. Then there are Bolton and a hundred communities within a 25-mile radius of Manchester which contain 7,500,000, or 500,000 more than Greater London.

Civil Service Exams.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The semi-annual examinations for the civil service, to be held on Nov. 9, 10, 11 and 12, at various points in Canada, have attracted a large number of entries. For the inside service there are 16 candidates for the second division, 260 for the third division, and 20 for the lower grades. In the outside service there are 499 candidates for the qualifying and 300 for the preliminary examinations. The greater proportion of these are men now in either the postal or the customs services, who desire promotion.

A Bowmanville Banquet.

Bowmanville, Oct. 20.—Charles B. McCullough of Hamilton, the father of Canadian clubs, was banquetted at the Hotel Bowman here Monday night by the Board of Trade, when about fifty members participated. Commons Stood Aloof.

London, Oct. 20.—Th Socialist members of the House of Commons tried to adjourn the session of the House yesterday afternoon in order to discuss the execution at Barcelona last week of Prof. Ferrer, but only fourteen Labor and four Radical members could be found to support the motion.

Albert Victor Grayson, the Socialist member for the Colnevalley Division of Yorkshire, and William J. Thorne, Labor member for Southwest Ham, then created a disturbance by anathematising their colleagues as "shameful cowards."

Thorne shouted out it was his pious hope that "those who signed Ferrer's death warrant will be sent to heaven by the chemical parcels post."

The Foreign Secretary said that the Government at no time was in possession of special information regarding the Ferrer case, and that the proper policy of non-interference with the internal affairs of a foreign country had been followed.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Hon. G. P. Graham, asked yesterday as to the Government's intentions re the construction of the Welland Canal, said that no definite decision to proceed with the work had been arrived at.

Being in a straight line, three or four miles will be saved over the present canal. Present plans provide that it will not touch Port Dalhousie. There will be only seven locks on the newer canal, in place of the twenty-five on the present canal. The newer canal will take about five years to build.

DEFENCE IN JOPLING CASE COMMENCED THIS MORNING

Both Prisoners are Called to the Box in Their Own Behalf---Wrestling Experts Testify to the Legality of the Crotch Hold---Character Evidence Given by a Number of Witnesses.

The defence in the Jopling case commenced its evidence this morning and will likely take up most of the day as there is a number of witnesses to be examined, including several doctors. The Crown finished its case just before adjournment at 6 o'clock last evening, the afternoon being taken up with the testimony of Drs. Scott, Greer and Archibald, the latter of Toronto. Little new evidence was adduced by the Crown. The attendance this morning when court opened was not nearly as large as yesterday.

The first witness called by the defence this morning was Robert Merrill, the Bridgenorth boy who was with Harry Jopling on the morning when the first trouble occurred. He told of the words that took place between Harry Jopling and Bollard, giving the same account as the others. Merrill, however, denied that Jopling had used the foul expression which Marks swore yesterday the younger prisoner had employed. Witness admitted that he himself had used part of the expression referred to.

To Mr. Denison witness said that he was a chum of Harry Jopling's, and that the morning after the trouble Harry had told him of the fight with Bollard, saying that he had apologized, but denying that he had used the expression. Witness could not say whether Harry had said anything about an outcry or not.

"I heard that Bollard called out "dirty" that night, but I could not say whether Harry told me that or not," said the witness. "He told me that Bollard threw off his coat and made for him. That he had a little wrestle and that then Fred pulled him off and had a little fight himself."

Blake C ullen who testified at the inquest was the next witness called by the defence. He testified to having been at Chemong Park on the night of the trouble and of overhearing a conversation in which Bollard told some one that he was going to give Harry Jopling a thrashing. The witness told Fred Jopling of this conversation but said that he did not tell Fred who the man was. He and Fred had hunted up Harry Jopling and Fred asked his brother what the fellow was going to give him a thrashing for and on Harry replying that he did not know, Fred had said, "Let us go down and see." Cullen told of going down to the scene of the trouble after this conversation and of seeing Bollard on top of Harry Jopling, while Fred Jopling had his hand on Bollard's shoulder telling him to get up. Then Bollard had rushed at Fred, witness said, and Jopling after a struggle, threw him.

"Did you see Fred hit Bollard?"

"Yes sir."

"Where?"

"In the face."

"Did you see how Fred had hold of Bollard?"

"Well, they had side holds."

"Leaving side holds out of consideration, did he have any other hold on Bollard?"

"Not that I know of."

Cullen told the story of the wrestling match which followed the first fight between Bollard and Fred Jopling, claiming that Bollard had offered to bet $5 that he could throw Jopling.

Cross-examined by Mr. Denison, witness said that as near as he could remember Fred Jopling had asked his brother "What is that fellow going to give you a thrashing for."

"How did Fred know that Bollard was the man that was going to give Harry Jopling a thrashing?"

"I don't know that he did know."

Witnes was cross-examined as to the fight.

"Did you hear an outcry?"

"Yes, I heard a kind of a choking cry when I was running down the road, and when I got down I found that it was Harry Jopling who had been yelling."

"Did you hear an outcry from Bollard?"

"Yes, sir."

"What kind of a cry was it?"

"It was just a yell out, like this only louder" and the witness illustrated with an outcry that might have meant anything.

"Did you hear Bollard complain of any unfairness?"

"I heard him complain that he did not get a fair shake."

"Did you hear Bollard use any words, like "Let go" or "Dirty" when he was on the ground," asked Chief Justice Falconbridge.

"No, sir."

"Herb Marks, Miss Minns, Forsythe and Gordon Long all say that he cried "Let go" two or three times and "dirty" the same number of times, and yet you say you did not hearth im? remarked the Chief Justice.

"No, sir. I did not."

"You won't contradict them in that?"

"No, sir."

W. R. Hartshorne, an American, who spends his summers at Chemong Park and who saw part of the troubles, was the next witness.

He was sitting on a verandah near the scene of the fight when he heard the noise and went down to investigate. Witness had made Harry Jopling apologize to Bollard for using the expression complained of. The first fight was over when witness got there, and Fred Jopling and Bollard were discussing wrestling then and appeared to be friendly. They had a wrestle and then the Bridgenorth boys had gone home. Witness had heard an outcry, but did not hear words used. The witness spoke highly of the Joplings, saying that he had always found them peaceable young men.

To Mr. Denison, Hartshorne said that he had heard no complaints about Bollard.

Mrs. W. S. Merrill, who had spent the summer in the Park testified to having seen Bollard at the pavilion on the Wednesday night after the fight and thought that he had danced nearly every dance. She had seen him once lying on the grass outside.

Miss Isabella Hay, a nurse who was called in on the morning of the day on which Bollard died was next called to the stand. She corroborated the evidence of the doctors called by the Crown in regard to Bollard's condition that morning. She had not noticed anything wrong with Bollard's hand. She had seen Bollard on the Wednesday night and had danced with him.

A. C. Yokome, sporting editor of The Evening Review and featherweight champion of the city, testified that the croch hold was recognized hold in wrestling and was frequently used. If a man was properly protected it would not be likely to cause pain. It was considered quite legitimate and legal.

Chief Justice Falconbridge asked the witness to demonstrate the crotch hold which he did with the assistance of one of the jurors who was asked to step out of the witness box for the purpose.

Harry McLaughlin, physical director and instructor in wrestling at the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., corroborated this evidence of the previous witness as to the legality of the crotch hold.

Walter Peters, government weather observer at Peterborough, testified that August 26, the second day of the fight, was the hottest day last summer. He produced his records to show that the highest temperature was 92 and the lowest 53.

To Mr. Denison he said that for observation purposes the day commenced at 9 p.m., so that the lowest temperature might have been reached the night of Aug. 24.

Harry Jopling, the younger of the two prisoners, was next called by the defence. He testified that he and Bobby Merrill met Bollard and Marks on the road in Bridgenorth on the morning of Aug. 23 and testified to having made some joking remarks about Bollard's dirty trousers which resulted in some words passing between them. Witness denied that he had called Bollard the name he is alleged by Marks to have done and said that young Merrill had used part of the expression.

Jopling said that he was at the park on the Monday night and was at the swings when Fred came out of the hotel and asked him, "What those two young fellows are going to lay for you for," and then suggested that they should go down and see. Witness had been told by several people that night that some one was going to give him a thrashing. The prisoner testified that he and his brother followed Bollard, and his party down in the park and of his saying to Fred, "I think that's him" or "that's them," he could not quite remember which. Bollard had attacked him, got the strangle hold on him and throwing him down began to pound him with the other hand. Fred had pulled Bollard off and the two had engaged in a struggle, in which Bollard was thrown, and in which Fred had struck Bollard once with his fist.

"Did you hear Bollard cry out?"

"I heard him yell."

"Did you hear any words?"

"No, I did not hear him mention any words."

"Did you hear him complain of unfairness?"

"He said that one of us had bitten his shoulder and Fred lit a match to see, finding gravel on Bollard's shoulder where it had been scratched on the road."

The witness gave the same story of the wrestling as the previous witnesses.

"Who started to fight first?" asked the Crown prosecutor.

"Bollard did."

"He was with a young lady. Why did he start it?"

"I don't know why he did it."

"Were you taken by surprise?"

"Yes, I was taken by surprise."

"You are on your oath, remember. You stick to that statement that you were surprised?"

"Yes, sir."

"When Bollard and Fred had the fight, who started it?"

"Bollard did."

"You saw Fred strike Bollard with his fist?"

"Yes, sir."

"Yes, sir. They would not have been fighting if they weren't."

"Did you hear Bollard complain of unfairness."

"No sir."

"You wouldn't contradict the other witnesses who say they did?"

"I did not hear him complain, but I won't contradict them."

Fred Jopling the other prisoner, went to the stand on behalf of himself and his brother. He testified that he was 27 years of age and his brother was 19.

"You remember Blake Cullen coming to you in the hotel on that Monday night?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did he tell you?"

"He told me that two fellows were

RICE LAKE DUCKS TAME

Madden Howard and Another Hunter Annihilated Flock of Tame Ducks Feeding in Rice Bed—Thought Them Wild Ones.

"THEY WERE EARLY BIRDS"

Examiner Special.

Hiawatha, Oct. 20.—A good story is going the rounds of the village in which Madden Howard is related to have participated in a duck-hunting expedition, which was rather costly. Madden was guiding a hunter and paddling down the lake when he sighted a flock of ducks off Roach's Point. They were feeding in the beds of rice and did not appear to have noticed the approach of the canoe. When within firing distance, it is stated that Madden and the hunter opened a fusilade on the flock, which seemed to have been rendered powerless by the suddeness of the noise. Twenty-five shots, it is rumoured were required before the last of the flock was despatched and the two men drew close to secure their prizes. It may be said that there were seven ducks in the flock. Imagine the dismay of the two men when, on picking up the first duck, they found it to be a tame one. Mr. Ashburne, who spends the summer and autumn months at his cottage on the Point, had gathered this flock and the hunter had to pay for his sport.

MR. GEO. J. SHERRY IS TO BE NEW COUNTY COURT CLERK

Report That Norwood Barrister is to Fill the Position Left Vacant by the Death of the Late Mr. John Moloney---It is Felt That His Appointment is a Recognition of the Rights of East Peterborough.

Toronto, Oct. 20. Special despatch)—It is generally understood at the Parliament Buildings that the vacancy in the Peterborough County Court Clerkship made by the death of the late Mr. John Moloney is to be filled by the appointment of Mr. Geo. J. Sherry, barrister, Norwood, and that the appointment will be gazetted in a few days, probably this week. The selection of Mr. Sherry on the part of the Government is considered as only fair to the representative of East Peterborough. It is contended that all the appointments have in the past been filled by persons from West Peterborough, although East Peterborough has been entitled to its fair representation in the patronage of the county.

Not only is the appointment justifield on this account but it is the desire of the Law Association of Peterborough that a competent person be appointed to the position. It is felt that Mr. Sherry's appointment will meet all the conditions. He is a lawyer of good standing at the Bar and as he is appointed to the position from Norwood, East Peterborough thus has its right to a share of the patronage recognised and in this Mr. Thompson, the member for East Peterborough has been earnestly but quietly supporting Mr. Sherry for the position. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, representative of West Peterborough had thrown in his lot for Col. Miller but the Attorney-General, Mr. Foy has recognised the claims of East Peterborough and has recommended to his colleagues the appointment of Mr. Sherry. The latter has been secretary of the East Peterborough Conservative Association for a number of years and has been a faithful and earnest worker on behalf of the party in the East and as he is supported for the position unanimously by the Conservative party of East Peterborough his appointment will be appreciated by the supporters of the Government in that riding.

In West Peterborough there are several applicants, all of whose claims are recognized but it is felt that the appointment of Mr. Sherry under all circumstances will be the best appointment and it is reported that the Government has decided accordingly.

Deaths Of Flies At This Season May Help To Spread Typhoid

Montreal, Oct. 20.—There is considerable concern among health officials in regard to the typhoid situation in the city. Last week no less than eighty-one new cases were reported; while for the week previous there were over fifty cases.

The opinion of the Medical Health officer, Dr. Laberge, is that there are many more cases of the disease in the city than is thought, and that some physicians are now reporting cases as required by law.

Commenting on the situation, Dr. Laberge said:

"I am afraid that we must look for other causes for the outbreak of typhoid, besides bad milk and bad water. It is very probable that the water is unsatisfactory, yet those who have analysed it do not report that it contains typhoid germs. The whole situation needs the most careful study."

He suggested that flies, which die off in millions at this season of the year, had no little to do with the spreading of the infection. It was well known that flies could carry disease.

Another question attracting attention in most civilised countries was that rats were great spreaders of typhoid and other infectious diseases. It was well known that there were very many rats in Montreal, and Dr. Laberge thought something ought to be done to wipe them out. Concerted action was being taken in foreign countries in order to effect their extermination.

G. T. P. Expenditure Has Been $51,950,717 Up To The Present

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 20. — The National Transcontinental Railway commission have made their report for the last fiscal year. During the twelve months ending March 31, last they expended on the construction of the line between Moncton and Winnipeg the sum of $24,892,772. The whole expenditure to that date totals 51,950,717. At the end of March there were 725 miles graded and 345 miles of track laid. The entire line was under contract for construction.

An interesting feature of the report is contained in the report of Mr. Hugh Lumsden, the chief engineer, who has since resigned, Mr. Lumsden calls attention to the difficulty he had in bringing the G. T. P. to the point of submitting to arbitration the classification of material at points where engineers of the G.T.P. differed from the engineers of the National Transcontinental.

No Creed Obstacles In Grand Temperance Demonstration

The following is a partial account from the Montreal Herald of a great temperance demonstration in Montreal last Sunday:

One of the largest temperance demonstrations ever seen in this city took place yesterday afternoon, when, in response to the appeal of His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi, all the temperance societies of city parishes turned out in force, mustering on the Champ de Mars, and under the leadership of their priests, proceeding in a body to St. James' Cathedral. Here addresses were delivered both in English and French, followed by benediction of the blessed sacrament.

A noteworthy feature of the demonstration was the presence in the parade of a delegation from the Dominion Alliance, to the number of sixty, headed by Ald. J. Carter, president of the Alliance; Rev. Dr. Young, pastor of Douglas Methodist Church, and Rev. W. Boshart, pastor of Mountain St. Methodist Church. The representatives were accorded places of honour both in the procession and at the church service, where they were conducted to the seats in front of the main altar.

Before the commencement of the service proper a letter from Archbishop Bruchesi was read, dealing with the temperance question, toward the solution of which he has ever exerted himself. The day's demonstration was but a happy result of the campaign which His Grace inaugurated some three years ago and which has been meeting with great success throughout the whole extent of the archdiocese.

Message from His Grace.

The Archbishop's letter was as follows:

"Were it not for the First Plenary Council of Canada which necessitates my presence at Quebec, gladly would I be with you to-day to bid you a hearty welcome to my Cathedral. With the Apostle Saint Paul I may say in all sincerity: 'Though I be absent in body, yet in spirit I am with you.' Your presence, in answer to the proffered invitation, is an earnest of your eagerness to take part in our crusade against one of the worst foes of individual, domestic and social peace and happiness. Heaven has evidently blessed the religious and patriotic work which I inaugurated three years ago. You must pursue it with unabated zeal.

"Parents, unite with your bishops and your priests. Teach your families sobriety by word and example. Let your homes be a school of virtue, honour and dignity.

"Workingmen,—Exert your best influences over your fellow workmen. Keep them away from the saloons, where they ruin their health, squander large sums of money which they could devote to much nobler purposes and where they only learn to contract the most pernicious habits.

Too Many Saloons.

"There are far too many saloons in Montreal. There is no reason why there should be any at all in many localities. Christian citizens, league together, spare no pains in order to limit their number. Your zeal will suggest the measures which you will think proper to adopt in order to minimize the occasions of evil.

The Rev. Dr. O'Hare, of Newry, Ireland, who is at present visiting this country in connection with the securing of funds for the rebuilding of the ancient temple of St. Patrick, was the English preacher, and he took for his text the words, "Be ye sober and watch."

GOLD AND OIL

Are Being Dug for in the Vicinity o Coboconk.

Coboconk, Oct. 20.—Drilling for coal oil is now in operation on the farm of Mr. George McFarland, a short distance east of the village. It has been known for many years that oil is located here and as the indications are more strongly marked in this town than any other place the first trial is being made there. If success does not follow the attempt other likely places will be tested. There is no doubt of the existence of the oil, the only question is the amount.

Mr. John Bowins, who has for many years taken much interest in prospecting for gold in the township of Digby has been going over the field with an expert miner, Mr. Reid, who claims to have an extensive experience in prospecting and gold mining. They report some exceedingly rich finds and have staked several claims.

WEDDING BELLS

HOWE—BRADBURN.

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at 11 o'clock at St. John's Church, when Mrs. Chas. H. Bradburn, daughter of Mrs. Sherwood, of this city, was united in marriage to Rev. E. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Howe left on the noon train for a short honeymoon trip to Ottawa. They will return to the city before leaving for their home in Los Angeles.

The relatives and friends who were present were Mrs. W. E. Sherwood, Miss Helen Sherwood, Mr. Wm. J. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. GOOD ROADS AND FARMERS.

In a leading article the Globe stated that there were in Ontario "five thousand miles of highway, mostly bad." The sting of this statement is in the tail. We need no proof of the assertion that the country roads, as many town and city streets, are "mostly bad."

Did any farmer ever reflect upon the immense financial loss he suffers every year through bad roads, between his own farm and the farms of others with whom he has business, and between his farm and his market town? The wear and tear of horse flesh and vehicle, is to be added to the loss of time consumed in making journeys. The waggon-makers and blacksmiths of the country would do at least ten per cent. less business if work were not cut for them by bad roads. It is surprising that the average farmer does not apply to the question of the money value of good roads the same hard-headed good sense he applies to the operation of his farm. By his apathy, by his indifference to the matter, he is subjected to immense loss and inconvenience, which if capitalized, would no doubt amount in a few years to the value of a whole year's crop of his farm.

But he suffers another indirect loss, or suffers an injustice in another way. In another column of this page is reproduced an important article from "Farm and Diary." It is well worth the study of every farmer. "The unfair burden on the farmer" is addition al to what he has to bear in respect of bad roads. If, as asserted in the article named, the farmer is subjected to bearing an unfair share of taxation the advantage and relief of the cities and towns, he creates and maintains, a remedy should be provided. But who could be brought to believe that the farmer realises the burden of unfair taxation, if he quietly submits, as he has done and is doing, to the burden of bad roads? "Farm and Dairy" pertinently inquires: "If our farmers are increasing the value of lands in cities, should they not reap their share of the enhanced value?" In justice they should do so. But the remedy proposed—the single tax principle—will be slow of attainment and will only remedy, if it does that, one part of the burden that oppresses the farmer. It may readjust taxation more fairly, but it still leaves the burden of bad roads to be entirely borne by the farmer.

There is another way that will not only indirectly, compel cities and urban communities to bear their share of the farmer's burden, but bring the farmer relief in two directions. At present the cities do not contribute, except indirectly, and sporadically through Good Roads legislation, to the maintenance of country roads. The cities should, in justice, be compelled to bear their share. Country roads have been in the past built and maintained almost solely in the interests of the farmers. But it is not so now. Automobiles, owned in towns and cities, have invaded our country highways, and, in addition to the danger and obstruction of farm travel they create, they injure and wear out our highways, as is claimed, to a far greater proportionate extent than ordinary vehicles. Now, if the city and town dwellers render unsafe and also wear out country highways they should be compelled to bear their fair share of the cost in connection with them. This can be done in a way that will be a burden upon neither the city dwellers nor the farmers. The provincial revenue, while it is provided without direct taxation, is still the property of all the people, and should be expended in a way to do the greatest good to the greatest number. If the roads of the country were assumed by the Provincial Government, especially, for a beginning, the leading roads, and Government money used for their construction and maintenance, would not such a use of provincial revenue be an immense relief and benefit to the farmers as well as to the city people who use our country highways for their pleasure or business? True, the cities, like Toronto, for instance, might have less Government pap expended within their limits and some curtailment of unnecessarily high salaries, and of unnecessary officials might be required, but the public interests would be subserved in a remarkable and practical way—by the devotion of a liberal share of the provincial revenue to the construction and maintenance of country highways. Farmers should think this suggestion over and unite in demanding its practical consideration by the Government.

UNFAIR BURDEN TO THE FARMER.

(Farm and Dairy.)

In spite of all that has been said and written on the question, our boys and girls continue to leave our farms for the cities. What is more, they will continue to do so until we deal with this difficulty at its roots. These roots are buried much deeper than most of us realise. People who advocate rural mail delivery, better roads, more attractive home surroundings as a means of keeping the young people on the farm are all right as far as they go but they do not go far enough. They only scratch the surface of the question. The fact is, our system of taxation is so adjusted that our farmers are carrying an unfair share of the burden. It is their productive labor which creates the cities. Property holders, in the cities reap a certain portion of benefit from the efforts of the farmers to which they are not entitled. As long as this is the case people will flock to the cities and our farmers will not come into their rightful heritage.

An eighth of an acre of land, on the corner of King and Geoge streets, Toronto, was sold recently for $425,000. This is at the rate of $3,400,000 an acre. How many acres of the best agricultural lands in the province could be bought for that figure? At fifty dollars an acre it would buy 680 one hundred acre farms.

What made that piece of land so valuable? Nothing that the owners of it have done. It is quite possible that they may have been living on their money and doing nothing in the line of productive labor. That property and thousands of others like it, has been increasing in value because our farmers, year after year, have been engaged in growing crops and raising live stock and thus increasing the wealth of the country. Because our farmers have been working, the railways have been transporting their produce and making the cities their distributing centres. Factories have been constructed to manufacture farm machinery and the thousand and one other articles required by our farmers and—incidentally—by city people as well. Without our farmers there would be no cities. Were our farmers to cease work for one year, real estate values in the cities would commence a-tumbling.

In other words, people who have enough money to enable them to buy land in a centre like Toronto can afford, if they have enough of it, to sit back and do nothing but watch the farmers—and workers in other lines as well—increase its value year by year. Is that right? Is it fair? If our farmers are increasing the value of land in the cities should they not reap their share of its enhanced value?

This is where the Single Tax question comes in. Its advocates claim that were this land to be taxed for Dominion and Provincial purposes, and for municipal purposes as well, according to its value it would pay as much taxes as the 1,000 one hundred acre farms already mentioned. In other words, a great share of the burden of taxation now being borne by our farmers would be transferred to other shoulders. The value of land in our cities would decrease while the value of farm lands would increase. Instead of flocking to large cities people would go to smaller centres where the value of land, and consequently the taxes on it, would not be so high. The trend from the country to the city would be checked.

This is what is meant by taxing land according to its value or, in part, by the Single Tax. It is a question that our farmers should give far more attention than they have. What do you think about it?

THE TOOL CONVICTED.

(Hamilton Times.)

The jury in the criminal libel case brought against Walter M. Carruthers, of Kentville, N. S., by Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, arising out of the circulation of copies of the Calgary Eye-Opener, containing most atrocious charges of immorality against the Minister, returned a verdict of guilty. This result of what appears to have been nothing less than a deliberate attempt by conspiracy and slander to ruin the reputation of a public man and politician, will be highly gratifying to the respectable public of Canada. No one who has read the reports of the trial carefully can fail to agree with Judge Drysdale's remarks in his charge to the jury, on the character of the persons used by those who conspired against Sir Frederick to bring about his undoing,, and to approve the finding of the jury on the evidence. Mr. Ritchie, one of the ablest members of the Canadian bar, conducted the defence, and the court, as the judge remarked in his charge, gave him the fullest latitude in the presentation and examination of witnesses, and allowed him to use extraordinary language in addressing the jury, even to present the matter as "a political case." The jury appears to have been unanimous in regarding the Eye-Opener story as concocted with the intent of assassinating a public man's reputation, and that the most shameless perjury had been resorted to in the effort to enable the accused to escape the consequences of his crime. Great care seems to have been taken by the conspirators to create a situation that aroused suspicion, and to procure witnesses who would not hesitate at any statement necessary to the success of the plot. Indeed, their witnesses seem to have been too ready to be helpful in this direction, with the result that no intelligent court could avoid rejecting the entire contradictory story.

We shall doubtless hear appeals for pity for the tool who has fallen under the jury's censure. He deserves none. The pity of it is that the whole rascally gang of unconscionable slanderers, many of them holding seats in Parliament, could not be brought to punishment for their share in the conspiracy at moral assassination. Carruthers, in this matter, represents the more depraved element of the Conservative party.

CANADA'S NAVAL PROGRAMME.

(Canadian Courier.)

That the new Canadian Navy is not to "hang fire" as long as the late Mr. Prefontaine's naval militia, is proved by the arrival at Ottawa of two British naval officials. Commander Stewart will be chief of staff and Mr. Long will be staff paymaster. These two officials are to take up the preliminary work, the framing of a new navy act and naval regulations, and the advising and instructing of the about-to-be-created Canadian naval officials. Just what Admiral Kingsmill is to do is not announced, but he will probably busy himself with the plans for the future naval shipyard and the future Canadian-built naval vessels.

The presence of these two tried and tested British officials is the first evidence that the Hon. Mr. Brodeur intends to keep politics out of the new department. If he will allow these gentlemen and the Civil Service Commission to examine and report on all candidates for appointment to the naval branch of the civil service, we will be sure of having men who will see that the money voted by Parliament is not fritted away, as it has been too often in the past. Here's hoping that the one or two reactionist English-speaking members of the Cabinet will not be able to obstruct Mr. Brodeur's excellent and efficient programme.

CURE THAT OBSTINATE SORE

Where Ordinary Salves Fail Zam-Buk Succeeds.

Chronic sores which cause trouble by "breaking open," may be cured by Zam-Buk, as well as recent injuries and diseases. If you suffer from some old sore—hidden, perhaps, but none the less painful for that—don't dally, apply Noture's healing essences as provided in Zam-Buk. Mrs. I. E. Ashton, of 111, Vickers Street, Fort William, tells how valuable Zam-Buk is as a family balm. She says: "We first used Zam-Buk for cuts and bruises, etc., and found it so satisfactory that my husband started using it for a chronic sore. For a long time he had been bothered with an old sore on his leg, and had used various preparations, yet nothing had permanently cured it. He began applying Zam-Buk balm, and was very soon agreeably surprised to notice a great improvement.

"It was only a matter of a short time before Zam-Buk had thoroughly cleansed the sore of all foul matter, and healing commenced. It is now some months since the sore was completely closed, and there is no likelihood of it breaking out again.

"Since then my baby, eighteen months old, has been cured of eczema on the scalp by Zam-Buk. This eczema came in red pimples, and if rubbed or scratched, formed into sores. The child was very fretful from the irritation of the scalp, but whenever Zam-Buk was applied it seemed to bring the greatest relief. Frequent applications were effective in clearing all traces of the disease from the baby's scalp in a short space of time. I feel it my duty to give the credit where due, and I cheerfully recommend Zam-Buk to all sufferers from chronic sores, bad leg, or eczema."

Zam-Buk is Nature's own healing balm, being composed of pure herbal essences. It is a sure cure for eczema, ringworm, ulcers, cuts, burns, bruises, poisoned sores, chronic wounds, bad leg, piles, festering sores, chapped hands, cold sores, frost bites, and all kin injuries and disease. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post free for price from Zam Buk Co., Toronto; 3 boxes $1.25. You are warned against harmless imitations represented to be "just as good."

his remarks, expressed the pleasure it gave him to see representatives of the French and English speaking races united on such an occasion, and he declared that the day's demonstration would ever remain one of the pleasantest memories of his sojourn on this continent. Making passing mention of thep art which Frace had taken in the history of Ireland, and of the manner in which the Irish had shown their sense of gratitude by the heroism of their sons on many a crimson field, he exclaimed: "For all greater reason should you now stand shoulder to shoulder; all the more determined should you be in your united action—for now you are figting for one of the noblest, the grandest, causes for which man, humanly speaking, can fight. You are combatting a demon which undermines the home and through the home, strikes at the very foundations of your young nationhood. You are fighting against the desolation of the family hearth—against the misery of man, woman and child. You are combatting for the delivery of your community and your country from the plague of drink."

Then, making reference to the presence in the Cathedral of many not of the same faith as the majority of the participants, he declared that this was a public testimony of the grandness of the work in which all were engaged.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fulness or heavy feling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or intestinal griping. PRIZES FOR THE ROAD RACES ARE NOW ON EXHIBITION

The prizes for the senior and junior Examiner road races are on exhibition in the window of the Peterborough Book Store and are attracting considerable attention. The junior prizes consist of a handsome gold watch for first place, a gold signet ring for second, a gold locket for third and a gold pin for fourth place. The senior prizes were announced yesterday.

Morley MacDonald of Lakefield is the latest senior entry which brings the total up to half a dozen already, while the Victoria Harriers have no yet sent in their list which will include at least three or four good runners.

Great interest is being displayed in the events which promise to be more than usually successful this year.

DETROIT STARS OUT FOR MORE MONEY

Detroit, Oct. 18.—Trouble and dissension threaten the future of the Detroit Baseball Club, and Owner Navin is up against one of the stiffest propositions he has had to tackle since he took hold of the Tigers.

Nearly every player on the team has been busy with pencil and paper figuring on what he estimates to be the total income and net profit of the local club, and when they finish they will wind up with the statement that Navin and Yawkey have cleared about half a million dollars in baseball in the last three years. Figures of knowing ones have placed the profits for this year at $200,000, and at least $100,000 for each of the two preceding years. Each player feels that he has done his share towards bringing in that money, and should be given a little larger dip into it next year than he had this. Naturally the two men who feel they have proved the biggest attractions for Navin are Manager Hugh Jennings and Ty Cobb, and Navin will be called upon to make new contracts with them both. In fact it is conceded that Navin will be compelled to close matters up this fall if he desires to keep these two stars in his club.

It is understood here that Jennings will demand the highest salary paid any baseball manager. The present record is held by McGraw of the New York Nationals, who gets a salary of $10,000 and a percentage variously estimated at from $10,000 to $25,000, making the total between $20,000 and $30,000 a year.

But Navin is much disappointed over the handling of the world's series by his manager, and it is not unlikely that he will attempt to make a deal elsewhere. Cobb was paid $4,500 for this year's work, but he is well aware of his value to the Tigers, and will probably ask that his salary be at least doubled. Those who know Navin best feel satisfied that he will resist the attempt to compel him to pay these two high-class players what they demand, and in this event any one of the big eastern clubs would not hesitate to "come across" with the money necessary to add Jennings and Cobb to their line-up. Should Jennings decide to pull out he can be safely counted upon to carry with him three of Detroit's best men—Crawford, Cobb and Moriarity, with a possibility of one other joining him.

TO THE SPORTING EDITOR

October 19th, '09

Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

I would like to call your attention to the finishes of the Examiner road races. Every year the leaders are impeded (from the Y.M.C.A. down) by the crowd, the man winning generally being the luckiest.

Cannot something be done to remedy this?

The races are becoming more popular every year and undoubtedly would call for a much larger number of entries and give more satisfaction to the runners if this trouble could be avoided to an extent.

Yours truly,

"FAIR SPORT."

The Examiner agrees thoroughly with the opinion expressed in the above letter, but cannot see any way out of the difficulty which exists in every race of this kind where the finish has to take place on the road. There has been no trouble in other years, and The Examiner has done everything possible to overcome this trouble, without avail. The generosity of the crowd is appealed to, to see that the competitors have a fair chance to finish.

Physicians recommend "Catspaw" Rubber Heels as they will relieve Kidney trouble, cure backache and headache. They won't slip. Shoe dealers and repairers.

RUGBY

There will be a practice of both junior and senior Rugby teams at Riverside Park to-night at 7.30. All members of both teams are expected to be out.

DEFENCE IN JOPLING CASE COMMENCED THIS MORNING

going to lay for my young brother down in the park."

"What did you do?"

"I found Harry asked him what the men were going to lay for him for and he said he did not know. I said, "Let us go down and see."

"What was your object in going down?"

"To get an explanation."

"Did you have any intention of assaulting the man?"

"No, sir."

"Did you anticipate any fight?"

"No, sir."

Jopling stated that when he and Harry followed the Bollard party Bollard had almost instantly attacked Harry and crushed him to the ground, with his arm around his neck and hitting him with his fist. Witness had pulled Bollard off and told him to get up and he would talk to him on behalf of his brother.

Bollard said that he could lick me or anything we had down there," remarked the witness. "I said, "Are you all ready." He said "yes" and I said "Let her go." And he rushed at me."

"Did you make any motion to assault him before he rushed at you?"

"No, sir."

The witness told of throwing Bollard on to the ground and of obtaining a crotch hold on him to turn him over. Bollard had "hollered" then, the witness said and lay over on his back. Witness bed bit him once in the face.

"When we got up Bollard walked over and tapped me on the shoulder and said "that was not a fair hold you had on me," and I said I had the crotch hold and showed the hold to him. Bollard invited me to wrestle for a bet of $5. I told him that I would not bet, but that I would give him a friendly wrestle and we went over on the grass to wrestle."

Jopling minutely described the wrestling as he had previously done at the inquest. It was a hard bout in which both men had exerted themselves. Each had won a bout, but Bollard was all in and would not wrestle again.

"Did he complain of being bitten on the finger?"

"No, sir," but complained of having been bitten on the shoulder. I said to him "It's too bad, old chap that you and I should have got into this racket" and shook hands and went home."

"In all the bouts that night did you use a foul hold or catch him in any way about the crotch otherwise than the crotch hold you have described?"

"No, sir."

"Did you strike him in those parts?"

"No, sir."

"Did you bite Bollard?"

"No, sir."

"Marks says you bit Bollard in the face several times. What have you to say to that?"

"I did not."

"Marks says that you swung at him when you got up off Bollard?"

"No, sir, I did not. He was six feet away."

The witness said that he had been in the hospital twice with blood poisoning since the fight, arising out of a scratch which he had sustained during the mix-up. He had had to have a piece of dead bone removed from his hand."

Cross-examined by Mr. Denison, Jopling said that he had not been angry at the time of the fight.

"You say you saw your brother lying on the ground with Bollard on top of him and striking him and yet you were not angry."

"No, I was not angry."

"Have you read your evidence since you made your statement at the inquest?"

"I have."

Mr. Denison explained Mr. Denison, [illegible] you have been using language to him the same.

"You are not a professional wrestler?"

"No sir."

"You have not given any lessons?"

"Mr. Hattaborne a couple of years ago showed me some holds."

The witness explained that the blood poisoning in his case had been caused by the fight.

Robt. N. Scott, Reeve of the township of Smith and Warden of the county, testified that he had known the prisoner from childhood and had always found them good boys and their general reputation was good.

Rev. Simon Cruickshanks pastor of the Bridgenorth Methodist church, gave similar testimony as to the good reputation of the prisoner.

Rev. Fr. Fitzpatrick, parish priest at Ennismore, whose parish extends to Bridgenorht, and Samuel Stinson, of Smith township, who had known the boys for years, also gave character evidence.

Dr. J. A. Morgan, of Peterborough, testified that he was present at the post mortem examination made on Bollard's body by Dr. Scott and Dr. Greer, and that he took notes for them. The witness had seen no evidences of blood poisoning in the abrasion of the skin noticed during the examination. He explained the nature of the investigation and told what had been done.

Court was adjourned at twelve o'clock, before Dr. Morgan's testimony was concluded.

Iron in the blood is necessary. Miller's Compound Iron Pills contain that element in the most assimilate form.—Wm. Madill, Druggist.

ONE OF ONTARIO'S BEST KEPT FACTORIES

Editor, Farm and Dairy,—While on Wolfe Island recently, I had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald, the maker at Silver Springs Cheese Factory. The factory is a low building about 30 by 50 feet. The outside is shingled. There is a 10 by 12 foot wing boiler house and the whey tank is close to the factory. From the outside appearance, I expected to find the inside to correspond, but as I stepped inside I met Mr. Fitzgerald who was as trim as a pin, wearing a white apron and a white shirt. His helper, Mr. Murphy, was just as clean and dressed the same. I came to the conclusion that the maker was a model man and started in to inspect his factory.

This factory is so built that it could be one of the dirtiest in the country The ceiling is low. The walls are rough boards. The studding and beams were open to catch cobwebs and flies, but none were to be seen. The walls and ceiling were whitewashed. The painted wooden floor was as clean as soap and water could make it. You could not see a speck of dirt on the outside of the three vats. They were covered with clean covers. On the two presses, not a sign of dirt could be seen and the paint appeared as good as when they left the shop, not a bit of rust to be seen on the hoops. The boiler house was on the ground floor but was as clean and tidy as the make-room. There were about 50 cheese in the curing room, having just shipped the day before. Here the same conditions prevailed.

When asked his opinion re cold storage, Mr. Fitzgerald thought that every factory should have one. He was handicapped by not having one in hot weather. Mr. Fitzgrald has been running this factory for eight years and his patrons think that he is the only maker.

This is a stock factory and the shareholders are going to install a butter plant in connection so that they can pay their maker more money. As they cannot afford to lose him, they feel that if they do not do something, he is sure to go. Mr. Fitzgerald is a graduate of Kingston Dairy School and is in favor of makers having certificates if they are worthy of them.—R. J. Lithgow, Leeds Co., Ont.

HISTORIC LACROSSE.

Canadian National Game Is Spreading All Over the World.

Lacrosse is probably the most exciting game known to the athletic world. Although only 45 years of age as a white man's pastime, it has nevertheless been played by the Indians for many years. In its old form many Indians took part, and with two curious looking sticks carried by each player the game moved fast over the red man's playground. For many years it was entirely unknown to the white man. The late Dr. W. George Beers, of Montreal, who is known as the father of lacrosse in Canada, took hold of the game some 40 years ago and reduced it to the middle stages of perfection, which stamped it as the premier of outdoor games. Clubs began to spring up in Montreal, Caughnawaga, Cornwall, St. Regis and Ottawa, and these places were pioneers in establishing the popularity of the game. Then the city of Toronto fell into line. In those days the Indian was the peer, if not the superior, of the white man. Upon the visit of the Prince of Wales, now King Edward, to Canada, a lacrosse game was one of the principal sporting events on the program in his honor, and he thoroughly enjoyed witnessing the combat between the redskins and the pale-faces, as the whites are called by the red men. Soon after this the game began to spread and become one of science, instead of one of speed and endurance, and to-day, when played by members of the big leagues, it is one of the headiest and most scientific games known to athletes. Passing and combination work has taken the place of endurance, and where there was only one association throughout all Canada, there are now seven with a club membership running up into the hundreds, and active members numbering into the tens of thousands. Not only has the game progressed in Canada, but also in the United States, where the colleges and city clubs are taking it up and employing Canadian coaches. England is taking hold of the game in a most remarkable manner. In Australia and New Zealand, Canada's national game is going ahead by leaps and bounds.

Strange as it may seem, while the white men have mastered the redskins at playing the game, no paleface has yet become proficient in the art of making a lacrosse stick. The Indian is naturally a born whittler, and as soon as he is able to handle a knife is found at work whittling a piece of hickory.

The making of a lacrosse stick is far more difficult than a look at it would indicate. From the time the trees are felled until the lacrosse is strung up ready for shipment requires generally about four months.

Only the butt, or first six feet, of a hickory tree is used in manufacturing the lacrosse sticks, the balance being too brittle to take the sharp curves. The wood is split up into strips 1 1-4 inches wide and shaped up with a draw-knife ready for the bending forms. They are then air dried for from two to three weeks, so that the steam will penetrate. When the sap is considered to be all out of the wood it is placed in a steamer, and when soft, bent over a form and wired. The stick is allowed to stand for six weeks, so that it will keep its shape when the wires are removed. After the wires are removed, the sticks are taken to the gougers and a portion removed about the middle of the stick, so that the backs can be steamed and bent.

They are again allowed to season in this manner for some weeks. The stick is then rounded about the handle sufficiently to allow it to be doulled. When doulled they are passed along to be back-shaped, after which the inside is taken out by a draw-knife and the stick is passed along to the men who whittle the most important part of the lacrosse, which is at the different bends. This is really where the fine points of lacrosse-making come in. At this particular part there are many different curves and thicknesses and a small shaving must be whittled off here and there to get them to the proper proportion and weight. Only men of long experience are employed at this particular work. When this portion of the stick is completed it is heated and bent up at the crook and passed on to a boring machine, where the holes are bored to receive the strings. The stick is then sandpapered and a coat of filling is applied, and the stringing takes place. This latter part of the work is done by both squaws and Indians, the former being equally as expert at this branch as the latter. The string of the higher grade lacrosse sticks are generally clock cord or catgut, which is manufactured in England. The leaders or guard is made from rawhide. It often happens that every member of the family is employed in the manufacturing of lacrosse sticks.

Otter Skins Seized.

Paul Nathon, Ville Marie, Quebec, which is situated across Lake Temiskaming from Haileybury, had 26 otter and 429 muskrat skins in his rooms at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, recently. He has been endeavoring to dispose of them to local dealers.

Provincial Inspector Greer got a clue to the presence of the skins. He met Nathon by appointment and the seizure followed.

The law is strict about the killing of otter, and the minimum fine is $20 for each skin.

The next morning Mr. Nation, with a lawyer, spent some time in the office of Edwin Tinsley, superintendent of games and fisheries. Nation's claim is that the skins were obtained in Quebec and are consequently beyond the jurisdiction of Ontario courts.

A Rough Season.

Colin Fraser, veteran fur trader, arrived at Edmonton from Fort Chippewayan early in August with $18,000 worth of furs, mostly beaver and rats. He reports other furs very scarce. He says the journey in was the roughest in his experience. A number of the bridges were carried away by high water. He says the Indians would have starved had it not been an open season for beaver.

STRANGE RINGS.

Engagement Circlets on Which Troths Have Been Plighted.

During the hearing of a breach of promise case tried at the Macroom Quarter Sessions, County Cork, it transpired that the engagement ring which the defendant had presented to the plaintiff was originally made for the purpose of putting through a pig's nose.

In another case heard some time back, the defendant stated that he did not consider himself called upon to fulfil his promise to marry the plaintiff as the engagement ring on which much of the evidence turned came from the interior of a Christmas cracker. The jury, however, while not traversing the truth of this statement, showed by the verdict that they did not consider that the defendant's meanness had invalidated the significance of his gift.

No niggard spirit was it that prompted a young man to have his fiancee's engagement ring made from a portion of an old horse shoe which he found when on his way to the lady's house to put the fateful question.

Another iron substitute was a section out from the barrel of a pistol which many years previously had been the instrument of avenging the outraged honor of a member of the bridegroom's family. In this instance, however, the dull hue of the grim memento was relieved by the insertion of a ruby, an opal, a sapphire, and an emerald, the initial letters of which gems formed the bride's Christian name.

By the advice of a lady on whom his affections were fixed, a Liverpool gentleman was rash enough to engage in a law action. Though he gained the day, the nominal damages of one farthing left him a heavy pecuniary loser. When subsequently he became engaged to his fair adviser, he had the small bronze coin that had constituted his legal award made into a ring, which was accepted by his future wife in the same spirit of humor in which it was offered.

Distinctly novel is an engagement ring composed of tobacco. Such was the present made to his fiancee by a member of a family that owed its wealth to the possession of extensive tobacco plantations. The fragrant leaf, so strangely enlisted in Cupid's service, was, by subjecting it to an indurating process, made to assume the consistency and appearance of iron, the sombre tone of which was lit up by a single brilliant of considerable value.

To be knocked over by a bicycle, even though its rider be a lady, is not pleasant; still less so when you rise from the ground minus a tooth. Such some time ago was the painful experience which gained a Brighton gentleman an introduction to his future wife. On their becoming engaged he made the customary presentation of a ring, which took the form of a souvenir of their initial meeting, being nothing less than his displaced tooth surrounded by a circlet of gems.

How Pigeons Travel.

The carrier pigeon when traveling never feeds. If the distance be long it flies on without stopping to take nutriment and at last arrives thin, exhausted and almost dying. If corn be presented to it, it refuses to eat, contenting itself with drinking a little water and then sleeping. Two or three hours later it begins to eat with moderation.

MUCH-WANTED BIRDS.

Interesting Experiment For Island of St. Helena.

The proposal of Mr. T. M. English, Hawley, Dartford, that humming birds should be introduced into St. Helena has been submitted by that gentleman to the Governor of St. Helena, and Col. H. L. Gallwey has expressed himself in favor of the project, and believes that the island would be suitable for the birds. One of the drawbacks from which St. Helena suffers is the prevalence of insects, which are most destructive to fruit of all kinds, and it is a curious fact that among the birds at present living on the island there does not seem to be one insectivorous species. Humming birds would perform a most useful function by keeping insects down, and the climate would, in Mr. English's opinion, be congenial to them. They would find in St. Helena plenty of flowers and insects and no enemies of any account. By far the greatest numbers of these birds have their home in North America, and there is a large demand for their plumage. From a scientific point of view, their establishment in St. Helena, outside their proper zoological region, would be exceedingly interesting, and, if the experiment proved successful, there would be a demand for them from many other places, and the birds would be worth more alive than dead. In this way, it would indirectly tend to create a value for them and secure their protection. The non-migratory species have, as a rule, a very limited range, and, among new surroundings, new varieties, if not species, would almost certainly make their appearance. It may be mentioned that at present the only living thing in St. Helena which can keep down insects is a frog which was lately introduced. There are which is multiplying very [illegible]

OPENING OF THE FALL AND WINTER WORK OF Y.M.C.A. LAST EVENING

Annual Banquet Held—Presentation of the Howden and Eastwood Trophies—Work of Various Departments Outlined.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN

The fall and winter work of the Young Men's Christian Association got a good start last evening at the annual banquet, which was held for the purpose of talking over the prospects for the coming six months. A fairly good number of association leaders and workers were present, and the various phases of Y. M. C. A. work were discussed at the conclusion of an excellent supper served by Messrs. Coleman. Judging from present indications the prospects for a successful season are the brightest. The young men of the city are asked to turn out and show their interest in this work. Everything for their physical, spiritual, and mental betterment is provided and all that remains is for them to show their appreciation.

The gentlemen, including a good representation of the Ministerial Association sat down to supper at 6.45. After partaking of the many good things, Mr. Vincent Eastwood, who acted as chairman, rose and made some introductory remarks. It was a pleasure to him to see so many present, he said, evidencing as it did their interest in the work of the Association. He then called on Mr. Jas. Connal to make the presentation of the trophies won at the recent field day of sports.

Presentation of Trophies.

Mr. Jas. Connal, on rising to make the presentation of the trophies, stated that the young men of the city owed a debt of gratitude to Mr. Vincent Eastwood and Mr. J. J. Howden for the donation of such trophies. The object was to create clean, manly sport, and the events were open to all.

The Howden trophy was presented to Mr. Herbert Wood. Mr. Stanley Canniff won the second highest number of points in the Howden events, and Messrs. R. Evans and V. Corkery were equal for third place.

The Eastwood trophy was presented to Mr. Harry Munro, the winner of 1908, the length of time for holding it, being extended. Egbert Kelly, of the T. A. S., won it this year, and Walter Perks and Rollie Howden won second and third honours, respectively. The prizes in the Senior open event were won by Mr. Chas. Thorpe and Mr. Brown.

Physical Department.

Mr. C. E. Sisson introduced the subject of the physical work of the Association for the coming winter. Mr. W. A. McLaughlin had been secured, he said, to look after this department. He hoped that the new director would meet with every encouragement.

MR. VINCENT EASTWOOD,
Who Presided at Y. M. C. A. Annual Banquet.

Mr. W. McLaughlin, the new Physical Director, late of Washington, D. C., stated that it was his intention on November first to start a basketball league, organized among the Collegiate, the churches and clubs. Finally, the best players would be picked from the various teams to represent the Y. M. C. A.. He intended to introduce new features, including what he termed "a country circus." This entertainment would be put on at the close of the season. It was something novel, and wherever it had been put on, it was well received.

He would do his best to make a success. He asked for the hearty co-operation of the boys and young men.

Bible Study.

Mr. J. S. Thornton, chairman of this committee, stated that Bible study classes had been started, led by the best teachers available. It was the intention to hold a class each night to allow the young men an opportunity to give one evening a week to the study of God's word. Meetings would be held Sunday afternoon at 4.15, and in December, the committee hoped to have Mr. Drum, the International Secretary, here, to address a mass meeting in the Opera House.

Mr. Frank Dawson spoke of the Foreign Branch of the Association's religious work.

Mr. Hassard, on behalf of Mr. A. Kingdon, chairman of the committee on shop meetings, stated that this was a branch of the religious work that was bound to be productive of good. It was a movement on the part of the factory employees themselves. These meetings would be held from time to time at some factory.

Mr. Hassard spoke of what was being done in the educational line, and outlined the proposed work of the various classes. Mr. D. H. Moore spoke for the membership committee.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mr. Jas. Connal.

THE HEART A GREAT WORKER

What a wonder is the heart! Day and night it works away pumping tons of blood through the body and never tires or wears out so long as it is supplied with rich, red blood, such as is formed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. While sending supplies of nutrition to other parts of the body the heart renews and rebuilds its own wasted cells and so retains health and strength.

AUDITORIUM ROLLER RINK RE-OPENED ON FRIDAY

Many Important Changes and Improvements—Rushing the Work Through

A gang of workmen have been busily engaged for some time past in the alteration and remodelling of the Auditorium Roller Skating Rink, on George street, adjoining the Bridge Works. Manager Hurtubise is determined to have all the improvements that are within his reach, and is sparing no money in fitting up an amusement place that will rank with the best in Canada or the United States.

About 1,100 feet additional floor space for skating has been provided by taking away the south gallery, and the old waiting rooms. Portions of the floor have been taken up, and relaid, so that the skaters will always be skating with the grain of the wood. Four new waiting rooms have been built on the west front of the building, and included separate waiting room and skate rooms, each for ladies and gentlemen. These rooms are being fitted up with every convenience, and comfort for the skaters. A new gallery and band stand has also been provided, and over one hundred coloured electric lights installed throughout the rink, so that every corner will be as bright as daylight. The entrance will be the same as before, off George street. The band of the 57th Regiment has been engaged for the re-opening on Friday night. Read the advertisement on another page. Spectators, as well as skaters, welcome, for a whirlwind success.

THE WHITE TERROR IN BLOODSTAINED KONGO

Conan Doyle Writes of Dreadful Crimes Committed by White Man's Orders — Lopping Off Right Hands for Failure to Produce Rubber That King Leopold Could Turn Into Gold.

OLD MAN SHOT TO DEATH

BY SIR A. CONAN DOYLE.

It is upon the king—King Leopold—that the guilt must lie.

Civilization knows no greater guilt, no greater crime—than this "Crime of the Kongo." Let us take testimony. First, there is a man named Glave, who travelled with Stanley and who later travelled alone in Africa.

"In stations in charge of white man," says Glave, "one sees strings of poor, emaciated old women, some of them mere skeletons, working from 6 in the morning until noon, and from 2.30 until 6, carrying clay water jars, tramping about in gangs, with a rope around the neck and connected by a rope, one and a half yards apart. They are prisoners of war. They are naked, except for a miserable patch of cloth of several parts held in place by a string around the waist. They form indeed, a miserable spectacle.

"Mr. Harvey heard from Clarke," writes Glave, "in 1895, that the state soldiers have been fighting and taking prisoners. He himself had seen several men with bunches of hands signifying their individual skill. These, I presume, they must produce to show their success. Among the hands there were those of men and women, and also of little children."

"In November, 1894," says Mr. Murphy, an American missionary, "there was heavy fighting on the Bosira because the people refused to give rubber. And I was told upon the authority of a state official that no less than 1800 people were killed.

"A chief of a certain town was ordered to give up some fugitives. He replied the fugitives had not been in his town. But when he went to see the officer, he was wounded, his wife was killed before his eyes and her head was cut off that they might possess the brass bracelet that she wore.

"The rubber question is accountable for most of the horrors in the Kongo. It is collected by force. The soldiers drive the people into the brush; if they will not go they are shot down, their left hands being cut off and taken to the commissary.

These hands — the hands of men, women and children — are placed in rows before the commissary, who counts them to see that the soldiers have not wasted their cartridges. The commissary is paid a commission of about a penny a pound upon all the rubber he gets.

An old man was shot to death before the eyes of a missionary friend of the Rev. Sjoblom, while the missionary was preaching to the people. The soldier told a little boy, eight or nine years of age, to go and cut off the right hand of the man who had been shot. The man was not quite dead, and when he felt the knife he tried to drag his hand away. The boy, after some labour, cut the hand off and laid it by a fallen tree. A little later the hand was put on the fire to smoke before being sent to the commissary.

I think that picture of a child hacking off the hand of a dying man at the order of the monster who would have assuredly murdered him also had he hesitated to obey, is as diabolical a one as even the Kongo could show. A pretty commentary upon the doctrine of Christ, which the missionary was there to preach!

Mr. Sjoblom, seeing a sentinel and a woman passing down a road with a basket of smoked hands, asked them to put out the hands that they might count them.

"We counted 18 right hands, smoked, and from the size of the hands we could judge that they belonged to men, women and children."

It was in 1897 that the Kongo companies were reorganized, the Belgium government, meaning the ring, taking half their stock. The profits of these companies, at this time, ranged from 50 per cent. to 700 per cent. a year.

"How huge were the operations which were carried on under the ferocious rule of Capt. Lothaire may be guessed from the fact that the profits of the company, which had been 120,000 francs in 1897, rose to 3,968,000 francs in 1899 — a sum which is considerably more than twice the capital. M. Mille tells of a Belgium agent who showed 25,000 cartridges, and remarked, "I can turn those into 25,000 pounds of rubber."

Watch for further article on "Crime of the Kongo."

IF WAR WITH BELGIUM THEN LET THERE BE WAR---DOYLE

SIR A CONAN DOYLE..

What shall be done? This is for the statesmen of Europe and America to determine. America hastened before all the rest of the world in 1884 to recognize this new state, and her recognition caused the rest of the world to follow suit. But since then she has done nothing to control what she created.

To bring the matter to a head, the British government should act without delay. The obvious course would appear to be that, having prepared the ground by sounding each of the great powers, they should then lay before each of them the whole evidence and ask that a European congress should meet to discuss the situation. Such a congress would surely result in the partition of the Kongo lands.

Let us suppose, however, that the powers refuse to act, and that we are deserted even by America. Then it is our duty, as it has often been in the world's history, to grapple single-handed, with that which should be also had had he hesitated the orders a common task. A warning and a date must be fixed, and then we must decide our course of action.

And what shall the action be? War with Belgium? On them must rest the responsibility for that. If Belgium take up the quarrel, then so be it.

TERRIBLE WHIP OF THE KONGO

"The 'chicotte' or raw hippo-hide, especially a new one, trimmed like a corscrew, with edges like knife blades," says Glave, in Sir Conan Doyle's Book, "The Crime of the Kongo," is a terrible weapon and a few blows bring blood. Generally the victim is in a state of insensibility after 25 or 30 blows have been struck. At the first blow he yells abominably, then he quiets down and is a mere groaning, quivering body till the operation is over, when the culprit stumbles away, often with gashes that will endure a lifetime."

A Belgian officer said: "One can hardly believe how difficult it is to administer the chicotte properly. One should spread out the blows so that each shall give a fresh pang. Then we have a law which forbids us to give more than 25 blows in one day, and to stop when the blood flows. One should, therefore, give 24 of the blows viciously, but without risking to stop. Then, at the twenty-fifth, with a dexterous twist, one should make the blood spout."

The chicotte was used on natives who did not bring in as much rubber as the capita ordered.

Bacteriologist Expert And Two Doctors Were Examined

Yesterday Afternoon's Progress in the Jopling Case at County Court— Prosecution Concluded Its Evidence Last Evening— Result of Autopsy.

DR. SCOTT'S EVIDENCE

The Crown finished its evidence in the Jopling case just at 6 o'clock last evening, the greater part of the afternoon being taken up with medical testimony, along the same line as given at the inquest. Dr. Scott, who attended Bollard before his death, and who was one of the doctors who performed the post mortem examination, and Dr. Greer, who assisted in the autopsy, testified to their findings at the examination and reiterated their opinion that the cause of the death of Bollard was gastro enteritis, coupled with septicaemia or blood poisoning, and that the injuries received in the struggle on the Monday night were a predisposing cause.

Bernard McManus, of Smith, was the first witness called after the adjournment yesterday afternoon. He had no new evidence to offer and his testimony will have little influence on the case. He was a witness of the wrestling and did not hear any outcry he said.

W. E. McPherson, of Toronto, Bollard's brother-in-law, who was staying at the cottage, at Chemong Park, was a new witness. He was asked to describe Bollard's physical appearance, and stated that he was nineteen years of age ,was about 5 feet, 9 inches and was splendidly muscled from the waist up with fine shoulders. He was the champion wrestler of St. Andrew's College, the witness testified.

Mr. McPherson testified that he was not at the dance on the Monday night of the trouble but that he had heard a noise down stairs shortly after 11 o'clock, and had gone down to find Bollard stretched across his bed with two chums assisting in undressing him. The witness had finished the operation and had put Bollard to bed.

Dr. Wm. Scott was the next witness. He told of being called to attend Bollard on the day before he died, and of the condition in which he found him then. He testified that he had made a thorough examination and had come to the conclusion then that he was suffering from gastro enteritis. Dr. Scott told of his visits next day, and of the examination he had made just before Bollard's death, which took place at 3.30 o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, August 28. He then went over the report of the post mortem finding, which was to the effect that death was due to gastro enteritis with septicaemia. Dr. Scott was examined for nearly two hours, by Mr. O'Connell, on behalf of the prisoners. Particular attention was paid to the extent of the post mortem examination made by the doctors. The witness admitted that they had not cut into Bollard's heart, being satisfied from the examination made before Bollard's death that everything was all right. He had not entirely opened the stomach except as far as the inflammation extended, nor had he cut into the lungs.

"Did you think it proper for you, the physician who attended the patient before his death, to perform the post mortem?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"Is there any rule of etiquette that would prevent that?" Chief Justice Falconbridge wanted to know.

Mr. O'Connell produced a volume, and indicated a section which the Chief Justice perused. He, however, held that there was nothing there to prevent a doctor who had been in attendance on a person performing a postmortem on the remains.

"If I had thought there was any impropriety I would not have done it," explained Dr. Scott.

Asked if he was related to the Bollards Dr. Scott said that he was very remotely connected. He did not know the exact relationship.

"Did you ever hear of endo carditis?" the witness was asked.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Could you tell from an examination before death if endo carditis existed?"

"Yes, I think I can."

Mr. O'Connell produced a treatise by Dr. Osler in this connection, and asked Dr. Scott if he was willing to accept that authority, and the witness replied in the affirmative.

Dr. T. N. Greer was the next witness. He testified that he had been practising in Peterborough for seventeen years and had a practising experience of about thirty years. He told of being called in by Dr. Scott, about 10 o'clock in the morning of the day on which Bollard died, and of finding the patient in what he considered and what proved to be a hopeless condition. He corroborated Dr. Scott's evidence as to the autopsy findings, and agreed with him in stating the cause of death, and in regarding injuries received or alleged to have been received as a predisposing cause.

His evidence was along the same lines as the inquest.

In cross examination by Mr. O'Connell he stated that over exertion might be a predisposing cause to the septicaemia or blood poisoning, which with the inflammation of the stomach and bowels was the cause of death. Gastro enteritis in itself was not usually fatal.

The last witness called by the Crown was Dr. Archibald, of Toronto, a bacteriologist expert, who testified that from the clinical history of the case he would think that the opinion of the preceding medical witness was correct. He explained the different ways in which poison germs, causing septicaemia, might enter the system, and to Mr. O'Connell said that it was possible that a person might take in germs with his food and that if he were suffering from gastro enteritis that septicaemia might be set up. From a bacteriological standpoint the mouth was the dirtiest part of a man's body.

"Does that explain why kissing is sometimes said to be dangerous?" asked Chief Justice Falconbridge.

At the conclusion of Dr. Archibald's evidence Crown Prosecutor Dennison announced that that was all the evidence he had to put in and that the case of the Crown was complete.

The Court then adjourned until this morning, the jury being warned not to talk about the case to any one.

NO REST FOR TERRIBLE ITCH

Tim Oil of Wintergreen Compound Made His Skin as Pure as Ever.

Mr. James Lulloch of Iron Bridge, Ont., considers the D. D. D. Prescription of oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., a wonderful cure for skin troubles. He has good reason to think so, too, according to his letter of March 27, 1909:

"I have suffered for years," he says, "with eczema, and now through using two bottles of your wonderful cure, my skin is as pure as ever it was.

My face was so bad I could not see. I could not sleep. I could not rest at all for the terrible itch.

Thanks to your wonderful medicine I am cured."

As eczema is a germ disease, and as the germs are right in the skin, blood medicines will not cure it. The only effective way is to treat the itch where the itch is. D. D. D. Prescription penetrates the pores of the skin, kills the germs which cause the eczema, gives instant relief from the awful itch and permanently cures.

For free sample bottle of D. D. D. Prescription write to the D. D. D. Laboratory Department, 23 Jordan St., Toronto.

For sale by all druggists.

FORMER PASTOR TO PREACH NEXT SUNDAY

Examiner Special.

Fraserville, Oct. 19.—Rev. Francis Johnston, of Cambourne, formerly pastor of the Methodist church here, will preach in the Fraserville church on Sunday next.

Mr. A. Carl has made an improvement on his residence by putting a cement wall under part of it, the work being performed by Mr. Alfred Rose.

Mr. Wm. Pue has returned after spending the harvest months in Manitoba.

Mr. Hanmre, of Peterborough, has purchased Mrs. D. Wood's farm, and expects to have finished moving in a few days.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. E. H. Pue is recovering. He is improving slowly, but a decided change has taken place.

Mr. George Price and his granddaughter, Miss Laura Bigelow, of Bethany, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Delahey on Sunday.

Mrs. W. A. Kidd has recovered after a short illness.

Miss M. Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Davis, has recovered after a severe illness.

Mrs. W. J. Timlin has recovered after a few days' illness.

Dr. Russell, of Bailieboro, has put in a phone at Mr. W. J. Timlin's, and intends extending the line to the residence of some farmer north of here, so as to make connections with the Bell line.

"I've lost a pig! I've lost a pig!"
Complained the farmer sore,
It did not wander from the sty,
And the fact grieved him more.
"Good neighbours look about your barns
And your swine herds look through,
For if I find one in yer yards
I'll make it warm for you."
"Now look, now look, I pray you look
Oh look and look again,
I'm coming around next week, you bet,
To look in your pig-pen."

According to the report which is now in circulation, the farmers intend making a "bee" for the purpose of erecting the new church sheds here, but the work cannot at present be commenced, as the farmers are too busy.

Cheese Salesmen Refuse

Price Offered By Buyers

11 15-16 Cents Would Not Satisfy Members of the Board—Adjourned for Two Weeks, Expecting Better Price by That Time.

MANY BOXES BOARDED

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held this morning but as the buyers were not in a position to offer more than 11 15-16 an adjournment was made.

The prices on the English market have fallen lately and are not high enough for the farmers who have been receiving good offerings all summer.

The factories boarded as follows:

Keene	110
Warminster	90
Shearer
Central Smith	140
Selwyn	126
Villiers	75
Warsaw	150
Westwood	165
Oakdale	125

Mr. Switzer on being called upon to take the chair said that he felt that an explanation in regard to the East Emily factory was necessary. They had boarded at Peterborough all summer except the last two meetings and would not likely board again this year. The factory is situated in Victoria County and a party offered Peterborough prices, for delivery at Omemee. Mr. Switzer was not a patron of the factory but was salesman and did not think he was liable to a fine. It was the factory that had sold off the board and if any fine were imposed it should be against the patrons. No action was taken and Mr. Switzer was asked to take the chair in the absence of Mr. Coughlin.

The Bidding.

Bidding was opened by Mr. Gillespie who offered 10 cents causing considerable laughter. Mr. Weir raised it to 10 1-2c and Mr. Gillespie put it up a little higher, 10 9-16. The offers advanced by 1-16c each until Mr. Weir made it 11 15-16c. Mr. Switzer asked whether it was wise to sell at that price or to adjourn.

Opinion was divided as to what should be done and finally a vote was taken which resulted in favour of an adjournment for two weeks. Some of the salesmen did not think the prices would be improved at the next meeting which will conclude the year's business.

If you only knew what comfort "Catspaw" Rubber Heels will bring, you would put them ono at once. Ask Shoe dealers or repairers.

The ROY STUDIO

"NOT GUILTY," WAS VERDICT REACHED IN JOPLING CASE THIS AFTERNOON

Bridgenorth Young Men are Acquitted on the Charge of Having Been Guilty of Manslaughter in Connection With the Death of Arthur Bollard.

"NO FAULT TO FIND," SAID CHIEF JUSTICE

"Not guilty!"

Such was the verdict reached by the jury in the manslaughter charges against Fred and Harry Jopling of Bridgenorth, in connection with the death of Arthur Bollard at 2.07 o'clock this afternoon, after deliberating on the case for one hour and twenty-two minutes.

The case went to the jury at 12.45 o'clock and the Chief Justice adjourned court until 2 o'clock.

When court re-opened at that hour there were signs that the jury would not remain out much longer. The constable was called to the jury room, and it was evident that the deliberations were over. At 2.07 o'clock the jury filed back into the court room, and into the jury box, amid a dead silence, while all heads, including those of the two prisoners, were turned in their direction.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon your verdict?" asked Mr. W. J. Johnstone, who was acting as registrar of the court.

"We have," replied Dr. J. E. Middleton, foreman of the jury.

"Are the prisoners guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty."

"Is there anything else against the prisoner?" asked Chief Justice Falconbridge.

"No, my lord," replied Crown Prosecutor Denison.

"Stand up," remarked the Chief Justice to the prisoners, and on their complying with this demand, the Court addressed them briefly.

"I have no means of knowing the ground upon which the jury reached their verdict," he remarked, "but I have no fault to find with it. The evidence of the cause of death was not conclusive enough to draw a conclusion from."

"Frederick Jopling, you alone know whether or not you made that foul attack on that young man. I trust you did not."

"As for you, Harry Jopling, I trust that you have profited by the course of events to mind your own business and to keep a civil tongue."

"You are both discharged."

The prisoners were then released from the dock and were immediately surrounded by their friends, who hastened to congratulate them upon the verdict.

This morning was taken up with the hearing of arguments and the charge of the Chief Justice. Mr. O'Connell, the Counsel for the defence, took up nearly two hours in his argument, and Mr. Denison, the Crown Prosecutor, spoke for nearly an hour.

Yesterday Afternoon's Session.

Dr. Morgan again took the stand after the noon adjournment yesterday and continued his evidence as to what had been done at the post-mortem. Dr. Morgan stated the heart was not cut into, and it was possible that there might have been endocarditis there undiscovered. There was no examination for tuberculosis. The stomach, he said, was not fully examined. The spleen was not investigated, nor were the valves.

"Did you see any evidence of septicaemia at the post-mortem?" "No, sir, I did not."

"Is endocarditis a septic poisoning itself?" "Yes, it is."

"The symptoms given in this case of septic poisoning would also con-

Mrs. Turner's Star Witness Has Not Been Produced

T. C. Robinette, Counsel for Woman on Trial for Infanticide, Announces That Mysterious Mrs. Wagner Will Not Be Present at the Trial—Mrs. Turner Will Give Evidence.

Toronto, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Wagner, the mysterious woman to whom Mrs. Maud Turner says she gave the Authgra' infant, with whose murder she is charged, will not be produced when Mrs. Turner's defence is presented at the Criminal Assizes in the City Hall to-day. The production of this woman would be the strongest card that the defence could possibly play short of producing the living child, but T. C. Robinette, K.C., of counsel for Mrs. Turner, says that though efforts have been made to locate her she cannot be found.

This restricts the defence to two, and possibly three, witnesses. Mrs. Turner is determined to take the stand in her own behalf when she will tell the story of giving the child to this Mrs. Wagner an hour after she got it from the mother at the hospital on the day of its birth, Saturday, September 11. Dr. Dunlop, who lived with her as her husband at the Wood street house where it is alleged that the murder was committed, will be called to swear that he saw no infant in their room other than the one found by the police when the arrest was made, and which is now in the Orphans' Home. Another witness may also be called who was in the house between the time the child was taken from the hospital and Tuesday night when it is alleged the murder was committed. This will close the defence, according to Mr. Henderson, who is conducting the case for Mrs. Turner.

The case will likely be finished to-day. All evidence will be put in during the morning session of the court, leaving the afternoon for address or counsel and Judge Magee's charge to the jury.

The stop-order was put on general entry to the court-room yesterday as soon as the seats were filled and a considerable crowd hovered about the outer doors all day.

At the resumption of the trial yesterday Andrew Goldie was the first witness called. It was at his home that the prisoner boarded for some time, and his account of the noises that had been heard while he and his wife were in Mrs. Turner's room on the evening of Sept. 14, was very similar to that of his wife. Someone had said the noise sounded like cats, but he had said: "That's no cats."

Mrs. Annie Walker, stewardess on the Chippewa, and her daughter, Miss Mary Walker, testified to meeting Mrs. Turner the day she went across the lake, and they described the box which she was carrying at the time, and in which she said she had her lunch.

That Mrs. Turner was on his train on the morning of Sept. 16, was sworn to by Edwin O. Pariah, conductor on the New York Central Railway. He was positive in his identification of the prisoner when cross-examined by Mr. Henderson.

Frank J. Fleming, a trackman, testified to seeing a box flying through the air as the train was passing a certain spot, and to afterwards finding it.

He said he was curious to see what was in the box and on opening it saw a baby's head.

Mrs. Swazie, Dr. Scott and Dr. J. A. Bishop of Niagara Falls also testified.

SAYS ONTARIO IS SLOW TO HELP POOR TUBERCULOSIS SUFFERERS

Toronto, Oct. 21.—Milk supply for the hospitals and the care of tuberculosis patients formed the chief subjects of discussion at yesterday's session of the Charities and Correction Conference in the Normal School theatre.

Dr. Lockhart of Hespeler caused a mild sensation by his outspoken criticism of the attitude of the Ontario Government toward tuberculosis. "On one of the exhibits in the corridor, sent here by the Ontario Government itself," he said, "I read a placard '80 per cent. of tuberculosis cases are unnecessary.' When we waited on the Government some time ago, and I myself asked the Premier to do something, he practically said, 'You fellows are getting up a great scare, there are no more cases in Ontario than forty years ago.'

"Now, what can you do in the face of that? This is not a political question. God forbid that it should ever become that. But the duty of the Government is to conserve the health of the people. I hold that our Government are not doing it.

"I am pleading for the indigent consumptive who has no place to go. Premier Whitney was good enough to say that any hospital refusing a consumptive would not receive the Government grant. I have nothing to say against Sir James Whitney or his Government, but I do say that there is a lack in this country of proper interest in this affair. Ontario is behind every province except Prince Edward Island on the subject of tuberculosis.

"There is a false impression abroad that the Gravenhurst sanitarium accepts indigent cases. He will be accepted in the incipient stage; but who ever sees the indigent consumptive in the incipient stage?"

Dr. Holbrook of Hamilton spoke of the "insane desire for pleasure" among the poor, robbing them of necessary sleep, as one of the most fruitful causes of tuberculosis.

He was convinced that good clean milk could be produced on any ordinary farm in Ontario by the use of soap and water and intelligence. He suggested an educational campaign for farmers. A model dairy at the leading exhibitions of the province would be good object lesson. Nor was he in favor of a standard percentage of butter fat. This milk might be pure milk.

The following officers were elected: Hon. president, Hon. W. J. Hanna; president, J. P. Downey, M.P.P., Guelph; vice-presidents, J. Ross Robertson, Toronto; A. Studholme, M.P.P., Hamilton; Dr. Helen McMurchy, J. J. Kelso, Sheriff Middleton, Hamilton; Dr. Roseburgh, C. H. Corbett, Kingston; Major Snelgrove, Cobourg; secretary-treasurer, F. M. Nicholson; executive: The foregoing and one—Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith, chairman; Sheriff Cameron, London; Sister Clementine, Brockville; Sister Gabrielle, Kingston; Mrs. Margaret A. Griffin, Fergus; S. M. Thomson, Brantford; Mr. Rae, Hamilton; T. R. Parker, George Martin, Berlin; W. L. Scott, Ottawa; J. E. Farewell, K.C., Whitby; Dr. Lockhart, Hespeler; J. R. McNeillie, Lindsay; Sheriff A. S. Allen, Guelph.

"Guelph was selected as the next place of meeting, the date being left to the executive.

In the evening a reception was held at the Nurses' Residence of the Sick Children's Hospital. The guests were received by J. Ross Robertson, Miss Grant, lady superintendent, and J. R. McNeillie, president of the conference.

REPORT SHOWING THE MAGNITUDE OF THE SALVATION ARMY'S WORK

The delegates to the twenty-seventh annual congress of the Salvation Army have begun to arrive in the City of Toronto, and several hundred are expected to-day and to-morrow from all parts of the Dominion. During the congress some papers are to be read that will show the vast scope of the Army's operations as a medium for good.

Fed 10,000,000 People.

Col. Pugmire has a report that shows the work for the past nineteen years. During this time 32 shelters have been erected, 108 metropoles have an accommodation for 20,797 people. During the last year nearly 5,000,000 beds were supplied to the applying poor, with close upon 10,000,000 meals; situations were procured for 59,050 persons, and homes for seventeen ex-convicts. The Army dealt with 1,800 prisoners on discharge from custody, found employment for 700, helped 1,300 in a special way, and are gratified with the result—1,700 cases turning out satisfactory.

Foreigners a Problem.

A paper by Col. Howell, whose special care is immigration, deals with the scope of the Salvation Army from a social and missionary point of view. In this he makes a special appeal for a policy on the part of the Salvation Army that will readily adapt itself to the requirements of the foreign element problem which, he says, sooner or later will become a great question. The fact that 20,000 human beings are within prison walls in Canada, and a large percentage of them foreign born, is something that should stir the Army and kindred bodies to some action, Col. Howell thinks.

On Sunday afternoon a meeting will be held at Massey Hall, when 250 bandsmen will take part. In the evening there will be a white-robed choir of 80 women assist in the memorial services; which is to be of a most impressive character.

RESPECT OURSELVES.

It is quite fitting that Ottawa, the Capital of Canada, should take the lead in presenting in its own case, tangible evidence of the general national advance and prosperity. The report of the assessment commissioner of Ottawa shows that last year Ottawa experienced the greatest development in the history of the city. An increase in population of 3,000 brings up the figures to 83,360, and the increase in assessed values was nearly five millions of dollars—$4,840,609. This increase has the important feature that it consists largely in the value added by new buildings. Apropos of this it may be remarked that Sir Wilfrid Laurier in declaring an aim to be to make Ottawa "the Washington of the North," showed at once an admirable spirit, and employed unfortunate phraseology. Why "Washington of the North?" or "the Chicago of Canada?" applied to Winnipeg, or "the Liverpool of the West" applied to Montreal? Comparisons are odious, and such expressions seem to be an implied declaration of inferiority. Let us be ourselves, and make our ambitions both national and civic, absolute and independent. Let us respect ourselves irrespective of others, emulating their achievements, but, at the same time, retaining our autonomy of phraseology and nomenclature. The names Canada, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Montreal are good enough in themselves, without compartive almost necessarily, derogatory addition.

A MACEDONIAN CRY.

The Peterbrough Salvation Army utters the cry "Come over and help us." Its appeal to the public, printed in another column, is worthy of attention. The growth of the work of the Army has necessitated the reconstruction of their barracks. This is done on the part of the Army at a double sacrifice—self-denial, in respect of contributions, out of narrow means, and sacrifice in the matter of inconveniences in carrying on the most important feature of its work—the religious services. These they are now compelled to hold in the streets, their barracks being in the hands of builders. The Army is in urgent need of $1,900 to complete the work of enlargement, and for this amount an appeal is made. This appeal takes the form not of a charity, but the payment of a just debt. Peterborough, in all its interests owe this and much more to the Salvation Army. It has done, and is doing, a work which the churches are not equipped with machinery to do. The influence of the Army is good, only good, and that continuously. It has a reforming and restraining function. It is due to the Army that, in the course of the years, hundreds of men have been rescued from vice and its attendant thriftless idleness, and made reputable, steady, sober and industrious contributors to the prosperity and wealth of the community. It is due to the Army, under divine blessing, that these men have earned good wages in our factories and elsewhere, and that they and their families are able to spend their earnings with our merchants. It is due to the Army that society at large has been relieved of the menace and burden that vice and idleness always constitute. Therefore, the whole community is under moral obligation to assist in providing the material means for improving a centre for the work of the Army. The Army is entirely disassociated from creeds and sects. It has no creed, but the universal creed, the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man in relation with the divine Mediator and Redeemer. It knows no creed, no colour, no social condition in doing its work, and in bringing relief to the friendless, desolate or oppressed. It deserves the practical sympathy of all the churches, for it is not a competitor, but a gleaner in the fields for the stray sheaves the orthodox harvesters have missed. It is to be hoped that a generous response will be made to the appeal of the Army. The Examiner, in common with the city press, will receive and account for contributions to the Rebuilding Fund of the Army.

CONGRATULATIONS.

The Examiner gives congratulations to Mr. W. A. Buchanan on his being made a member of the Alberta Government without portfolio. He occupies the important position of Editor of the Lethbridge Herald and the subordinate position of member for Lethbridge in the Alberta Legislature. Mr. Buchanan, like everything in the West—population, the wheat crop, and wealth, has grown rapidly. He had it in him in two or three ways; he possesses ability, enterprise, energy and had a good start. In early life he entered in the humble, but honourable capacity of reporter—in Peterborough, a profession that makes an ordinary man big and broad, and capable, that brings out the best that is in him, and makes a present of it to the world to the world's advantage. The man better endowed naturally gets proportionate uplift, and develops proportionate influence from being allied to journalism. Mr. Buchanan was a wise selection for the electors of Lethbridge to make and their member is a wise selection on the part of the Alberta Governmnet in the matter of a man destined to be advanced in due course to the position of a responsible minister of the Crown, entrusted with a portfolio, Hon. Mr. Buchanan being at present a minister without portfolio.

SENSIBLE GOVERNOR CHAMBERS

Governor Chambers of the Toronto jail, unofficially known as Rev. Dr. Chambers, well known in Peterborough, is broad-minded and more saturated with the milk of human kindness than ordinary jail officials, whose hearts are officially as hard as the walls they guard. Devotees of my Lady Nicotine will say that he is rather saturated with the cream of human kindness. Governor Chambers recommends that a smoking room be provided in Toronto jail for the benefit of the prisoners. He did not put forward this suggestion as a jocular matter, at the Canadian Conference of Charities in Toronto. He did it from an earnest belief that the lives of the prisoners in his charge should be made no more burdensome and disagreeable than possible during the period of their detention Governor Chambers reasoned well. Jails and other prisons, properly regarded, should be used as means of correction of criminal habits and tendencies, should be reformatory in their character and functions and not used as engines of petty tyranny and means of vengeance and retaliation. Not puishment but reform should be the object. We have or had "reformatories for boys"; why not make our jails and prisons reformatories for men. It is as worthy an object to make bad men good as to prevent bad boys from becoming worse, and certainly a greater triumph if not a greater benefit to society. Governor Chambers regards prohibition of tobacco as an unnecessary hardship to prisoners, and there is no doubt that it tends to defeat the object that should be aimed at in sentencing criminals or malefactors to confinement. The deprivation of tobacco makes them morose and unfits them mentally and morally for becoming amenable to influences employed to engender in them a desire to reform. Instead of regarding the state as their friend, anxious to benefit the man, the state is regarded as an enemy, the old Adam is roused, and the last state of that man is apt to be worse than the first. It is not wise to use violent measures in working reforms. We know a total abstinence society that makes its work a success because it does not go to the extreme of including tipple and tobacco under the same ban. It rather encourages its use as a moral safety valve by providing smoking rooms, where smoking can be enjoyed under wholesome conditions and improving surroudings. A man habituated to the use of strong drink in totally abstaining from it, suffers a severe strain; if the stress can be relieved by substituting the harmless—or if the straight-laced insist, comparatively harmless—habit of tobacco for the vicious habit of drink, the man is more likely to keep his road of abstinence from drink. We all know that when a garden hose becomes worn, and one leak is made first, there is certain to be an outburst in some other weak part. Governor Chambers is as level-headed as he is sound-hearted in advocating the principles of a really sane treatment of prisoners, if we would have confinement operate as a corrective, and not as vengeance or retaliation.

CONSERVATIVE CONDEMNATION

Partizanship is losing its grip on the journalistic mind and a growing appreciation of fair play in political methods is subordinating it to the claims of political ethics. The Ottawa Journal, which is staunchly Conservative, has the following to say in condemnation of the methods and material employed and tendered in the trial of the Borden libel charge, which was not dissimilar in undespensable quality to recent counterparts seen recently in a local court. The Journal says: about Sir Frederick Borden's case:

"The charge against Borden, as set out in the original libel, was of a nature which, if uttered at all, should have been backed by evidence. There was no evidence. There was an entire lack of corroboration. The charge against him is not proven, and, more than that, the evidence brought forward in defence of his libeller is utterly discredited. It might be as well if the lovers of decent government in Canada were to withhold their countenance from this particular line of attack upon Sir Frederick Borden. He stands amply vindicated by the judgment of his constituents at the polls and in the jury room."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Montreal Gazette says that the Seattle show gained its three and three-quarter million success by advertising. As the Toronto Star would say without turning a hair—that Seattles it.

BRITISH ELECTION, 1906.

The figures for the British general elections of 1906 show a remarkable disproportion in total votes and party representation. Excluding Ireland, the votes for 566 members of the Commons were as follows:

	Votes	Members
Unionist	2,385,318	139
Liberal	2,580,166	373
Labour and Socialist	534,181	54
	5,489,665	566

According to an analysis prepared by the New York Times, it will be seen that the average of votes to each member elected was a little less than 10,000 and that the Labour and Socialist members had about this average. The Liberals, on the contrary, received an average of only 6,900 votes, while the Unionists had one of over 17,000. While the aggregate number of votes received by the Liberals was less than ten per cent. larger than the number received by the Unionists, the number of seats secured was two and one-half times as large. This was due obviously to the smaller average majorities by which the Liberals carried their constituencies. There were, indeed, some 145 seats held by a majority of less than 1,000, and of these eighty-two were held by a majority of less than 500. Since the general election there have been fifty-nine bye-elections, in which the Unionists' vote has increased 88,673, and that of the Liberals has decreased 28,118, a net change of 63,291 votes, giving the Unionists eleven more members.

TO TEACH THE BOY

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Donald Johnston, a one-handed boy of Centreville, Wis., who is to receive a musical education as the protege of Ignace Paderewski, passed through Chicago on his way to New York City where he will immediately begin studying under the tuition of Sigismund Stojowiski, the personal representative of Paderewski in America.

In his pocket the Wisconsin boy proudly carries a letter which he received last week from Paderewski who is now in Switzerland. The latter contained funds for the expense of the boy's trip to New York.

"You must be prepared to stay two years," wrote Mr. Paderewski, "and during that time I will contribute expenses for your living. Your instruction will be free."

"NOT GUILTY," WAS VERDICT RECEIVED

form to the septic poisoning of endocarditis?"

"Yes, sir."

The witness was questioned as to venereal disease, and said that it was possible that it would cause septic poisoning, and possibly endocarditis by the poison circulating in the blood.

"Was the gastro-enteritis, in your opinion, sufficient to cause death?"

"I think it possible that it might."

"Septicaemia would make it much more serious?" "Yes."

"Could you form any conclusion from the post-mortem examination?" "I was quite satisfied that his death could have been caused by stomach and bowel trouble.

The Adult Disease.

"Is there any other disease that would fit the symptoms?" "Yes; a disease of the stomach and bowels known as the cholera nostris, which is to the adult what cholera morbus is to the infant."

"From a diagnosis of the case before death came could you make an opinion as to the cause of death?" "It might have been cholera nostris."

The witness explained that errors in diet might produce that malady, and that it might be assisted if a person was chilled after having been heated.

"Does the effect follow cause in a short time in that disease?" "Yes, very short."

"When it is fatal, how long does it last?" "Two or three days."

Dr. Morgan explained the symptoms, which included vomiting, diarrhoea, and high temperature, followed by a collapse.

"There is such a complaint as ptomaine poisoning. How is it brought about?" "By taking into the system of decomposing or decomposed food."

Dr. Morgan was asked the effect upon a man if he was seized, as it was alleged Bollard had been seized. "He would collapse," was the answer.

"If he had been injured as has been said in the first fight would he have been able to go through a wrestling match?"

"No, sir, he could not. The shock would have been too much for him."

"If a man was injured as described so that the shock would prove fatal, would he improve at any time or would he gradually sink?"

"He would gradually sink."

Dr. Morgan explained that it would have been impossible for Bollard if he had been injured as alleged to do the things he had done the next two days. He had heard the evidence of Fred Jopling and he did not think it possible that a man could be so injured in that way that his injuries would have been contributary to his death.

"Do you dispute as to whether there was septicaemia or not," asked Mr. Denison in cross examination.

"I am not prepared to say as to that."

"You are not prepared to contradict the other doctors as to whether there was blood poisoning or not?"

"No, I am not."

"Have you known a case of gastro-enteritis without other complications proving fatal?"

"Yes, in older people."

"You have not much dispute with other doctors?"

"I am not disputing what they say may be possible, but I think there are others which I think much more probable."

"You have advanced a number of theories, which do you think the most probable?"

"Cholera nostris."

"Would you set your opinion in this case against the other doctors that it was not gastro-enteritis?"

"I would say that there was no evidence of septicaemia influences."

"You have had opportunity at the post mortem to see if there was?"

"No, sir."

Dr. Morgan stated that the Joplings had asked him to be present at the post mortem and the inquest in their interests.

"Were the doctors aware of the fact that you were going to disagree with them up to this time?"

"I did not try to make them aware of it."

"I don't think," remarked Dr. Morgan, that there was any shock in wrestling that had anything to do with this condition of Bollard's."

"You were consulted about this case before you got into the witness box."

"Yes, sir.'

"All these theories were talked over and thrashed out?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you think that these other doctors were making an honest effort to find the cause of death?

"I don't think I can answer that."

"I think that you should answer as to whether they had an honest search or not."

"I think they made an honest search acording to their conviction."

"Why did you say that you could not say that the search was an honest one or not?" asked the Chief Justice. "Do you want to take that back?"

"Yes," replied the witness. "I did not mean that."

Dr. Young's Evidence.

Dr. T. H. G. Young, of Peterborough, was the next witness. He testified that he had been practising in Peterborough thirteen years and had heard all the evidence given at the trial.

"Was the post mortem examination complete in your opinion?"

"No, they did not examine all the organs."

"I dont see how the doctors can say he died from septicaemia, from the post mortem examination when they did not make a bacteriological examination of the blood," remarked the witness.

He concurred with Dr. Morgan that the same symptoms might be found in cases of cholera nostris and ptomaine poisoning, and criticized the work of Dr. Scott and Greer in performing the post mortem examination in which he said they had failed to make investigations that would have established without a doubt the presence of septicaemia.

Would gastro-enteritis in itself be sufficient to produce the symptoms described?"

"Yes, sir."

"Was there any blood poisoning from the abrasions on the shoulder or finger?"

"I don't think there was."

Dr. Young contended that if Bollard had been injured as described, he would not have been able to wrestle immediately afterward. Any vomiting caused by such injuries should take place immediately after. If he had been injured in such a way as its being contributary to his death, it would have been continuous afterwards and it would have been impossible for him to dance as he is said to have done on the Wednesday night afterwards. If he recovered from such injuries enough to be able to dance on Wednesday night it would not come back on him then or be contributory to his death afterwards.

"What would you say was the direct cause of death?" asked Mr. Denison.

"I would not be prepared to say the direct cause. If I was asked to state the cause of death I would say it looked very much like cholera nostris.

"That is your best opinion?"

"Yes."

Dr. R. P. Boucher the next witness agreed with the other doctors called in the defence that it would be impossible for a man injured in the manner described to engage in another contest immediately after. Such an injury would be attended by vomiting, pain and depression immediately after it had been received.

"I consider the post mortem was most imperfectly performed," remarked Dr. Boucher, "especially in a case where a young man's liberty is at stake."

The witness told of the steps that he would have taken had he been performing the post mortem and which he thought should have been done in this case.

Dr. Carmichael, the next witness gave it as his opinion that the post mortem examination had only been of a superficial character, especially in view of the importance of the case. In the opinion of the witness it would not be possible to state beyond all reasonable doubt the cause of Bollard's death in view of the especial nature of the autopsy.

Dr. Carmichael concided in the opinion of the other defence doctors that Bollard could not have been injured as alleged and engage in a second contest after the first one and dance on the Wednesday night after. If the injury was to result fatally the patient would sink gradually until his death. The witness thought that if Bollard had got overheated at the dance on the Wednesday night and had been chilled by lying on the grass outside it would have been contributory to cholera nostris.

The witness said to Mr. Denison that he could only remember two cases of cholera nostris and that both of the patients had died.

This concluded the evidence for the defence and the court adjourned until this morning for the argument.

The defense completed its case shortly before 6 o'clock last evening. Dr. Carmichael, who corroborated the other defence doctors being the last witness called.

Mr. O'Connell, on behalf of the prisoners addressed the jury just when the court opened at 9 o'clock this morning and reviewed the evidence for two hours. He argued that the Crown was responsible for showing the cause of death and this he contended had not been done. The counsel for the defence submitted that the direct cause of death was gastro-enteritis and that only one doctor had stated that any contributory cause was necessary. Mr. O'Connell argued that Bollard could not have been injured as was alleged because the results were not immediate, because there was a recovery that would not in that case have arisen, and because there were no signs of injury there at the post mortem examination. He argued that Fred Jopling had gone down into the park to find out what people were going to thrash his brother for, having been told that such was the case, and that his subsequent actions under the circumstances were natural. He contended that the evidence showed that there was no foul play used on Fred Jopling. The hold adopted being one that was recognized as legitimate by both amateur and professional wrestlers.

The counsel for the defence pointed out that the doctors performing the autopsy could have settled without doubt the presence or absence of septicaemia had they carried out a proper post mortem examination. The examination was most incomplete in his opinion and he criticized strongly the doctors for the manner in which they had carried out the investigation.

In concluding his arguments Mr. O'Connell remraked that to come to a conclusion that the prisoners were responsible for the death of young Bolaird, "would be the merest and the wildest posible kind of a guess." No sympathy could control them in coming to a conclusion of that kind.

Crown Prosecutor Denison in his arguments contended that the charge had been abundantly proven. He held that from the deception of Bollard's condition after the struggle that he could not have entirely recovered, as the defence contended, but pointed out that it was just as might be expected from a young man of Bollard's pluck that would hide from the world as long as possible the fact that he had been hurt by Fred Jopling. He would naturally go out of his pursuits as usual until the collapse came.

Mr. Denison contended that the medical testimony, which was apt to be confusing to the lay mind, should be set aside as much as possible in arriving at a verdict.

Mr. Denison referred to the medical evidence of the defence. He described Dr. Young as a lion seeking his prey amid a thickness of medical books and remarked that one could have him licking his chops as he returned to his lair.

The Crown Prosecutor remarked that it was a remarkable coincidence that Fred Jopling should have been a victim of blood poisoning as the result of the struggle. In his case the infection remained local in the finger, in Bollard's case the infection had spread to an affected stomach and bowels. The crown contended one reason ofr Bollard's death was that infection had spread from a bite inflicted during the fight and another reason was that he had been injured in other ways in the struggle and his vitality so lowered that he was unable to resist the action of poison germs.

The defence had, he submitted, called doctors to throw doubts into the case, to draw a herring across the trail as it were.

Chief Justice Falconbridge, in charging the jury explained the nature of the charge of manslaughter. Culpable homicide was murder when there was no intention of killing. He did not purpose to go into details of the evidence which had been at length and skilfully arguel before them. No case was to be dealt with on any ground of sympathy, but simply upon the evidence heard in the witness boy. The young man who met his death was described as a fin especimen of young manhood, physically and otherwise and the pri-

OUR EXHIBIT of Pianos and Organs at the Fair and at our Show Rooms attracted great attention and admiration for their beauty of design, perfect action and purity of tone.

ONE MUSICIAN a graduate of one of the best colleges of music in Canada remarked that "The Newcombe Piano is one finest tone Pianos I ever heard.

OTHERS admired the tone of the Evans Bros.' Piano.

AND SOME others prefered the Sherlock-Manning—each and every produce perfect tones but of different qualities.

WE WOULD be pleased to discuss tone quantity and Piano construction with you. There are reasons for different qualities and there are good, bad and horrible Pianos. Let us tell you about them before you buy.

COLOSSAL HORROR OF HISTORY IN THE KONGO

Another Chapter of Conan Doyle's Horrifying Revelations of the White Man's Cruelties Under King Leopold — Evidence of Cruelty Forms a Gallery of Horrors.

NO MAN'S PROPERTY IS SAFE

(By Sir A. Conan Doyle.)

The array of evidence of cruelty against King Leopold of Belgium, forms a gallery of horrors.

Added to the testimony already given is that of the Rev. Jos. Clark, an American missionary in the Crown Domain, which is King Leopold's own private preserve. In the town of Irebo, in this territory, where there were 2,000 persons in 1893, there were only 800 survivors in 1903.

"If you do not come soon and stop the present trouble," Clark wrote to Commissionary Fieves in 1894, "the towns will be empty. It seems so hard to see the dead bodies in the creek and on the bench and to know why they are killed.

The soldiers are themselves savages, some even cannibals, trained to use rifles and in many cases they are sent away without supervision, and they do as they please. When they come to any town no man's property or wife is safe.

"Imagine them returning from fighting some 'rebels'; see, on the bow of the canoe is a pole and a bundle of something on it—These are the hands of 16 warriors they have slain. 'Warriors!' Don't you see among them the hands of little children and girls (Young boys or girls?)? I have seen them. I have seen where the trophy has been cut off even while yet the poor heart beats strongly enough to shoot the blood from the cut arteries to a distance of fully four feet."

Compare this with extracts from King Leopold's official bulletin, referring to this same tract of country:

"The exploitation of the rubber vines of this district was undertaken barely three years ago by M. Fieves. The results he obtained have been unequalled. The district produced in 1895 more than 650 tons of rubber, bought for 2¼d and sold at Antwerp for 5s 5d per kilo.

"With this development of general order is combined an inevitable amelioration in the native's condition of existence wherever he comes into contact with the European element. Such is, in fact, one of the ends of the general policy of the state to promote the regeneration of the race by instilling into him a higher idea of the necessity of labour."

Truly I know nothing in history to match such documents as these—pirates and bandits have never descended to the last odious abyss of hypocrisy. It stands alone, colossal in its horror, colossal, too, in its effrontery.

To show the conditions in 1903 let me give the statement of the Rev. Scrivener, an English missionary, who made an investigation among the villages in the special district owned by King Leopold.

He saw the rubber brought in by the natives.

"As I saw it brought in each man had a little basket containing, say, four or five pounds of rubber. This was emptied into a larger basket and weighed, and, being found sufficient, each man was given a cupful of coarse salt and to some of the head men a fathom of calico. The former white man would stand at the door of the store to receive the poor trembling wretches, who, after, in some cases, weeks of privation in the forest, had come in with what they had been able to collect. A man bringing rather under the proper amount, the white man flies into a rage, and, seizing a rifle from one of the guards, shoots him dead on the spot. Very rarely did rubber come in, but one or more were shot in that way at the door of the store."

Consul General Roger Casement, who made an investigation in the Kongo in 1904, said that men came to him whose hands had been cut off by soldiers.

"The agent on the Busaira, with 150 guns, got only 10 tons of rubber a month," said a witness who talked to Casement. "We, with 130 guns, got 13 tons a month."

"'So you count by guns?' I asked him.

"'Surely,' he said. 'Each time the corporal goes out to get rubber, cartridges are given him. He must bring back all not used. And for every one used he must bring back a hand.' The witness told me that sometimes they shot a cartridge at an animal in hunting; they then cut off a hand from a living man. He told me that they had used 6,000 cartridges in six months, which means that 6,000 people were killed or mutilated."

"THE SIGN OF THE WHITE MAN" —PHOTOGRAPH BY MRS. HARRIS, A MISSIONARY, SHOWS KONGO WOMAN NAMED BRAJI, WHOSE FOOT WAS STRUCK OFF BECAUSE SHE DIDN'T BRING IN ENOUGH RUBBER.

NECESSARY FOR THE FAMILY

GANANOQUE MAN OUT OF TROUBLE

Had Rheumatism, But Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured It.

Hugh. Abernathy on His Feet Again—Cure is Easy, Simple, Natural and Permanent.

Gananoque, Ont., Oct. 20.—"Special.—That Rheumatism can be cured surely, simply and permanently is the good news that Hugh Abernethy, a well known resident of King Street, is spreading among his neighbours.

"I had suffered from Rheumatism and stiffness of the joints," Mr. Abernethy states. "My muscles would cramp. I could not sleep, and I had terrible headaches. I took many different medicines but nothing did me any good till I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes put me on my feet again."

Others who have taken Mr. Abernethy's advice and used Dodd's Kidney Pills are also loud in their praises of the old reliable Canadian Kidney remedy. For Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Rheumatism and other blood diseases by curing the Kidneys. Sound Kidneys keep the blood free from impurities, such as uric acid in the blood, you cannot have such painful and dangerous diseases as Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia and Heart Disease.

Keep your Kidneys strong and well with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and you can face the cold, wet days of fall without a fear of Rheumatism.

CAMPBELLFORD FIRM GETS THE CONTRACT FOR TORONTO BRIDGE

The Dickson Bridge Co., of Campbellford, were to-day awarded the tender for the steel superstructure of the Wilton avenue bridge, for which the city is putting in the foundations. Their price is $35,809, or 4 9-10 cents per pound, for a 438-ton superstructure.

Three of the tenders were from Scotland, and one from England. F. H. McGuigan offered to build the bridge for $51,725, his structure to weigh 533 tons.

The Engineer has examined the plant at Campbellford, and wrote that the company are "practically inexperienced in any other than very light bridge work." He thought the weight was underestimated by the company, and that the bridge would probably require a million pounds of steel, which, at the price tendered at, will increase the cost to $40,000. On this basis, Sir Wm. Arrol, of Glasgow, Scotland, had a tender only $4,745 higher, and the latter firm is one of the largest bridge constructing firms in the world. "The city would be assured of having first-class work promptly and efficiently carried out.

"I have had a conference with the Pickson Bridge Company, and have pointed out to them some of the difficulties I see before them, but they are quite satisfied with their tender, and are prepared to carry out the contract according to our plans and specifications, and I would therefore recommend that their tender be accepted."

The board decided to make sure that the company's bonds were satisfactory.—Toronto Star.

Another Youth Before The Court For Theft Of A Bicycle

"The number of bicycle thefts reported to the police is remarkably large," said Chief Rossel to-day. "There are persons who seem to think that they can pick up a wheel which the owner leaves standing somewhere, while he makes a call, and ride away with it."

Another youth was before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning for stealing a wheel yesterday. He stated that he did not intend to steal it. He merely wanted to take a little ride. His Worship impressed upon his mind that it was a theft to take the wheel away. He could not judge what the boy's intentions were, but just as soon as he lifted the bicycle from its place he was stealing. He discharged the accused with a warning.

Peterborough Citizens To Take Up Residence In Vancouver

Peterborough is to lose two of its best citizens as a result of their visit this summer to the west and British Columbia. Mr. R. A. Dutton and Mr. George Manning intend in a short while to take up their residence in Vancouver, B.C. So impressed were they with this city and the opoprtunities that it offered that they decided to go there to live. Mr. Dutton is offering his business and house and lot for sale and on the disposal of these will leave for Vancouver. It is his intention to start in business there.

Has Accepted Invitation To Remain The Four Years

At a very largely attended meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of George Street Methodist Church last evening, a hearty and unanimous invitation was extended to Rev. E. A. Pearson to complete the full pastoral term of four years. Mr. Pearson, who is entering upon his third year at George Street, accepted the invitation.

The reports from the various departments of the church work show the work to be in a very healthy condition. The membership shows a very substantial increase over last year, and all funds are in a very healthy state.

A Union Evangelical campaign among the four Methodist churches of the city, was discussed and very strongly favoured. The campaign will likely be held in January.

Rev. Dr. Crothers was unanimously requested to preach the anniversary sermons at the anniversary of the church, in January.

FALL NUMBER

Of Canadian Grocer is Interesting and Entertaining.

Peterborough grocers are admiring the annual fall number of their trade journal, the Canadian Grocer, which has just been issued. There are interesting and undoubtedly educative articles dealing with the many points that are presented to the average grocer. The number shows that the selection of the articles has received careful attention and the entire number is a credit to the editor, Mr. B. T. Huston, who during the past year has firmly entrenched himself in his position. The Grocer's new ideas and the interesting manner in which the articles are presented to the readre speak for the ability of the former city editor of The Examiner. Local grocers have mentioned the improvement they have found since early last spring.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor of the Post Card Column.

Hon. Dr. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, sailed from Liverpool on the Empress of India on the 10th, and will arrive towards the close of the week. He has been in Great Britain, France, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy, on an extended tour since the 1st of June.

With Dr. Reaume's return the Cabinet will be complete.—News item.

It would seem that the members of our Government prefer to spend the hard-earned money of the people in some foreign land. We have officials to represent Canada abroad, and plenty to be done at home.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

BE A CHARMING WOMAN

You never saw a beautiful woman who didn't have beautiful hair. The charms of a beautiful woman lie in her hair. Many women do not realize the attractions they possess because they do not give proper attention to the care of the hair.

The women of the "400" are famed for their beauty, not because their facial features are superior to those of other woman, but because they know how to keep young by supplying vigour, lustre, and strength to the hair.

Up to a few years ago Parisian sage coul dhardly be obtained in America. But now this delightful hair restorer can be had in every town in America. Wm. Madill sells it in Peterborough for 50 cents a bottle, and he guarantees it to grow beautiful, luxuriant hair; to turn dull, lifeless hair into lustrous hair; to stop falling hair; to stop itching scalp. Understand, Mr. Madill will give you your money back if it fails.

WHAT THE TORONTO GLOBE SAYS ABOUT MME. MARCHESI

In connection with the visit of Madame Marchesi who appears at Massey Hall, Toronto, to-morrow (Friday evening) to-day's Globe has the following to say:

Mme. Blanche Marchesi (Baroness Castelvini) arrives in Toronto to-morrow (Friday) for her concert at Massey Hall in the evening. The name of Marchesi is known the world over and Mme. Blanche Marchesi, in the art of interpretative vocalism, has gained an equal reputation to that which her mother has achieved in the art of vocal teaching. To-morrow evening Mme. Marchesi will present a new programme of the widest range, illustrating practically the development of song composition from Scarlatti in the Midde Ages to Nevin in the Twentieth Century.

Madame Marchesi appears at the Grand Opera House, Peterborough, Thanksgiving evening, Oct. 25th. Plan opens to general public to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

SHELLED NUTS WILL BE DEARER

When This Year's Crop is Placed on Market There Will Be Marked Advance.

All sorts of nuts are a short crop say wholesalers, and when this year's growth is on the market the prices are likely to soar. Already there is an advance of over a cent a pound wholesale on all unshelled nuts, in anticipation of a crop shortage. These of course, are last season's stock.

The man who buys shelled almonds retail finds that the price has increased from 28 to 38 cents per pound, a straight ten-cent advance, or over one-third as dear again as they were a a hort time ago.

About a year ago an advance in the price of Brazil nuts and pearl chocolate was taken to indicate a rise in candy prices. These, however, have remained fairly stationary, but nut candies have been manufactured to a less extent than formerly. It remains to be seen what effect the high price of nuts will have upon the candy market this fall and the Christmas trade.

If you only knew what comfort "Catspaw" Rubber Heels will bring, you would put them ono at once. Ask Shoe dealers or repairers.

STRUCK BY PULLEY

Mr. J. Miller of Otonabee Knocked Unconscious in His Barn.

Mr. John Miller, an Otonabee farmer living on the 7th line, met with an accident last Saturday morning when drawing hay into his barn. It was being lifted to the mow by means of pulleys and one of these attached to the floor flew off its position through the strain and struck Mr. Miller on one side of the head. He was unconscious for some time, and on Monday was unable to attend the Council meeting. He is the salesman for Shearer cheese factory and was absent from the Board meeting yesterday. His injuries are not reported serious.

THE BEST HERITAGE

Good health is one of the first requisites to success. Prolonged application to any subject cannot be sustained without well fed nerves.

If nervous energy could be secured by a large cash payment, every person would make a big effort to find the money.

By reason of well directed study, assisted by practical experience, a way has been found to supply energy to jaded and overwrought nerves, without its costing a fortune.

Pure fresh air, exercise, and eating the simplest foods will produce this desired result.

Among foods for human consumption none contain the necessary elements to sustain life in greater quantities than milk and wheat.

Orange Meat which is made from the whole wheat, thoroughly steam cooked, malted, flaked and toasted, contains the necessary elements to sustain life in greater proportions than any other cereal.

ORANGE MEAT and milk is a perfect food.

Something Better Now

There was a time when people were satisfied with any glasses with which they could read regardless of whether they were using one eye more than the other, knowing nothing of how the eyes were strained by wrong lens powers, and careless of the frame fitting the face. All this is changing now, a thorough examination by experienced men, lenses specially ground for each eye, and the neatest, most becoming mountings are now required by discriminating people who realize that othing is too good for the eyes.

We make appointment for eye examination by our phones, Bell 1221, Mach. 7. It saves waiting your turn

Some reasons Why "Pandora" should be in your kitchen

Pandora range would look well in your kitchen—it's so handsome.

Its perfectly-ventilated steel oven would bake the bread and roast the beef better than your ordinary oven does.

Its special flue construction would save you fuel.

Its large ash-pan would save you carrying out ashes so frequently.

Its enameled steel reservoir would be handy at preserving time.

Its emery rod attachment would enable you to sharpen all your dull knives.

But the McClary agent would like to tell you several other reasons. Just give him a chance. 21

RUNAWAY STARVING

Elsie Bowman, Who Says Her Parents Live In Southampton, Ont., Was Picked Up In the Streets, Where She Had Been Starving For Three Days — Ran Away From Home Four Years Ago.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 21.—Weakened, as she claimed, from exposure and the fact that she had not eaten any food in three days, Elsie Bowman, aged 16, a runaway girl, said to have well-to-do parents at Southampton, Canada, fainted while being questioned by Juvenile Judge Stephens in his court-room in Covington, a Kentucky suburb, yesterday. Officer Clinger found her lying near a lumber pile in the rear of the Madison avenue car barn, yesterday. At the time she did not complain, but when taken into the office of Chief of Police Schuler she said she had not eaten anything since she came from Huntington, W. Va., three days ago. To Chief Schuler she admitted that she ran away from her home in Canada four years ago, since which time she has been wandering about the country. She was rather shabbily clothed but appeared to be very well educated. Chief Schuler and Prosecutor Phillips took her before Judge Stephens. She had just given her name, age and address, when she rose from her chair, starting wildly, took several steps towards the judge, and screaming, fell at his feet. Those present could not revive her, and she was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital and subsequently to the county infirmary, where she will be given medical treatment, as her condition is serious.

Journalists to Get Ministries.

Edmonton, Sask., Oct. 21.—Hon. W. T. Finlay, the Provincial Minister of Agriculture, has resigned, owing to ill-health. Mr. Marshall is the manager of The Edmonton Bulletin, and is Liberal organizer. He has been dubbed the "Boy Orator."

W. A. Buchanan is a newspaper man, at present representing Lethbridge in the Alberta Legislature. He was formerly city editor of The Toronto Telegram, and for a year or two was editor of the St. Thomas Journal.

Government to Operate Wireless.

Port Arthur, Ont., Oct. 21.—Word has been received from Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine, that the Government will not give a license to the United Wireless Telegraph Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, to build a station at Port Arthur, for which arrangements had been made between the council and the company.

The Government's intention is to retain control of all wireless communication, and Mr. Brodeur states that it is likely three stations, enough to protect shipping, will be built about the great lakes in the next couple of years.

A MOST REMARKABLE CASE

My face was paralyzed, I could not speak; five doctors failed to help me and I was in despair when hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I used this wonderful restorative treatment and became well and strong in every way. I would not go back to my former condition for all the gold in the country," writes Mr. Wm. J. Brennan, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont.

London, Oct. 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Miss Binnie Clark, who is agitating for an extension of the Canadian free lands grants to spinsters, and has worked a 330-acre farm for three years, told the National Union of Women Workers at Portsmouth that at the end of her fourth season, she had made cent per cent profit. She spoke of other Englishwomen who had made successful investments in Canadian land, and subsequently advocated domestic service in Canadian households as good employment for Englishwomen. She described, amid laughter, a Canadian dinner party, where the English "help," attired in evening gown, waited at the table, assisted by an English youth, son of a clergyman, also in orthodox evening dress.

A Wonderful New Explosive.

Washington, Oct. 21.—A new explosive, a British invention, which may revolutionize the blasting work in connection with the construction of the Panama Canal, has been satisfactorily tested.

It is absolutely impossible to explode it by ordinary means. It was hammered with a sledge, shot into by a rifle, burned, and ordinary dynamite detonators were exploded in it, but it can only be set off by heating a small platinum wire just inside the open end of an electric spark or fuse. It will not explode by concussion.

It is claimed that the new explosive is 50 per cent. stronger than dynamite, and that the cost of manufacturing is $20 per ton cheaper.

GOLD KILLS THE GERM.

Lieut. Peary Says There Are No Bald Heads in the Arctic Region.

The people who come back from Klondike testify to the fact that no native bald heads are there. The evidence is that the cold climate kills the germs that eat the hair off at the root. Lieut. Peary, who went to the Arctic regions, gives the same evidence. Newbro's Herpicide has the same effect as the cold climate. It kills the germ that eats the hair off at the roots and the hair grows again. Herpicide is the first hair remedy built upon the principle of destroying the germ that eats the hair off. Its phenomenal sale demonstrates the correctness of the scalp germ theory. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
